'Hawks Nip Kanawha, Then Lose Play-off Tilt

Sunday afternoon the Belmond Tomahawks won that game with Kanawha which was slated to decide the Quad-County baseball league championship — but which stacked up just "another game" after the 'Hawks were upset by Clarion a couple of weeks ago. The Belmond victory came in the first half of a double-header by a 5-4 count.

Unfortunately, the second encounter went to the visitors, 4-3. That one was a first-round clash for the play-off championship, so the 'Hawks lost out for title honors all the way around. Next Sunday they take on the Eagle Grove-Rockwell play-off loser for third place.

Eagle Grove whipped Rockwell 12-4 to tie Kanawha for the loop title, then lost in their play-off contest, 10-4. So it will be Belmond vs. Eagle Grove this Sunday.

Koenen Winner

Jake Koenen pitched the Belmond nine to victory in Sunday's opener. He hurled no-hit ball until the sixth inning, when the Kanawhans clustered four safeties with a walk and an error for all their runs. A fifth hit in the final frame — both of the twin-ball games were scheduled for seven innings — caused no damage.

Belmond had tallied a run in the fourth and again in the fifth for a 2-0 lead before the visitors cut loose in the sixth. But the Tomahawks came up with three scores in the seventh to pull the fat out of the fire.

Extra Innings Needed

An extra inning was required to decide the second game, with Kanawha counting the winning run after two men were out. Belmond had things under control most of the way, as Gus Taylor allowed the champs only five hits. The 'Hawks posted one run in the second and another in the sixth, only to see Kanawha tie up the game with two in the seventh.

It appeared, briefly, that Gus might win his own game when he lashed out a homer in the top of the eighth to send the Tomahawks back into the lead. But Kanawha got a hit and a walk to open its half of the inning. Taylor fanned Abbas and forced Jackie Mews to hit a harmless infield bingle; then Grimm poked a hit that ended the fray.

Don Mewe was on the mound for the losers in the first game, until relieved by Clarksen in the fatal, final stages. Clarksen pitched all of the finale, giving only five hits.

Norway Ramblers Take Junior 4-H Softball Honors

Play-offs for 1954 4-H softball titles conducted recently saw two teams retain Wright county championships won a year ago and a new winner in the senior league. The top four teams in each league on the basis of regular season play competed for the loop crowns.

It was the third, consecutive year that the Norway Ramblers had headed the boys' junior league when they chalked up an easy 12-2 decision over Dayton Dynamiters in their final game. Lincoln Leaders finished 8-1 during the regular season, while the Dynamiters, Pleasant Pioneers and the Ramblers had 6-3 marks. The finalists advanced in the play-offs when Norway trimmed Pleasant 19-2 and Dayton edged incoln, 5-3.

Dayton Dynamiters took the senior division by nosing out Iowa Hawkeyes, 12-10. Iowa's team, 6-2 in league play, gained the finals by trouncing Grant Growers 17-3. Grant was unbeaten in eight games during the regular league season. Eagle Grove Eager Beavers, who entered the play-offs on a 5-3 record, pushed the Dynamiters (7-1) to the limit before bowing 8-7 in the first round.

Honors in the girls' league play-offs went to Grant Go-Getters for the second year as they swamped Iowa U-Go-I-Go 29 to 1. Iowa and Wall Lake Wee Women had topped the league standings with 3-1 records, while Grant and the Woolstock Willing Workers each entered the play-offs on 2-2 marks. Grant trimmed Wall Lake in the first round, 10-8, while Iowa registered a preliminary win over Woolstock, 17-3.

Nine townships had teams in the senior division, 10 in the junior and five in the girls' league.

Start of School Brings Out More Grid Candidates

After having about four dozen boys out with regularity during the first week of practice, Coach Dick Hobbs was pleased this week to see the Bronco football squad swell close to the 60 mark this week with the opening of school. He reports that the boys are showing steady progress, but he hopes that they will be exhibiting much more finesse by the time they open their card against Hampton here on Friday of next week.

With very few exceptions, Coach Hobbs has been favorably impressed with the aggressiveness and spirit shown by the veterans who will be top contenders for starting assignments. He hesitates to pick standouts, but gave passing mention to the work of Kyle Mennenga, Bob McLaughlin, Gary Meyer and Perry Ersland.

No Pants for "Nick"

He's given Mennenga some work in the backfield, but suspects the scrappy red-head will probably end up again at a guard spot. At this point, Hobbs foresses that his ends are going to need special attention; but he adds that they are showing a genuine eagerness to learn.

A futile search has been conducted to get a pair of pants large enough to outfit Gene Nicholson, the over-sized Bronco tackle prospect. To date Gene's been reporting faithfully in sweat pants, for want of moleskins, and Hobbs believes the big senior is going to develop into a very useful cog in the grid machine.

Two Promising Greenhands

Richard Kuhlers, a 6-4, 230-lb. giant from Pleasant township, also has the bulk to make a classy lineman but has been handicapped thus far by lack of experience. Hobbs expects him to make rapid progress, though, once he gets the hang of the game. Tommy Lowenberg of Goodell, like Kuhlers only a junior, is another greenhand for whom the coach sees bright promise.

Two underclassmen have particularly caught Hobbs' eye among the backfield candidates — Roland Jenison, a sophomore, and Tommy McNulty, who's only a freshman. Both boys have been exhibiting a lot of drive and the coach anticipates that some of the more experienced ball carriers are going to have to look to their laurels when this pair gets into gear.

Clarmond '53 Golf Champ Defeated; Gordon Edges Larson in 19 Holes

Play in the first two rounds of the annual men's golf tournament at Clarmond Country club saw last year's champion eliminated and the No. 1 favorite to win the '54 title escape defeat by the narrowest of margins. Leo Hilton, Jr., the defending champion, was a surprise victim of Frank Middleton, Clarion, in the initial round by a 3-1 margin.

Gaudiest fireworks of the tourney were provided by Larry Larson, however, when he barely missed a win over Fred Gordon, odds-on choice to dominate this year's meet. The young Belmondite had his fellow townsman one down with only a hole to go. Gordon birdied the 18th to send the match into extra holes and then won the decision with a par on the 19th. Both golfers shot respectable 75's for the 18.

Gordon Finishes Second in Iowa Open Golf Meet

Fred Gordon added another sparkling achievement to the list of golf honors he's won since his entry into Iowa golf circles when he posted low score among the amateurs in the Iowa Open tournament Sunday at Waterloo. Except for a putting lapse on the final two holes, he might have topped the entire, classy field. As it was, he posted a 208 for the runner-up spot, two strokes behind Champion Joe Brown, a Des Moines professional.

At the end of Saturday's 18 holes, Gordon was tied for first place with a scorching 67. He added a two-under-par 70 on his second round, while Brown followed an opening 72 with a 67. Brown finished his final 18 ahead of the Belmond ace, and Gordon stood at the 17th tee knowing he needed a couple of pars to tie for the title.

A nice drive on the 220-yard No. 17 left him only 20 feet from the cup; but Fred lagged his first putt about three feet short and then missed with his second. iHs pitch on the still shorter 18th pulled a bit to the left and his approach left him a four-footer. Again Gordon's usually reliable putter failed, giving him a 71 total compared to a second 67 for Brown.

Fred's 208 total was five strokes better than that turned in by Jack Webb of Spirit Lake, amateur runer-up, and two better than that of Labron Harris of Stillwater, Okla., second best among the pro's. Gordon was awarded a set of four wood clubs as a prize.

Bowman Says Much Wright County Pasture Land Needing Renovation

Much of Wright county's permanent pasture land is failing to pay its way. Extension Director Aaron Bowman observed this week. Neglected and often abused, he pointed out, these acres are too frequently a liability to efficient farming operations

Best solution to this grave problem, in the opinion of Bowman, would be a general renovation program to convert old bluegrass pastures into productive, bluegrass-birdsfoot trefoil stands.

"First step is to select an area where there's a tired, thin stand of bluegrass," Bowman advises. "Earmark it for improvement. It should be an area which you can conveniently set aside without disrupting your pasture program. You'll need to work on the area this fall, and control grazing on it next year."

Get Soil Tested

A soil test comes next. Take the sample right away and send it to the Iowa State college soil testing laboratory for analysis before the fall rush begins.

Recommendations will be returned on which to base lime and fertilizer orders. Next on the agenda for this fall are liming and tearing up the old sod. Use the results of the soil test as a guide for lime applications.

Either disc or a field cultivator will do a satisfactory job of tearing up the sod on light, thin soil where there is a fair to heavy bluegrass sod However, Bowman, recommends shallow plowing on the contour—just deep enough to turn over a furrow slice Plow as late in the season as possible so as to lessen soil erosion, and don't disturb natural grass waterways.

"The reason for tearing up the old sod is to set back the bluegrass stand. Trefoil can't stand too much competition," Bowman says.

Order Trefoil Now

Two choices are open next spring. The area may be planted to corn, to help pay the cost of renovation, give better control of the bluegrass and provide a better seedbed for the trefoil seeding the following year. Or one may proceed with the final seedbed preparation, fertilizer application and seeding.

One of the best seeding mixtures is four pounds of Empire trefoil, 1½ to two pounds of red clover and one bushel of oats per acre. It might be a good idea to line up a source of trefoil seed now while it is being harvested, Bowman suggests.

Red colver is included in the mixture to provide some grazing while the trefoil is getting started. The trefoil may need an extra helping hand, so Bowman advises heavy grazing of the oats and red clover until the trefoil becomes established.

600 to 800 See "Tree-Raising" Monday Evening

A crowd variously estimated at 600 to 800 gathered at the General Mills plant grounds south of town Monday evening to witness the unique—for this area—lighted-tree raising which served to dedicate the new GMI feed mill. The tree was raised from a boom attached to the partially completed grain-storage bin.

Music before the event was provided by the Belmond High school band, under direction of Roland Brom, and remarks appropriate to the occasion were spoken by David H. McVey, General Mills vice president. The switch which sent aloft the 15-foot, gayly lighted pine tree was thrown by Phyllis Lee, who last summer reigned over GMI Appreciation Days as Soybean Princess.

Prior to the ceremony at the plant, some 400 persons enjoyed dinner at the Veterans' Memorial hall as General Mills personnel played host to guests from Belmond and a number of other communties throughout Iowa. Clark McNeal acted as master of ceremonies for the after-dinner program.

Whitney Eastman, GMI vice president and general manager of the feed division, spoke at some length on the company he serves and the various divisions that comprise it. A number of other General Mills executives were introduced and heard from briefly. Mayor Henry Hokel expressed a word of welcome from the community to the visitors.

Belmond vs. E. G. In Season Finale

Belmond's Tomahawks will wind up their season here Sunday with a game that promises to be a thrilling finale. At 2:15 they will tangle with the Eagle Grove Legionnaires, co-champions of the Quad-County baseball league, with third place in the loop play-offs at stake.

It goes without saying that the Legionnaires will be highly determined to put the 'Hawks in their place, for the Belmond team was primarily responsible for cutting the visitors out of sole possession of the title. They checked the E.G. nine 11-2 and 8-2 in regular season play.

However, the Tomahawks made up their earlier offenses (as reported on the sports page) by dumping Kanawha 4-3 last Sunday, sending the losers into a first-place tie with Eagle Grove—and giving Belmond third place in the final league standings.

It is reported that some party sent a poster advertising a recent Sunday ball game in Belmond to some of the local pastors with the typewritten request that the game be announced from their pulpits. CHICK CHATS

WORM PULLETS EARLY

Housing time for pullets is getting mighty near for some of you early chick buyers You know that pullets should go into the laying house before they're laying 10% — and that's no matter what month it is. You'll want to house pullets with clean intestines so that you'll only have to feed the chickens— not a bunch of worms too

Round worms are probably the parasites most commonly found in chickens around here. I know because I've looked into the matter, literally. Nearly every flock has at least some trouble with round worms at some time in their lives. If you can clean 'em up before they get in the laying house, chances are you won't have much trouble from then on

Here's the way to do it. Two weeks before housing, worm your flock I don't care what you use to worm 'em as long as it does the job. Then, just a day before housing, worm the birds again with the same stuff. After the birds have been on clean litter for two weeks, give 'em another dose.

Here's why you should worm your flock 3 times. The first time, 2 weeks before housing, cleans up all the round worms in the intestines. But worms are kind of sneaky When they first get into a chicken as larvae, they crawl into the lining of the intestine for 12 days. While they're there, none of our present worm medicines can get 'em out. So by worming two weeks later, a day before housing, we get rid of the worms that poked their heads out during that time But the chicken was on range following the first worming and picked up some worm eggs. The second worming didn't get the larvae So, two weeks after housing, they get another dose to take care of that dab

Now somebody will ask why didn't the flock pick up some more round worm larvae after the second worming Well, they didn't because they were on clean litter— litter that didn't have round worm eggs in it at any rate.

That's how you can avoid a lot of round worm troubles in the laying house. The more worm trouble you can avoid, the more feed will be used to produce eggs instead of worms.

WHAT GOOD'S A VACATION IF ONE MUST TOP IT OFF SCRIBBLING EDITORIALS?

It will probably come as something less than a shock for you readers to find this space occupied with matter other than Ye Ed's meditations this week. It may even prompt some to inquire, "Why don't you dot it more often?"

Anyway, last week was The Independent's vacation week, and there's nothing more dismal for an editor than to return from such a holiday faced with the necessity of batting out a week's quota of editorials. So we're giving ourself a break this year and letting some of our brethren fill the space for us.

Both of the following editorials are, we believe, pertinent and interesting; and we commend them to your attention.

FARM EDITOR SAYS "PAYMENT'S DUE" NOW ON "TOO HIGH" PRICE SUPPORTS

(By Dan Murphy in "Farm Bureau Spokesman")

It's fun to look at luxury items. But when we fall for a fast sales talk and buy something we can't afford, the fun stops. We have our troubles paying the bill. We're at that painful "pay the bill" stage right now on price support programs. And the folks who were selling us luxury-level supports are now complaining the most about paying the bill.

Wheat states congressmen bought supports at $2.20 a bushel and up, at a time when our nation was riding its biggest boom. Supports at that level in those times were a luxury. We agreed to pay off for those supports by letting congress limit our wheat production. The principle of supports-with-controls is as old as price support programs.

Supports at 90 per cent levels guaranteed wheat farmers prices 25, 50 or even 100 per cent higher than production costs. So the supports attracted suitcase farmers, put plows in the dust-bowls, prompted over-farming of good land. At the same time, the support level was so high it strangled markets at home and abroad. Surpluses piled up rapidly.

Finally with a 2-year supply of wheat in storage, government was forced to call for a first payment on the luxury. Farmers were asked to cut production by 11 per cent, with quotas to insure the cut. The first payment is only a tiny one, actually. We'll have 55 million acres in wheat next year. This acreage may add to the surplus. By this time next year, the cutback will start getting severe.

To get an idea what the luxury of too-high supports on wheat will cost, remember this: When we are forced to pay off in full, wheat farmers will have to skip a full year's crop production. Their acres will likely be idled, to guard against building surpluses in other crops. The cutback may be spread over several years, but it will add up to a full crop, one way or another.

Is a "no-income" year too high a price to pay for supports that were too high? It probably is. But the decision was made years ago, when we ordered the program. Congressmen have reconfirmed it year after year — in the vain hope that a miracle or another war would hide their mistakes. Folks have said Farm Bureau, in opposing extremely high supports, is trying to break the farmer, That's silly. We've been saying, and we still say, that we pay too heavily in controls for a support program which in itself gets us in trouble.

Oh sure, polls show that supports alone are popular. They also show, where anyone bothered to ask, that controls are not popular. Our Farm Bureau folks viewed the program as it is, a support-and-control unit. They have decided consistently that they did not favor that unit at high-support and rigid-control levels.

Half our corn farmers gave up supports entirely rather than take a cut this year in acreage. And great numbers of wheat farmers opposed a measley 11 per cent cutback to get 90 per cent supports. The high-rigid chicken is coming home to make trouble on his own roost. Farm Bureau folks can be glad he isn't their bird.

SOME FOREST CITIANS TAKING MATTER OF CURB-AND-GUTTER INTO OWN HANDS

(From "Forest City Summit")

Residents of Forest City who live on unpaved streets should drive down East C street from the corner of Fourth street then turn north on Central street to see what a concerted action by a neighhood can do in improving the appearance of the area.

Spurred on by the amazing rehabilitation of the Olson property by the Earl Merritts, neighbors agreed to put in concrete curb and gutter along both sides of the srteets at their own expense and without prodding from the city.

As a result of this voluntary curb and gutter work, several other property owners in Forest City have also put in their curb and gutter at various sections of town. This piecemeal installation of the concrete, however, is expensive to both the property owner and the city. Contractors can offer lower costs if a large amount of work is to be done in a contiguous area. The city, which pays the cost of the civil engineer's work in determining where the curb line shall be and its proper level, can save by having all of this work done at one time.

At its August meeting the city council members reported that they had been approached by a number of property owners who would like to join in on a curb and gutter program but would like to have the costs spread out over a period of years. It was explained that by law the council can set up such an improvement program the costs of which can be spread over a 10-year period and be included with the taxes on the property as a special assessment.

Property owners in the city who are interested in getting curb and gutter on their property on a 10-year payment plan should contact their councilman this fall. If enough interest is found in an assessment program, the council will have the engineering work done this winter so that bids can be taken next spring.

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Iowa's First Orchard

Whenever Em and I drive past the dam over at Keokuk, I think about Louis Thesson's famous orchard.

Thesson planted Iowa's first orchard there in 1799. When the dam was built, the river backed up and sent Thesson's grove to a watery grave.

Seems a pity. No doubt lots of folks hated to see it disappear, but they put their own wishes second — and the benefit of the big dam first.

That's Iowa for you. Folks don't let individual wishes, likes or prejudices interfere with the common good, the rights of others.

Some men can't stand vests, but they don't object to others wearing them. Liz Simpson prefers lemon pie, but she'll bake apple pie if the ladies' club wants it. Sam Carruthers chooses lemonade on a warm day, but he's first to agree that other folks have a right to a temperate glass of beer.

Isn't that the best way. I respect your wishes, you take your neighbor into consideration, and everyone gets along fine.

Deal on City's Sewer Bonds Well Exceeds Expectations

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

After tearing down the old residence that formerly housed Hensel Brothers produce house here, Carroll Hensel is convinced that our pioneer forebears really built to last. He swears that no tornado's ever blown that could completely demolish construction like the wreckers discovered. The studs at the corners and middle of each side of the house were hand-hewn oak timbers 14 inches square and the main joists on which the rafters were laid were of almost equal dimension.

Oak pegs held the joists and studs together—but SECURELY! Carroll says the only way the frame could be dismantled was to saw through the timbers and then latch on with a tractor. Those pegs didn't allow the joints to give a fraction of an inch!

There wasn't a nail in the main frame of the building, and even the rafters had never felt a carpenter's hammer. Slots had been neatly sawed in the joists to receive the rafters, which were simply laid in place. Made that part of the wrecking job an easy one. The dove-tailed rafters had only to be lifted out of place, and that was that. As of Wednesday, no one had bought the old timbers, yet. If you're looking for some SEASONED lumber—that's it!

It isn't very often that you see a businessman going out of his way to compliment a competitor; and it's rarer still when one pays good, hard cash to hand a bouquet to a rival. Consequently, the nice pat-on-the-back that Glen Crapser gives Belmond Auto company on its "Welcome" signs north and south of town—in a paid ad in this issue—is worthy of special note. A nice gesture like that indicates a "good Joe."

—M-S—

Phil Schmitz, who's been one of the stalwarts of the Bronco football team the past couple of years, thought he had a place all lined up to board room — but he was unavoidably detained in his return to school. So-o-o-o, he's rather desperately scouting for a place to stay, as his landlord-to-be decided Phil wasn't going to make it. Have YOU something to offer? He's willing to skip the board, if necesssary. But he NEEDS a room, right NOW. Call The Independent if you have a spare room to let. He'll appreciate it—and the Mainstreeters will, too.

—M-S—

We'd like to call special attention to the "serial" letter from Rev. Emory Van Gerpen that is started in today's paper. It will probably take four issues to get it all published; we hope the installments can appear consecutively. We've never published so long a letter; but Ye Ed enjoyed it ALL so thoroughly, he couldn't see fit to cut it. If you feel the world has been picking on you lately, we guarantee the young missionary's adventure will have a chastening effect. Man, you've got it easy!

Ted Behrends was on a fishing jaunt into Minnesota last week, and he reports he came close to bringing home a REAL story. He doesn't have too much to say about his fishing luck, but he's plenty talkative on the subject of the bear he almost got — or vice versa.

He was driving along the highway just north of Lake Mille Lac about noon Monday, returning home, when a big, black bear burst from the undergrowth on one side of the road and started to cross. Ted veered to the left, hoping to persuade the critter to back track. When that didn't work, he swung to the right. The bear was a bit excited by this time, too, and determinedly barreled ahead.

There must have been 400 pounds of bear meat under that hide, Ted estimates, and until the last second he was certain the front of his car was in for some major rearranging. A near miss was finally achieved. Leo Dorr, driving in a car behind Ted's, says the cobbler didn't look so good when he pulled to an abrupt halt to get his breath.

An idea for working the old man's cigars and cigarets into the family budget is provided by the following excerpt from The Herald-Press of 40 years ago. It didn't work perfectly in its original form; but perhaps with some refinement its shortcomings might be corrected. The H-P quoted from the Ames Times:

"The funniest thing that has happened lately is the mishap of a local man whose wife pays the store bills. He had been in the habit of having his cigars charged as potatoes, and the other day his wife took her pencil and began reckoning.

"She found that they had eaten more than 10 carloads of potatoes and she didn't believe that the account was right. Now the grocer and the smoker are between the upper and lower millstones and it is hard to tell who will be pulverized finest in the end."

BAZAAR NEXT WEEK

Wednesday of next week the Helping Hand Society of Bethany Reformed church is holding a bazaar in the basement of the city library, starting at 8:00 p. m. Fancy work, rugs, quilts and baked goods will be offered for sale and lunch will be served.

Chamber Studies U. S. C-of-C Plan Of Reorganization

Action was to be taken last night by the Belmond Chamber of Commerce on a proposal to separate that organization into four, semi-independent bureaus for the purpose of broadening the scope of Chamber activities. The meeting, held at the city hall, took place too late to be reported on in this issue of The Independent. Preliminary questioning of a number of the C-of-C members indicated, however, general favor toward the suggested change.

Chamber President C. C. Hiddleston explains that the reorganization into bureaus was a recommendation of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. This has been tried with good success in a good many other communities and the local board regarded it as worth a trial in Belmond.

Four Bureaus

Under the proposed plan, the Chamber would consist of the following four, separate bureaus: Retail Trade, Civic, Agriculture and Industry. Each would be separately organized—within the Chamber—and meet monthly as a separate unit, concentrating its activities on its own particular sphere of interest.

The Retail Trade bureau would continue to operate along much the same line as the Chamber as a whole has in recent years, promoting trade in Belmond. The Civic division would concern itself with matters of general value to development of the community, such as street improvement and like problems.

To the Farm unit would fall responsibility for further the interests of the surrounding farm area and enhancing town-and-country relations by such means as appear feasible. The Industry Bureau will concentrate on industrial promotion and such allied problems as housing.

More Interest Foreseen

Mr. Hiddleston conceives that the new set-up would give ALL members of the Chamber a better opportunity to take active part in the organization's undertakings and should greatly increase interest in the Chamber and its work. Each group, he points out, would set its own dues and spend the money in whatever way it sees fit. If the proposal was approved last night, initial meetings of the various bureaus would be held at a time next month to be arranged by the various chairmen.

President Hiddleston had tentatively appointed bureau chairman as following, provisional upon Chamber acceptance of the bureau plan: Retail Trade, Ed Gabrielson and Russ Dougherty; Civic, Dr. P. A. Rietz and Len Collier; Agriculture, Don Bunnell and Don Nolan; Industrial, Lee Mussell and Kenneth Kinseth.

BHS Classes Elect '54-55 Officers; Bob McLaughlin Picked by Seniors

Part of the hurly-burly of first week activity at Belmond High school included election of class officers. Elected to presidency of the senior class was Bob McLaughlin. He was '54 Belmond delegate to Hawkeye Boy's State, served last year as president of BHS chapter of Future Farmers of America and plays end on the varsity football team. Terry Johnson was chosen as vice president and Beverly Sheriff as secretary-treasurer.

President of the juniors will be Connie Hill and Sharon Thompsen will serve as vice president. New class secretary is Corrine Davenport and Elaine Reichart, a new transfer student from Garner, will be treasurer.

Long Reelected

David Long won the distinction of being reelected as president of the sophomores, after serving as leader of that class as a freshman, too. Paul Nassen was voted in as vice president, while Dave Hall will be class secretary and Marlin Daniels, treasurer.

When the freshmen organized for the first time as a BHS class, Tom McNulty was named to the presidency. DaDean Obrecht will be vice president, Ruth McLaughlin secretary, and Bill Halfwassen treasurer.

Initiation Abandoned

One change was made in the start-of-school activities this year with abandonment of the annual freshman initiation. Principal Clair Hugh explained to the class leaders that this custom has comprised a serious distraction at a time of the year when concentration of the students on their studies is of maximum importance.

He also pointed out that a great majority of high schools have by now ceased to observe the tradition of freshman initiation and that the same trend is widely noticeable in colleges, too. Although the decision was greeted with dismay by a minority of the BHS students, Mr. Hugh believes it was generally accepted by most as a sensible step.

"QUADS" BORN AT HOSPITAL!

Quadruplets were born last Thursday night at Belmond Community hospital, Administrator Stuart Kutz, has informed The Independent. Although the hospital's medical staff has turned up pairs on several occasions, this was the first time that any parents have drawn four of a kind there. The multiple birth was reported to the hospital administrator by Dr. S. P. Leinbach.

According to Doctor Leinbach, the mother didn't quite make it inside the hospital. In fact, she was only at the nursery window when the fourth of her offspring made its appearance. She seems to have survived the ordeal well, however, and at latest report both she and the young ones were in good, normal health.

Doctor Leinbach doubts that medical journals will evidence much interest in the case, despite the fact that the babies were born with whiskers and powder-puff tails. With rabbits, he explains, this is more apt than not to be the case.

Scot Minister, Wife Inform WSCS About World Council of Churches

Members of the WSCS of the Methodist church were privileged to have two distinguished guests at the regular meeting held Thursday of last week. They were Rev. William Baxter of Glasgow, Scotland, an official delegate to the recently concluded World Council of Churches at Evanston, Ill., and his wife. The visiting minister is a cousin of George Baxter, Mrs. George Thompson, Mrs. Fred Gellett and Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen of this community.

The Rev. Mr. Baxter represented The Church of Scotland at the World Council and prior to the Evanston meeting was a delegate to the World Presbyterian Alliance at Princeton, N. J., at which churchmen of 46 nations gathered. At Evanston, 179 denominations were represented, including 163 that are members of the Council. Nations from throughout the world, excepting behind the "Iron Curtain" sent delegates.

Son Following Father

Pastor of the Dowan Hill Presbyterian church of Glasgow and holder of a Doctor of Divinity degree, the visiting minister is one of the leading clergymen of his country and has filled many high posts, including that of Moderator of the General Assembly of The Church of Scotland. A son, Richard, is following in his father's footsteps and was ordained in June. His parents planned to witness Richard's marriage on Sept. 17, whereupon he is leaving for Kenya, Africa, to become a missionary.

Mrs. Baxter, who attended the World Council meeting as an accredited visitor, was major speaker at the WSCS meeting. She discussed the theme of the Evanston assembly, which was "Christ, the Hope of the World." Key topics were concerned with evangelism, spreading of the Gospel, racial equality, and social responsibility of local, state and national governments.

Tells Council's Purposes

Doctor Baxter also spoke to the Methodist women, explaining the purpose for which the World Council was organized. Its major purpose, he told, is to manifest outwardly to the world the unity of all churches. Other objectives are to eliminate discrimination between denominations, to present a united religious front against Communism, and to seek consolidations in over-churched areas to make possible the opening of new churches in areas where there are none.

During his discourse, Doctor Baxter spiced his remarks with several typical Scot jokes which demonstrated his ready wit and sense of humor. He and his wife were both generous in praise of the courtesy and hospitality they have enjoyed throughout their visit to America. Mrs. Baxter was particularly enthusiastic about the fine meals she and her husband had enjoyed while visiting their Belmond relatives and said she planned to take many American recipes home for the enjoyment of her friends.

Woodward Post To Illinois Man

Sigmund Wolz, 24, a native of Highland, Ill., but most lately of South Bend, Ind., on Wednesday of last week began duties as assistant manager of the local Woodward's store. C. C. Hiddleston, proprietor of the store, says that Mr. Wolz will be given specific charge of the boys' and men's wear department, as well as assisting in other phases of the store's operation.

Recently discharged after four years of duty in the regular Navy, Mr. Wolz is married and he and his wife are making their home in one of Ralph Jenison's apartments at 615 E. Main street. After graduating from St. Paul High school at Highland, he worked for a time in a men's wear store there before entering the Navy.

Most of his duty time was spent as a crewman aboard the ammunition ship USS Mazama, operating out of Norfolk, Va. He was discharged with the rating of Gunner's Mate 3/c.

Belmond Settler Dies at Age 99

Word was received recently by Mrs. Orphie Anderson of the death on Aug. 15th of her aunt, Mrs. Rhoda Hubbard of Santa Fe, N.M., who prior to her passing was probably the oldest, living former-resident of Belmond. Mrs. Hubbard had observed her 99th birthday last Feb. 6th.

At that time, when interviewed by a newspaper reporter, she expressed no great concern over reaching the century mark. She told him: "Sometimes I think that is a little bit TOO old."

Mrs. Hubbard was the daughter of two of Belmond's earliest settlers, Mr. and Mrs. John Morse. She was 10 years old when they came here in 1865 and made Belmond her home until moving with her husband to Durango, Colo., about 1909.

Madsen to Head Student Council

Keith Madsen was elected president of the BHS Student Council by a vote of the student body conducted Tuesday. Keith has distinguished himself in sports, at present looking forward to his third season on the varsity football and basketball teams, and has also been prominent in vocal music activities. He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Madsen and is a senior.

Other nominees for the presidency were Marlin Jenison, Gene Mehl and Beverly Sheriff, seniors; Phyllis Lee, Aryln Frohling and Annette Swenson, juniors. Each upper-class homeroom was permitted to name a candidate.

All homerooms in the high school elected representatives to the council on Thursday of last week. Those so honored were: Alice June Koppernagel and Jerry Quigley, seniors; Maryellen Johnson and Shirley Soma, juniors; Joan Kriens and Roland "Bud" Lerdal, sophomores; Marlene Benson, Judy Oberhauser and John Studebaker, freshmen.

Bob McLaughlin is an ex officio member of the student government organization by virtue of having been elected last year to the board of directors of the North Central District, Iowa Association of Student Councils.

THREE YEARS of nurse's training behind her, Norma Jean Hopkey (above), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hopkey, last night was graduated from the Iowa Methodist School of Nursing at Des Moines. Norma Jean was a 1951 graduate of BHS. She expects to join the Belmond Community hospital nursing staff later this month.

3-Day Ceremonies Set to Dedicate Dubuque Seminary

Three-day rites are planned at Dubuque starting next Tuesday to dedicate the new Mount St. Bernard seminary that has lately been completed there. The seminary was completed under the supervision of Right Rev. Msgr. D. A. Brady, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Brady.

The Rev. Mr. Brady is rector of the new seminary and expresses the hope that many of his Belmond friends will find it possible to attend some of the dedication ceremonies. He worked hard and long in helping to make the new edifice a reality and takes understandable pride and satisfaction in its completion.

Decision to erect a theological seminary for the Dubuque Ecclastical Province was made by the Bishops of Iowa three years ago.

Major highlight of the attending ceremonies will be the presence of His Excellency, the Most Rev. Amelito G. Cicognani, Apostolic Delegates to the United States, as guest of honor. He will perform the dedication and offer a Solemn Pontifical Mass. The sermon will be preached by the Most Rev. Ralph L. Hayes, Bishop of Davenport.

Elmbrinks Given A Helping Hand

Thursday of last week neighbors and friends came to the Will Eimbrink home to assist in cleaning away the debris left when the barn burned down recently.

Those helping with the work and serving the lunch were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thompson, Dean Mallow, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Anderson and son, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kienenberger of Goodell.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Pals, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Thompson and four sons, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shahan and Karen, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Trager and three children, Mrs. Anna Traeger and Mr. and Mrs. John Davids and two daughters.

K. Wieman Benefit Society Pays Out Another Dividend

Before long, Mrs. Klaas Wieman of Alexander is going to get the impression that any time she needs a new supply of folding money, all she has to do is call in Belmond of a Tuesday and pick up a fresh stack. This week she carted home $175, representing the 3:00 o'clock Cash Gift Day award. Exactly three weeks earlier, she was recipient of $100 in the same fashion. And some time before that, she'd picked off a 2:00 p. m. prize of $25.

Besides the big one, two 25's were claimed Tuesday of this week. They went to Mrs. Birdie Rise and Mrs. Loren Kalkwarf. The abrupt departure of $225 left the Cash Gift Day fund temporarily in a somewhat shaggy state, with the result that next week's total prize money has been reduced to $200—at 2:00 p.m., four $25 awards; and at 3:00 p. m., $100. Still and all, with heating bills about to resume, $100—or even $25—added to the family budget would not be amiss. Is it not so?

Work Under Way On New Building

Work was well underway this week on Belmond's first apartment house and its newest commercial structure. Excavation for the eight-unit apartment building that Kenneth Kinseth is ercting on East Main street was completed and actual construction was started on Hensel Brother's new produce house. The gaping hole at the site of the apartment building offers impressive evidence that it will be of a size unique in Belmond, where family housing is concerned.

Razing of the old, ex-residential structure that had been occupied by Hensel Brothers was started on Tuesday of last week and completed by Friday. Since then, sewer connections have been installed and the footings poured by the contractor, Knudson Construction company of Eagle Grove. Exterior of the building will be rough-finished, glazed clay-block and interior partitions will be of the same type of block, but smooth-finished.

Rear of the building will be of a height to permit inside loading and unloading of trucks, Carroll Hensel says. Among the new facilities the structure will provide that the old one did not include, will be a cooling room for the temporary storage of eggs. Plans call for the building to be finished in three to four weeks.

Mr. Hensel says that numerous inquiries concerning the antiquity of the dismantled structure never did bring to light its exact age. He was told by Dave Pierce that the old home was standing when he came to Belmond in 1874. How old it was at that time, he doesn't know.

FORTY HOURS DEVOTION

Rev. R. A. Ormsby, pastor of St. Francis Catholic church, says that Forty Hours Devotion will be held starting Sunday with the 7:30 a.m. Mass and closing with Solemn Benediction at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday. Masses in Belmond next Sunday morning will be at 7:30 and 9:30; and at Goodell St. Mary's church at 7:30. Rev. F. Leo McConnell of Hopkinton will conduct the devotions.

Des Moines Firm Takes Securities, Interest of 2.27%

Bonds to cover part of the cost of Belmond's new sewage disposal plant were sold Tuesday night by the city to Sparks and Co. of Des Moines at an interest consideration that was considerably lower than anticipated. The bidding was unusual in that different interest rates were specified for various blocks of bonds by three out of the four investment firms that contended for the securities.

Sparks' net interest rate on the $80,000 of sewer revenue bonds was approximately 2.27 per cent. Their bid was 2.0 per cent on the first $36,000 of bonds to mature, 2.4 on the next $19,000 and 2.3 on the final $25,000. Reason for the higher rate on the middle block was the option retained by the city to pre-pay the final $40,000 worth of bonds, starting in 1964—but in inverse order. In other words, the bonds still having longest to run at that time would be the first to be pre-paid, should the option be exercised.

Better Deal Than Algona's

Next lowest bid was that of Quail and Co. of Davenport, which set an interest rate of 2.25 on the first $40,000 and 2.5 on the remaining $40,000, with a premium of $183 to be deducted from the over-all interest.

Carlton D. Beh of Des Moines bid 2.25 on the first $36,000, 2.5 on the next $24,000 and 2.6 on the final $20,000, less a $12 premium. Shaw McDermott and Co. of Des Moines bid 2.5 on the entire lot of bonds, offering a premium of $300.

E. B. Carpenter of Des Moines, who has served the city as attorney on matters related to building and financing of the disposal plant, regarded the Sparks bid as a very excellent one. In fact, he had not expected one so favorable to the city. Just last week, Beh, Becker and Cownie of Des Moines was low bidder on a similar revenue bond issue at Algona in the amount of $200,000. The interest in that case ran slightly higher than in the sale of Belmond's $80,000 issue, coming to 2.789.

No Open Bids Made

Whereas the interest on Algona's bonds will total $51,504 over 20 years time — or slightly more than 25 per cent of the $200,000 face value, Belmond's interest in the 18 years that will be required to retire them all (barring pre-payment) will approximate $18,200 — comfortably less than 25 per cent of their face value.

These revenue bonds are payable only from the municipal sewer charge. They do not constitute an obligation on property and as a consequence they usually sell at a higher rate of interest than "general obligation" bonds, which are a tax lien on the property in a town.

No open bids were submitted when the bond sale was opened Tuesday evening. Only the four investment houses were represented, and all left their chances of success up to the sealed bids they had submitted earlier.

James Finn Dies At Age 72 Years

Funeral services were held last Saturday at St. Francis Catholic church for James Finn, 72, who passed away at Belmond Community hospital on Wednesday of last week. He had been in failing health since this past spring.

Rev. R. A. Ormsby officiated over the final rites and Fulton Funeral Home was in charge. Burial was in St. Francis cemetery. Six sons of Mr. and Mrs. Finn served as pallbearers: Maj. Howard Finn, El Toro, Calif.; DM2/c Roger Finn, Pearl Harbor, T. H.; Richard of Dexter, Minn.; Merlin of Riverdale, N. D.; Clair and Orland of Belmond.

Mr. Finn was born east of town on April 30, 1882, and had lived his entire life in this vicinity. He farmed until six years ago, when he retired and he and Mrs. Finn moved to town.

A complete obituary will be published next week.

Gridders' Fathers Guests Tomorrow

Cecil Carstens, president of the Gridiron club, announces that the opening football game tomorrow night between the BHS Broncos and Hampton will be the occasion for annual Dads' Night. Fathers of all members of the local high school squad will be guests of the club, will sit on the sidelines and will wear numbers corresponding to those on their sons' jerseys.

All dads are asked to gather at the gymnasium before 7:15 p. m., when they will be provided transportation to the playing field in a body. Mr. Carstens and the Gridironers hope the fathers will be out en force to help cheer the Broncos to a victorious start as they open their '54 season.

Belmond Eleven Will Open Card Tomorrow Against Hampton

Coach Dick Hobbs views this Friday's football opener against Hampton with some uncertainty, he admitted at midweek, although well pleased with the rate of development that some of the BHS gridders have shown in the past three weeks. Defensively, the Broncos have shown definite promise; but their mentor reports that they have a good many rough edges to round off before they'll become an effective offensive unit.

Their strength and weaknesses were emphasized in the scrimmage conducted last Thursday night against a team of alumni. In general, the Broncs did a pretty fair job defensively. However, when they had the ball they were considerably less impressive and Hobbs plainly saw the need of bearing down on offense during the current week's drills.

Madsen at Quarter

Lettermen from last season, quite understandably, will bear the brunt of the work against Hampton. Several, though, will be filling assignments different from those they handled a year ago. One major shift will see Ron Steenblock transferred to fullback on offense. Other nominees for starting jobs against the Bulldogs are Keith Madsen at quarter, LeRoy Smith at left half and Marlin Jenison at right halfback.

Alternates include Bill Murray and Tom McNulty at Smith's spot and Jerry Chandler at right half. Smith and Jenison will play in the secondary on defense, and Madsen will serve as an outside linebacker.

SPORTS

Roger "Joe" Smith will take over a halfback spot on defense.

Schmitz Back Again

On offense, Bob McLaughlin is slated for left end on defense, with Joe Smith or Arlo Stoltenberg taking over on offense. Harold Steenblock will understudy the offensive ends. Left tackle will be handled by Gene Nicholson on defense or by Harold Tendall and Perry Ersland on offense. The left guard posititon will be shared by Tom Stadtlander, Marlan Cunningham and Phil Schmitz — the latter returned to the squad only this week and will not be eligible for the Hampton game.

Dwight Beavers has a monopoly on the center position. While Dwight does a fine job as pivot and linebacker, Coach Hobbs hasn't been happy over the lack of a reserve center and this week began grooming Gary Ersland as an alternate.

Mennenga at Right Guard

Kyle Mennenga is slated to play at right guard on both offense and defense. Gary Meyer will be used at right tackle offensively and will slide over to center on defense, while Perry Ersland steps into the tackle position. Ronnie Hansen will handle the right end post on offense and move back to middle linebacker on defense. Ron Steenblock will handle the wing position defensively.

Hobbs added that Dale Caquelin, another late reportee, has been showing up quite well at end and will likely see action; and that Jerry Quigley will undoubtedly get in time at a guard spot. Rich Kuhlers, the strapping, 230-lb tackle may also get a trial — but being new to the game, he's green and still has much to learn.

Following is the entire squad roster, whith height, weight and class given for each player:

Links Tourneys Near Completion At Clarmond Club

Play has reached the final round in practically all flights of both the men's and women's golf tournaments currently in progress at Clarmond Country club. One exception is the men's championship flight, in which semi-finals remain to be played. Lyle McConaughey advanced to that round with a 2-1 victory last week over Pat Gallagher. McConaughey will oppose Frank Middleton in the lower bracket, while Fred Gordon and Bob Dunker meet in the upper.

Four of the men's flights have been completed. Ray Gronwall of Clarion downed Dr. A. M. Nelson of Belmond, 4 and 3, for first flight honors. Fred Hole of Kanawha and Leo Hilton, Sr., of Clarion have yet to meet in the second flight title round. Jack Row of Clarion defeated Dale Kessler of Belmond in the third flight finals.

Finals in the fourth were taken two weeks ago by Bill Hines of Clarion, with a 6-5 decision over Ed Banning, Belmond. Pete Rodriguez of Clarion was 5th1flight winner over Ad Ziegler of Clarion, 3 and 1. Cy Handfeldt and Leon Root are to meet in the 6th-flight finals.

In the women's championship bracket, Jean Mueller defeated Marie Johnson one up in 11 holes to join Mary Gordon in the finals. In the first flight, Jane Middleton was victor over Gladys Tyrrell, 4 and 3. In the semi-finals, Mrs. Tyrrell ousted Audrey Wright, 5 and 4; and Mrs. Middleton trimmed Dorothy Henry, 2 and 1.

Marjorie Mishler was winner over Marian Gannon in the 2nd-flight semi-finals and will meet the winner of Elsie Pitcher-Irma Tomke. No 3rd-flight matches have been played. Two flight consolation winners have been determined. Lillian Nelson was victor over Barbara Christ in the championship flight and Ione Ziegler over Florence Daniels in the 2nd flight.

HOLE-IN-ONE

John Pardun, cashier for the First National bank at Clarion, registered the first hole-in-one achieved this season at Clarmond Country club when he acted out the traditional "golfer's dream" Sunday afternoon. The deed was done on No. 6 hole—the only one on the course short enough to be reached a single shot. Playing with him when his 139-yard pitch found the cup were Dick Bashman, Clarence Stuart and the latter's young son.

Fort Dodge First In Softball Meet

Vincent Clay Products of Fort Dodge won the GMI invitation softball tournament with a 5-3 win over the host Millers in Sunday night's finals. Loose defensive play on the Millers' part gave the victors four unearned runs, three of them coming in the first inning without the visitors producing a single hit.

The last two rounds of the meet were marred by absence of the Garner team, which gained the semi-finals only to forfeit due to a commitment at another tourney. Vincent Clay gained the finals by default, while the Millers trimmed Williams 3-1. Gus Taylor hit a a homer in the sixth with two on to provide the winning counters.

Third place went to Williams on another Garner forfeit.

Gordon Takes 1st In M. C. Amateur

Fred Gordon added another to his ever-growing list of golf laurels Sunday by leading a strong field to take first place in the annual Mason City Amateur. In a three-way tie for 4th place at the end of 18 holes, the Belmond links expert came through with a one-under-par 35 on the final nine to go into 1st place by two strokes. He had a starting 74 and a total of 109 for the 27 holes.

Runner-up to John Marschall of Hampton a year ago, Fred switched places with the young ace this time. Marschall was second with 111. Gordon will wind up his tournament efforts for the year with an appearance at the Forest City Amateur this Sunday.

BHS Elects Six As Cheerleaders

A new policy in regard to selection of Belmond High school cheerleaders has been adopted this fall, ending the previous practice of having cheerleaders automatically succeed themselves. Heretofor, once a girl was elected as cheerleader she retained the position until time of graduation.

Under the new policy, a cheerleading staff of six will be elected by the student body at-large at the start of each school year. The 1954-55 pep directors were chosen by general ballot on Friday of last week. All are girls who had had previous experience on either the BHS varsity or freshman-sophomore cheering staffs last year, with two exceptions.

Elaine Reichart, who was a cheerleader at Garner before transferring here, completes the new corps that includes: Nellie Negrete, senior; Mary Jo Benson and Maryellen Johnson — who, like Miss Reichart, are juniors; Mary Alice Studebaker, sophomore; and Marlene Benson, freshman.

This group of six leaders will lead cheers during both varsity and freshman-sophomore games. Election of a freshman-sophomore cheering corps has been discontinued.

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Tideback and Bill Tideback spent Monday afternoon in the Lloyd Miller home at Eldora.

Jack McLaughlin left Thursday evening from Boone for Kayesville, Utah, to visit his son and family, the James P. McLaughlins.

Tomahawks Defeat Eagle Grove "9" For 3rd Time; Win Easily, 10 to 2

Sunday afternoon the Belmond Tomahawks once again demonstrated their mastery over the co-champion Eagle Grove nine by trouncing the Legionnaires for the third time this season, 10 to 2. The win gave Belmond third place in the Quad-County league baseball playoffs to go with the third that they held in the final loop standings. The 'Hawks ended up with 10 wins against 6 losses for the summer, four of the defeats coming in their first five starts when the team was still disorganized.

Jake Koenen held the Legionnaires under complete control in last weekend's tilt on the local diamond and received good support, also. Only one error was committed by the 'Hawks. Koenen gave up only three hits and never more than one in an inning. He was credited with eight strike-outs and walked only five batters.

Three E. G. Pitchers

Three pitchers were used by the Legionnaires. The Tomahawks collected 11 hits and seven runs off of Rick Lalor, the Eagle Grove starter, in six innings. Dale Kuehnast, in the sixth and seventh was touched for only one hit; but Belmond combined a 7th-inning double by Jim Kleen with some fancy base running following a hit-batter and a walk to add three more counters. Rich Lyons retired the Tomahawks in order in the eighth.

Belmond scored once in the first frame and then batted entirely around in the third to pick up three more. Two doubles and three singles figured in this outburst. The 'Hawks batted through their entire order again in the fifth to increase their lead to 7-1, Eagle Grove having chalked up an unearned run in the fourth.

Kleen in Starring Role

The losers counted again in the sixth, but Belmond iced the game for sure in the seventh. With two down, Kleen doubled, then stole third. Joe Long was hit by the pitcher and went to third on a passed ball as Kleen scored. Ozzie Nelson was walked, stole second, went to third on an error and then cut loose with a daring steal to cross home plate standing.

With Koenen, Kleen was one of the outstanding stars of the game. He had a perfect day at the plate, sacrificing home the first score and gaining base four times on two doubles, a single and a fielder's choice. He played excellent defensive ball too and was key man in a double play that retired the first two E. G. batters in the top of the ninth. Long and Nelson turned in fine, all-around performances, too, and each accounted for a couple of scores.

CHICK CHATS

CHATS ABOUT CHICKENS
GIVE 'EM ROOM TO EAT

Emily Post says that we're not supposed to eat with our elbows on the table. I don't do it either. At least when my wife is close enough to kick me under the table. But even if you don't put your elbows on the table, it's nice to have room to do it. If there's anything I hate it's not having enough room.

Chickens and I are a lot like each other in that respect. Even though they don't have regular elbows to put on the table — or even tables, for that matter — they like to have lots of room at the feeders. If they don't they won't eat very much if anything. This is kind of hard on the chickens — and your pocket book. They won't lay all the eggs they should.

Some experts I know recommend 6 inches of feeder space per bird. That's about 3 eight-foot feeders per 100 birds. And these experts don't pick that 6 inch figure out of thin air. They've run experiments. And they started with as low as 1 inch per bird. And how production increased when they increase the space. Their figures show that it pays off in extra eggs.

The same goes for waterers. These experts recommend that you have one 8 gallon waterer per 100. Or one automatic fountain per 100. Almost all of an egg is water. So it stands to reason that a chicken needs a lot of water to lay eggs. The fountains should be spread around in the laying house, too. Not all hunkered up in one corner. While we're on water fountains, keep 'em clean and filled with clean water. It helps a lot and isn't expensive.

Let's get back to feeders. First get enough feeder space in the laying house, then put the right thing into it. For instance, a good feed IS ALWAYS worth the money. Buy a reputable feed from a reputable company and the follow their feeding instructions.

And if you're feeding cafeteria style, here's something that may help always fill 2/3 of your feeded space with the balancer. Some chickens might balance their own ration. But they won't have a chance if there isn't enough space to get at the mash. It takes a lot more time to eat mash than grain. It's a bit unfortunate that the most expensive part of the ration is the most needed. But when you get down to dollars and cents, the more mash they eat, the better the production and the better your profits.

And that's a pretty nice way to look at things.

Social Security Changes to Affect Nearly All Wright County Families

The sweeping amendments of the Social Security Act, signed into law Sept. 1 by President Eisenhower, will affect virtually every family in Wright county and northwest Iowa, according to Clifford W. Swedlund, manager of the Fort Dodge office of the Social Security Administration.

Immediately affective is the increase in monthly payments to more than 6,000 persons now getting benefits in the Fort Dodge area. These increases will appear on the September checks, which will be mailed early in October.

The present minimum payment of $25 to a retired worker has been raised to $30; the maximum of $85 has been increased to $98.50. Dependents and survivors now getting monthly benefits will get proportionate increases, with every family assured an increase of at least $5. The maximum family payment has been raised from $168.75 to $200.

No Application Needed

Persons now receiving monthly payments should not write to or call at the Fort Dodge office to get these increases. Swedlund emphasized. They will be made automatically and no application is necessary.

Protection of old-age and survivors insurance has now been extended to about nine out of 10 families in the area. Swedlund said. The largest group not previously covered by social security has now been brought in—self-employed farm operators. According to the 1950 census there are 21,457 farms in the area served by the Fort Dodge office.

Commencing Jan. 1, 1955, farm operators will be covered on the same terms as other self-employed people, except for a provision which simplifies the reporting procedures for farm operators with low annual incomes. Abolishing former requirements, the new provision which goes into effect Jan. 1 simply requires that a farm hand be paid at least $100 cash wages in a year by one employer.

Domestic employees, to qualify for coverage under the new law, need only receive $50 in a quarter from any one employer rather than work a minimum of 24 days during the quarter in a single household. Several other self-employed groups besides farmers are now to be covered by social security Jan. 1, also. These include professional engineers, accountants, architects and funeral directors. Ministers, too, may come under the law as if they were self-employed persons.

The amended law provides higher benefits for persons who become eligible for payments in the future. Beginning with 1955, covered earnings which may count toward social security benefits will be raised from $3600 to $4200 in a year. Another provision permits a worker to drop out up to five years of lowest earnings in the figuring of his average monthly wage on which benefit payments will be based. Some persons now on the benefit rolls may qualify for the drop-out if they have 1½ years of covered work after June 1953.

Higher Earnings Allowed

The new law increases the amount of earnings a beneficiary may have and still receive his monthly benefit check. Beginning Jan. 1 beneficiaries under 72 years of age may have earnings up to $1200 in a year without loss of benefits. This applies to earnings from work of any kind, whether covered by social security or not. Only one month's benefit will be withheld for each additional $80 earned. After reaching age 72 the beneficiary may earn any amount and still receive benefits.

Swedlund reminded beneficiaries that the present law which restricts earnings to $75 a month in covered employment and to $900 a year from self-employment for beneficiaries under the age of 75 will continue in effect until Jan. 1.

Belmond Missionary Tells of Trials Experienced To Get Wife from "Bush Country" to Medical Aid

(The Indepedent is happy to publish a most interesting letter received this week from Rev. Emory J. Van Gerpen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Gerpen and currently a missionary in Northern Nigeria, Africa. Its length will require that it appear in several installments; but we feel that the trials and tribulations that the young man relates will make our readers so humbly grateful for their easy lot in civilized Wright county and environs that the space is well justified. It deals with two ordeal-wracked days and nights spent in an effort to get Mrs. Van Gerpen "from genuine African bush country" to a hospital, where she could receive treatment for a severe attack of infectious jaundice.)

Since Sunday, Aug. 15, Mrs. Van Gerpen had been in bed with all the symptoms of malaria, so I had been treating her. Also, that weekend I'd had a talk with our houseboy. He had been stealing—sugar, cookies, cake, etc.—and seeing that he'd been caught, he quit. We were planning on dismissing him anyhow, because he was'nt doing his work satisfactorily. So I had his work, and Phyllis's, and supervision of a co-worker's school (she is on furlough), beside my own work to keep going, and it was keeping me mighty busy.

By Wednesday, Phyllis should have started to get better, but she didn't. Her body was beginning to turn yellow, but even that occasionally comes with malaria so it didn't cause us too much concern. By Thursday she was still worse; her color had gotten even darker and the accompanying severe headaches, dizziness and general weakness led us to decide that if she wasn't much better by Friday morning we would try to take her to Katsina (the nearest, sizeable community).

Rain for Two Weeks

It had been raining every day for two weeks and we knew that we would have some trouble getting those 50 miles into Katsina because of three intervening rivers, none of which were spanned with bridges. Occasionally in the rainy season they are fordable—but because of the much rain that had lately fallen it was most likely that the water would be high, perhaps impassable. And so, for this reason, on Thursday night I sent three men to the river to help us cross if necessary in the morning.

Friday morning it was raining again, but in spite of that we started and were on our way about 8:15, suitcases packed, the dispensary helper along in case of trouble on the road and a few other details taken care of. We were but a little way when we met the carrier coming out with the mail. We took out the first class matter and continued on our way while he carried the rest home—including a parcel of badly-needed bandages from folks at home. And for these, we are indeed grateful!

Pleasant Surprise

When we reached the first of the rivers, it surprised us to be able to cross with ease. The water was not over a foot deep, so we thankfully proceeded the 12 miles to the next river. It was over its banks! We had expected this, but to see it was more than disheartening. The Africans whom we had sent ahead the night before tested it for us. They showed us where they thought to be the best place to cross. When they stood on the bottom with hands extended high above their heads, even the tips of their fingers did not show. It must have been eight feet, or more, deep and being at the bend of the river was mighty swift.

A poor place to cross, I thought, so in spite of their persuasions I suggested we test a couple of different places. A bit downstream we found a better spot. The water at no point went over my chin and flowed a bit slower. This was probably the best place to cross in miles. So we went back to the jeep through 600 or 700 of overflow water to finish preparations for our crossing. With Ruth Ann (our baby of six months) in one arm, and holding Phyllis with my other, we walked slowly to the river bank.

Crossing—African Style

Phyllis crossed first—African style. She floated in the water hanging onto a large calabash (the huge, hard-shelled, nut-like fruit of a tropical tree) for support while two of the Africans pushed her across. They wanted to carry the baby, but I refused. The value they place on life isn't too high, and some of them might almost as easily have let the baby drown as not. I followed Phyllis, carrying the baby high over my head, so that if accidentally I should step into a hidden hole, Ruth Ann wouldn't be apt to get wet. We made it safely, and thanked the Lord.

Once, in the middle of the river, I caught myself going over due to the force of the water; but somehow I was able to get back onto my feet again. The Africans returned and brought across the rest of the loads, including two suitcases, a cornstalk bed, shoes, pillow, etc.

One More River

Safely on the other side, we put Phyllis on the cornstalk bed and began to carry her to higher and dryer ground. As we prepared to transport her the five miles to the next river, we decided it best that I should take the jeep back to Wagini and then return on a horse to meet her on the next river bank. From there we could send a special bicycle messenger to the Mission Bookshop in Katsina, asking them to get us the rest of the way by auto. So I again crossed the river but certainly not feeling like it. My body was shivering with cold, like one shivers suddenly with the oncoming of an illness.

I had help going back across, but instead of really helping me the natives let me float down the river. In desperation I told them to let me go—I'd swim alone. They did, and we continued on across without further incident. Sopping wet, and with no change of clothes, I started the return trip.

(Another installment of the author's adventure will appear next week.)

PTA to Consider New Constitution

One, major matter of business at the first meeting of the Belmond Parent Teachers association, planned for Wednesday, Sept. 22, will be adoption of a new constitution and by-laws for the organization. President Walt Hotvet reports that, if any such regulations existed in the past, they have long since been lost and that new governing rules were recently drafted.

Besides Mr. Hotvet, Supt. Don Faris, M. B. Dannewitz and Mrs. Lee Mussell took part in the work of devising the new constitution. It follows a standard outline, provided by the National Council of Parents and Teachers.

All three divisions of the PTA of Belmond Community school district— Goodell, Belmond elementary and Belmond junior-senior high school—will meet jointly to act on the constitution and consider other business of a general nature. Subsequent meetings will be held by the divisions separately. Further details regarding the initial meeting of the year will appear next week.

MARLYS BEAVERS
And Catch That Brought "Fame"

Many's the big fish that local anglers have brought to a gaff during the present season and later boasted about—with or without evidence. But it remained for a nine-year-old miss to make a nationally distributed publication pictured WITH her catch, to offer irrefutable evidence of a major, fishing achievement.

It was early in June that Marlys Beavers, daughter of Mrs. Tom Beavers, hauled in a 5-lb., 5-oz. walleye at Little Boy lake near Longville, Wis. Her fish won biggest-of-the-week prize at that time and is in the running for a season's sweepstakes award.

This accomplishment prompted publication of Marlys's picture in the September-October issue of Sports and Recreation magazine. She is shown with her twin sister Marilyn, Nadine Johnson—and, as mentioned, the pike. The three girls were still-fishing with Nadine's father, Claude Johnson, using minnows for bait when the big boy took ahold.

They'd been hooking panfish of modest proportions prior to the moment the walleye hit, and turmoil reigned as the prize catch was hauled in. Marlys excitedly brought the walleye near the surface and was given an assist by Claude when the nature of her strike was discovered.

Wright Ranks 7th In Entire State, '54 Cancer Drive

Wright county continued this year to hold rank as one of the most generous counties in Iowa in support of the annual Cancer Crusade of the American Cancer Society. Wright has regularly earned a place among the top 10 and in 1954 has maintained its praiseworthy record by holding seventh place in the state.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Florence Aldinger of Rowan, the Cancer Crusade in Wright county reached and surpassed its assigned quota by 167 per cent. A total of $6,330.56 was contributed to the cancer fund, compared to $6,015.50 a year ago. This compares with $4,659.52 raised in Franklin county, $4,451.68 in Hancock, $5,610.83 in Hamilton and $5,931.20 in Kossuth.

John J. Williams of Red Oak, state Cancer Crusade chairman, reports that $631,860 was raised throughout the state, making Iowa the second state in the nation in relation to number of dollars given in excess of assigned quota. He adds that 93 of the state's 102 chapters surpassed their quotas and 69 contributed more than in 1953.

Lyon county, with about 5,000 less population than Wright, gave $5,458.20 to the Crusade this year to take top honors with 186 per cent of quota. Second was Story, 178 per cent; and third, Clarke, 177. Altogether, Iowans contributed $58,655 more to the Crusade this year than last.

GOODELL NEWS

BY MRS. AMOS HANSON

Lois Lowenberg Wed Aug. 28 To Wm. Sanzone of Minneapolis

MR. AND MRS. SANZONE

Lois MaDonna Lowenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lowenberg of Goodell, became the bride of William M. Sanzone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sanzone of Minneapolis, Minn., Saturday, Aug. 28. The wedding took place at 10:00 a. m. at St. Mary's Catholic church in Goodell. The pastor, Rev. Robert Ormsby, officiated over the double ring ceremony.

Nuptial music was played on the organ by Mrs. Clifford Johnson of Belmond. She also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Robert Johnson of Humboldt, cousin of the bride, who sang "Ava Marie" and "Prayer for Perfect Life."

The altar was decorated with beautiful bouquets of pastel colored gladioli.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, was attired in a gown of white imported lace over white satin with a finger-tip veil held in place by a tiara. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses, centered with a lavender orchid.

She was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Merlin Lowenberg of Belmond, as matron of honor and her cousin, Helen Smith of Wesley, who served as bridesmaid. Both wore lavender formal gowns in waltz length with matching yellow necklaces and earrings. They carried yellow and lavender colonial bouquets.

Theresa Lowenberg, sister of the bride, and Anette Sanzone of Minneapolis, sister of the groom, as junior bridesmaids wore dresses of yellow net over satin and carried colonial bouquets.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Larry Sanzone of Minneapolis, as best man and Merlin Lowenberg of Belmond, brother of the bride, as groomsman. Thomas Lowenberg, another brother, and John McCan of Minneapolis, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as ushers. These men were dressed in midnight blue trousers with cumerbunds, white dinner jackets and matching ties. All wore boutonnieres.

Cynthia Lowenberg of Belmond, niece of bride, was flower girl. She wore a pink flecked nylon with net dress and carried a colonial bouquet. Gary Janssen served as ring bearer, carrying the rings on a white satin pillow. Acolytes were Duane Lowenberg, brother of the bride, and Donald Kramer.

The bride's mother wore a dark lavender dress with dark accessories and the bridegroom's mother was dressed in a printed grey silk with light accessories. Both wore yellow carnation corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony, the wedding party, relatives and close friends—75 in number—were invited to a reception held in the dining room of the EUB church in Goodell. A noon luncheon was served. The dining room was decorated in the bride's colors of yellow and lavender with white bells.

The bride's table at which the bridal party and members of the immediate families were seated was decorated in the bride's colors with white wedding bells and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom. Josephine Dominy cut and served the wedding cake. Mrs. Robert Bettinger of Minneapolis poured. Eileen Langlitz, Gail VerHelst and Virginia Veldhouse served as waitresses. Mrs. Merle Janssen, sister of the bride, had charge of the guest book. Mrs. Larry Boller of Mason City and Faye Janssen had charge of the gifts.

The bridegroom is employed at Stillman's in Minneapolis, a large grocery company. The bride is employed in the offices of the Koop Insurance company.

They left after the reception for a short weeding trip after which they will be at home in an apartment in Minneapolis. For going away the bride wore an aqua knit with brown accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Drescher of Albert Lea, Minn., enjoyed dinner Tuesday in the home of her uncle, Amos Hanson. They were enroute to attend the state fair in Des Moines and visit friends in Newton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stille visited Sunday with her brother, Boyd Berghefer, in the home of Mrs. Berghefer's parents at Pomeroy. The Berghefers have moved back to Estherville where they are both teaching. It will be remembered Boyd was in an auto accident two years ago and is just now able to return to work. He is in a wheel chair and will only teach the morning sessions. He teaches history.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Finn, Bobby and Fayann of Riceville, N. D., visited over the weekeed in the parental Robert McNutt home. They came for the funeral services of Merlin's father, Jim Finn of Belmond, held Saturday morning at St. Francis Catholic church.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sanzone of Minneapolis, Minn., came Friday to spend a week in the parental Arthur Lowenberg home.

THERE'S MUCH DIFFERENCE BETWEEN PATRIOTISM AND SUPER-PATRIOTISM

Patriotism still has its place in a world striving for unity, but chauvinism — which is a four-bit term for super-patriotism — has never accomplished anything but disunity. Webster's dictionary defines chauvinism as "vainglorious or exaggerated patriotism;" and that comes close to being a perfect description of the American Legion's actions in regard to the Girl Scouts and their handbook.

After the Illinois department of the Legion retracted its much-publicized censure of the Girl Scout organization for allowing "one-world ideas" to infiltrate its handbook, it appeared that the Legion would successfully extricate itself from a truly ridiculous situation. Then the national Legion, in convention at Washington, D. C., showed the poor judgement to compound the error by passing a resolution to the same effect as the one sensibly rescinded by the Illinois department.

The Legion views as "un-American" the attitude of approval which the Girl Scout handbook expresses towards the objectives of the United Nations. At the same time, the resolution commends the youth organization on its accomplishments "in educating the girlhood of America in appreciation of the responsibilities of the United States citizenship." Certainly a prime factor in responsible citizenship these days is recognition of the fact that greater understanding and cooperation among the nations of the world holds the key to lasting peace.

The Legion resolution further directed the national commander to confer promptly with Girl Scout officials to offer the Legion's cooperation in revising Girl Scout publications to meet Legion approval. The Girl Scout officials are placed in a completely unfair and untenable position by such an "offer." They are left with the dubious choice of seemingly defying the Legion, if the "aid" is rejected; or submitting — in effect — to Legion censorship if it is accepted. And we cannot see why such a privilege of censorship should be conceded to any organization.

The American Legion can point with pride to many achievements in its worthy past. But it stands to lose face in the eyes of many thinking Americans by its jingoistic stand in this particular matter.

A GENTLEMAN WHO KNOWS POINTS OUT "LEGISLATORS ARE THE SAME AS PEOPLE"

We've always had great admiration for the ability of Duane Dewel, editor of the Algona Advance, to turn a phrase. He "turned" several in the latest issue of The Iowa Publisher, monthly magazine of the Iowa Press association, that made us do a bit of thinking. He writes a regular column for the Publisher as president of the press association. His August column dealt with the trials and tribulations of being a state legislator — and he knows whereof he speaks, since he's served two stints as state senator from the 49th district.

Duane writes that before he got his nose in the wringer, he was "wont to lay into the legislature and lambaste the damphools down there for the way they were acting. Anyone with a lick of sense could see what should be done — and why not get it over with?"

But now, he observes, he's learned that: "Legislators are like people, though occasionally people would object to the comparison. The minute a man's elected to office he's supposed to acquire a lot of wisdom. Actually, the members of the legislature are the same kind of guys who sing loudly and off key at the Kiwanis and Rotary meetings. A legislator has a wife and children, and a business that probably worries the life out of him when he's away saving the state from a fate worse than death.

"A legislator is subject to the same fears as people. Most of them know they are none too smart for the job they've tackled, but once they're into it they're going to do their dad-burnedest to do a good job. They realize they are a part of history, and some joker any day might dig up some flub they made and make them look as silly as an elderly gent with a black eye."

The gentleman from Algona points out, "There's a lot of things that go into the make-up of that book that comes out every two years called Acts of the Umpty-umth General Assembly. There's a lot of blood and sweat and tears on practically every page."

Mr. Dewel's point is pretty plain and, we believe, well taken. It's no joyride that the lawmakers take every other year to Des Moines. And faced with some of the sticklers that you and I expect them to solve with the wisdom of Solomon, we'd probably throw up our hands and be only too happy to "let George do it." We might bear in mind when the solutions don't always suit our fancy that we DO have a bunch of self-sacrificing, conscientious Georges down there at the statehouse "doing their dad-burnedest to do a good job." And when all's said and done, they DO do a better than fair job MOST of the time.

$10,000 Gift to Hospital from Robert Rowen

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

The Independent's switch from seven to eight-column size this week reflects a trend that has seen a good many Iowa weeklies take the same step in the past 10 to 15 years. A recent survey conducted by the University of Iowa journalism department, to which more than 380 non-daily papers responded, showed that 112 are now published in eight-column format.

Yesteryear's popular seven-column size still predominates; 154 of the weeklies and semi's cling to it. But each year sees more of the "rural" papers going over to the wider, longer page.

Six-column size was reported by 81 papers; 33 are five-column tabloids; and a couple are issued in four-column format. But for papers whose progress has posed a constant problem to find space for the weekly harvest of news and advertising, eight columns have proved the answer. One of our neighbors, the Lake Mills Graphic, made the switch two weeks ago.

—M-S—

In the past week or two, the staffs at Belmond Community hospital and Steele Memorial clinic have taken on somewhat of a United Nations aspect. Two members of oriental nationality have lately been working at one or the other. Gladwin Solomon, who comes from India, has been filling in as laboratory technician while Helen McNulty is on vacation. Toshie Evans, a native of Japan, is employed at the hospital as a nurse's aid.

—M-S—

Mr. Solomon has been in this country for four years. In that time he has obtained a Bachelor's degree in Science from Berea (Ky.) college and completed a year's course in medical technology at Mercy hospital in Cedar Rapids.

His job here was simply a fill-in proposition, while he is waiting to continue schooling this fall toward's a Master's degree in bacteriology. He's considering the University of Kentucky, but isn't certain yet what institution he'll attend.

Nor will his education cease then. After he gets his Master's, Gladwin plans to continue study until he obtains a Doctor of Medicine degree. When he's finally qualified to put M. D after his name, he will return to his homeland to become a medical missionary.

—M-S—

Toshie is the wife of S/Sgt. Carlyle Evans of Garner, a member of the regular Army and at present serving in Germany. Mrs. Evans was a registered nurse in Japan. She married Sergeant Evans while he was on duty in Japan and came to the United States in December of 1951. They have two youngsters — Carol Ann, 3, and Bobby 2.

Toshie and her children are at present living with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reichardt, lately come to Belmond from Garner; but she hopes soon to have an apartment of her own.

Mrs. Evans is extremely proud of her U. S. citizenship, acquired by naturalization a year ago. She says it took a lot of study and "the test was hard." Toshie speaks English fluently, having learned it in high school. Typical of her nationality,, though, pronunciation of l's give her a lot of trouble; and she usually has to end up spelling it out when asked the name of her husband or her daughter.

—M-S—

Hearsay (which, due to its source, we credit as quite possibly accurate) has it that the eccentric wayfarer pictured elsewhere on this page is far from the indigent individual that appearances suggested. We were told that during his wanderings in this vicinity, he wished to make a store purchase by check. When the proprietor raised an eyebrow, a phone call to a certain Minneapolis bank was suggested. The call was made, and the storekeeper was assured by the bank that the check would be OK "if not for more than $60,000." . . . Makes a good story, at least.

—M-S—

The past sometimes makes its contributions to progress in odd ways. Take, for instance, the desk that's been serving Hensel Brothers Produce while the firm's new building is going up here. Earl Knudson of Eagle Grove, the building contractor, salvaged the piece of furniture from an old house that he once wrecked and installed it in the one-time, city bus that Hensels are using as a temporary office.

Carroll Hensel noticed a bit of carboard nailed to the underside of the desk lid, and in due time curiosity compelled him to pry it off. On the "up" side was a list of mileage distances from Alexander to nine, neighboring communities.

The "under" side bore the business card of one Sam'l C. Schumacher, proprietor of the Alexander Livery. Boarding and Sale Stable. The stable advertised a "dray line in connection" and boasted "First-Class Rigs at Reasonable Rates. Special attention given to traveling men. I am prepared to furnish a 1 or 2-seated rig or a first-class trunk wagon on short notice." Anybody at Alexander remember Sam?

—M-S—

The rush resulting from the Labor Day holiday, which ran us rather short of time last week, accounted for several regrettable oversights in the last issue for which we'd like to make amends. Mention of the death of Mrs. John Wenzel didn't get in (you'll find it [illegible]) and we neglected to [illegible] borrowed from the [illegible] and Mrs. Wil[illegible] the M. C. LOCKED BRAKE EQUALS BUSTED POLE EQUALS HEADACHES FOR LINEMEN

"Semi's" Brake Locks; 6 Towns Lose Power Service As Maverick Rig Breaks Off Pole, Snapping Lines

A "for want of a nail" situation was created here last Saturday morning when a large semi-trailer filled with cattle ran amuk due to a locked brake which sent the truck crashing into a powerline pole of the Iowa Electric Light and Power company that carried both a 33.000-volt, main transmission line and a 13.000-volt feed line.

End result of the unusual mishap was that six communities were without electricity for nearly 4½ hours—and the IEL&P had run up about $500 expense in materials and labor before things were all put back together again.

"Duke" Fitcher of Aberdeen, S.D., driver of the rig, told Sheriff Bob Blecker that sudden locking of his left brake caused the "semi" to swerve off the highway at the intersection with Third street. The outfit was owned by Ketering Inc., Truck Service company, Aberdeen.

Main Line Unbroken

Pete Pazour of Garner, district operations manager for the power company, reports that five repair-truck crews were kept busy on the job for four hours and 20 minutes before service over the feeder line was back to normal. It wasn't until a while later than repair of lines leading to the Thompson Hybrid plant, the Dairy-Sweet ice cream stand and Hill's Motel was effected.

No break in the main line was caused by the crash. After a momentary break in service, switches on this line leading to Garner and Britt automatically closed and the electricity continued to flow. But it was a different story with the feeder line. A number of breaks resulted and "hot" wires lay all over the intersection for a time.

Crashes Cause Headaches

Power to Goodell, Meservey, Swaledale, Thornton, Alexander and Coulter was completely off until the breaks could be repaired.

Mr. Pazour says he has enough trouble with line breaks caused by nature and he's a bit tired of having his fellow men add to his problems. In less than two years' time, four poles in Belmond or at its outskirts have been snapped off by wandering vehicles, playing hob with service over considerable territories. The only adequate defense he can conceive would be burying lines, and his bosses tell him that would run into a bit too much money.

One-Day Holiday; 'Nuff, Mom Says

Mothers of Belmond school children counted their blessings anew Wednesday as the boys and girls returned to the classroom after a one-day holiday while their teachers attended institute at Clarion.

Teachers from all city and rural schools in Wright and Hamilton counties assembled at Clarion on Tuesday for morning and afternoon institute sessions. All attended discussion groups pertaining to their particular grades, led by county supervisors from various parts of the state and by staff members from Iowa State Teachers college, mainly. Specialists from other schools were heard, too.

BAZAAR THIS EVENING

A bazaar will be held by the Ladies Aid of the St. Olaf church this (Thursday) evening at 8:00 o'clock at the church. Fancywork, rugs, quilts, aprons and other articles will be offered for sale and lunches will be sold.

Introducing "New" Independent

TO OUR READERS:

With this week's issue, The Independent is appearing in a new, eight-column format. We are making this change because we believe it will enable us to provide our subscribers with a better-than-ever newspaper. Although the larger page size will frequently result in a 10-page rather than 12-page issue — or 12 instead of 16, when news and advertising are running heavier than normal — there will actually be more reading matter than before.

In reality, a 10-page issue will give us more than a half-page additional space for news or advertising matter, measured by our former seven-column format, than did a 12-page issue in the old size. This will enable us to give you a newsier paper, week in and week out.

It may take a few weeks for us to determine how best to take advantage of the additional column inches placed at our disposal. We expect to introduce several new features, intended to give the paper added interest. Meanwhile, we hope you like our "new look". We might call to your attention that, while allowing us more space to work with, the "new" Independent will now cover more drawer or shelf space, wrap more fish, or package more garbage than ever before, also.

THE PUBLISHERS

Martin To Speak At Dinner Oct. 6

Thomas E. Martin of Iowa City, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, will be guest of honor and major speaker at a dinner to be held Oct. 6 at Clarmond Country club under sponsorship of the Republican Women of Belmond. Mrs. Russell Schaal, who is president of the local organization, says that 250 tickets for the occasion are being printed and it is hoped that a "full house" will be present to hear Mr. Martin.

MARTIN

Members of the Republican Women's clubs of Clarion and Eagle Grove will be guests of the Belmond club for the dinner. However, the event will be open to any other women in the county who wish to attend, and also to their husbands. Direct sale of tickets will be in the hands of the various precinct delegates to the state convention.

Tickets will be placed on sale this weekend.

$25 AWARD CLAIMED

Mrs. Mike McLaughlin, who picked up $25, was the lone winner of a Cash Gift Day award this Tuesday. The committee is boosting the prizes by a total of $50 next week, to make the 3:00 p.m. award $125 and add one more $25 prize at 2:00 p.m., making five to be drawn for at that time.

PLANNING COOKBOOK

Esther Circle of the WSCS of the Methodist church is planning pre-holiday publication of a cookbook and would like favorite recipes to include in it. All women in the Belmond area are cordially invited to submit recipes that are particularly popular with their families. These recipes should be turned in to Mrs. George Jenison. Deadline for inclusion in the book is Oct. 1.

Final Rites Held For Mrs. Wenzel

Funeral services were held a week ago Sunday afternoon at St. John American Lutheran church for Mrs. John Wenzel, who passed away very suddenly at her home on the preceding Thursday morning. Although she had been hospitalized with illness for three weeks last spring, she been released to return to her home at the end of that time and seemed to be making a satisfactory recovery.

Rev. R. J. Huck of Sheffield conducted the final rites and Fulton Funeral Home was in charge. Pallbearers were Fred Wessels, Harm Sandman, Philip Erdman, Bert Kalkwarf, Clyde Jennings and Henry Halfwassen. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery.

Minnie Hammerich was born Jan. 18, 1890, at LaSalle, Ill., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Hammerich. She was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith at the place of her birth. The family later moved to DeKalb, Ill. There, on Feb. 21, 1912, she was wed to John Wenzel. One son was born to them.

In 1915 the Wenzels moved to a farm near Meservey which they operated until retirement in 1946, when they made their home in Belmond. During the years she lived in this vicinity, Mrs. Wenzel was a faithful member of the St. John church and active in the Ladies Aid society.

Besides her husband and [illegible] El[illegible]mer of Belmond, [illegible] survived by four [illegible] grandchil[illegible] three sisters—Mrs. Augusta G[illegible] of Idaho, Mrs. Louise Nachtig[illegible] Phoenix, Ariz., and Mrs. [illegible] Wickstrom of DeKalb, Ill.; [illegible] brothers—Herman of De[illegible] liam of Sycamore, Ill., [illegible] [illegible] Ill., and Otto of [illegible]

Donor's Forebears Among This Area's Earliest Settlers

Belmond Community hospital has received a gift of $10 000 from Robert W. Rowen of Oakland, Calif., grandson of one of the Belmond area's earliest settlers, whose name also was Robert Rowen. The bequest, which was unsolicited, has been made to establish a memorial in the names of his mother, Sara Rowen Purdy, and half-sister, Miss Rena Purdy.

Since Mr. Rowen initiated correspondence with Dr. S. P. Leinbach in regard to the gift, back in July, the hospital board of trustees has been studying purposes to which the funds could appropriately be devoted. Mr. Rowen made it clear that the money should be expended upon some improvement or new equipment which would be beyond the means of the hospital's own budget.

Memorial Choices Studied

No decision has been reached as to the form that the memorial shall take, though several possibilities are under consideration. Major among them are purchase of air-conditioning units to make the individual patients' rooms more comfortable in the summertime or use of the grant to finance construction of a small multi-purpose room that would fufill a variety of needs.

This room, which could be built as an addition on the east end, would serve the joint purpose of a chapel for family groups and a meeting room for the hospital staff. It might also include several tiers of built-in cupboards to provide badly needed additional storage and filing space.

Mr. Rowen, now 85 years old, left Belmond at about the age 20; but he has always held a warm spot in his heart for "the primitive village where I spent a happy boyhood, in spite of poverty and environments." He has for the past 20 years been a manufacturers' agent in the line of hardware specialties. He is still actively engaged in business, but contemplates retirement in the near future.

Doctor Leinbach was informed by Mr. Rowen that he had made provision in his will for a $10.000 bequest to the hospital, but that circumstances had developed which made evident that an immediate gift would be more practical. The source of the memorial funds is a story in itself, almost as dramatic as the unexpected generosity of a long-departed native son to the community of his birth.

Stock Provides Funds

Today's "atomic age" plays a key role in the decision of Mr. Rowen to "pre-pay" the intended bequest by will. Many years ago, the California donor invested in the stock of a chemical company. Some of the purchases were made as long as 30 years ago; and all was acquired at very modest cost.

With the passing years, the stock increased appreciably in value. Mr. Rowen saw it would be advantageous to his estate to give some of the stock to the hospital now, thereby avoiding the heavy, capital gains tax that would in due time have to be paid on the large increment in market value. The firm's manufacture in recent years of such rare earth chemicals as Thorium and Cerium, used in atomic procedures, had brought about the stock's steadily rising popularity.

Value of Stock Zoomed

When Mr. Rowen opened correspondence regarding his gift, on July 20, the company's stock was selling in Chicago at $170. But a decision of the company officials to split the stock on a five-shares-for-one basis coincided with Mr. Rowen's decision to transfer 50 shares of his holdings to the hospital. Market value of the stock promptly sky-rocketed. As a result, the stock—instead of bringing approximately $7,500, as Mr. Rowen had originally expected—brought $9,759 when it was disposed of in two different blocks last month.

Mr. Rowen had indicated that he would forward a personal check for what balance was required to bring the amount netted from the stock proceeds up to the designated total of $10.000. Not only did this sum turn out to be only a modest $240, but the hospital trustees returned to the donor a current dividend on the stock that was payable on the shares prior to the time of their sale.

Dedication Planned

When the form of the proposed memorial has been agreed upon, and the purpose of the bequest duly achieved, it is planned by the board of trustees that an appropriate dedication ceremony shall be held. It is the fond hope of Mr. Rowen that circumstances may permit him to return to Belmond at that time. Miss Purdy has lately been critically ill and Mrs. Rowen, too, has been in poor health, so he is uncertain at this time whether it will be possible.

Californian's Kin Came to Wright Back in 1854

Upon request, Robert W. Rowen sent to Dr. S. P. Leinbach the following autobiographical material regarding his family and their coming to this vicinity.

One hundred years ago, in 1854, Robert Rowen, my grandfather, came to Wright county, filed claim for homestead land and preempted more in and adjacent to Horse Grove, about 10 miles south of Belmond on the Iowa river. He built a log cabin, to which he brought his family—a wife and four sons—in 1855. They had come overland from Connecticut as far as Cedar Falls, and could go no farther until a place to live was provided.

Robert Rowen was born in Coleraine, near the north tip of Ireland, was apprenticed and learned the trade of carpet weaver in the city of Belfast. He emigrated as a young man to America, coming over in a sailing vessel which was three weeks in transit. He met Elizabeth Mullens from Armaugh, north Ireland. They were married in Connecticut and came to Iowa to provide opportunity for the four sons —John, Robert, Jr., William and Joseph.

My mother's family, the Nathaniel Niles Hiams, came to Iowa a short time after the Rowens and settled on a farm at the south end of Horse Grove. There were three girls and two boys. The men were wood workers, mill wrights, from Troy, N.Y. The boys set up a saw mill and built a frame house for Robert Rowen, sawing the lumber from native trees in Horse Grove. The house still stands, much of it made from hard wood and the trim being black walnut.

All of the personnel of both families now lie in the cemeteries at Rowan and Belmond, except two sons—one from each family. Robert Rowen and Mortimer Hiams joined the company organized by Dr. Cutler at Belmond and marched away to fight for the Union and both gave their lives for their country.

My wife is also a Belmon[illegible] Allie J. Pond. She was born [illegible] Hickory Grove near Belmond [illegible] June 1, 1869, and is one month younger than myself. We played in the chips where we first went to school in the old, red schoolhouse in west Belmond. Her family moved away, but we met again at the World's Fair in Chicago [illegible] and were married in 18[illegible] [illegible] years ago.

Mr. Rowe interpolated a remark to the effect that "my father, William Rowen, was accidently drowned in the Iowa river on April [illegible] 1870, when I was but one year old. Four others were drowned at the same time."

Deepening the tragedy was the fact that each of the men was married and left a family behind. [illegible] Rowen adds that his mother [illegible] later remarried, wedding Will[illegible] Purdy.

Wright County Chapter of Polio Foundation Withdraws From Local Community Chest to Honor National Policy

Members of the Belmond Community Chest Council will meet Monday evening for the purpose of drafting the Chest budget for the coming year. Funds to fulfill the budget obligations will be raised in the course of the annual campaign scheduled for the latter part of October.

Mrs. James Barry, president of the Council, says that appropriations will in most cases duplicate those granted the affiliated agencies a year ago. There will be one or two major changes, however, she adds.

Polio Foundation "Out"

For one thing, the head of the Wright county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis—J. H. Pardun of Clarion —has informed the Chest Council that funds from the Chest cannot be accepted by the chapter this year. Iowa state headquarters of the foundation has announced that it will strictly adhere to national policy of the Infantile Paraylsis Foundation in rejecting money raised through Community Chests.

In the years since the Belmond Chest was established, it has been assuring the Wright chapter a minimum of $575 from this community. A donation of $450 has been made and a guaranted give[illegible] that if receipts from coin boxes [illegible] other sources did not total $75, [illegible] difference would be made up [illegible] the Chest.

Policy Prohibits Affiliation

In a letter to Matilda Skovli[illegible] Chest secretary, Mr. Pardun [illegible] knowledged that the Comm[illegible] Chest has always cooperated to [illegible] fullest extent with the Wright chapter of the polio foundation but the chapter chairman ad[illegible] "until the Foundation gives us [illegible] different ruling, we request [illegible] we be stricken from the Commun[illegible] ity Chest role. We do appreciate the past help that has been given us."

Mrs. Barry revealed that prelim[illegible] inary investigation has been la[illegible] ed to determine if it would be [illegible] sible to incorporate the [illegible] drive of the Belmond [illegible] the American Red Cross [illegible] Chest campaign. She noted [illegible] Eagle Grove has this year [illegible] ed the Red Cross among its Chest affiliates. Mrs. Barry hoped [illegible] Monday night to have som[illegible] crete information to pass on [illegible] Chest Council in regard to [illegible] ing a similar practice here.

Ten Polio Cases Added in Wright Within 2 Months

John H. Pardun, chairman of the Wright county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, reports that an abrupt up-swing in the incidence of new polio cases was experienced in the county during a two-month period ending Sept. 7. In that time, 10 cases were reported.

This sudden increase in cases made Wright county one of the relatively few in the state with rate of increase in excess of 20 per 100,000 per month.

Mr. Pardun also revealed that up to Aug. 17, a total of 437 new cases had been reported in Iowa during the current polio season; and that the next three weeks saw an average of 80 cases per week being added to the list.

Wright county cases reported between July 5 and Sept. 7 were from following communities: Eagle Grove, four; Clarion, two; Belmond, Goldfield, Dows and Renwick (residence in Wright county), one each.

The Wright county chapter of the polio foundation is anxious that the public should be well informed as to the work that the foundation is performing. To that end, talks will be arranged before groups that request of Mr. Pardun that a speaker be sent to address a meeting.

Trial of Sam Bell Began on Monday

Trial of Sam Bell on a charge of "resisting execution of a process" was opened in district court at Clarion on Monday of this week. Bell had pleaded not guilty in preliminary hearing and the case is being heard by jury, with Judge Harvey Uhlenhopp on the bench. County Attorney Ben Birdsall is the prosecutor, while Ralph Austin of Clarion and Carl Smedal of Ames are counsel for the defendent.

Impaneled on the jury that was drawn Monday were two Belmond women, Mrs. Clarence Kirkendall and Mrs. Don Nolan. Other jurors are Celia Stout, Vina Hall, George Vilmain, Joe Sebby, Rose Whitman, Edna Echelberger, Everett McCutcheon, Jonas Norem and Ruth Nail.

The charge against Bell grew out of a raid on his roadhouse, Hunter's Lodge, on Elm lake over a year ago, Aug. 27, 1953. At that time, a party of officers headed by Sheriff Bob Blecker confiscated some liquor and several items of gambling equipment. An altercation developed during the raid, with blows being exchanged between Bell, a customer or companion identified as Leonard Rasmussen of California, and the officers.

Sheriff Blecker spent a good deal of time in the witness chair on Tuesday. Smedal made it clear in his initial questioning that the defense will contend that the individuals present with Bell at the time of the raid were personal friends and that the assemblage was in the nature of a "family gathering."

Ron & Jean's Now McCormicks' Cafe

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. McCormick of Garner have leased the gas station and bus stop-cafe lately operated as Ron and Jean's by Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Purcell. The new lessees took possession last Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Purcell have moved to Hardy, where they are continuing in the cafe business.

The McCormicks will serve short orders, as did their predecessors; but they plan, in addition, to serve full-course dinners at noon. Mrs. McCormick will be in charge of the kitchen, with Mrs. Clarence Suntken and Mrs. Ed B[illegible]

Clinic Monday Offers "Gradesters" Chance to Launch on Band Career

Roland Brom, BHS band director, is urging all parents of children who have shown interest in learning to play an instrument to attend a band clinic that is to be held at the high school band room next Monday at 8:00 p. m. He says that 18 members of the present BHS band will graduate this spring, and he's anxious to find promising replacements who can develop into regular members of the organization.

Today (Thursday) at the band room, a representative from a Mason City music house has been demonstrating various instruments to children not at present in the junior or senior bands, and testing their aptitudes. The youngsters have, in this way, had an opportunity to determine what instruments appeal to them—and to decide what they would like to play, if given the opportunity.

Won't Conflict With Sports

Consequently, a good number of them will have concrete suggestions to offer their parents as to what would be an appropriate choice of instrument. Parents from throughout the Belmond Community School district are urged by Mr. Brom to take advantage of the opportunity Monday night's clinic will provide. He hopes to see Goodell and rural parents on hand, as well as those from Belm[illegible]

Mr. Brom says he's [illegible] if participation in band [illegible] with athletic competiti[illegible] assures it does not. He a[illegible] out that there is no ch[illegible] dividual lessons and th[illegible] are given during eight w[illegible] summer, as well as during [illegible] school year.

After displaying a very competent defense for close to three quarters of the game, Belmond's line developed a few serious holes during the final 10 minutes of the football opener with Hampton and the Broncs went down to defeat, 13-0. Offensively, Belmond had literally nothing to offer. The Broncos made one first down — by a matter of inches — and at no point in the game were able to generate the semblance of a scoring threat.

Belmond's own mistakes kept the losers in hot water throughout the first half, but a good defense in the clutch saved the day three times when the Bulldogs penetrated deep into touchdown territory. On the first series of Hampton plays the visitors advanced to the nine-yard line on a pass from Arland Waters to Ed Lanius that was good for 36 yards.

Hold on 4-Yard Line

But the Broncos tightened up at that point, and moments later they took the ball on the 19. A pass interception by Center Dennis Berk soon had Belmond in hot water again, though. He returned to the 24 and on the next play Waters rambled to the nine. Again the Broncos pushed the Bulldogs steadily backward, and four plays produced a minus 24 yards, giving Belmond possession on the 33.

Near the middle of the second stanza, Hampton threatened again after a Belmond fumble was recovered on the Broncs' 24. Duane Sherer picked up nine yards on two tries and then Durwood Thomas galloped 11 more to the four. Gene Nicholson threw Sherer for a short loss, Keith Madsen and Ron Hansen stopped Wayne Drever on the next play and then Lenius dropped a short pass on the goal line. Belmond took over when Hansen racked up Thomas on the final try.

Beavers, Madsen Hurt

Belmond stopped the Bulldogs once more, on the 21, as the half ended. As play resumed, a series of Hampton plays failed to make the required distance and Dwight Beavers suffered a leg injury on the ensuing punt. He was replaced during the balance of the game by Gary Ersland, who did surprisingly well on offense but showed need of more experience on the pivot's line-backing assignment.

After burly John Madson spilled Keith Madsen for a four-yard loss, Joe Smith rambled for 10, LeRoy Smith came within inches of making first down, and then Ron Steenblock achieved the Broncos' only first-and-10 of the evening on a plunge. An injury immediately afterward slowed Madsen up considerably and made it necessary for him to sit out several plays.

McNulty Intercepts

With Beavers and Madsen both sidelined, the Bronc defense seemed to lose its spark and Hampton got its first sustained drive underway. The Bulldogs reeled off 18 yards in three plays. Though Madsen returned to the field before the visitors' pay-off spurt came, the Bronc line continued to bog down. Perry Ersland made a nice stop on Thomas, but Sherer promptly went for 11 and then Waters slanted off his left tackle for 29 and a tally. His kick for point was not good.

Early in the final quarter, Tom McNulty squelched another Hampton drive at its start by the neat interception of a pass and Marlin Jenison followed with a nice 8-yard gain. Belmond was forced to kick, though, and Madsen got off the shortest of a series of poor punts—only four yards, to the Bronco 38. Six plays sufficed to give the Bulldogs their second counter and Waters made the kick for point good.

Must Develop Offense

The game made it thoroughly evident that the Broncos are going to have to develop a running attack in short order, if they're going anywhere this season. The shift to a new offensive formation that Coach Dick Hobbs has introduced may in part explain why the boys were having trouble; but poor blocking, insufficient drive and lack of timing was mainly responsible for Belmond's ineffectiveness. A total lack of any sort of passing game allowed Hampton to set up virtually an eight-man line against the Broncs, which further hampered the ball carriers.

SPORTS

—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS

With return of the fall and winter sports season, we're resuming "Shorts" again in order to have a place to relay on odd bits of sporting news that don't add up to a story but are nonetheless of interest. Of course, the CENTER of attention right now is those Broncos. Hard to tell for sure at this stage what Coach Dick Hobbs has produced—or is in the process of producing. BHS fans seem very confident, though, that they'll have more to cheer about than they last year.

—PSS—

As college and university grid rosters have been gaining space on the sports pages in the past few weeks, the near absence of North Iowa conference ex-stars has been noticeable and a bit perplexing. About the only two who have created much of a stir are Eldean Matheson, Iowa halfback, and Ron Bredeson, Iowa State guard. Both of them from Lake Mills! It does seem that the NIC should produce more collegiate material than the facts seem to indicate.

—PSS—

Rick Koolbeck might have developed into a good gridiron prospect at Iowa State, but he's got his eye on a career in organized baseball and doesn't want to risk injuries, so we hear. Wilbur Daniels saw considerable duty as a tackle on the Central college eleven last fall until sidelined by a leg injury. And we'll bet that if the St. Olaf college football mentor knew what a classy end was on the campus in the person of Odean Severseike, the latter wouldn't be "sitting out" the football season up there at Northfield.

—PSS—

Word that the Broncos promise to be a much stronger outfit this year than last seems to be making the rounds. In the Clarion Monitor "Sportlight" column last week, the writer observed that BHS has a squad of 60 drilling this fall and adds, "That figure should carry a warning to the Cowboys when they meet the Broncs Oct. 22. The Broncs are loaded!" . . . Here's hoping the boys manage a satisfactory "explosion" at the county seat when the time arrives.

—PSS—

Starting this weekend, Coach Hobbs plans to spend each Saturday morning for the balance of the season devoting attention to the small fry who'll be Broncos five years or so from now. He's issued a call for all boys in 4th through 6th grades who have hopes of wearing the Purple and White in years to come—and he's anticipating an immense turn-out. A show of hands in gym classes indicates they're practically ALL determined to be Bronco stars when their day comes.

Dick will hold practices from 9:00 to 11:00 a. m. And he hopes the end result will be a bunch of boys well grounded in gridiron fundamentals by the time they arrive at varsity age.

It will be a strictly "touch football" proposition. No tackling. He's ordering dummies, so the boys can get in some training at blocking. They'll also learn plays, the requirements of various positions and all the background knowledge required to make a competent football player. Hobbs introduced practice at grade level when he was down at Sigourney and says it was really paying off before he left. He sees no reason why it shouldn't do the same here. . . . Be on hand, kids!

—PSS—

For the benefit of the punks who swiped the Summer Recreation program's archery equipment, we wish to call attention to the fact that hunting deer with bow and arrow will be permissable in the neighboring counties of Hancock, Kossuth, Winnebago and Worth this coming Dec. 10-11-12. The fact that bows must be 40-lb. pull or more — and those stolen from Director Dick Hobbs' car were lighter than that — shouldn't deter the thiefs.

It's a dead cinch that if the culprits were local, they haven't been getting much use out of the archery gear. One could operate a crap table at the First State bak corner without attractng much more attention than by indulging in bow-and-arrow practice, with equipment unbacked by bill of sale. Dick's STILL indignant.

Incidentally, legitimate nimrods will be permitted to pursue deer with shotgun on those same dates and in the same counties — along with 48 others, farther afield. Wright will be closed territory. Either does or bucks, of any age, will be fair game during the brief season. If more than 5,000 licenses are applied for, a drawing will determine who gets 'em. Kick in that $15 now, gents, and avoid the rush. Of course, pork chops would be SURER.

Britt Next Bronc Foe; Game There Tomorrow Night

GAMES FRIDAY NIGHT

Belmond at Britt
Lake Mills at Buffalo Center
Garner at Northwood

Every North Iowa conference football team except Belmond and Garner managed to break the scoring ice in their season's openers last Friday night—and five of the NIC elevens racked up victories. Results of these initial starts made it doubly apparent, in face of Belmond's ineffective offense, that the Broncs are going to have to develop some method of advancing the ball or face a rocky road when the conference campaign gets under way.

Tomorrow night the Broncos travel to Britt. Coach Omar Ray has only three lettermen back this season and a squad that about hits the two-dozen mark. But the Eagles managed to poke one counter over against Clarion as they lost to the Cowboys, 25 to 7.

While Garner, like Belmond, was whitewashed as the Cards made their debut against the powerful Eagle Grove team, the Eagles were able to sneak out only a 7-0 victory. The Eagles are regarded as likeliest contenders for the North Central conference title.

Northwood, after a winless record in eight starts last year, opened Friday with a 13-7 decision over St. Ansgar. Big Norris Julson blocked a punt in the final quarter to get the job done. Forest City got off on the right foot with a 13-7 conquest of Clear Lake, Doug Glime and Tom Bertleson starring.

Lake Mills managed a 7-6 win over Manly, Dennis Madson accounting for the TD on a 15-yard end sweep and Ron Hill kicking the important extra point. Buffalo Center had a joyride in its starter with Frost, Minn., winning 28-0. Larry Yahnke and Jerry Gerdis, whom Bronco fans should remember from last year, were key cogs for the winners along with Kenny Haber.

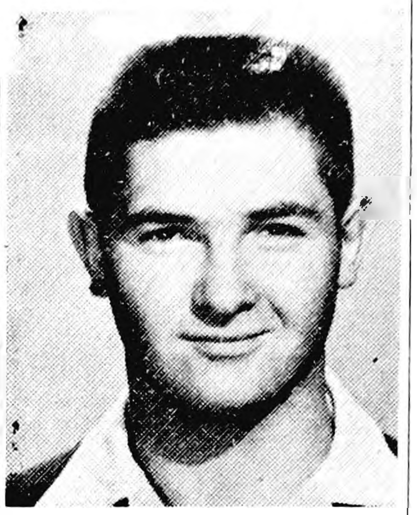
PERRY ERSLAND GETS NOD OVER STEENBLOCK AS PLAYER-OF-WEEK

Ordinarily it's the offensive stars who grab the limelight on the football field—and last season The Independent's Player-of-the-Week choices reflected this normal state of affairs. Five times in eight games, it was a backfield man who got the glory. But as the selections are resumed this week, after the Broncos' opener with Hampton, a great dearth of backfield candidates characterized the field from which the choice obviously had to be made.

There was unanimous agreement among members of the selection board that this week's star would come from the Belmond line, which committed itself so well during much of the game Friday night. Opinion was almost equally unanimous that the nod should go to Perry Ersland, the big, 205-lb., right tackle, but by only a narrow margin over Ron Steenblock, who was a bearcat on defense throughout the fray.



PERRY ERSLAND

Rough, Tough Bronco Tackle

Ersland played capably on offense and was a real stand-out defensively. He was an important sparkplug in the line throughout the game, not only maintaining a full head of steam himself, but effectively urging his team mates on to more determined efforts. He showed every sign of developing the potentialities the coaches have seen in him, all along.

Steenblock was vicious on his tackles and spilled opposing ball-carriers for several sizeable losses. Ron Hansen was a bulwark on defense, too, as a center line-backer. Gene Nicholson, playing his first game of varsity ball, exhibited a good deal of promise. And Tom McNulty, the husky freshman back, did a most commendable job in his debut as a Bronco. Others on the team did very well on occasions, but lacked the consistency to get serious consideration for "Player" honors.

Links Finalists To Meet Sunday

Barring interference by the weatherman, finals in the championship flights of both the men's and women's golf tournaments at Clarmond Country club will be played this coming Sunday afternoon. Title contenders in the men's tourney were determined by matches played last week, whereas earlier matches had paired Mary Gordon of Belmond and Jean Mueller of Clarion in the women's title round.

This may be an all-Gordon year, as Fred Gordon will be opposing Lyle McConaughey of Clarion for the men's crown. Gordon eliminated Bob Dunker of Clarion, 5 and 4, while McConaughey turned back his fellow-townsman from Clarion, Frank Middleton, 4 and 3 in the semi-finals.

Cy Handfeldt joined the ranks of the flight winners by [illegible] Leon Rood in the finals of the [illegible] flight. Both are from Dows. [illegible] one men's flight is still [illegible] Leo Hilton, Sr., of Clarion and Fred Hole of Kanawha are paired in the finals of the second flight.

All the lower flights in the women's tournament have been finished. Jane Middleton of Clarion defeated Gladys Tyrrell of Belmond to win the first flight and Marjorie Mishler of Clarion took the third with a decision over Elsie Pitcher of Belmond.

TWO GAMES TUESDAY

Belmond football fans will be permitted a peek into the future next Tuesday evening when the Broncos of tomorrow are slated for a couple of games, here, with Britt the opposition. The junior high eleven will play at 6:30 p.m. and a freshman-sophomore game will follow at about 8:00 o'clock.

CHICK CHATS

THOSE CRAWLY THINGS

I can't write or think about mites and lice without feeling them—even if there aren't any for miles around. I've been in chickens houses absolutely loaded with lice and I've really felt 'em then. Man, what a miserable feeling! And I'll bet most chicken raisers feel the same way.

But think of how the chicken feels. She can't take a bath and get rid of 'em. She's trapped in the house. She's supposed to eat, drink, sleep and lay eggs. She can't do a good job of any of those things with those crawly creatures all over her.

Mites and lice will cause drops in production. Keep checking around the head, the vent, all feathers and under the roost poles. Here's what to do if you find the little stinkers.

Body lice are very common. If you find some, paint the roosts with nicotine sulphate or benzene hexachloride. And if you are like me and can't pronounce the names, ask your supply dealer for something to get rid of body lice. Apply the stuff about an hour before roosting time with an oil can. The fumes will rise and take care of the lice on the roosting birds. And if you don't have roosts, dust the birds with sodium fluoride, whatever that is. All I know is that it does a good job.

If you find head lice, treat the birds with a mixture of blue ointment and lard (1 part to 3). That is, if the lice are on the chickens' heads—not yours.

There are two kinds of mites—feather mites and roost mites. Feather mites live on the feathers as you could easily guess. For them, use nicotine sulphate on the roosts for awhile. You can tell a mite is a mite if he (or she) is very small, round-bodied and either red or nearly black.

Roost mites are the little creatures that live in cracks on the roosts during the day and come out to feed on the chickens at night. The way to get rid of 'em is to spray the cracks with coal tar or used crank-case oil. Once a year when the house is empty, paint the roosts and nests with carbolineum.

Oh, by the way, when you treat for lice and mites, make sure that there's some fresh air coming into the house. Other wise you'll kill the layers along with the bugs. And that seems a bit drastic to me.

I'm sure glad I'm done with this column. [illegible] I'll go take a bath right a[illegible]

Rock Island

is the Lengthened Shadow of Many Men

R OCK ISLAND, though directly serving 14 mid-continent states, is as much a local business as your corner drug store or your favorite food market.

O N EVERY side you see evidence of the essential part this railroad plays in the life of your community and its importance to your well being.

C OMMITTED to the task of providing efficient transportation, it brings you food, clothing, wearing apparel, building materials—everything to make life more livable.

K EEPING busy serving others has compensated us in many, many ways. Not the least of these are the friends we have made—there are thousands of them.

I T IS frequently said that a business is the lengthened shadow of one man. This is hardly true of the Rock Island. It is the lengthened shadow of many men.

S OME were engineers, some surveyors, others were car builders, track layers, or what have you. Most of them were conscientious, service-minded persons.

L IVE AND LET LIVE was their motto. They believed, just as their successors do, that free enterprise is an American heritage—something to keep and to cherish.

A ND they believed, too, that really good service depends not only on an experienced, willing personnel, but also on modern equipment and up-to-date rolling stock.

N EVER, may we add, has the Rock Island been in the position it is today for providing a freight hauling service that satisfies the most finicky.

D IRECT your shipments, therefore, over Rock Island rails whenever you can . . . and know what it means to have a shipping service a bit better than you'd expect!

J. Duea Promises Big Day at Calara Farm on Sept. 23

Leading hog specialists in Iowa will be taking an active part in the Swine Day to be held on Thursday of next week at Calara Farm, a mile west and a mile north of Thornton. Included on the program will be swine experts from the college, packer and purebred breeder fields. The event is co-sponsored by Calara Farm—of which Joe Duea is operator, the United Duroc Record association of Peoria, Ill., the Iowa Duroc Breeders association and the Iowa Swine Producers association.

The day will be packed-full of educational features of interest to the entire family of every swine raiser, promises Mr. Duea, who farmed near Belmond before taking over management of Calara Farm several ago. The program will include a type conference and judging contest as well as talks by hog specialists on various phases of the hog industry.

Much of the morning session will be devoted to the type conference and judging contest which will include four classes of animals. The classes will be placed by the type committee headed by Clarence Bundy, Vocational Agriculture Department, Iowa State college.

Some of the Calara Farm's breeding animals will be shown, and then a discussion of them will be led by Don Washburn, public relations director for the United Duroc Record association and chairman of this Swine Day.

All purebred and commercial hog producers are invited to attend this Duroc Swine Day. The event will be held rain or shine.

Pvt. Dwight Whelan of Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., spent the weekend in the parental Tom Whelan home.

Fines of $1,700 For School Funds

School funds profited to the extent of $1,700 as Judge Harvey Uhlenhopp opened the September term of district court at Clarion last week with the hearing of five OMVI cases. That was the total of fines paid by the defendants.

Pleading guilty to operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated were: Knute Jacobson, Clarion; Hans Windfeldt, St. Peter, Minn., Alfred Anderson, Renwick; William Schroder, Galt; and Thomas L. Arne, Eagle Grove. All were assessed fines of $300 except Jacobson, for whom it was a second drunken-driving offense. He paid $500.

Judge Uhlenhopp also heard Patricia Johnson of Eagle Grove on a charge of forgery. She pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months in the county jail the term actually to be served in the women's reformatory at Rockwell. However, the sentence was suspended on good behaviour with the provision that restitution be made on the forged checks within six months.

C-of-C Members Express Approval Of Reorganization

Wednesday evening of last week, at a gathering of some 30 members of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce held at the city hall, it was agreed to reorganize the Chamber into four, semi-independent bureaus. The change had been proposed by President Chet Hiddleston and the board of directors, on recommendation of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

All business establishments in Belmond will be assigned to one or another of the bureaus, with the exception of The Independent. It will be active in both the Retail Trade and the Civic bureaus. The other two are Industrial and Manufacturing, and Agriculture.

All businesses currently belonging to the Chamber have been informed as to what category they fit into; and as the new bureaus take steps to organize for the year, a concerted drive will be conducted to bring non-member firms into active participation in the Chamber.

Retail Trade Biggesr

Mr. Hiddleston has released the following list of tentative bureau assignments, showing names of business firms and professional people who have belonged to the Chamber during the past year: Retail Trade—Coast to Coast store, Thompsen Clothing, Woodward's, Behrends Shoe store, Nolan Drug, Waddington's, Adams Pharmacy, Belmond Publishing company.

Tip Top grocery, P&G grocery, Hildman's (was Infelt's) Variety, Mello Maid, Elliott's Hardware, By-Lo Food market, Belmond Bakery, Jacobson's Furniture, Gamble store, Belmond Greenhouse, Western Auto store, Style Shop, Brady's Appliance, Dougherty Jewelry, Alderson's cafe, Kessler's, New Belmond theatre, Jim's Paint store.

Civic—General Mills, Iowa Electric Light and Power, Central Telephone, Belmond Publishing company, Dr. A. M. Nelson, Rodney Urdahl, Belmond Community hospital, First State bank, Fulton home, O. T. Jacobson, Roy Henderson, Steele Memorial clinic.

Dr. A. M. Larson, Loats Insurance agency, Drs. Classick and Misner, A. C. Hanson agency, Neil Flanagan, Don A. Faris, Bowl-Mor Lanes, Dr. Paul Rietz, R. W. Courson Agency, Clark McNeal, Dr. C.J. Neuman, C. C. Benson, John Greenlander.

Industrial and Manufacturing — Rock Island Ry., M. & St. L. Ry., Belmond Auto company, R. G. Packard, R. E. Porter, Kenneth Kinseth, Ray's Body shop, Mussell Chevrolet, Fred Madsen, E. H. Zook, Rowat-Murray, Spahn and Rose, Bill Meints, Al Mennenga, Kennedy Transfer, Chapman Service, Berns D-X station, Fullerton Lumber company.

Assignments Tentative

Agriculture — Farmer's Grain company, Christie & Larsen, A. J. Meints Produce, Thompson Hybrid Corn company, Elmer Johnson, Chris Wagner, Belmond Sales Pavilion, Hensel Brothers Produce, Helland & Long, Belmond Hatchery, J. E. Decker & Sons, Farmer's Implement store.

Mr. Hiddleston emphasizes that these assignments are only tentative and there may very well be some shifting around as the bureaus are set up. Every effort will be made to observe individual preferences.

Hotvet Asks Good Crowd for PTA

Walt Hotvet, president of the Parent-Teachers association of the Belmond Community school district, urges a good turn-out of parents for the year's opening meeting. It will be held at the auditorium next Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock and a major matter of business will be adoption of a new constitution and by-laws.

The new document provides for the PTA to operate as three, independent units: Goodell elementary, Belmond elementary and Belmond junior-senior high schools. They will hold a general meeting at the start of each school year and thereafter meet separately.

Another change involves a moderate increase in the family dues. The amount has been 75 cents but is to be changed to $1.25. A nickel in each case goes to the state organization and 20 cents to the National Council, leaving $1.00 for local purposes. Where family representation in more than one of the units is appropriate, the dollar will be divided.

Mr. Hotvet says that each of the units will be expected to arrange its own meeting schedule, plan its own programs and adopt its own projects. He plans that the two Belmond units shall undertake some sort of money-making venture during the school year to help provide funds for the summer recreation program.

Following next week's meeting, the junior-senior high school unit of the PTA will provide refreshments at the hot lunch room. Carol Richards and girls of her home economics department will assist in serving.

Farmall Dealers Will Show Wares

Helland and Long Implement company of Belmond and the Quaker Oats company of Alexander are jointly sponsoring a Farmall "power demonstration" on Tuesday of next week at the Joyce Boelman farm. These IHC dealers are anxious to give all farmers in this territory a chance to try for themselves, under field conditions, the various machines in the "Farmall family."

"PROCEEDINGS" ARE YOUR PRIVATE REPORT ON COUNTY AND CITY DOIN'S

We've wondered more than a few times, while preparing county board proceedings or city council proceedings for publication in The Independent, just how many of our readers actually take advantage of the opportunity they present to keep tab on their elected officials. These proceedings—along with annual budgets, financial statements and similar matter—are published for the benefit of the taxpayers, and at no inconsiderable cost. They are "the democratic way" of keeping the public informed on what's doing with the county and municipal governments. YOU should scan them with regularity. You're paying for the privilege of doing so.

Last week this newspaper carried the June proceedings of the county board of supervisors. We learned quite a few things as we read proof on the material, preparatory to publishing it. For example, we learned the the per diem and mileage claims of the various county supervisors for that month ranged from the $283.78 paid to Harland Hill to $178.81 paid to Carl Kelling. Our own John Greenlander drew $241.46. We also noted that 58 road laborers drew pay for construction work, while three others were reimbursed for road clearance (the number's considerably in excess of the crews maintained in some neighboring counties).

We recalled that Harlan Larson of Goldfield, ex-county attorney, not long ago was named to occupy the previously unfilled position of county parole officer—and noted that during the month he received $81.31 for fulfilling the duties therein entailed. Our eye was caught by the fact that allowances of the soldiers relief commission came to $1,586.88 for the month (and looked in the file to see what the amount was five years ago; it was $953.45). We also noticed that Secretary Don Champlin was paid $276.73 in salary and mileage for performing his work; and that Frank Champlin received $176.54, also for efforts turned in behalf of the commission.

Further, we learned that the primary election cost the county $3,112.29 in moneys paid to the judges and clerks who manned the polls and that, by precincts, election expense ran from $69.68 in Pleasant township to $128.25 in Clarion's Ward 2.

Granted, there's a lot of dull stuff in those proceedings. On the other hand, they are the one, greatest safeguard to honesty and efficiency in local government. In general, most of our county officials and employees are doing a pretty businesslike job of performing their duties. But would YOU know it, if they weren't? Not if you never cast an eye on those "proceedings."

CHAMBER REORGANIZATION OPENS UP NEW OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL MEMBERS

Whether or not the reorganization of Belmond's Chamber of Commerce—approved last week by its members —will achieve all that President Chet Hiddleston and the board of directors hope it will, only time will tell. A few dubious objectors fear that Belmond is too small for such a division of Chamber effort to be effective. On the other hand, most of the Chamber members apparently feel that the new plan is well worth a trial.

There is no question but what the Chamber, at least in recent years, has limited its efforts rather too exclusively to trade promotion. That is a vital phase of Chamber responsibility, and the point cannot be argued. But whether trade promotion should represent the be-all and end-all of Chamber effort is definitely a debatable point.

A vast majority of the Chamber membership has been inactive and indifferent because they had no direct stake in business-promotion projects. They've paid dues faithfully; but they've plainly felt that the Chamber offered no channels through which they could work toward pet objectives that THEY thought might benefit persons in their particular business or professionals fields—or the community as a whole.

Now, things should be different. If any particular types of business enterprise are NOT benefited by future Chamber activities, those feeling overlooked will have no one to blame but themselves. The Independent sees particularly promising potentialities in the Civic bureau. To be truthful, the Chamber has been rather short-sighted in late years where undertakings of a strictly civic nature were involved. All credit is due President Hiddleston and the current board for alerting the Chamber to is responsibilities in this direction.

There's no doubt but what the Retail Trade bureau will continue, effectively, to pursue the ends upon which the entire Chamber has been accustomed to dwell—trade promotion and good will. If the members of the Agricultural and Industrial bureaus sufficiently WANT the Chamber to be an effective instrument in their behalf, it's up to them to SEE that it is. The opportunities are there: the potentialities are there. A better Chamber than ever before can result from the reorganization, IF the members WILL it.

Rev. Emory Van Gerpen Discovers There's Fewer Bounces Per Mile If You Gallop, Instead of Trotting A Horse

(Below is continued the account of adventures recently experienced by Rev. Emory Van Gerpen, missionary to Northern Nigeria, in transporting his ailing wife from "bush country" to a distant community where she could obtain medical aid. First installment of Mr. Van Gerpen's letter told how two flooded rivers were crossed by the party. He had started back to his own mission station to leave his jeep, preparatory to rejoining his wife and the natives accompanying her.)

On the way back to Wagini (all alone now), I was going around a swamp when the wheels of the jeep slipped off the track because of the mud and rain, and into quicksand. The two right wheels of the jeep were in mud two feet deep, and the left wheels in about six inches. To add to the trouble, it was lightly raining, but in a nearby field were a couple of farmers to whom I called. I sent them immediately to their respective villages, asking them to come back with 10 men each.

Another man came along, and I gave him an axe and asked him to start cutting down a small palm tree close by, intending that we use a 15-foot section of the trunk as a lever on another log to jack up the front of the jeep and fill in under the wheels—then do likewise at the rear. Two more men came along and I pled with them to stay and help me, even promising them a ride into town (usually a great delight), but they stubbornly refused. They HAD to go to the prayer house to pray to Mohammed. No one's troubles could stop them from faithful obedience in prayer to the prophet.

Can't Drive on Air

The Africans' ingenuity isn't too high and the men (all 15 who came decided I should get in the car and they would lift up one side and I'd drive off. Their combined voice left me no alternative but to do it, and let them see it wouldn't work. They stood in the mud to their knees and, alas, did lift up the half of the jeep stuck in the mud; but now that the jeep was up, it couldn't get traction on the air to go ahead—not even with four-wheel drive!

They couldn't understand it. So, dismayed, they let it down into the mud again to think of another plan. My plan obviously wouldn't do. After minutes of debating—which seemed like hours—they went into the fields and took the equivalent of a large shock of corn stalks and spread them in front of the jeep and under the wheels and again lifted the car, easing it onto the cornstalks. With a hard push and much yelling, they shoved the jeep and we were out. Was I glad—after two hours lost in that hole! By three in the afternoon I was back in Wagini.

Chief Loans Him Horse

Immediately I went to the chief of Wagini and asked for the use of a horse, explaining to him the emergency of the situation. After a few minutes of useless squabbling, he agreed to let me have his second steed, a big black horse, half wild, and saddled with an African saddle—the farthest thing from comfort. Mounting, and with a pasteboard box of extra clothes from home, I started off.

The first half mile wasn't bad, it was a total of 20 to the place where I would meet Mrs. Van Gerpen. The horse walked slow—slower than a man on foot. If I put him on a trot, I was shaken to pieces, and so I decided to gallop him. At least, that way there would be fewer bounces to the mile and the end result wouldn't be so bad. Not being a horseman in the least, after two miles I was getting mighty sore in the lower regions, so I turned around for home. I doubted my ability to take 18 more.

More Troubles!

Time was wasting, walking the horse, so I again put him to a gallop—which added to my misery. A pair of bright red pajamas which I had put in the seat of my trousers for supposed added comfort came flying out and immediately someone tried to flag me down. Shortly, the box in my hand fell. I trying to catch it and stop the horse, I caused the saddle to slip. When the horse finally did stop, I was hugging his neck, one foot where the saddle used to be and the other halfway to the ground. It must have been a funny looking sight to those passing on the road!

Fortunately, just then an African friend—also on a horse—came along on his way home. He graciously offered to get mine straightened out while I held his. This was a time-saver. African saddles aren't much like American ones. Nearly into Wagini and again galloping the horse, I slowed him up for a swamp. The stirrups broke. They say that when it rains, it pours; and it certainly did that day! A high river, a stuck jeep and an unpleasant horse ride.

Off Again—by Jeep

I thanked the chief for his horse and decided less time would be wasted if I took the jeep back to the river and left it there. I put a strong metal trunk in the back, a chair and a couple of padlocks, some food, and was on the way again—a pleasant relief from the horse and a good deal faster. In town I picked up our former houseboy of a year ago and took him along to help me through the river and carry the box, food supply and water. It was now getting late in the afternoon.

(Third installment of Emory Van Gerpen's letter will appear next week.)

What Other Ed's Are Saying

Duke Norberg, Monroe County News of Albia, Bewails Kitchen's Loss of Prestige

I am not, by and large, resentful of change.

I do not think things are bad just because they are not as they once were. Most alterations are comforting milestones on the path of progress.

But if I were to find fault with the march of mankind toward the brave new world it would be in the kitchen.

The modern American kitchen—far too small and porcelained and chromed and cabineted from floor to ceiling — is better fitted for surgery than cookery.

It has convenience but no character . . . it has no sound and no smell . . . and, worst of all, no pantry attached.

It is the most orderly mess man has created

oOo

The primary reason too many American youngsters are growing up on the streets is that there's no room for them in the kitchen. A kitchen should not be a laboratory for the processing of vitamins and counting of calories — it should be a place for sitting and watching and hearing and smelling.

It should be rambling and inconvenient and a room where mothers get admiration as well as meals.

Our generation and the next would be far better off inheriting grandma's kitchen than grandpa's money.

oOo

For the good of life we need a pantry, long and dark, its air rich with the smell of spices . . . a pantry with shelf after shelf, eliminating the necessity of lifting three pans to get one, or moving four saucers to capture a plate.

For the good life we need a kitchen with more space and less step-saving, housing a big square table and comfortable sturdy chairs —and no chintz.

For the good life we should watch the top of a coal-burning stove turn red at mealtime, and pull down its oven door to warm our stockinged feet after coming in from the cold.

For the good life we need to hear cooking food gently bubble, not roar in a pressure cooker . . . hear the crunch of coffee beans in a hand-powered grinder, hear the splat of a hand against dough before it is dropped into the bread baking pan.

oOo

For the good life we should sit and watch tea become brewed in an earthen pot instead of being soaked from a sanitary bag, and wrinkle up our noses while freshly-made cottage cheese is being prepared.

If we loused up our lives it is probably because, in great measure, we have tightened up the kitchen and made it a corner of family living rather than the center.

We have chased our children away from the most interesting and informative spot in the home toward television and comic books, and have denied them the privilege of learning that mother's cooking is an act of love as well as duty.

We have gained time around the house, and lost the only worthwhile place in which to spend it.

The decline of the front porch was a hard blow, but it at least created more room on the lawn. The loss of grandma's kitchen is a moral, social and economic catastrophe — and there's nothing to show for it except a downstairs bathroom that someone is always in when you want it.

THE OLD TIMER

"You'll never get indigestion from swallowing your pride occasionally."

...AND I QUOTE

Sticking that quarterly payment in the post office slot, a disgruntled taxpayer observed, " 'Political economy' are two words that should be divorced on the grounds of incompatibility."

Says a Pleasant township old-timer, who's aged remarkably well: "If you laugh at your troubles, you'll never run out of something to laugh at."

Young father, staring over a couple of lovely lavender pouches, told us: "People who say they sleep like a baby apparently never had a baby."

"If you want to stay young," a mother with a couple of teen-agers tells us, "associate with young people. If you want to get old in a hurry, try to keep up with them."

A friend recently returned from a visit with hifalutin', city relatives reports, "There, if you don't have your own psychiatrist, people think you are crazy."

Sage remark of a fellow who should have been old enough to know better, but didn't prove to be —until the morning after: "Age seldom improves with whiskey!"

Nearly every day, another man-about-town learns, "There is nothing more dangerous to a bachelor than a jealous husband—or a single girl."

After innumerable attempts to contact a certain feminine party by phone, Ye Ed is convinced that woman's place is indubitably at home—and usually right next to the telephone!

With Community Chest time approaching, it's a good time to remember that it's better to GIVE than to receive—because it's deductible!

YOU CAN'T MATCH IT!

Only Mercury offers you such extra power, famous economy, advanced styling—higher resale value too!

For example, you get an entirely new 161-hp overhead valve V-8—not an underpowered straight 8 or an old-fashioned 6 still offered by some cars.

You get new ball-joint front wheel suspension for easier handling, smoother driving—exclusive with Mercury in its class.

You enjoy Mercury's famous economy, low upkeep. For this is one of the most efficient Mercurys ever built.

You get clean, fresh, flow-together styling—not ungainly bumps, bulges, and fancy chrome tricks that tend to "date" a car.

Now Is The Time to worm Sheep

Many a sheepman will tell you worms practically put him out of the sheep business, and if phenothiazine hadn't come along he wouldn't be raising sheep.

The first phenothiazine on the market in quantity was PTZ — the Dr. Hess brand. More PTZ is used than any other brand.

Now's the time for spring worming. Use either PTZ Pellets or PTZ Powder in a drench (mixes readily with water). Some sheepmen think Pellets are easier to give. Use PTZ as directed on the package.

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

The Cave in the Woods

When Em and I were cleaning the attic the other day I found an old yellowed newspaper with an item about Dutton's Cave.

Back in the 1840's Lorenzo Dutton discovered a cave in the woods near West Union. Picnickers had a great time walking back inside for about 300 feet to a nice little lake. But silt piled up and finally blocked the entrance.

Think of it. Just tiny specks of sand, but they made a barrier big enough to spoil the fun. It sort of reminds you of prejudices. Individually, prejudices may be small matters, but collectively they can interfere with the rightful pleasures of others, such as playing cards, dancing, or enjoying a temperate glass of beer.

Most Iowans are broad-minded folks. They may not agree with their neighbors on many matters — home design, for example, or vacation spots, or tastes in food and entertainment — but they respect the other fellow's right to his own choice.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our daughter and sister, Alyce, who died on Sept. 17, 1953:

A New Little Girl in Heaven

"Far down on the earth do you hear them weep?"
Said the children up in Heaven,
"For the dear little girl has gone to sleep;
The shadows fall and the night clouds sweep
O'er the earth we used to live in.
But we'll go and open the gates of pearl;
Oh, why do they weep for their
dear little girl?"
Said the children up in Heaven.

"Fly with her quick, O angels
dear,"
Said the children up in Heaven,
See—she is coming! Look there!
Look there
At th jasper light in her sunny hair
Where the veiling clouds are riven!
Ah-hush-hush-hush all the swift wings furl!
For the King Himself at the gates of pearl
Is taking her hand, dear, tired little girl,
And leading her into Heaven."

(from a poem in "Follow the Gleam" by Gladys Z. Brist.)

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

From Ben Carter, editor of the Forest City Summit, the Mainstreeters have received an "unsolicited testimonial" commending Maynard Johnston, recent purchaser of Boone's funeral home and ambulance service, as one swell fellow. "Chip," as he was known to his Forest City friends, plainly has Ben's unqualified endorsement. The FC scribe warns, though, that the newcomer should not be taken lightly on the golf course or he might take advantage of the situation.

"Chip" is not without certain Belmond connections. An older sister was on the BHS faculty long enough to catch herself a husband in the person of Duane Sandage, then "voc. ag." instructor. A younger sister was a candidate for the title of "Miss Iowa" this year.

Ben writes further that "Chip's" dad was for many years sheriff in the FC bailiwick and is still remembered as "the best sheriff Winnebago county ever had." His older brother, a highway patrolman, was the gent who shot it out with those Lakota bank robbers earlier this year. Of "our" Johnstons—Mr., Mrs. and daughter Nancy—Ben says, "Your town is getting a fine addition and we're sorry to see them leave."

—M-S—

Take note of the story elsewhere on this page concerning the death of one of the first graduates of BHS—Class of 1886. Two years later she married the superintendent. We can't decide which of the two distinctions gave Mrs. Grundy the greatest call to fame. There were four other members of that first graduating class; but we'll warrant she was the only BHS alumna who eventually married the superintendent!

—M-S—

The Mainstreeters never fully realized the joy that the general public derives out of giving; not until Garry Moore pulled the TV gag that inundated a Michigan couple with something like $6,000 in nickels. Due reflection has convinced us that we've been giving the readers of this column inadequate opportunity to "get happy." We wish to correct this unfortunate state of affairs.

Be it known to one and all that we stand ready to receive any and all nickels (we'll be big about it and accept dimes, quarters and halves, too) that are obstructing their present possessors' happiness.

Think of the gladsomeness it will bring you to tinkle a modest contribution into the recepticle that has been placed for your convennence in the office of The Independent! We're starting out with the lid off a typewritter-ribbon box. Speed the day when we shall have to replace it with a wash tub!

—M-S—

We're assured from Alexander that quite a number of that community's old-timers DO remember Sam Schumacher, the early-day livery stable proprietor mentioned in this column last week. He moved to Clear Lake around the turn of the century. He was an uncle of Grace Richards and of the late Orie Myers. Sam must have been a good sort. Though he and his wife were childless, when his wife's sister died, leaving a couple of tots, he took them into his home and raised them as his own. Nice that chance should recall to mind a fellow like that.

—M-S—

While chasing around the environs of Rowan last Sunday in search of the original Rowen homestead, Ye Ed got to conjecturing—as he has on more than one occasion in the past—as to how Row-En came to be altered into RowAn. The community was, without question, named after the Rowen family. Why, then, the changed in spelling? SOMEONE must know. How about it?

—M-S—

We've a couple of bits of correspondence we should get caught up on. One concerns a letter last week from Philip McBurney, Boynton Beach, Fla., regarding his father. "Doc" McBurney, who for so many years was a general practitioner in Belmond, has been living with his son the past several years. "Doc" is 'way behind in his letter-writing and wishes us to help him out.

Tuesday of last week, the good doctor reached his 85th birthday—and Philip writes that the occasion was by no means forgotten by "Doc's" many old friends. He's had a couple of sick spells since the first of the year and has continued in rather poor health. So he has asked the Mainstreeters to pass on to one and all his sincere appreciation for the remembrances he received.

We were also asked, some time ago, to pass on a word of thanks from the mother of the young chap from Seattle, Wash., who was involved in the five-car tangle on No. 69 last month. His mother wrote us that her son will never forget the excellent care he received at Belmond Community hospital nor the kindness he was shown during his enforced "visit" in our city So . . . "thanks," from Lyle J. Hoffman.

—M-S—

Mr. and Mrs. Harve Petersen had a well illustrated fish story to tell envious onlookers last Saturday morning when they parked their car in front of the Tip Top, opened the trunk lid and exhibited six monstrous Northerns. They were all caught in the general vicinity of the Petersen cabin on the shore of Lake Mille Lac in Minnesota.

One beauty, caught by Mrs. Petersen, weighed more than 20 pounds. Another one, which Harve boated, was a good 18. The other four were very respectable catches in the 12-to-14 pound range.

When Mrs. Petersen hooked her big one, Harve observed she didn't [illegible] excited. Apparently the [illegible] followed the boat until [illegible] says Mrs. P., and [illegible] its size. But [illegible] boat side, it [illegible]

Belmond Will Have Highway Post Office Service; Ceremonies Here Thursday to Mark Inauguration

Belmond post office will duly observe the inauguration of a new Highway Post Office service through Belmond with special ceremonies next Thursday afternoon at 3:10 when one of the HPO vehicles pays a preliminary visit here.

The Belmond post office is on one of two new HPO routes about to be opened in Iowa. This community will be on a route extending from Albert Lea, Minn., to Tama; the other route will extend from Austin, Minn., to Des Moines.

Iowa Has 11 HPO's

Postmaster J. C. Brady says that inauguration of the new routes will give Iowa a total of 11 HPO lines, more than any other state in the nation. He credits the untiring efforts of Edith Johnson, Des Moines postmistress, and other interested postmasters in the state for this improved service in Iowa.

Music by the BHS band will herald the arrival of the HPO truck to Belmond next week. The vehicle will make a 20 minute stop here, during which time brief remarks appropriate to the occasion will be offered by Henry Hokel mayor of the city; Chet Hiddleston, president of the Chamber of Commerce; and J. R. Gallagher, editor of The Independent.

Service Starts Oct. 1

The local greeting committee will be headed by Postmaster Brady, who has been invited to ride the HPO truck for some distance along the route as it makes its inaugural trip. Also aboard the vehicle will be G. L. Dewey, district superintendent of postal transportation service out of Des Moines, and a representative of the postal department from Washington, D. C.

An earlier stop will be made at Goodell about 2:45 p. m. When regular service of the HPO starts on Oct. 1, stops will be made at Goodell daily at 8:34 a. m., north and 4:48 p. m., south. Belmond stops are scheduled for 8:22 and 5:00 o'clock. The Garner-Belmond star route will be eliminated when the HPO service starts operation.

COMIC STAR OF FILM 'WESTERNS' COMING TO BELMOND ON OCT. 1

Smiley Burnette, America's No. 1 cowboy comic, who will appear Oct. 1 on the stage of the New Belmond theatre, claims to hold the record for number of personal appearances made. Recently a noted newspaper writer asked Smiley what his impression of audiences was after looking into hundreds of thousands of faces and watching them break into laughter.

Smiley had this to say, "I would like to write a book on it. Believe me it's fun. I have faced audiences that looked like a window full of fish and dared me to make them laugh. I took the dare and although a few have whipped me I have usually managed to win them over.

"I can do six different complete acts and quite often have to in a park where the people come and stay all day and don't care to listen to the same thing again.

"I do a special show just for kids where all the jokes are aimed to keep them roaring. Then for the adult shows I sharpen up and keep going until I get knee-slappers down the line. I really enjoy folks having a good time—so much so that even though I have told the same jokes over and over, I laugh because they do.

"Sometimes people get the impression that I have come to town to entertain just the kids. Believe me, I would rather entertain adults any time. Kids are not an easy audience. Ask any entertainer.

"I have a few gags I call my I.Q. gags. When I first face an audience I test them out to see what type of gags makes them laugh. Then I take off on that track."

Manager Ed Gentry says that Smiley is a top film favorite of local "western" fans, and he anticipates a packed house the night that the popular comic makes his appearance here.

SMILEY AND FRIEND

Thompsen Position To Henry Johnson

Henry "Hank" Johnson began work today as a sales clerk at Thompsen Clothing store. It is not an unfamiliar position to Mr. Johnson. He served in the same capacity at the store for nearly 4½ years when A. P. Thompsen was in active management of the business, prior to George Keleher's coming to Belmond to be manager of the store.

Mr. Keleher found himself in need of additional sales personnel when Ben Fetrow decided he wished to spend only part-time at clerking and the start of the football season made it possible for Dwight Beavers to work only on Saturdays.

Mr. Johnson has sold to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Patterson of Mason City the tavern he had been operating since leaving Thompsen's a couple of years ago. The Pattersons took possession the first of this month and the establishment is now known as Pat's Tavern.

Garms Purchasing Partner's Interest

An inventory reduction sale will be conducted Saturday at the Belmond Sales Pavilion by Farmers Implement, preparatory to purchase of sole ownership of the business by Robert Garms. The sale will start at 10:30 a. m. and continue into the afternoon. Ray Frye will be auctioneer.

Mr. Garms came to Belmond in early 1950 as a partner with Wayne Wesenberg in the implement business. Since the time of Mr. Wesenberg's death in September of that year, Mrs. Wesenberg has been an inactive partner in the firm. Exact date upon which the change in ownership will take place is still indefinite.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Mrs. Mildred Schultz underwent an emergency operation at Belmond Community hospital Tuesday evening. The surgery was completely successful and reports Wednesday morning indicated she is making a good recovery.

DIPPEL LEAVES FOR WEST

Marine Pvt. Duane Dippel, after completing basic training in San Diego, Calif., recently sepnt 17 days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dippel. He left Thursday of last week for Camp Pendleton, Calif., where he will undergo four weeks of advanced infantry training. He expects to be assigned to overseas duty before the end of the year.

M. C. Man Buyer Of Infelt's Store

Claire Hildman, lately of Mason City, on Wednesday of last week took over active management of the former Infelt's variety store, which will now be known as Hildman's. For a week prior, the store had been temporarily managed by the new owner's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hildman of Marengo.

In purchasing the 5c-to-$1.00 store, Mr. Hildman enters a business that is a familiar one to other members of his family. Ray owns a similar store at Marengo and another brother, Leo, operates a variety store at Colfax. Claire is no newcomer to merchandising, but heretofore has been in the management or ownership end—or both—in the grocery business.

Most recently, Mr. Hildman has been assistant manager of the Gamble-Robinson store at Mason City, for the past year and a half. For 12 years before this affiliation, he owned and operated a supermarket for 12 years at St. Paul, Minn. He is no stranger to Wright county; for four years he and his brother Ray operated an IGA store at Clarion. He's also been in the grocery business in Tama.

Mr. Hildman is married and has two children. He has a daughter, Sandra Clare, who is 13 years old, and a son, Tommy, age five. His family will continue to live in Mason City through the current month but will move to Belmond on Oct. 1.

The Hildman's belong to the Catholic church and Mr. Hildman is a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Voters to Decide Upon Bond Issue

Particulars of the special issue to be voted on by Wright countians in the November election, in regard to building of a new county jail, have now been drafted by the county supervisors in the form that they will appear on the official ballot.

The voters will be asked to express their will on the issuance and sale of $68,000 in bonds to pay the cost of erecting the proposed jail, which would have appended to it new living quarters for the county sheriff.

Retirement of the bonds would be achieved by the levy of a tax on all property in the county, not to exceed three-tenths of a mill on each dollar of taxable value.

Log Cabin Home of Rowen Family at "Horse Grove" Still in Active Use as "Parlor" of Tenant House

Robert W. Rowen, whose munificent gift of $10,000 to Belmond Community hospital was announcel last week, mentioned in a letter to Dr. S. P. Leinbach last month that the original Rowen home at Horse Grove is still standing. Your editor's curiosity was aroused by this bit of information and Sunday afternoon we made a trip south of Rowan to see if we could find the old homestead.

Find it we did, though it has been altered considerably since the time it was built in 1854. Horse Grove is located just southwest of the town of Rowan and what remains of the century-old log cabin is now a part of a larger structure on the east side of a road that intersects the grove. The property is at present owned by Charles Rowen of Marshalltown, a cousin of the hospital's benefactor.

Parlor of Tenant House

Actually, the original log cabin now comprises the parlor of a tenant house. The hand-hewn, solid walnut doors still hang on their hinges and the window frames are [illegible] served as a fireplace has been covered over due to the chimney's popularity with swallows as a nesting place.

Several additions have been built onto the cabin and about 30 years ago, after a fire that caused quite a bit of damage, the entire exterior was sheathed in shingle siding. The age of the structure is revealed, though, by the tired sag of its roof and the crumbling of the old foundation stones. We hope this report may be of interest to Mr. Rowen, who is a regular subscriber to The Independent, as well as to other of our readers.

Early Tragedy Recalled

Another remark Mr. Rowen interjected in one of his letters touched on a major incident in Belmond's own history. It had to do with the death of William Rowen, Robert's father, and four other men in the Iowa river on April 9, 1870, when Robert was not quite a year old.

This will recall to students of Belmond history one of the most tragic episodes of the settlement's early days. Besides William Rowen's, the [illegible] Rowley of Horse Grove and S. F. Ainsley of Clarion were lost as the party ventured passage across the river in a boat that had been commonly used for that purpose.

In this instance, though, the embarkation point was apparently too close to the dangerous eddy at the foot of the dam and the boat was drawn into the whirlpool. As terror-stricken people ashore watched helplessly, the men in the boat battled futiley to keep their craft—which they propelled with a pole—from capsizing.

River Claimed Five Lives

A deep pool had been washed adjacent to the dam and they found themselves unable to manipulate the boat because the pole was too short. A writer of that day reported that William Rowen jumped from the boat, in a desperate effort to save himself, but he immediately sunk from sight. Soon afterward the boat submerged and the other four men disappeared.

That all of the men, [illegible] Rowen, had young [illegible]

Member of First BHS Graduating Class Succumbs

Belmond relatives and friends learned not long ago of the death last month of Mrs. Blanche Pritchard Grundy at Long Beach, Calif., who was a Belmond resident until she reached young womanhood.

Mrs. Grundy had the distinction of being a member of the first Belmond High school graduating class, in 1886. Mr. Grundy was superintendent of the Belmond schools at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Grundy moved from Belmond to Eagle Grove, where he was to serve as high school principal for over 15 years. He concluded his school teaching career in California, after being principal of North High in Des Moines for 10 years.

Adult Education Will Get Earlier Start This Year

An earlier starting time has been set for this year's Adult Education program, according to Mrs. Gerhard Thompson, president of the Adult Education Council. Whereas the courses have customarily started immediately after the first of the year, the 10-week series of classes for this winter will begin on Monday, Nov. 1. One of the courses, that in driver's training, will be started as soon as a sufficient number have signed up.

Driver's training will again be in the charge of Ed Bruner, BHS instructor in that subject. It is reasoned that a prompt start will permit the practice-driving phase of the course to be completed before snowy weather arrives. About nine students can be accomodated in this class.

Six Courses Planned

Enrollment in this and any of the other proposed classes can be arranged by phoning the school superintendent's office, 269. Six other courses are definitely planned, assuming sufficiently large registrations, and several others are still under consideration. Suggestions for additional courses will be welcomed by members of the Adult Education Council.

Now listed on the curriculum are: (1) agriculture, a regular fixture of the program, to be directed by Francis Kelly, vocational agriculture instructor; (2) business practices, featuring training in typing and operation of office machines, instructed by Bernice Rewitzer, commercial teacher.

"Calories Anonymous"

(3) Practical home nursing, Mrs. Robert Freshwaters in charge; (4) men's choral singing, directed by David Weltha, high school vocal music instructor; (5) driver training, described above.

(6) "Calories Anonymous," a course developed by the state department of health for regaining that school girl figure and youthful appearance. This will include instruction on diet, good grooming and exercise and will be supervised by Carol Richards, domestic science teacher.

Tuition of $3.00 is charged for each of the various courses and the Adult Education Council urges early enrollment. Suggestions for other courses may be made to any of the council members, including Mrs. Thompson. Others on the council are Mrs. Carol Miner, vice president; Mrs. William Sheriff, Sr., secretary; Mrs. Ira Studebaker, Jr., Don Bunnell, Ethel Brunes, Vernon Swenson and Mrs. Jim Cairns.

Theater Installing New Wide Screen

Manager Ed Gentry announces that a new, wide screen is to be installed at the New Belmond theater this week. It is his understanding that all feature attractions at the theater will hereafter be projected in large dimension, but that some of the short subjects will continue to be shown in the old size.

First film to be shown on the new screen will be a Dean Martin-Jerry Lewis feature, "Living It Up," this coming Sunday.

Mr. Gentry says the new screen measures 22x11 feet and will extend almost from wall to wall at the front of the stage. The previous screen was 10x14-2 in dimension.

Only one of the half-dozen Cash Gift Day awards that were drawn for this Tuesday found a claimant. That was a $25 prize and went to Mrs. Herman Riekens of Goodell. So there will be a total of $300 at stake [illegible] Cash Gift Day. Almost [illegible]

Walk-Out of All Construction Workers Brings Feed Plant Job to Stop Monday

All construction workmen engaged in building the new, General Mills feed plant here walked off the job Monday noon and at The Independent's press-time on Wednesday the work remained at a standstill.

Queries directed to some of the idle workmen by The Independent brought forth only the reply that it had been suggested to them that they "go fishing."

Mason City headquarters of the American Federation of Labor Building Trades union holds jurisdiction over workmen on the plant job. About 15 of the total crew of 43 were hired locally and the rest are from elsewhere than Belmond.

No particulars regarding the work stoppage were obtainable either from union representatives nor from Joe Flaspohler, construction superintendent for the contracting firm, Jones-Hettelsater Construction company of Kansas City.

Construction of the feed mill was started in early June. Exceptionally bad weather hampered progress on building of the storage bins, but they have now been largely completed and are entirely enclosed except for installation of doors and windows. The time schedule on the mill job has called for its completion some time after the first of the year.

Mrs. Eccles says that Belmond has always been generous in its support of the Poppy project; and she and her committee are confident this year's sale will enjoy the same ready support that's been enjoyed in the past.

Hung Jury Results In Sam Bell Case

Early last Friday morning, the jury impaneled to hear the case against Sam Bell was dismissed by Judge Harvey Uhlenhopp when the members had been unable to reach an agreement after nine hours of deliberation. The roadhouse proprietor was charged with "resisting execution of a process" as the outgrowth of a raid on Hunter's Lodge at Elm Lake in August of last year.

Drafting of the jury and hearing of witnesses occupied almost four days' time in district court at Clarion last week. Among exhibits entered as evidence by both sides in the case were photographs illustrating the effect of blows struck in the course of the raid.

Pictures of Bell showed him bloody from a cut inflicted when hit by a flashlight wielded by L. L. Speedling, Clarion chief of police. The prosecution presented photos showing the result of a punch that Bell had levelled at Chief Speedling.

According to the courthouse "grapevine," the vote of the jury had been eight for conviction and four for acquittal. The case went to jury at 4:00 p. m. Thursday and its members were dismissed at 1:00 a. m. Friday.

County Attorney Ben Birdsall informed The Independent on Tuesday of this week that he was still undecided whether he would request a re-trial of the case or dismiss the charges against Bell.

Two Old-Timers Involved in Crash

Two elderly men came a-cropper last Friday morning at the south intersection of Highways 3 and 69 adjacent to Greyhound station when vehicles they were driving collided.

Bert Roberts, 73, of St. Paul, Minn., was driving an affair that looked like a house built on a truck and Sam Bradley, 70, of Dows was at the wheel of a gravel truck owned by Toft Sand and Gravel Co.

Roberts, driving south, failed to stop at the stop sign and ran into Bradley's truck that was headed north into the west turn. Damage to the gravel truck was estimated at $475 and to Roberts' contraption, $200.

Hailed before Mayor Henry Jenkins at Clarion, Roberts was fined $5 and costs for failing to stop at the stop sign.

Rites Wednesday For Edwin Olson; Victim of Cancer

Funeral services for Edwin C. Olson were held Wednesday afternoon at Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. O. M. Severseike officiating. Mr. Olson would have been 34 years old on the day that his final rites were performed. He passed away at his home on Sunday, his death being caused by cancer.

Burial was in the National Bohemian cemetery at Owatonna, Minn., which was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olson before they purchased the Belmond bakery and moved here in October of 1945.

Started Young as Baker

Mr. Olson was born Sept. 23, 1920 at Ellendale, Minn., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Olson. He started learning the trade of baker as a youth of 13 in a bakery operated by an uncle and aunt at Northwood.

After completing his schooling, Mr. Olson worked in the bake shop of his relatives until 1943, when he went to Minneapolis and continued in his chosen trade for several months there. He then took a job with a bakery at Owatonna and it was while living in that Minnesota community that he was married, on April 15, 1945, to Eva Pichner.

Lived Here Nine Years

Just short of six months after their marriage, the Olsons moved to Belmond. Here, Mr. Olson was an active member of the Trinity Lutheran church, having been confirmed in the Lutheran faith in early childhood. During the past year he was secretary of the church Brotherhood.

Mr. Olson first discovered he was afflicted with cancer not quite a year ago. Surgery was resorted to at that time in hope of stemming spread of the disease. For a time it appeared the hope might have been realized, but this past July it became evident that the operation had been unable to prevent the cancer's spreading. Mr. Olson's health steadily declined, but even to the time of his death he was not completely invalided by the ailment.

Enjoyed Trip in July

He and Mrs. Olson were able to enjoy a long vacation trip by auto in July, into Canada and along the eastern coast, storing memories which Mrs. Olson treasures highly.

Besides his wife and parents, the deceased is survived by two children—Edwin, Jr., age six, and Barbara Ann, four; two brothers—Jim and Anton, both of Ellendale; and three sisters—Mary Ann Olson of Owatonna, Mrs. Merlyn Cole of Northwood and Mrs. Rex Medcalf of Baumheulder, Germany.

Church to Show Movie on Africa

Two free showings of a documentary film on Africa are scheduled at the Congregational church today (Thursday), to which the public is cordially invited. "The King's Man," an all-color movie, was very highly recommended to Rev. William Schorman by several missionary friends who are well acquainted with the locale.

This picture was filmed in Angola, a Portugese colony, where a nephew of Dr. S. P. Leinbach is serving as a medical missionary. Dr. Robert A. McGowan, his uncle reports, is only too sadly familiar with one scene which the film includes.

A steam locomotive is pictured pulling cars over an Angolan rail line. Last month a spark from one of the line's locomotives set fire to a load of personal belongings Doctor McGowan was transporting by auto to a new hospital station. The McGowans lost a quantity of household goods and personal apparel including some prized wedding gifts.

ME GET IN TROUBLE? I QUIT!

Sheriff Bob Blecker reports that a 21-year-old Hampton man was looking for a new job this week, after discovering that he'd been led into making misstatements about a product he was selling.

For 10 days, farmers from various parts of the county had been making inquiries of Extension Director Aaron Bowman regarding some rat poison they'd either purchased or which had been offered to them for sale.

They informed Mr. Bowman that the salesman told them [illegible] ice and the Commodity Credit Corporation. Mr. Bowman assured them that these agencies endorse no such products.

Monday morning the young salesman was apprehended by Blecker. The sheriff warned him he was inviting prosecution by misrepresenting his product. The salesman was both frightened, and indignant that his superiors had misled him with the sales spiel they'd instructed him to use.

He replied that HE [illegible] about to get into ANY [illegible] trouble. "Because," h[illegible]

Can YOU Explain Principle Making Neon Light Work?

Students enrolled at Belmond High school are among 80,000 in 449 of the state's school systems who are taking Iowa Tests of Education Development during the current month. The tests were administered here two days last week. Developed and administered through specialists at the State University of Iowa, the tests are designed to measure what the student can do with his education rather than just what facts he has acquired.

Main purposes of the testing program, according to E. F. Lindquist of SUI, director of the program, are to enable teachers to adapt instruction and guidance to each pupil's particular needs and to help administrators to uncover needs for curriculum revision.

Questions range from "How do neon lights operate?" or "What is meant by the system of checks and balances in the U. S. government?" to questions calling for interpretation of complicated reading passages.

Divided into nine units, the tests measure: (1) understanding of basic social concepts; (2) general background in natural sciences; (3) correctness and appropriatness of expression; (4) quantitative (mathematical) thinking; (5) interpretation of natural science reading material; (6) interpretation of social study reading materials; (7) interpretation of literature; (8) general vocabulary; and (9) use of information sources.

Goodbye:

Since we have sold our business in Belmond, we want to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for the fine business this community has given us during the years we have operated Infelt's Variety Store.

During that time, too, you made us a member of this community and the friendships, pleasant business relationships and good times we have had in Belmond will always remain as pleasant memories as we move to our new home and business at Independence, Iowa.

Although our acquaintance with the new owner, Mr. Claire Hildman, has been short we know you will like him and his family. He is an experienced retail businessman and we are certain you will enjoy shopping in Hildman's Variety Store.

GEORGE INFELT

Hello:

The dream of many years has been realized as we take over the ownership of the former Infelt Variety Store in Belmond. Already we have found this city to be a friendly community and [illegible] which to get acquainted.

We know we are on the spot in operating a good Variety store because the former owner has set a [illegible] precedent for us to follow. However, we, too, are determined to [illegible] the kind and quality of merchandise [illegible] of selection in every department.

Please accept our invitation to come in and get acquainted as soon as you can. We want you to make Hildman's Variety your store.

Sincerely,

CLAIRE HILDMAN

—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS

Football dopesters can have a field-day — and prove almost anything they want to — with the scrambled results of last weekend's play. Bronco fans will derive considerable satisfaction over that 7-0 win of Hampton's over Forest City. Particularly in view of the Indians' opening conquest of Clear Lake, 13-7, followed by the latter's 6-0 decision over Clarion last week.

What Manly's 18-6 whipping by Riceville indicates, after the Railroaders held Lake Mills 7-6 a week earlier, is anyone's guess.

Unless Humboldt is woefully weak, their 37-0 trouncing by Eagle Grove makes Garner's 7-0 defeat by the powerful Eagles look pretty good. Of course, comparisons mean nothing — but where's the gridiron follower who doesn't pay SOME attention to 'em?

—PSS—

Statistics are a little more pertinent. Although Clarion reserves played most of the second half when the Cowboys trimmed Britt week before last, the winners had a more impressive ground gaining record than Belmond posted against the Eagles.

Clarion gained a total of 299 yards to Belmond's 198. Britt picked up exactly 100 yards against the Bronc line and was held to 97 by Clarion, 28 of them coming during the Eagles' touchdown drive against the Cowboy subs.

But few Bronco followers are concerned about the Purple and White defense taking care of itself — unless faced with an effective passing attack. The boys' aerial defense has been something less than classy.

—PSS—

Several Britt letter-winners from last season, still in school, are voluntary spectators this fall because they couldn't — or wouldn't — get along with Coach Omar Ray. Hurtin' no one but themselves, we'd say. . . . Incidentally, the Eagles' young Dave Rasmuson, regular right half though only a prep, is as likely looking a first-year gridder as NIC circles have seen in some time. What a competitor!

—PSS—

Coach Hobbs' ultimatum following the Hampton game of "report for practice or turn in your suit" pared eight gridders off the Bronco roster. Several had pretty fair prospects —but you don't make a football player unless you WANT to play; and practice makes the man.

—PSS—

More than 50 boys turned out for the first peewee football practice session that Coach Hobbs conducted last Saturday morning at the school grounds. He says the 4th-to-6th graders are showing plenty of enthusiasm. He hopes that more from Goodell and from the country will find it possible to show up at later practices. This Saturday he'll have new blocking dummies on hand so the kids can get in some blocking drill. He confidently expects quite a few more to be on hand this week.

Belmond football fans took considerable encouragement Friday night in the progress shown by the BHS Broncos—which produced a 6-0 victory at Britt. Actually, the difference between the two teams was greater than the margin indicates. Until a slight defensive lapse in the closing three minutes permitted the Eagles their only 2 first-downs of the fray, the Purple and White line had held the losers to a net yardage of less than 30 yards while the Broncs accumulated nine 1st-and-10's.

Much of the improvement in the Belmond offense can be attributed to the unveiling of a passing game that kept the Eagle line spread out. With Bill Murray doing the tossing, the aerial attack showed great possibilities. Only seven of the 19 heaves were caught, but another half dozen might well have been completions — and three or four could possibly have produced touchdowns, had the receiver succeeded in gluing onto the slippery ball.

Britt Blocks Punt

Murray's blocking was not on a par with his aerial efforts. But if he improves in this department so he can also help the ground attack keep in gear, he could prove the key to an effective offense that Coach Dick Hobbs has been looking for. He placed the majority of his tosses accurately, and most of the time enjoyed reasonably good protection.

Britt made its only scoring threat early in the game, the Eagles' chance being produced by a blocked punt. Kicked from the Belmond 45, the ball bounded back to the 25. There an inexperienced Britt defender played deaf to Opportunity's knocking by falling on the free ball instead of picking it up and galloping. The determined Bronco line then allowed only four yards in as many plays and took over on the 21.

Richter, Rasmuson Star

Neither team penetrated into dangerous territory thereafter, prior to the intermission, but Belmond exhibited far the more power. The Broncs piled up a total of 106 yards in the first half to Britt's 47. Much of the credit for keeping the Broncos under control in the first two quarters was due to John Richter and Dave Rasmuson. Guard Richter pulled out of the line to do the punting and averaged 36 yards on three tries before halftime. Rasmusson, a 145-lb. freshman, was in on the punt block, intercepted a pass and was the Eagles' most dependable ball-carrier.

Keith Madsen's kickoff opening the second half was returned from the eight to the 25 by Phil Mikkelson and then Rasmuson reeled off a gain of eight yards. A 15-yard clipping penalty and a six-yard loss produced by Ron Steenblock unhinged the Eagle offensive, though, and Richter punted from the nine to the 40, Madsen returning to the 32. Belmond had to surrender the ball on downs, on the 24, but three plays later regained possession on the 30 when Dick Carson fumbled.

Bronc Drive Pays Off

At this point, the Broncs set forth on their touchdown drive. LeRoy Smith and Madsen shared honors as Belmond picked up 16 yards on five running plays that were interspersed with an unsuccessful pass and a five-yard, Britt penalty. With 1st-and-10 on the eight, Murray angled a nice pass to Harold Steenblock on the goal line which barely eluded the receiver. On the next try, Smith rambled around his own right end for the score. Murray slipped while attempting a pass for conversion and the count stayed at 6-0, Broncs' favor.

After the kickoff, Britt netted a minus 11 yards on three plays and Richter kicked from the 16 to Britt's 43. In the next four plays Belmond advanced to the 10 — a Murray-Smith pass and Murray-to-Ron Hansen forward followed by a lateral to Madsen accounting for the yardage.

Fumble Ends Threat

A fumble, recovered by the ever-present, young Rasmuson wrecked this scoring chance. After a couple of other Bronco drives fizzled, Britt took off from its own 36 and proceeded to Belmond's 40 before the Purple and White forward wall brought the advance to an abrupt halt. The game ended as Madsen uncorked a nice, 10-yard run that returned the ball to Britt territory.

Besides Richter and D. Rasmuson, the latter's brother Bob — at end — and Carson as line-backer performed particularly well for the green Britt team. Belmond's standouts will be reviewed in the Player-of-the-Week story.

Broncos to Play Northwood Here

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS

Belmond 6, Britt 0
Hampton 7, Forest City, 0
Lake Mills 12, Buffalo Center 0
Garner 25, Northwood 7
Clear Lake 6, Clarion 0

GAMES THIS WEEK

Northwood at Belmond
Britt at Forest City
Buffalo Center at Garner
Lake Mills at Nashua

Luck of the schedule continues to favor the Belmond Broncos this week, lining them up against the relatively weak Northwood Vikings in their second, North Iowa conference start. That the Vikings are fated once more to be a second division team was strongly suggested as they bowed to the Garner gridders last week 25 to 7. Northwood will play here, the game slated for 8:00 p. m. Friday.

Lake Mills stamped itself as a title contender by whipping Buffalo Center on the Bison gridiron, 12 to 0. Though probably not so strong as last year, the Bison eleven is by no means viewed as a push-over and the Bulldog win is significant. Forest City was left somewhat of a question mark when the Indians bowed to Hampton, 7-0; but they must certainly be regarded yet as one of the tougher NIC teams.

It must be remembered that the Indians trimmed Clear Lake 13-7 in their opener, while the Lions edged Clarion last Friday 6-0. Since Clarion tramped on Britt 25-7, there's a clear indication that the Broncos must keep on improving if they're going to figure in the battle for the loop championship.

Coach Dick Hobbs was better satisfied with the Broncs' showing at Britt, than with their debut against Hampton. But he still wants better blocking and harder charging in the backfield and more consistant play from some of the linemen. He contemplates using Ron Steenblock in the fullback slot against Northwood tomorrow to achieve more drive in the offense.

STEENBLOCK SLIGHT CHOICE OVER SCHMITZ FOR "PLAYER-OF-WEEK"

Edged Schmitz, Just Barely

Once again selection of the Bronco Player-of-the-Week was a touch-and-go proposition. Phil Schmitz, playing his first game of the season, was a demon on defense and highly competent in handling his offensive assignments. But Ron Steenblock gets the laurels this time, on the strength of two consecutive weeks of bang-up football.

"Roach" produced the longest gain of the evening when he galloped 23 yards on a reverse play, and his performance in the line on defense made his sector of the field strictly prohibited territory to the Eagle ball carriers. He dealt Britt a six-yard loss on one occasion and one of 11 on another.

Schmitz was also responsible for several Britt losses, and there wasn't a harder-hitting player on the field that this scrappy guard.

Perry Ersland, the first week's "Player" choice, again showed to advantage. Ron Hansen, Gene Nicholson and Kyle Mennenga were other Bronco defenders who had their moments of glory. In general, the entire line committed itself very commendably.

Keith Madsen, in the backfield, did himself proud both defensively and as a ball-toter and blocker. Bill Murray earned praise with his fine passing and might have been a "Player" candidate if he hadn't so frequently missed his blocking assignment on running plays. LeRoy Smith made a nice run on the touchdown play and several other times produced useful gains, but his running was rather shy on drive on other occasions.

Gordons Win Both Club Golf Crowns Sunday Afternoon

It was "Gordon Day" at Clarmond Country club Sunday as finals of both the men's and women's annual club championships were completed. Fred Gordon was a 4-2 victor over Lyle McConaughey of Clarion and Mary Gordon took the measure of Jean Mueller, Clarion, 5 and 4.

Play in the men's match was even through the first 10 holes. The Belmond star, with a 37 to his opponent's 38 on the first nine, was one-up at the turn; but McConaughey birdied the 10th to draw even. Fred came back with a birdie on No. 2 and won No. 3 when McConaughey had an out-of-bounds penalty.

After both men bogeyed No. 4, Gordon picked up birdies on No. 5 and 7 to clinch the title. Fred was one under par for the 16 holes in winning his fifth club championship.

Mrs. Gordon's victory over Mrs. Mueller gave her the women's crown for the fourth time. The Clarion club-swinger was not on her usual game, having played relatively little this season, and was never in contention. Putter trouble played a major role in leaving Mrs. Mueller four-down at the end of the first nine.

Mrs. Gordon sank a chip shot for a win on No. 7 of the first round and then gained a halve on No. 8 with another lengthy approach dead to the pin to build up an advantage that her opponent was never able to whittle away.

Wright Residents Due to Receive $90,250 in 1953 ACP Payments

Conservation practices having an estimated cost value of 20¼ million dollars were completed on 121,000 Iowa farms in 1953 under the direction of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation agency of the United State Department of Agriculture.

Of the total cost, $8,381,125 will be met with federal funds paid directly to participating farmers under the government's cost-sharing plan, officially known as the Agricultural Conservation Program or ACP, it was reported this week by Dwight M. Mayer, state ASC committee chairman. Nearly 63 per cent of all cropland in the state was operated last year by owners and operators participating in ACP, he stated.

156,000 Iowa Participants

A total of 156,000 landlords, partners and individual operators were involved in completing one or more of the 23 approved practices offered by ACP in Iowa in 1953, Meyer said, and more than half of them have already received their cost-sharing payments. Because some payments are divided by landlords, tenants and partners, the number of payees exceeds the number of participating farms.

In the state as a whole, cost-sharing for 1953 will average $69.27 per participating farm and $53.73 per payee. Participants have until Dec. 31, to file applications for payment of cost-sharing on 1953 practices.

1,361 Wright Forms

In Wright county, ACP practices were completed under the 1953 program on 1,361 farms, and owners and operators will receive a total of $90,252.22 in cost-sharing payments. Any who are eligible for 1953 ACP payments but have neglected to complete their applications should do so at once. Average earned payments for 1953 practices in Wright county amounted to $66.31 per farm and $41.84 per payee.

Besides conducting the regular agricultural conservation program, the state ASC agency last year completed the special restoration program offered owners and operators whose farms were damaged by the Missouri river flood of 1952. This project reached more than 1,000 farms in the [illegible] Iowa counties along the river, at a cost to the government of $746,153.

Public Interest Served

In [illegible] accomplishments of ACP in 1953, Chairman Meyer pointed out that the cost-sharing plan is based on the principle that the public has a vital interest in the protection and maintenance of the nation's soil and water resources. In recent years, he continued, increasing emphasis has been placed on the establishment of the enduring and more permanent types of practices on individual farms where such work would not be carried out to the extent needed without cost-sharing assistance.

This trend, the ASC official said, was continued in planning the 1954 Iowa program. As examples of steps to encourage enduring conservation practices, he cited such changes now in effect as additional requirements to get cost-sharing on use of limestone and commercial fertilizers and the elimination from cost-sharing eligibility of the recurring practice of plowing under of green manure.

'55 Allotment Boosted

Meyer declared these changes, as well as provisions for a closer check on work progress, were designed to maintain the quantity of most desired types of conservation even with a reduced allotment for carrying on the program this year. The ACP allotment to Iowa for 1954 was $7,762,000, or 619,000 under the actual cost-sharing commitments for 1953.

Iowa's ACP allotment for 1955 will be $8,972,000, or $1,210,000 greater than for the present year. The state chairman said the big increase was due to the possibility that farmers will face a big problem next year in the protection and improvement of land taken out out of the production of allotment crops.

Froshmores Beat Britt; Colts Lose

Belmond's junior high football team and freshman-sophomore eleven split a twin bill with Britt here Tuesday evening, the Colts losing by a 7-0 count and the froshmores chalking up a 6-0 victory.

Britt's junior high team scored in the first quarter and converted the extra point on a plunge to gain its winning margin. Although the Belmond aggregation had had only three days of practice, the boys showed real potentialities. They advanced once to the visitors' 18-yard line and on another occasion to the 12 but couldn't cover the crucial, final yards gainst their rugged foe.

Emphasis was on offense in the frosh-soph fray, but both teams either tightened up or breaks turned the tide when a goal line was threatened.

Belmond got in scoring position as the third quarter closed on a nice pass gain, Tom McNulty to Roland Jenison, and an end sweep by Jenison. With only a yard to go, McNulty punched the ball over on the first down of the final quarter. Play of the froshmores made Bronco fans' eyes sparkle with anticipation of their performances as varsity gridders in the next year or two.

Coach Bob Kratky says that a single game—freshman-sophomore—with Garner has been scheduled for the gridiron there next Tuesday evening. It will start at 7:00 p. m. barring later change.

Section 6. There has heretofore been established by Ordinance No. 87, adopted by the City of Belmond on November 13, 1951, just and equitable rates or charges for the use of and the service rendered by the Sewage Treatment Plant to be paid by the owner of each and every lot, parcel of real estate, or building that is connected with and uses the Sewage Treatment Plant, by or through any part of the sewage system of the City or that in any way uses or is served by said plant. So long as the bonds herein authorized to be issued are outstanding and unpaid the sewer rates or charges shall be sufficient in each year for the payment of the proper and reasonable expenses of operation, repair, replacement and maintenace of the sewage treatment plant and for the payment of the requirements of a sinking fund to meet the principal of and interest on said bonds and on any other Sewer Revenue Bonds which may be hereafter issued by the City.

In the event that the City or any department, agency or instrumentality thereof is or shall be the owner of any lot, parcel of real estate or building that is connected with and uses the Sewage Treatment Plant, by or through any part of the sewage system of the City, or that in any way uses or is served by said plant, the rates or charges provided for by said Ordinance shall be paid by the City from its corporate fund, or by such department, agency or instrumentality thereof. Any revenues collected from the City, or such department, agency or instrumentality thereof shall be used and accounted for in the same manner as any other revenues derived from the operation of the Sewage Treatment Plant.

Section 7. There is hereby created a special fund to be known as the "Sewage Treatment Plant Bond and Interest Sinking Fund" for the payment of the bonds herein authorized to be issued, and the interest thereon, and any other charges of said bonds, into which fund the City shall set aside and pay a sufficient amount of the net revenues (such net revenues being the gross revenues of the Sewage Treatment Plant remaining after the payment of the proper and reasonable expenses of operation, repair, replacements and maintenance of the Sewage Treatment Plant) of the Sewage Treatment Plant in each year to pay the interest on said bonds as it shall fall due, the principal of the bonds as it matures, and any other charges of said bonds; which required payments into the "Sewage Treatment Plant Bond and Interest Sinking Fund" shall constitute an exclusive first charge upon all the net revenues of the Sewage Treatment Plant. The "Sewage Treatment Plant Bond and Interest Sinking Fund" is hereby pledged to the payment of the principal and interest on said bonds.

The amount required herein shall be paid in substantially equal monthly payments, and in the event of an insufficiency thereof in any month, the deficiency shall be made up in the succeeding month or months.

Section 8. For the purpose of safeguarding the interest of any holder of said bonds, it is hereby provided:

(A) There shall also be paid into the "Sewage Treatment Plant Bond and Interest Sinking Fund" from the net revenues in excess of the amount required in Section 7 hereof of all net revenue until such time as there is in said fund an amount sufficient to meet the principal and interest payments on said bonds falling due on or before the next maturity date of said bonds and the principal and interest payments falling due thereon for two years thereafter. The purpose of such additional payment into the "Sewage Treatment Plant Bond and Interest Sinking Fund" shall be to provide a reserve to meet possible future deficiencies therein. No payment need be made in said sinking fund if the amount then contained therein is equal to the entire amount that is then or will thereafter become payable on all of said bonds and interest coupons then outstanding.

(B) The City shall maintain the Sewage Treatment Plant in good condition and operate the same in an efficient manner and at a reasonable cost. So long as any of the bonds herein authorized shall be outstanding, the City shall maintain insurance for the benefit of the bondholders on the insurable parts of the Sewage Treatment Plant of a kind and in an amount which normally would be carried by private companies engaged in a similar kind of business.

(C) Any holder or holders of twenty-five per cent, in aggregate principal amount of said bonds at the time then outstanding shall have the right at all reasonable times to inspect the sewage treatment plant and all records, accounts and data of the City relating thereto.

(D) The City shall cause a separate accounting system to be set up and maintained for the Sewage Treatment Plant, the same to be under the supervision of the City Clerk who shall keep proper books of records and accounts in which complete and correct entries shall be made of all transactions relating to said Plant. So long as any of the bonds herein authorized shall be outstanding, the City shall furnish the original purchaser thereof, and to any holder or holders of any of the bonds, at the written request of such holder or holders, not later than thirty days after the close of each six months' fiscal period, complete operating and income statements of said plant in reasonable detail covering such six months' period, and not later than sixty days after the close of each fiscal year, complete financial statements of the said plant covering such fiscal year and certified by independent auditors.

(E) While any of the bonds are outstanding, the City shall not issue any additional bonds payable from the revenues of the Sewage Treatment Plant unless the lien of such bonds on the revenues of the Sewage Treatment Plant is made junior and subordinate in all respects to the lien of the bonds authorized in this Ordinance. In no event, while any of said bonds are outstanding will the City mortgage or otherwise encumber the Sewage Treatment Plant or any part thereof, or sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any substantial portion of such Sewage Treatment Plant. These provisions shall inure to the benefit of and be enforceable by any holder of any of the bonds herein authorized.

Section 9. After the execution of the bonds herein authorized to be issued, as aforesaid, said bonds shall be delivered to the Treasurer of the City and shall be by him duly and properly registered in his office, and he shall thereupon deliver the same to the purchaser as determined by this Council.

Section 10. The provisions of this Ordinance shall constitute a contract by and between the City and the holders of the bonds herein authorized to be issued, and after the issuance of said bonds, or any of them, this Ordinance shall not be repealed or amended by the City in any respect which will adversely affect the holders of said bonds nor shall the City adopt any ordinance, by-laws, or resolutions which in any way adversely affects the rights of such holders so long as any of said bonds or the interest thereon remain unpaid.

Section 11. All ordinances, resolutions and by-laws, or any part thereof, of the City in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 12. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in full force from and after its passage, approval and publication in accordance with law.

PASSED AND APPROVED this 20th day of September, 1954.

ASC Office Manager Hanson Notes Support Loan Expense "Very Low"

While it is known that much of the corn produced in Wright county is marketed through livestock operations, O. J. Hanson, county ASC office manager, pointed out last week that the public in general probably does not realize the volume of corn placed under the commodity loan and price support program is as great as it is. For example, he noted, over 3,600,000 bushels of 1953 corn, representing a cash value of more than $5,595,000, were placed under the program.

Most of the loans made in Wright county under the commodity loan program, he added, were held by banks of the county. At the time the loans were called in, one Wright county bank held corn notes totaling in excess of a million dollars. Checks totaling over $4,100,000 were issued to the banks by the county ASC office in payment of loans still held by them on the maturity date, July 31.

Mr. Hanson stated that in relation to the total volume of price support loans made to farmers in the past seven years, losses to the government have been almost negligible. For example, in this county—with delivery of approximately 2,000,000 bushels of 1952 corn having a cash value of $3,080,000—only one shortage of approximately $200 remains unpaid. This sum represents only .0065 of one per cent of the total amount loaned.

Total price support loans for the past seven years were $2,100,000,000 for the nation as a whole, while losses are not expected to exceed $100,000, or a tiny fraction of one per cent.

Expense of conducting the CCC loan and purchase agreement program, including expenses connected with CCC grain storage structures, has been more than met by fees paid by producers taking advantagde of the price support program, Mr. Hanson observes.

Iowa Pays Own Way

In fact, he says, fees in Iowa have always been greater than the operational costs. Consequently, because this income goes into national funds, Iowa has actually assisted some of the weaker states in paying for the expense of the national crop loan program.

Statistics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture show that so far as price supports on "storable" commodities are concerned, from the start of the program to the present the government has actually profited by several million dollars over cost of storage structures and administrative expense of the support loan program. Losses have come from price supports on "perishable" commodities.

"All of the above statements are based on verifiable fiscal statements and reports of the department of agriculture," Mr. Hanson emphasized. "They should certainly serve to refute irresponsible statements to the effect that administrative costs of the ASC are high."

Studer-O'Connor Nuptial Rites Held at Kanawha on Sept. 12th

MRS. MALCOLM O'CONNOR

Miss Carolee Studer, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon J. Studer of Kanawha, and Pvt. James Malcolm O'Connor, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. O'Connor of Belmond, were married Sunday afternoon, Sept. 12, at 2:00 o'clock at the Methodist church in Kanawha. The Rev. D. D. Samuelson performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with fan shaped floral bouquets of fall flowers and lighted tapers in candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of white chiffon velvet, styled with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her finger tip veil of illusion was held in place by a lifted dutch cap of chantilly lace. She carried a white Bible and a bouquet of white rosebuds.

Mrs. Don L. Hoover of Des Moines, eldest sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor. She wore a street-length dress of aqua taffeta with matching headdress and carried a colonial bouquet of bronze mums and daisies.

Miss Carla Studer of Kanawha was her sister's bridemaid. She also wore aqua taffeta with matching accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow mums and daisies.

Michael O'Connor of Des Moines served his brother as best man. Allen Shabatz of Belmond was the bridegroom's attendant. The ushers were Gary Brothers, Ray Busick and Duane Dippel, who serves in the Marine Corps with the groom.

Mrs. Robert W. Smith, organist, played traditional wedding music. Mrs. Lyle Ruka as soloist, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The mother of the bride wore a yellow suit with brown accessories. The groom's mother wore a dress of cocoa brown with mint green accessories and a corsage of yellow mums.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony. Miss Viola Schroeder of Kanawha presided at the tea table on which the four tiered wedding cake was placed. It was beautifully decorated in aqua and yellow, the bride's chosen colors.

The bride was graduated with the class of 1954 from Kanawha high school and is attending Thompson School of Beauty Culture in Des Moines. The groom is a Belmond high school graduate and is at present serving in the Marine corps.

Following a wedding trip to the Black Hills, the bride will return to her studies in Des Moines and the groom will report to Camp Pendleton in California.

WOMEN VOTERS WILL HOLD TEA ON MONDAY AND TELL OF WORK

All women from Belmond and vicinity who are interested in in learning of the purposes and aims of the League of Women Voters are cordially invited to attend a tea being sponsored by the League on Monday of next week at 2:00 p. m. in the city library basement.

Although Belmond is one of the smallest communities in the state having a League, the urban rural units of the local organization last year had a combined membership of almost 50. The Belmond unit was formed less than five years ago and the rural division, which is unique in the national organization, was established only last year.

Mrs. Orrin Jacobson, president of the Belmond unit, says it is considered that active members derive the most benefit from the League. However, women who wish to learn simply by observing are also most welcome to join.

Membership is open at all times to all women. Meetings are held once a month. It has been the local practice for the two units of the League to meet independently, with occasional joint meetings as undertakings of the League may demand.

Monday's gathering, which will be a general meeting, is to feature a panel discussion of the League's background. Serving on the panel will be Mrs. Lloyd Drury, Mrs. S. P. Leinbach and Mrs. G. J. Hruska. The tea will open the season's regular series of meetings.

BLOWOUTS and PICKOUTS

If you're having trouble with blowouts and pickouts in your chickens, chances are that you could have avoided it. You could have done it by debeaking the pullets before they got into the laying house.

I say that because most so-called blowouts are really pickouts. It's very seldom that a pullet will have an honest blowout with todays modern chickens. When a pullet lays, she may push part of her reproductive track through the vent. But it would go back in by itself if some of the flock didn't find out about it and take a couple of quick swipes at it with their beaks. If they have been properly debeaked, you seldom have trouble.

There are several things you can do to treat a so-called blowout. You could use a tire patch. That may be funny but it isn't very practical.

You can treat the affected parts with carbolated vaseline and push the stuff back in place. Naturally, you should separate the affected birds from the rest of the flock. Feed'em more protein by reducing the grain. Adding 2% linseed meal to the mash helps too. Wet mash is good too. That's what to do if you are sure the birds aren't getting picked.

If you've got picking or cannibalism, you should debeak the birds right away. Your poultry service man can do it for you or show you how. Once the bird gets the picking habit, it's hard to break her. Debeaking will break the habit, though.

Quite often picking will start in crowded flocks. Make sure your flock isn't crowded. Feed a balanced diet and have plenty of ventilation. This keeps the birds from getting nervous and making meals out of one another.

If the birds start picking, I recommend debeaking like I said before. But if you don't want to do it (it won't hurt the birds at all), you can add one tablespoon of salt to each gallon of water for one day. This may break it up a little. But don't poison the birds with too much salt. One day is all they can take.

And always isolate the picked chickens. Put tar on the affected parts until they're healed.

Prevent pickouts any way you can. If anybody is going to eat chicken, it ought to be people, not chickens.

IF EVER GOOD SPIRIT BLESSED A GIFT, MR. ROWEN'S BEQUEST WAS SO BLESSED

All of Belmond—not to say, all the friends and neighbors of the community who contributed to making Belmond Community hospital a reality—must have experienced the same thrill that we at The Independent did over the generous gift of Robert W. Rowen that was announced last week. That $10,000 presented to the hospital will be the means of establishing an appropriate memorial to his mother, Sara Rowen Purdy, and half-sister, Rena Purdy. We feel that, in addition, it will fittingly create a memorial to this man who never forgot his native home and whose loyalty towards it never languished.

It was more than 65 years ago that Robert Rowen left Belmond to pursue a career that passing time has plainly crowned with success. But Mr. Rowen has remembered what many another in his position has forgotten—that environment and example play a big part in making the man. If ever the spirit behind it embellished a gift, we believe this bequest of Mr. Rowen's was made all the more significant by the sentiments that prompted it.

We feel confident we can speak for the whole community in expressing the sincere hope that the donor may find it possible to be with us when the time comes for the fruits of his generosity to be dedicated. We believe he'd be proud of the thriving, little city that has grown out of the pioneer settlement he knew. And if he WERE proud, we'd feel it MEANT something.

—o—

SPAWN OF EVIL—THE DEVIL'S OWN CHILD; THAT'S A NEWSPAPER FOLDING MACHINE

Ever try to pluck one coat-hanger from a cluster, only to have it become hopelessly enmeshed with its neighbors; or endeavor to apply a longish strip of Scotch tape on a desired spot while the loose end malevolently grabs at everything in sight; or tried to fold a newspaper section which refuses to cooperate? Frustrating, isn't it?

But the combination of the three will give you an idea of what periodically goes on in a weekly newspaper shop when the automatic folder gets obstinate—which it can do at any unforeseen moment seemingly without the slightest provocation. We "had it" last week, when obliged to readjust our folder to accomodate the new eight-column size of The Independent, after it had previously been geared up to handle a seven-column paper. The corpses of "dead" newspapers lay all over the back shop before the contrary contraption was finally whipped into a semblance of submission.

This spawn of some evil, Rube Goldbergian mind theoretically snatches an eight-page section of the paper as it comes off the press, folds it neatly and deposits it in a "basket" ready for the mailing-machine operator. In a docile mood, it's an awesome contrivance. It does its job nimbly and with dispatch and an unknowing onlooker might well marvel at the ingenuity of man. But the pressman never ceases to keep dubious eye on the folder Without a second's warning, soul-searing rustlings may reveal that the gremlins have got it and that it has ceased folding and started crumpling—destroying newspapers with all the determined vim of an evangelist belaying the sins of mankind.

There are untold scores of adjustments that must be carefully kept attuned to the cosmic nature of folder, any one of which may have slipped a notch and thereby provoked the mayhem that prevails. As like as not, though, the fault will lie with that hoodoo of the print shop—static electricity. It accumulates in the stacked paper, infiltrates the mechanism of the press and folder and makes the individual sheets of newsprint act like creatures possessed. All sorts of talismans, charms and occult procedures have been devised by the printing trade to exorcise this demon. But the printer knows, when one ostensibly works, that an imperceptible change in atmospheric conditions has like as not been responsible for the temporary respite from the machine's orneriness.

We just wanted it generally known, that while the devil's child is being adapted to the new newspaper size, things may be a bit trying around The Independent shop on press day for a time. If you should happen to come in at a difficult moment and find the greetings lacking a bit in cordiality—it's not you; it's not even us. Blame it on that confounded folder.

After An Eventful Day Filled With Misadventures, Victim Finds Self With One More River to Cross

(Following is the third installment of a recent letter to The Independent from Rev. Emory Van Gerpen, missionary in Northern Liberia, telling of adventures experienced in trying to get his ailing wife to a hospital. By lastest report, Mrs. Van Gerpen is gradually improving.)

At the last village before the river we took all removable items out of the jeep (because of thieves), chained the hood down, and left it all in the hands of the officer of this town. It was 6:00 o'clock in the evening now (I estimated—my watch being with Mrs. Van Gerpen, who'd already crossed the river) and $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles to walk to the river, where we parted earlier in the day.

We hoped to make it before dark, but unfortunately it started to rain and it was suddenly so dark we were almost unable to see the road. As we neared the river, my former houseboy—Umaru—revealed to me that he had never before crossed a river with water over his knees; and that he couldn't swim. What a let-down! I had been counting on his ability to get me across, but instead I might have to take him across.

Fell in River Hole

Carefully instructing him what to do, where we would cross, etc., I told him to follow me. I carried the load, for I was sure he'd be too afraid. Half way across the river I called back to him in the darkness to learn whether he was following or not. Faintly the answer came back. He had gotten frightened, folded in the knees and gone under; but somehow the current had pushed him towards shore and he'd gotten out.

I couldn't stop; the stream was pulling too hard on me and the bottom continually giving way with each step. And to add to the misery, it was now raining pitchforks and cat-tails. Working my way to the other shore, I'd just begun feeling a bit safer when suddenly about 15 feet from the shore of this 300-foot river (not including o verflow), I fell in a hole.

Earnest Prayers Prompted

Down I went, completely submerged and with this load above my head to keep me down. I promptly threw off the load, floated downstream to get my footing and breathlessly threw myself up on the muddy bank, dumping the saturated cardboard box of freshly cleaned diapers for the baby and clean trousers and white shirt for myself.

It goes on that I had to cross the river again to get my helper across. He hung on tight and I to drag him most of the way. We both prayed before we entered again into the darkness of the river and again we came on shore. To be sure, it was his most earnest prayer in many a day!

In pitch darkness and rain, we walked the five miles to the next river. It seemed like 50. Occasionally we would see a star trying to pierce its beam through the clouds near the horizon and I'd think it was a village nearby and that we were closer to the river. But each time, my helper replied, "Mai-gida (owner-of-the-house), you're tired, and you only think you see them. Those are stars."

Third River Flooded, Too

So we went on, putting one heavy foot ahead of the other. When we reached the river, we found that it too had gone over its bank. Since Phyllis plainly wasn't around we assumed that they had had crossed the river, perhaps before the water had risen because of the present rain. The place where we were to meet the Katsina folks was within calling range. The next two hours we spent calling, but no one came and we assumed therefor that the car had already come and taken Phyllis and the baby, leaving me behind to find another way. After all, I reasoned, she could have taken much worse because of the trip.

Calling was useless. It was raining and almost pitch dark, so we thought it best to walk back two miles to a village for a place to sleep. But before we went back we decided to attempt a crossing. I stepped to the edge of the bank but slipped on the mud and fell in. The current was even more swift than the first river's and immediately caught me. Furthermore, the water was running in the opposite direction from what I expected.

Mud Hut for Shelter

Grabbing for something near shore, my hands caught hold of a small palm tree only two or three feet high, and its branches full of thorns. Pulling myself to shore, I cut and jabbed my hands and legs in a dozen or more places. Clothes protected the rest of me.

It was too risky a business. We decided that since no one responded to our calling, it would be better to walk back to the village for a place to sleep rather than remain there until morning in our wet clothes and tired condition.

Everyone in the village had gone to bed, and it was with some difficulty that we were able to rouse anyone. But after a while we found help and a shelter was made available to us. It was nothing more than an African mud hut, round in shape and perhaps 15 feet in diameter, walls four feet high with a correspondingly low door and a thatched roof supported on a cornstalk framework.

A Long Night!

Fire was brought to warm us, as well as a small blanket to cover me. That night I slept on a straw mat on the cold dirt floor with the blanket only covering to my knees; from there my raincoat had to do the trick. Every few minutes I'd have to readjust the combination—either the floor was too hard, or I'd lay on a small pebble, or the raincoat would leave the end of the blanket and thus give the mosquitos a good chance, or else the smoke from the fire would blow in my face. The night seemed long.

(Fourth and final installment of Mr. Van Gerpen's letter will appear in next week's issue of The Independent.)

Stan Brotherton, Editor, Whittemore Champion
Finds Everything But Sink Beneath His Car Seat

Motoring down the highway the other day, we noticed that the seat cushions in our auto were not putting out the comfort we used to enjoy in other times. The upholstery had become exceedingly lumpy and we were led to suspect that perhaps someone had stuffed a body beneath the springs.

We resolved to investigate. Several days later we pulled out the seat and found that indeed the kitchen sink was not there but that was all that was missing.

America boasts more automobiles on the road than any other nation and we can vouch that no other nation could stuff as many assorted nick-nacks under any given car seat.

We have compiled a partial list of what we found and present it here so you won't feel ashamed when you lift out the seat in your auto.

First we came upon three sets of pliers and two screwdrivers, nothing unusual for the do-it-yourself handyman who carries such implements from his place of business to his residence to do what ever damage he sees fit.

The next item leaves us somewhat blank: a hog-ringer. This little gadget is still in fine shape although it shows some wear. We can't for the life of us recall just when we ringed, or rang, our last hog although we suppose the hog will never forget the experience.

We found thirty-two rifle shells without the box; a small piece of sandpaper; 62 sheets of Kleenex in various stages of disrepair; one small piece of house siding, probably the result of some mildly negligent driving; four pop bottles; one empty ladies' purse . . . or rather ladies' empty purse; a house floor plan scribbled on the back of a 1949 calendar; three acres of fertile Iowa topsoil; one left sock.

Two ticket stubs to the 1952 Ice Capades; four combs of assorted colors with a grand total of 43 teeth missing; one genuine United States fifty-cent piece with mold fungi; enough hair pins for some statistician to lay end to end to reach from here to someplace with; and instructions on how to get to 2937 E. Grand in Portland where the line of hair pins would probably end; one right sock.

We must confess, however, that our most ticklish problem was not under the seat. As long as we had come this far and were able to extricate ourself without the aid of a searching party, we ventured to that ledge above the back seat.

We are convinced that window was put there, not to look back through, but to magnify the extreme heat of the sun. Thus, it was that we found everything on the ledge glued fast.

An overheated caramel had succumbed to the July heat and made a blob of itself on our ledge. We were able to extricate everything but one animal cracker (a lion to be exact) which remains hopelessly bogged down in the goop.

At any rate, our labors have not been in vain. We are getting three more miles to the gallon out of the

BELMOND INDEPENDENT

The Kind of a store you don't have to be afraid to BROWSE in—

Many men that would sass a traffic cop or climb a mountain are still scared by a salesman—and they're further thwarted in most men's stores by outdated fixtures that aren't built to aid the browser. We know men (and some women) like to get a few ideas without committing themselves—or even do some comparison shopping, so here at THOMPSEN CLOTHING we encourage browsing. When you come in, a salesman comes up and says, "May I help you?" If you want to browse just say so. You won't hurt his feelings, and you'll be on your own. And in Thompsen Clothing you'll find fixtures specially designed and arranged to make it easy for you to browse. Almost everything is out where you can SEE it and FEEL it and TOUCH it with or without the aid of a salesperson. Come in and browse around, we would be pleased to have you.

VOL. 34 NO. 51 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1954 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

Bass fishing has been exceptionally good in about a three to four-mile stretch of the Iowa river northwest of town during recent weeks—and Game Warden Bill Ayers says that state conservation commission last Thursday took a step towards helping keep it that way in years to come. On that day, 500 small-mouth bass fingerlings from the state rearing ponds near Beeds Lake were placed in the river about two miles north of town.

These fish were from four to six or seven inches in length, and Bill says that by next year they shoud be acquiring good pan size.

Catches of small-mouths running three pounds and more in weight have not been infrequent in the local "bass country" lately. They like the clear water and rocky bottom that characterizes the stretch of river extending from the vicinity of Glenn Baker's farm nearly up to Hickory Grove. Warden Ayers adds that damming of the river by the Sportsman's club has helped it attain sufficient depth that the fish can now winter through in good shape.

Thera Fitts, the Mainstreeters' private fount of historical knowledge, comes through for us on the matter of Rowan being spelled "an" instead of "en". Apparently the town was named specifically in honor of Hon. John Rowen, who for 14 years served as a U. S. Consul—for 10 years in the Falkland Islands and for four at Punta Arenas, Chile.

Quoting from the Wright county history published in 1915, Thera tells us: "A post office was established there at the Rowen settlement long before railway days and the petition sent to Washington for a post office asked that it be called "Rowen." But on account of a post office in Iowa named Bowen, the department changed the e to an a."

That sounds logical enough to us. "Bowen" seems to have faded from the scene with the passing years, though, so maybe Rowan could now become Rowen, if some pressure were applied. Luverne got the job done a couple of years ago. Incidentally, we're told that the old Rowen homestead — pictured elsewhere in this issue—served as that original post office.

Dale Hauge got just as much of a kick out of his wife beating him at swine judging last Thursday at Calara Farm's big Swine Day as did his frau. Both, though, were a bit nonplused by one development. It turned out that Dale had all the SOWS placed 100% right—and Mrs. H. rated perfect in judging of the BOARS. Dale doesn't question that he'd have the missus beat at judging a bathing beauty contest; but that the knack should extend to the judging of swine perplexes 'em both, just a bit.

As Ye Ed was endeavoring to get out to Joe Duea's Calara Farm for the closing stages of the "Swine Day" held there last Thursday, a flat tire halted the trip. He sullenly inserted the jack under the rear axle and cranked 'er as far as she'd go, only to find that not enough clearance was created to get the spare on.

At almost that very moment, a young Samaritan came along in the person of Douglas Hopley, a Thornton High school senior. He stopped and courteosly inquired if he could be of help. Assured that he most certainly could, he got a jack out of his own car — found it wouldn't work — and then drove into Thornton to get one from a service station. Due to a bad case of weak springs, it wouldn't do the job, either.

Finally, with the help of a board from the trunk of Doug's car, Ye Ed's confounded, & · wreck was elevated to a sufficient height that the spare could be installed — wherewith our good neighbor and the young lady who'd been patiently waiting in the front seat of his car went their way. With our blessing, you can bet!

Ralph Thayer recently passed on to us a clipping from the Minneapolis Star-Tribune, which had been sent to him by a daughter of his who lives up in Swede country. It pictured a Minnesota farmer proudly displaying a 13-foot, 4-inch stalk of corn. Ralph observes that we Iowans have gotten too smart to be impressed with such useless freaks.

We just grow the stuff to be most effectively harvested with a picker and let it go at that.

Ralph's convinced, though, that we could out-freak 'em if there seemed any point to it. The only way we get any of that Goliath stuff around here anymore is to stumble onto a hybrid seed that's not learned its lessons well. And why take pride in a mistake?

—M-S—

If you've sometimes thought that a good deal of patience was required to await an opening on Highway 69 so that you could pull away from a stop sign, there's good reason for your suspicion that the thoroughfare seems to handle a considerable amount of traffic.

Barney Dillon tells us the reading off the traffic counter north of town a couple of weeks ago showed approximately 60,500 vehicles passed it during a seven day period.

That's a car every 10 seconds . . . 8,640 per day . . . Is it any wonder that it's occasionally difficult to find your place in the parade when you're trying to get onto the highway? This is NOT the heaviest traffic period of the year, either.

ON FISHING JAUNT

A. J. Meints, Keith Chandler, Marvin Meinders and Henry Halfwassen accompanied by Charles Duncan and Cecil RoJohn of Fort Dodge left Saturday night for a week's fishing at Cutfoot Sioux lake, Minn.

'Operation Birthday Card' and Dinner for Martin Planned by GOP Women to Promote Their Party

Wright county's Republican women are helping to bring the election-year political pot to a boil with a pair of party projects planned for the coming week. One is designed to serve the double purpose of paying respects to the GOP "commander-in-chief," President Dwight Eisenhower, and to add some funds to the party's coffers; the other will enable Wright countians to make the personal acquaintance of Rep. Thomas E. Martin, who is contending for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Democrat Guy Gillette.

"Operation Birthday Card" is the identification that has been given to the fund-raising campaign. It links with the President's birthday, which falls on Oct. 14. Adherents to the Republican cause will be called on by members of the county Republican Women's organization who will offer for sale "official" birthday cards to be mailed to the party leader.

Mrs. Birdsall County Leader

Mrs. Ben Birdsall, co-chairman of the county GOP finance committee, heads the drive in Wright and Mrs. C. C. Christie is chairman of "Operation Birthday Card" in Belmond. Appropriate cards will be sold at a minimum price of a dollar apiece. The project is statewide in scope and women in each precinct will be expected to sell cards equal in number to 10 per cent of the 1952 Republican vote. That calls for the sale of 650 cards in Wright county and 71 in Belmond.

Motto of the card campaign is "To Help Keep Things Right, Send a Birthday Card to Ike." GOP women throughout the county will start their operations the first of next week. It is hoped that all the cards will have been purchased and placed in the mail by a week from Saturday, Oct. 11, to insure delivery in Washington by the date of the President's birthday.

Dinner for Martin

Second immediate item of business on the Republican Women's calendar is the dinner being tendered Congressman Martin at Clarmond Country club next Monday evening under sponsorship of the GOP women of Belmond. Sharing in the courtesy are the Republican Women of Eagle Grove and Clarion. Husbands have been cordially invited to attend the dinner, too, to hear and meet the senatorial candidate.

Mr. Martin's contest with Senator Gillette is commonly recognized as one of the key battles upon which Republican control of the next session of Congress rests. Party workers are urgently soliciting support of the Iowa Citian, convinced that the Eisenhower program can be effectively implemented during the next two years only if he has the support of a "friendly" Congress.

Chandler Accepts Job with Meints

Keith Chandler, who for the past three years and two months has served as manager of the grocery department of the Tip Top Super Valu store, on Monday of next week leaves that position to become manager of Meints Produce station. The office will be his major responsibility, although he will share handling of the produce routes with A. J. Meints, proprietor of the business.

Chandler's job at the Tip Top is being taken over by Jim McLaughlin, who recently returned to Belmond after spending three years in Utah, Nevada and Wyoming. Out west, he was engaged in heavy construction work. He is a former Marine, having spent two years in uniform. Jim joined the Tip Top force last week, to learn some of the ropes before Keith's departure.

DON WANTS LETTERS

Marine Pfc. Donald Busick has been transferred to Las Vegas, Nev., and informs The Independent that he would greatly appreciate letters from Belmond friends. Correspondence should be addressed as follows: Pfc. Donald D. Busick 1463301, "B" Co. Marine Barracks 3rd Plt., Lake Mead Base, Las Vegas, Nev.

GAME POSTPONED

Rain caused postoponement of the Belmond vs. Garner freshman-sophomore football game that was scheduled for Tuesday night. It was rescheduled for Wednesday night at Garner.

Conservation Commission Will Hold Fox-Trapping Schools on Oct. 9-13

Conservation Officer Bill Ayers reports that the Iowa State Conservation commission is planning to hold fox and coyote trapping schools in Wright and Hancock, along with five other Iowa counties, the early part of next month. He says there has been a growing number of complaints from farmers in this vicinity regarding depredations of foxes among poultry flocks. The schools are intended to give farmers information that will help them deal with the four-footed poultry thieves.

On Oct. 9, the Wright county trapping school will be held at the Lee Keller farm two miles west and a mile north of Clarion. The Hancock school will be conducted on Oct. 13 at the Nels Jensen farm, just to the west of Eagle lake. Both will begin at 9:00 a. m. and continue till noon with Tom Burkley of Cedar Rapids, area game manager, in charge.

Instruction will be given regarding when, where and how to trap both foxes and coyotes. Several different trap "sets" will be demonstrated, as well as proper equipment to use. Game Warden Ayers says that coyotes do not represent much of a problem in this vicinity, but that a couple or so are usually taken in both Wright and Hancock counties each year.

ARKANSAS VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Peterson of Springdale, Ark., visited Thursday, Friday and Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Bohning.

Sale of Poppies Brings in $179

Mrs. Glen Eccles reports that sale of 1,500 VFW Poppies last Saturday brought in a sum of $179.41, lacking just 59 cents of enough to bring the average per poppy to 12 cents.

Members of the Eccles family gave Mrs. Eccles, who was chairman of the poppy sale, yeoman assistance. Daughter Betty Eccles topped all the soliciters by disposing of 130 of the flowers, followed closely by her brother Cecil with 126. Robert Stadtlander was third with 115 and another Eccles, young Dennis, fourth with 77.

Other Boy Scouts besides Cecil Eccles and Robert Stadtlander who helped the cause were Gary Luick, Roger Meyer, Richard Peddicord and Jack Loeffler. And another Cub Scout in addition to Dennis Eccles — Larry Hawley — helped peddle the posies.

This was only the second time that a local sale of poppies has seen the entire order of 1,500 sold. Mrs. Eccles expresses her thanks and the appreciation of the VFW and Auxiliary to all who helped with the sale and to the public for its generous response.

HAPPILY displaying the prizes she was awarded as champion of the women's judging and 3rd-place winner in the judging sweepstakes at Calara Farm's Swine Day is Mrs. Dale Hauge (above). Her prizes included a handsome trophy, a fine set of knives and a Betty Crocker cookbook.

ROAD FUNDS TRANSFERRED

At a meeting of the county board of supervisors held Monday of this week, $150,000 in secondary road construction funds were transferred to the secondary road maintenance fund.

Over 500 Throng to Calara Farm for "Swine Day;" Belmond Woman Ranks 3rd in Judging Sweepstakes

More than 500 persons signed the register during the highly successful Swine Day held Thursday of last week at Calara Farm, just northwest of Thornton, with Manager Joe Duea and the United Duroc Record association among the major hosts for the occasion. Seventy teams of 4-H and FFA boys participated in the judging contests.

Don Washburn, director of public relations for the United Duroc Record association, considered the event a highly successful one. General Mills, Inc., contributed toward making it the success it was by serving a free lunch to some 235 4-H and FFA boys and girls and providing prizes for the judging winners.

Prize Stock Exhibited

First and second place winners in each judging division were awarded a handsome trophy and cup, respectively, by the Duroc association. GMI presented prizes to the four top place winners in each division. These included electric irons, toasters, cookbooks, knife sets and bags of Larro feed.

Leading experts discussed various phases of the swine industry, including such new developments as back fat probing, making the day an educational one as well as entertaining. Guests also had the opportunity to see some of Calara Farm's prize Durocs, including the sow that won the grand championship in his class at the recent National Barrow show, Austin, Minn.

Duea's Uncle Top Winner

Visitors were present from nearly all parts of Iowa and there were also registrants from South Dakota and Minnesota. Nearly all the guests being actively interested in good swine raising, competition in the judging contests was extremely keen.

Over-all winner of the day was Victor Duea of Roland, an uncle of Joe Duea. He was ranked first in the adult men's division. Second place in the sweepstakes went to Robert Bentz of Thornton, third to Mrs. Dale Hauge of Belmond and fourth to Jim Schultz of Parkersburg. Mrs. Hauge had the distinction of out-judging her husband, who was also a prize-winner but could do no better than a tie for third in the men's division and was unplaced in the sweepstakes.

Much interest was shown in the 4-H and FFA team judging, which was won by the Cerro Gordo 4-H'ers. Second went to Iowa Falls FFA's No. 1 team, third to Hansell Consolidated FFA and fourth to Parkersburg's FFA.

Following are the various division winners:

Adult men—1 Victor Duea, Roland; 2 Robert Bentz, Thornton; 3 (tie) Dale Hauge, Belmond, and Charles Cottrell, Van Horne; 4. Ben Boulders, Eagle Grove.

Junior—1 Jim Schultz, Parkersburg FFA; 2 Billy Kofer, Rockwell FFA; 3 (tie) Larry Lightbody, Thornton 4-H, and Larry Christianson, Riceville FFA; 4 Larry Ryan, Ventura FFA.

Women—1 Mrs. Dale Hauge, Belmond; 2 Mrs. Earl Klingamon, Waterloo; 3 Georgie M. Ely, Rhodes; 4 Mrs. Charles Cottrell, Van Horne.

● ● ● ● ● ●

AMONG MAJOR POINTS of interest at Clara Farm's Swine Day last week was the handsome specimen of pig royalty that Joe Duea purchased a couple of weeks at Austin, Minn. It was exhibited at the National Barrow Show by Fenmar Farms of Orion, Ill., and was judged grand champion Duroc boar. Since his grandsire was grand champion boar at the Indiana State Fair two or three years ago and his dam was sired by an Iowa State Fair grand champion of a few years earlier, Joe feels that the $1,280 price he paid for the champ made him a "good buy." He figures to get that amount back, with interest, from the prize-winning progeny he confidently expects the Austin winner to produce.

Open House Set

Fire Chief A. W. "Doc" Johnson announces that Sunday, Oct. 10, has been set as the date for open house to be held by the Belmond Fire department at its new fire station. Visitors will be welcome between the hours of 2:00 and 5:00 p. m. More details regarding the event will be made public next week.

Farm Fire Razes Barn; Hay, Grain, Stock Destroyed

One of the most costly farm fires to strike this vicinity in some time destroyed the barn on the Ward Martin farm northwest of Belmond last Tuesday afternoon. The place is tenanted by Fred Vestweber.

Although the fire damage was certain to run into the thousands of dollars, no immediate estimate of an accurate nature was available. In addition to the barn, quantities of hay and oats were lost and at least two calves destroyed. It is possible some hogs were killed, also. According to Mr. Vestweber, the loss should be very largely covered by insurance.

Mr. Vestweber found the barn in flames about 12:45 p. m. and when he rushed to the house to call in an alarm, discovered that the phone was dead. Consequently, he found it necessary to speed into Belmond by car to report the fire, and by the time the siren sounded about a half hour had passed from the time Fred had first tried to summon the Belmond Fire department by phone.

Belmond fire fighters responded to the alarm about 1:20 p. m., but by the time they arrived on the scene nothing could be done to prevent total destruction of the barn. The fireman did, however, succeed in preventing the blaze from spreading to nearby buildings.

Cause of the fire could not be readily determined. Fire Chief A. W. "Doc" Johnson says that either faulty wiring or spontaneous combustion of hay stored in the barn might have been responsible.

New Jurors Drawn For October Term

Petit jurors for the October term of district court, to open at Clarion on Oct. 18, were named this week by Clerk of Court Bessie Johnson. She says they are to report at 10:00 a. m. on Monday, Oct. 25. Judge John M. Schaupp will be the presiding magistrate.

Belmond residents whose names were drawn are Pearl Doctor, George Waddington, Ethel Kelting, Viola Johnson and Ruth Jenison. Others on the list, who live on Belmond routes, are John Rokke of Belmond township; Alvin Dorenkamp, T. A. Townsan and Ilene Kalkwarf, Pleasant township.

Also drawn from the general Belmond vicinity are Andy Christians, Lismore Maland and Jim Jorgensen, Norway township.

Two Local Scout Units Will Take Part in "Fair"

Members of both the Scout troop and the Explorer post of Belmond will show their skills at the Scouting-in-Action Fair to be held at the IOOF hall at Clarion this coming Saturday night.

Under the leadership of "Bud" Packard, the Explorer post will use as its activity theme, "Winter Camping". Items of winter camping equipment will be displayed as well as techniques of camping demonstrated. Under the leadership of Jake Freshwater, the Scout troop will use a "Scoutcraft" theme. In its booth will be knot-tying exhibits and demonstrations along with some leathercraft work.

The two units from Belmond, as well as as the units from Clarion, Eagle Grove, Goldfield, Dows, Latimer-Coulter, Hampton and Sheffield, have put in a considerable amount of time and work on developing this fair for the public to enjoy. The doors will open at 7:00 p. m. and close at 9:30 p. m. Because it will be run as a fair, one may come at any time and stay as long as he desires.

One of the stage attractions will be the Indian dance team from Troop 11, Mason City. This group will perform at 7:30, 8:10 and 8:50 p.m. Authentic Indian dances such as the Dance of the Evil Spirits, Corn Dance, and Indian Love Dance will be given.

Tickets are still available from the local Scouts. Adult tickets are 50 cents. Children accompanying parents are admitted free. Other school-age children will be charged 15 cents. All proceeds from the fair will go to the participating units to meet local Scouting expenses.

RESOLUTIONS MEETING

A Farm Bureau resolutions committee meeting for all farmers in the south half of Belmond township will be held this Friday night at 8:00 o'clock at the L. B. Oberhauser home.

$200 FLEW THE COOP

A grand total of $200 was drained off the Cash Gift Day fund this week, with Mrs. Darwin Bode getting a $150 lion's share. Mrs. Andrew Boelman of Meservey and Mrs. Clarence Steenhard each came in for a $25 share of the melon. Since this splurge of generosity came in the final week of the latest 10-week period of drawings, the prize fund was left in a [illegible] anemic condition. [illegible] awards for the coming week have had to be reduced to somewhat below the customary level until the "kitty" is built up again. At 2:00 p. m. next Tuesday, two $25 prizes will be at stake; and at 3:00 p. m. the award will be $100. After a week of recuperation, it is hoped that the Cash Gift Day fund will have regained a healthier condition and that prizes can be boosted for the week following.

Lions' Coming Bag-of-Bulbs Campaign To Offer Bargain, Aid Worthy Causes

During the coming week, Belmond's Lions club will conduct a Bag-of-Bulbs sales campaign which will enable residents of Belmond and vicinity to get a bargain in light bulbs and at the same time lend a hand to several worthy causes.

President L. B. Oberhauser has named Dr. P. A. Rietz to head the Bag-of-Bulbs project. All homes in Belmond will be canvassed by members of the Lions club and sales booths on Main street will be manned on several days at the end of the week. The Lions also plan to contact farmers next Tuesday afternoon during the weekly sale at Belmond Sales Pavilion.

Dozen Assorted Bulbs

Doctor Rietz explains that each Bag-of-Bulbs will contain a dozen GE light bulbs—four each of 60 and 100-watt size and two each of 40's and 150's. Retail cost of this assortment would be $2.25, but the Lions will sell the lot for $2.00.

According to Chairman Rietz, the Lions will realize a profit of 76 cents on each package of bulbs sold of this amount, half will be retained by the local club for use in its own community service work and the rest will go to Lions International of this state to help finance the Iowa Lions Eye Conservation Foundation. Aid to the blind is a major welfare objective of the Lions club.

"Eye Bank" to Benefit

Among the specific projects that the state funds will go for is the establishment and support of an "eye bank," which will supply human eyes to individuals who have lost theirs through injury or illness but are physically capable of adapting to a transplanted eye.

Financial support will also be given to the Leader Dog project, a counterpart of the better-known Seeing-Eye Dog program. Other projects of an allied nature will also benefit from the Iowa Lions Foundation.

Mr. Oberhauser, Doctor Rietz and their fellow Lions regard the purposes of the foundation as highly worthy; and they also promise that the local share of the Bag-of-Bulbs project will be devoted to services of real value to the community. Consequently, they feel free to ask generous support of their Bag-of-Bulbs campaign—particularly in view of the genuine bargain that the assortment of bulbs represents.

NEWEST MERCHANT on Main street is Claire Hildman (above), new owner of the former Infelt Variety store, now Hildman's. He plans to move his family—wife and two children — here from Mason City this week.

WALK-OUT ENDED AFTER TWO DAYS

Last week's walk-out of the construction crew building the new feed plant for General Mills was of short duration. Differences between the contracting firm of Jones-Hettelsater Construction company and the A. F. of L. Building Trades union, Mason City headquarters, were worked out on Wednesday.

Workmen who had walked off the job Monday noon were back at it on Thursday. It is understood that the brief work stoppage developed over reluctance of the contractor to place on the job an additional workman at union request.

OBERHAUSER PLEDGED

Sherman Oberhauser, '54 graduate of BHS, last week was among 20 freshmen at Iowa State college pledged to membership in Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. Twenty-nine fraternities pledged new students during the formal rushing period. Two North Iowa conference sports stars were among the preps pledged: Merle Garman of Britt by Phi Kappa and Bruce Myers of Buffalo Center, Delta Chi.

Public Invited to Inspect HPO Bus Here Today; 'TV' Coverage by KGLO

Postmaster J. C. Brady offers a reminder to all persons living in Belmond and vicinity that they are invited to inspect the new Highway Post Office bus when it makes its inaugural stop in Belmond this (Thursday) afternoon at 3:10 o'clock and to hear the program that will attend the occasion.

The HPO busses that will serve the Albert Lea, Minn.—Tama route, upon which Belmond lies, are actually passenger busses that have been converted to serve their specialized purpose. They are equipped with pigeon holes so the mail can be "worked" as the bus progresses along the route and each vehicle is capable of handling more than 200 sacks of mail on each trip. An opportunity will be given all onlookers to pass through the bus that visits here today.

KGLO-TV to Cover Event

Mr. Brady plans to go to Albert Lea to ride on the bus as far as Forest City. From there, he will come on to Belmond by car to make certain that all is in readiness by time the bus arrives here. Prior to the bus's arrival, the BHS band under direction of Roland Brom will play several selections. Phyllis Lee, high school junior who reigned over General Mills Appreciation Days held the summer of last year, has been named "HPO Queen" of the day.

Officials of KGLO-TV have informed Postmaster Brady that they will have a cameraman on hand to take pictures for use on news telecasts over the Mason City television station later in the day; so persons attending the festivities may be seeing themselves on the TV screen.

"Key to the City"

Upon arrival of the bus, Mr. Brady will introduce the post office officials who are aboard. Chet Hiddleston, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will officially welcome the delegation and the "Key to the City" will be presented by Mayor Hokel to the representative of the post office department who is to be present from Washington, D. C. After a response from the P. O. official, Editor Pat Gallagher of The Independent will offer the closing remarks.

Twenty-minute stops are planned at Garner, Klemme, Goodell, Clarion and all other regular stops along the route.

Mayor Warns All Riders of Bikes: Trouble's Coming

Mayor Henry Hokel warns that a crack-down on careless use of bicycles is in the immediate offing, if more courtesy and consideration is not promptly shown by local bicycle riders. He says that complaints have been steadily piling up regarding the negligent riding of bicycles on sidewalks and careless parking of bikes where they interfere with sidewalk traffic.

"We have been lenient with bicyclists, despite an ordinance prohibiting riding of bikes on walks, because of the danger to youngsters where street traffic is heavy," says Mayor Hokel. "But so many bicycle owners have taken advantage of this leniency that steps are going to have to be taken."

He announces that flagrant violations of the bicycle ordinance are going to be punished by confiscation of the offending bikes for a period of time. The city officials reasons that if a careless youngster has to do without his bike for a week or so, it may make him a bit more alert to the rights of others.

The mayor asks that all bicycles ridden on a sidewalk should be kept at a slow speed and that the rider keep a sharp lookout for pedestrians using the walk. He also orders that any bikes parked on a downtown sidewalk should be set as closely as possible to the inside edge of the walk, and at no time should be laid flat on the walk.

Bell's Wife Files Divorce Petition

Petition for divorce was filed Friday in Wright county district court at Clarion by Constance R. Bell of Clarion against Sam Bell. The plaintiff charges that "the defendant is quarrelsome, has a violent temper, has on several occasions struck this plaintiff," and asks that the divorce be granted on a count of cruel and inhuman treatment.

The petition further states that the couple was wed on Jan. 31, 1951, and lived together as man and wife until June 20, 1953. They have two children. Bell was in district court two weeks ago being heard by jury on a charge of "resisting execution of process." The case was dismissed after the jury failed to reach an agreement.

'Bookmobile' Will Visit Here Monday

Librarian Faye Colby announces that the "Bookmobile" of the Iowa State Education association will visit Belmond on Monday of next week. It is equipped with shelves and comprises a traveling library of books recomended by the ISEA for children from kindergarten through high school age.

It is tentatively planned that the "Bookmobile" will be parked for periods of time outside Ramsay Elementary school and the high school between the hours of 11:00 a. m. and 1:00 p. m. to give teachers a chance to look over the books.

Although Mrs. Colby was not informed exactly how long a stop the "Bookmobile" will make here, she expects it will probably be in front of the library part of the morning and all afternoon, after returning from the school grounds.

MEN'S CLUB OF GMI HONORS TWO AT AFFAIR HELD LAST THURSDAY

Last Thursday night, the General Mills Men's club threw a big party at Veterans' Memorial hall to honor two of their number—one still "going strong" as a GMI employee, after 25 years of service; the other entering retirement.

As it turned out (below), photographic coverage of the event left something to be desired. The "big shots" in the background are hardly identifiable, while some of the onlookers appear big as life and at least as natural.

Back in the gloaming are, left to right: Carter Dewey, director of operations control and personnel manager of the GMI Chemical Division; Hal Schmidt, local milling and extraction superintendent, who hit the quarter-century mark with "the General" three years ago.

Next, Lew Penn, assistant director of traffice for GMI; Trev Williams, plant traffic manager and one of the honorees on the occasion of his 25th anniversary as a General Mills employee (he's been here since '46); and Walt Hotvet, plant superintendent. In the background are a couple of waiters "getting into the act."

In the well-illuminated foreground are the backs of a couple of unidentified heads; then (in white sports shirt) Carl Robbins, Clarence Fleener, Hub Colby and Warren Thompson — with Russ Schaal immediately behind and scurrying for cover.

Not pictured is Honoree No. 2, Chris Norby, who last month retired as an employee of the Belmond plant after nearly 10 years of employment by General Mills.

Adult Education Program to Offer Instruction in Art

A seventh course was added last week to the list that will be offered under this year's Adult Education program when David Weltha of the BHS faculty agreed to serve as instructor for a course in art. He says that he will be glad to divide the class work into two, distinct phases of art if such a step would attract a larger number of students to the course.

He says that the decorating of ceramic tiles has proved popular in similar art courses elsewhere, and suggests that as one possibility. Instruction in sketching, water colors, oil painting or some other field could also be offered, should there be sufficient demand.

Registration for the night classes, to start Nov. 1, are now open and enrollment can be accomplished by phoning the superintendent's office, Dial 269. Courses on the Adult Education list at present are: agriculture, business practices, practical home nursing, men's choral singing, "Calories Anonymous," art and driver's training.

Ed Bruner, who's in charge of driver's training, says he plans to start his class on Oct. 11 and that all registrations must be in by Oct. 7. Since nine students is about the maximum that can be accomodated in this class, he urges prompt enrollment by any persons interested in that course. Registration fee for this, like the other courses, is $3.00.

CHICK CHATS

LAYING HOUSE DISEASES

And we're not saying that a laying house gets sick—even though some I've seen around here look that way. We're talking about the diseases that chickens get in the laying houses.

The one that occurs most frequently probably is leukosis. Actually, nobody knows very much about this disease, or group of diseases. One expert said that leukosis was a group of diseases distinguished by "autonomous proliferation of the precurosors of leukocytes." This sounds pretty serious even if I don't know what the words mean. Leukosis, to peasants like me, is a disease which kills chickens. And there's not much you can do about it after the chickens get it. Sometimes the liver gets big, sometimes the bird becomes paralyzed or blind. You can help to prevent leukosis by keeping your birds in top shape and fed well all their lives. And by keeping old stock away from the growing birds. Proper control of parasites and treatment of intestinal irritations seems to help reduce losses from leukosis.

Pox and Newcastle are found too often in laying houses too. You can vaccinate for pox and Newcastle during the growing period. But after they get the disease, the only thing you can do is to give'em tonics, wet mash and lots of water.

Cholera gives a bird high temperatures, little bitty sores on the liver and heart and the smelliest insides you ever smelled. Sulfa drugs sometimes do a good job on cholera if you catch it soon enough. Recovered birds are frequently carriers of cholera.

Proventriculitis is another big name that chickens can come down with in the laying house. It's just another name for sore stomach. The false stomach, right in front of the gizzard, gets inflamed and usually the inflamation goes on thru to the intestines. A solution of copper sulphate clears this situation up in good shape.

Ofcourse, there are worms and lice and such that will attack birds in the laying house. But you can take care of those easily. There's plenty of medicines around to do the job.

There's one disease that's hard to prevent — and that's chronic coccidiosis. Yes, laying birds can get it. But they get it so gradually that it's hard to realize the problem until it has a good start. The birds just go down hill gradually. The trouble with this disease is that it often ruins birds even if it does not kill 'em.

The best advice I can give about laying house diseases is to watch your layers closely. If production slacks off for several days in a row, call your poultry service man. He can help you to nip trouble in the bud early. And when you're dealing with chicken diseases, the earlier the sooner — and better.

Conservation Aid In '55 to Depend On Crop Acreages

Farmers must be in full compliance with all basic-crop acreage allotments affecting their individual farms in 1955 in order to qualify for cost-sharing payments for agricultural conservation program (ACP) practices completed next year, it was pointed out this week by the Wright county ASC committee.

This additional inducement for compliance with any acreage allotments in effect on crops harvested in 1955 is in accordance with the new agricultural act. Compliance with all acreage allotments will also be a requirement for eligibility for price support benefits.

The Wright county committee stated that the allotment compliance requirement to qualify for ACP payments on work done in 1955 is of special importance at the present time to farmers planning to sow winter wheat.

The following excerpts from the new farm law explain the requirements:

"Any person who knowingly harvests any basic agricultural commodity on his farm which has been determined by the secretary to be in excess of the farm acreage allotment for such commodity for the farm for such year shall not be eligible for any payment for such year under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended." And —

"If the acreage determined to be planted to any basic agricultural commodity on the farm is in excess of the farm acreage allotment, the secretary shall by appropriate regulations provide for a reasonable time prior to harvest within which such planted acreage may be adjusted to the farm acreage allotment."

'54 Farm Census Will Start Soon

W. A. Rekers of Fort Dodge, recently appointed supervisor for conducting of the 1954 farm census, announced last week that his office at 214 Snell building is now well started on its preliminary work. This census of agriculture will require 20 crew leaders and 263 enumerators in the 29 counties that make up the Fort Dodge district.

Wright, Hancock and Franklin counties are among those in the Fort Dodge area. Mr. Rekers says that the preliminary work includes organization of the field office, interviewing applicants for jobs, selection and training of office clerks, field crew leaders and enumerators.

Purpose of the census is to provide information on the number and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, livestock production and inventories, selected farm facilities and equipment, selected farm expenditures, farm values and mortgage debt.

BUILT 100 YEARS AGO, the Robert Rowen log cabin at Horse Grove — just southwest of the town of Rowan — today comprises the parlor of this tenant house on the original homestead property. That first Robert Rowen was grandfather of the Robert W. Rowen of Oakland, Calif., who recently made a gift of $10,000 to Belmond Community hospital. The ancient cabin, with its solid walnut doors, window frames and rafters, forms the front, right portion of the tiredly sagging structure pictured above. Shingle siding went on about 30 years ago.

ASC Says Funds Available to Aid On Conservation

Funds are available in Wright county to assist a number of farmers to establish needed conservation practices before the close of the year, it was announced this week by the Wright county ASC committee members. A great amount of valuable soil and water conservation can be accomplished in the next 60 to 90 days if farmers will promptly take advantage of the opportunity offered them through the federal cost-sharing plan commonly known as ACP, they say.

Farmers themselves should be able to devote considerable time to such work in the next couple of months and in addition they will find extra workers and required materials are available now. The Wright county ASC committee urges farmers interested in carrying out cost-sharing work this fall to make inquiry at the county ASC office at once and to file their requests at the earliest possible time.

Several types of work can be done this fall and which are especially needed on many farms in this county are included in the list of approved ACP practices on which the government will share the cost. Among these practices are the spreading of limestone where a soil test shows the need, construction of terraces, erosion control dams, tiling and earth work on sod waterways.

In the case of a sod waterway, the seeding would probably be delayed until next spring, but otherwise the project could be substantially completed this year and thereby qualify for cost-sharing from 1954 funds when entirely finished in 1955.

This is an excellent time to have soil tests made because they will be required in the 1955 ASC conservation program the same as in the 1954 program for any cost-sharing practice involving the application of limestone or fertilizer. Complete information on getting soil tested may be obtained from either the county ASC office or the county extension office in Clarion.

Biting Bob Foss Fatal to Rabbit

When Bob Foss of The Independent's back-shop gang got bit on the finger by a newly acquired, pet rabbit a couple of weeks ago, he came in for quite a bit of kidding from his friends. He went to the Steele clinic to be "shot" as a precaution against tetanus and was told he had little to worry about—unless the rabbit died.

What had seemed a laughing matter became a rather grave one when the bunny turned up its toes Saturday night and passed to its rabbit reward. That posed the question, "Did it die of rabies, or didn't it?" and early Monday morning Bob took off for Ames with the body so the veterinary laboratory at Iowa State college could provide him with the crucial answer. It's no secret that the series of "shots" that must be administered after exposure to rabies is more than a little rough on the customer.

Late Monday afternoon, a phone call from ISC divulged that microscopic inspection of blood smears from the deceased rabbit showed no evidence of rabies. A guinea pig has been innoculated with serum from the bunny to provide doubly conclusive proof that rabies wasn't involved. If the guinea pig lives, the apparent explanation will be that the rabbit died from biting Bob.

Carl Dreesman of George visited Sunday at the Henry Wynia home.

Mrs. Richard Weiland of Britt visited in the A. J. Benham home Saturday.

Galt Miss Took Commercial Beef Honors at Fair

Clarissa Houck of Galt had a score of 184.3 to top the Commercial Beef Class in the Wright county three-beef project. Other top scores were made by Don Schaumburg of Eagle Grove with a score of 164.4 and Glen E. Martin of Goldfield, 155.6. Sherman Oberhauser of Belmond was the 1953 winner. In this beef feeding project, the junior feeder must have three calves which were purchased through a regular market, either sale barn or central market, and must supply a sale ticket showing weight and price paid.

An appraisal is made by a packer buyer at Eagle Grove fair time. The packer buyer making the appraisal for the past few years has been Warren Burton, head cattle buyer of Geo. A. Hormel & Co. of Austin, Minn. In determining the winner, the young feeder must rate high on both rate of gain, and margin of selling appraisal over purchase price.

200 Maximum Possible Score

Since the beeves do not go on feed at the same time, the average daily gain for each calf is figured and this is multiplied by the average length of feeding period for all calves in the project. It is possible to make a score of 200—a score of 100 for the greatest margin of final appraisal price over purchase price and 100 for the greatest increase in weight.

Virgil McCormick of Clarion had the greatest increase in gain, with a total of 1735 pounds on the three steers based on a 273-day feeding period. Kenneth Loux of Clarion was second with 1705 pounds and Knuths family was third with 1605 pounds. In margin of purchase price, Clarissa Houck was high with $8.10, Don Schaumburg was second with $6.23 and Glen E. Martin third with $5.35.

Report Shows Gains

The complete report is as follows: Clarissa Houck, total gain 1463 lb., appraisal value, $25.60, margin $8.10; D. Schaumburg, total gain 1433 lb., appraisal value, $23.98, margin, $6.23; Glen E. Martin, total gain 1429 lb., appraisal, $24.33, margin $5.35; Abe Spangler, E. G., total gain 1507 lb., appraisal $23.59, margin $4.09, total gain 147.9.

Kenneth Loux, total gain 1705 lb., appraisal $24.18, margin $1.68, score 135.8; Gary Marvin Fisher, E. G., total gain 1597 lbs., appraisal $24.67, margin $.87, score 121.8; Sandra Knight, Goldfield, total gain 1400 lbs., appraisal $25.08, margin $1.94, total score 120.9; Roger Lyle Wepe, Woolstock, total gain, 1347 lbs., appraisal $23.79, margin $1.79, score 116.3.

Virgil McCormick, gain 1735 lbs., appraisal $24.49, margin $1.51 minus, score 106.7; Jerry Knight, Goldfield, gain 1376 lbs., appraisal $24.49, margin $.51 minus, score 95.6; Knuths family, Dows, gain 1605 lbs., appraisal $22.80, margin $2.20 minus, score 92.5.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Stoltenberg and family spent Sunday at Story City and also drove to the Ames hospital to visit John Thorsnes who is recovering from surgery.

The Rev. William A. Arquitt performed the double-ring ceremony and Jack Brown of Mason City was acolyte.

The church was decorated with white gladioli and purple asters and the pews with white satin streamers. Mrs. W. F. Coonan of Mason City played the nuptial music and also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Paul Garrotto of Mason City, as she sang four numbers of the bride's choosing.

Former Kanawhan Will Speak at Six Revival Services

Rev. Arend Roskamp, a native of Kanawha who is regarded as one of this area's outstanding evangelists, has been engaged by the Bethany Reformed church to conduct a series of evening services starting this Sunday and extending through Friday of next week. The meetings will be held in the basement of the city library, starting at 8:00 p.m., and the public is cordially invited to attend.

According to Rev. Ralph Meyer, Bethany pastor, the Rev. Mr. Roskamp served as a minister of the Canadian Presbyterian church in Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan for 13 years after completion of his education. During World War II he was an Army chaplain for 31 months, 15 of them being spent in the China-Burma-India theater of operations. He affiliated with the Reformed Church of America upon his return to civilian life.

He is well known in this vicinity, not only by virtue of his Kanawha background but because he was pastor of the Alexander Reformed church for two years after his release from service. For the past seven years he has filled the pulpit of the Ramsey Reformed church near Titonka.

Special music has been arranged for each of the evening services, the Rev. Mr. Meyer says, with a different musical group to be heard each night.

Froshmore Slate Nearly Complete

Coach Bob Kratky, whose BHS freshman-sophomore grid squad has two games behind it, says he has three more contests lined up for his charges and may schedule one more. Arrangements have been made with Clear Lake, to play here next Monday at 7:00 p. m.

The two additional contests have been arranged with Lake Mills, here; and at Forest City. There will be a double-header at Forest City, with a junior high game preceding the froshmore contest. Dates for these engagements are Oct. 12 and 18, respectively.

Nurse Tells What 'Contact' Program Endeavors to Do

"What do you mean by a "contact" x-ray program?" That's a question frequently asked Audrey Engen, R.N., public health nurse now conducting Wright county's annual contact program. "I suppose it's really sort of medical language," says Miss Engen. "Whenever anyone has an active case of tuberculosis, there are persons who may be close to the patient before he is hospitalized. These persons are said to have been in 'contact' with tuberculosis. These are the people whom we hope to meet in our current program."

During the past year, more than 400 possible cases of tuberculosis were discovered in Iowa by the 'contact' program.

The nurse visits the physicians in the county, who advise her of any persons they know who have been in contact with a case of active tuberculosis. These individuals, plus any others the doctors recommend, are visited by the public health nurse.

The doctor makes many of his recommendations on the basis of tuberculin skin tests, which indicate whether the person has ever had tuberculosis. The family physician advises the individual to have a chest x-ray when the mobile x-ray unit visits the county.

"You see, we are trying to find tuberculosis in its early stages when there is the best opportunity for satisfactory treatment," Miss Engen points out. "It is possible to have tuberculosis and not know it. It's just good sense for persons who have been exposed to tuberculosis to protect themselves."

Although there is no charge for the x-rays, the costs are borne in part by the purchase of Christmas Seals. The contact program has been brought to this community by the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health Association. The mobile x-rays units are owned and operated by the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association and the Iowa State Department of Health.

HOW ABOUT PUTTING SOME IHSAA CASH INTO FUND FOR THE BADLY INJURED?

What impressed us as an idea worth serious consideration was suggested at last week's meeting of the Gridiron club, following a resume by Lloyd Patterson—former BHS coach and speaker of the evening—of the latest financial report of the Iowa High School Athletic association. Popularity of basketball has poured almost an embarrassment of riches into the coffers of the association.

A reserve fund of $94,056 is carried by the IHSSA against the contingency of a national emergency or epidemic sometime radically reducing the "take" from the annual series of tournaments. But in addition to that sum, the association currently carries a cash balance of nearly $150,000 left after financing such money-losing sports as baseball, track and swimming during the 1953-54 school year.

It is the policy of the association to carry sufficient cash on hand to meet each coming year's budget without depending on future income. This would commit $128,000 for the current school year—but leave close to $22,000 pure surplus, with good prospect that more will be added to that amount when the next basketball tournament season rolls around.

In recent years, the IHSSA has relieved itself of a portion of its unneeded wealth by increasing the tournament allowances granted schools for transportation or other expense. This is a drop-in-the-bucket amount, though, insofar as most schools' budgets might be concerned and is really just a maneuver to keep the surplus from attaining truly embarrassing proportions.

But, as one Gridiron member pointed out, some of this surplus COULD go for a most useful and feasible purpose. Each year, a small number of Iowa high school athletes are so unfortunate as to suffer injuries in sports competition that cause serious inroads on family finances. We don't mean a broken arm or leg, a couple of teeth knocked out or the like. Costs in such instances might be a temporary inconvenience, but regular insurance carried on all the athletes would pay a portion of the expense and the balance would in few cases be an overwhelming obligation.

However, when an injury is of such a nature that a major operation—or several—may be required, the services of a specialist needed and a quite lengthy period of hospitalization involved, what then? Should the family of an athlete so unfortunate be plunged into debt for years to come when the IHSSA is looking for ways to use up surplus funds sensibly and fairly?

We propose that a welfare fund to provide aid in such cases is worthy of consideration. The limits of assistance to be given would have to be clearly set forth; it would have to be wisely administered. But we believe details could be worked out to make it a feasible, practical proposition. It could certainly be given a temporary trial, without undue risk to the association. And if it pans out, it would be a great boon to the small handful of families that annually pay a grievous price because a boy's love of sports has brought disaster.

WRIGHT COUNTIANS BEAT NEIGHBORS BOTH IN SAVING AND SPENDING! HOW?

Gave us somewhat of a start last week to note in the monthly report on sale of U. S. savings bonds in Iowa that Hancock county bought more E and H bonds in August than did Wright. We've taken pride in watching Wright lead the counties of this vicinity, month after month, in bond purchases. But in August—Wright $89,864, Hancock $103,741. Indeed! What's the matter with you bond-buying folks? Of course, to date Wright's 1954 total stands $1,108,535 and Hancock's only $678,433. But what happened in August?

All of which serves to remind us of some figures provided The Independent some time back by Jack Row of Clarion, tub-thumper in this territory for the Savings Bond division of the U. S. Treasury department. We've set 'em aside several times in the past because we can't understand 'em.

They compare 1952 financial figures for Wright, Franklin and Hancock counties (populations 19,652, 16,268 and 15,077, respectively). Mr. Row informed us that, while Wright was out-buying its two neighbors in bonds by a large margin, Wright countians also deposited $16,955,735 in their banks. That was over five million more than Hancock deposits amounted to, and exceeded Franklin deposits by over $6,250,000.

At the same time, Wright retail sales bettered $17½ million—which surpassed Franklin retail sales by about five million and Hancock's by over 6½ million. Very obviously, we in Wright both SPEND more and SAVE more than our next-door neighbors. There must be a trick to all this that Ye Ed hasn't yet discovered. He wishes to goodness someone will let him in on the scret before it's too late!

Rev. Emory Van Gerpen Finds Final Stages of His Hectic, African Trek Made Smooth by Friendship

(This installment concludes the letter received from Rev. Emory Van Gerpen concerning his adventures in transporting his wife from African bush country to a distant hospital. He told in the last installment of spending the night in a native hut, preparatory to starting the final leg of his journey.)

When morning finally came, several of the men of the village arrived to greet us. The news quickly spread of the white man sleeping in their village, and of course all wanted to know the reason why. One man brought me a dozen eggs as a gift, and of them I had him boil me two for breakfast.

I noticed that two boxes of Kodachrome slides were now covered with fine ash from the fire, where they had been put to dry. I was expecting to salvage them from the damage of the previous evening's river bath. A string was now the only thing holding together the box of clothes. The two latest copies of the Belmond Independent, which I took along to read, were also soaked.

Let me say here that just because they got soaked in the river doesn't mean I don't appreciate hearing from and about Belmond. Later, when I did find time to open them, ironically enough they were the issues containing pictures of Belmond's flood. How appropriate!

Receding of River Helps

We picked up and headed towards the river. The water had subsided and was now only a foot deep. We met our dispensary helper on the road, coming to see what had happened to us. He was expecting that perhaps I'd really become sick, and perhaps wasn't able to leave Wagini since I hadn't shown up the night before. In the course of our conversation, I learned a lot of things.

One thing was that when they crossed the last river, the water was still down to knee-deep, and in the five hours transpiring between the time they crossed and the time we arrived at the river, it had risen to over our heads. Also, he said that they had a lot of trouble with the carriers. I found some extra men before I left my wife to go back, and they were to carry the suitcases. However, they had changed their minds and left the dispensary helper to find others — not an easy task in the forest. And to add to their troubles, the cornstalk bed had broken to pieces somewhere along the way and another one had to be found.

Former Patient Lends Aid

The Lord provides all along the way, and on this occasion it just happened that a former patient of our dispensary at Wagini and his son were nearby. It was his home territory, and seeing our plight he said, "All this time you have given us medi[illegible] almost free, and now none will help you? Son, you run home and get another cornstalk bed and bring it quickly."

It took five hours for the carriers to bring Mrs. Van Gerpen and the baby those five miles. But the most discouraging thing was that late that night, when we were calling at the river for help, they heard us and thought that our calling was either the Fulani people in some of their tribal dances or the bleating of sheep and goats. True, we were sheep, alright — almost helpless that night.

Flown to Hospital

Furthermore, the car did not come to get Mrs. Van Gerpen until some time after we had decided to go back and find a place to sleep. But in the morning, they returned from Katsina and took me there also. The man who came after me was prepared to trek those 25 miles from the river to Wagini and to get me, no matter what the situation might be.

[illegible]ternoon we were driven into Kano, another 110 miles, and Monday morning Phyllis was flown to Jos, where the Sudan Interior [illegible] has its hospital. There she will spend the next six or eight weeks in recuperation.

(Mr. and Mrs. John Van Gerpen have received a letter from their missionary son, dated Sept. 14, saying that his wife is slowly regaining her health but will remain at the mission hospital until the middle of October. The infective jaundice took such a heavy toll of her strength that the doctors have ordered that she must not resume her mission work for six months after her return to the Wagini mission.)

Mrs. A. P. Lonning spent the past week in the Vernon Myrland home at Kewanee, Ill., while her daughter and new granddaughter were in the hospital.

What Other Ed's Are Saying

John Madson, Special Writer, Iowa Conservationist Writes About "The Unforgettable Feists"

This being the hunting season, let's talk about hunting dogs. Not the blooded champions of stately grace and noble birth, but the bandy-legged heroes of a million squirrel and rabbit hunts — the feists.

Webster defines feist as a "small dog." The hunting feist is almost always found in the company of small boys and single shot .22's. He is of mixed ancestry and to most dog fanciers he is a nondescript mongrel. This is true, but the fanciers overlook the fact that a good feist can be a thoroughbred, too. Here are some of the things to look for in such a dog.

1. All good hunting feists are small and yip. Feist authorities say that the best hunting feist is never more than 12 or 15 inches at the shoulder. He must have a high, shrill voice and be happy to use it. He must be willing and able to get under barns, corncribs, log piles and into culverts and gooseberry thickets.

2. A good fiest always runs on the bias. That is, when he travels east his foreparts are running northeast and his hindparts are trailing southwest. As he runs he sometimes holds one leg off the ground as if his foot was sore. His foot is not sore; the dog is simply saving it for later uses. Or something.

3. All good feists can go over, under or through barbed wire fences without being cut. Don't ask how they do it, but they can. While going to and from a hunting area, a feist will often carry something in his mouth to relieve the boredom of travel. This may be a stick, a stone, or a piece of corn cob.

4. A good feist must be able to climb, dig and swim expertly, and hunt constantly. He must be absolutely fearless. And every hunting feist of any value is able to salute at least three trees out of five, no matter how large the forest.

Color and shape are not judging points. It is best to have these little mongrels in a neutural color rather than light yellow or white. You have many colors to choose from: gray, black, tan, or brown in a wide variety of blotches, stripes and spots—colors of every known breed. The best feists are usually crosses of terriers, beagles, spitz, [illegible] anything else that happened along. Because of his patchwork ancestry the feist lacks the bone-headed timidity of some finely bred hunting dogs, and is consistentnly loyal, rugged and calm.

Good squirrel dogs are becoming rare. It's a shame, because a feist is specially designed to drive squirrels crazy. He likes to surprise a squirrel by a silent, furious assault, putting the squirrel up an isolated tree and cutting off its escape route to the home den. While the little dog is yipping his head off and jockeying the squirrel into position, you can amble quietly up and slip around to the opposite side of the tree. There's your squirrel, practically in the pan.

Feists make good rabbit dogs, too, for they like to poke around in heavy brush and horseweeds. In fact, they're good for almost anything. We've seen them tangle with woodchucks, badgers, snakes and catfish. They'll fight badgers into their dens and climb up inside hollow trees for big 'coons and possums. For some reason they love to fight skunks. Colonel James Corbett, in "Maneaters of Kumaon," tells of Robin, a little feist who travelled in Corbett's hunting coat because of his weak heart but who would challenge a raging leopard.

This is a feist's philosophy: "I'm too ugly to be a show dog, and don't have enuogh tail to be a pointer. I don't have the ringing voice of a Walker hound, and I can't stand icy water like a Labrador. I'm too small to be dangerous. All I can do is bark a lot and be brave. So I'll do that."

Such a dog doesn't come along often, but when he does he is remembered. Many hunters think of their boyhood feists long after they have forgotten the pointers and setters of manhood. That is because being a good gun dog isn't just a matter of pastern, stifle, and spring of rib. It's a matter of heart.

More Responsive—Mercury gives you the advantages of high horsepower without sacrificing economy. A unique 4-barrel carburetor operates on 2 barrels for thriftier normal driving and switches "vacumatically" to 4 barrels when full reserve power is needed for quicker, safer passing.

Smoother, Quieter—Engine vibration is virtually eliminated by using a 5-bearing crankshaft with eight counterweights, rather than the usual six. And, for even greater smoothness, all major engine parts are balanced separately, then each engine is balanced in operation, after assembly—a process usually used on only the most expensive engines.

Greater Economy—Mercury lets you enjoy the advantages of high horsepower without sacrificing economy. For this is one of the most efficient V-8's in our economy-famous history. And you can use regular, non-premium gas.

Greater Efficiency—New short-stroke engine design (3.1") cuts wear, gives 29% more mileage for same amount of piston travel. You save on upkeep.

Unmatched for Sheer Ruggedness—Mercury's new deep-skirt crankcase extends almost 3 inches below the crankshaft's center line—gives better crankshaft and bearing support. You get an engine with far greater stamina. But to fully appreciate Mercury, try it yourself—today!

PHIL SCHMITZ UNANIMOUS PICK FOR "PLAYER-OF-WEEK" HONORS

PHIL SCHMITZ
"Dirty Shirt" Schmitz, That Is

There was nothing close about the decision on Bronco Player-of-the-Week after last Friday's bout with Northwood. One man—Phil Schmitz—stood head and shoulders above every man on the team.

"Dirty Shirt" Schmitz, that boy might well be called. When a gridder is submarining plays and generally getting his work done, he's bound to end up with a well soiled jersey. Suffice it to say that there wasn't a dirtier shirt on the field than the one so honorably muddied by the hard-working Schmitz.

Twice he gave his team mates an opportunity to head off decisive scores. Once it was a pass interception in the shadow of the Bronco goal. Another time it was a desperation tackle on the six, after half the Belmond team had missed tackles aimed at the Viking runner.

The less said about the calibre of play most of the Broncos produced against their out-weighed opponents, the better. Ron Steenblock turned in his usual dependable performance until he fractured a bone in his right hand early in the second half. The extent of the injury being unknown, he continued in play during most of the remainder of the game; but—not surprisingly—pain made it impossible for him to match his usual brand of ball.

Ron Hansen and "Big Nick" Eugene Nicholson were both in there scrapping and deserve a nod of approval. Defensively and on blocks, the rest of the boys played only by fits and starts, at best.

It was a fine run that LeRoy Smith turned in to score Belmond's final touchdown and the pass combinations that produced the first Bronco score looked slick for the moment. But on the full-game basis, the BHS offense was miserably weak—and the secondary defense left a great deal to be desired.

That man Schmitz, though—HE played himself a ball game!!

—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS

Buffalo Center's hopes of again being a major power in the North Iowa conference football suffered a great blow a couple of weeks ago when Gary Sleper, all-conference utility lineman as a junior last year, was ordered to give up the sport. Sleper was one of the best line-backers in the loop last fall and a fine center on offense.

He suffered an injury a couple of weeks ago and was sent to the doctor for examination. The physician discovered Sleper has a severe curvature of the lower spine and warned him that further participation in football would be extremely dangerous. Ironically enough, the condition had nothing to do with the injury that took him to the doctor's office, as we hear it.

Against Belmond last season, Sleper spent almost as much time Purple and White ball-carriers. He in the Bronco backfield as did the also delivered many an effective block that helped the Bison backs tear off large chunks of yardage. He's the son of a nephew of Otto Hanson, who told us of the boy's tough luck. Too bad!

—PSS—

We see that another star of last year's fine BC team—probably as good as there was in the NIC, despite the fact that the Bison didn't cop the crown—is making his presence known on the Iowa State prep squad. He's a 190-lb. Bruce Myers, also an all-conference choice a year ago. Bruce was a rampaging fullback for the Bison. Art Steele, ISC freshman mentor, has shifted hmi to guard position. Myers should do alright there. He, too, was a bearcat on defense.

—PSS—

Although NIC cage teams (especially Belmond) did OK in the state basketball ratings last winter, our league doesn't seem to cut much of a swathe in football circles. Coaches of this area very plainly don't think too highly of the NIC brand of football. Could it be, in part, that the North Iowa league is short on "sports politicians"?

In last week's statewide ratings, Garner did best of the loop teams—all of which fall into Class II, by size. The Cardinals drew eight votes, undoubtedly on the basis of their narrow (7-0) defeat by Eagle Grove, which is tied for 9th in Class I. Hampton didn't even rate notice by trimming Belmond and Forest City.

But Forest City's defeat by Hampton apparently eliminated the Indians from all consideration, too. They got nary a vote. Lake Mills drew seven vote-points, Buffalo Center 5 (same as Dows). Belmond wasn't quite whitewashed; got a single vote for 10th—one point. If we don't stand up for ourselves, who can we EXPECT to, eh, Mr. Hobbs? Of course, that was before Northwood.

—PSS—

Northwood's down-trodden gridders should love the Belmond Broncos like brothers! The Vikings had lost 23 North Iowa conference football games in a row, prior to Friday night. The last time they'd beaten an NIC foe was in their second loop game of the 1950 season—when they got the job done against Belmond, 13 to 0.

—PSS—

Among the things that were clearly evident in last Friday night's debacle was the fact that Northwood WANTED to win the game considerably more than the Broncs. Northwood's line was outweighed by 12 to 15 pounds per man; but it wasn't the lightweights who collapsed in that last half. It was the beefy Broncs.

How complete that collapse was is vividly shown by the last-half statistics.

Only FIVE times after the intermission did Belmond gain yardage on a play. The Vikings chalked up an advance 29 times! Take away Smith's pay-off sprint (59 yards) and the Broncs picked up exactly 20 yards. On 33 scrimmage plays not affected by penalties, Northwood averaged just short of five yards per play.

—PSS—

Ron Steenblock's broken hand will keep him out of the line-up for the next several games, at least. "Roach" was a bad one to have such a misfortune befall. Excepting Phil Schmitz, there hasn't been a more aggressive player in the Bronco line-up. Coach Hobbs plans to gird Tom McNulty, the scrappy prep, as Ron's replacement.

—PSS—

Take note that there wasn't a bowler in the men's leagues last week who beat the high series turned in by Donna Robertson of Rowat-Murray's team in the Women's league. Donna rolled a 210-173-176—559. Ed Albers and George Sharp managed to tie that total. Looking at some of the scores in the men's matches, we'd suggest that Donna might do all right giving lessons.

Friday night, on their home gridiron, Belmond's Broncos earned the dubious distinction of permitting the Northwood Vikings to win their first North Iowa conference football game since 1950. It was a solid victory for the visitors, too; there was at least the margin of difference between the two teams that the score indicates. Particularly in the last half, Northwood completely dominated the play.

During the first two quarters, there wasn't much to choose between the two adversaries. Northwood controlled the ball a bit more of the time than did Belmond; but although the Vikings marked up five first downs to the Broncos' four, the Purple and White gained total yardage of 113 to 105 for the visitors. And the halftime score was 7-6, Belmond.

Northwood Scores First

After a scoreless opening stanza, in which neither team threatened seriously, Northwood pushed across the first marker fairly early in the second quarter. The Vikings held the ball on Belmond's 38 after a punt exchange, and proceeded to march the distance in eight plays. Passes lofted by Mace Reyerson to various of his team mates played a key part in the advance and an eight-yarder to Norris Julson brought the TD. Richard Halland missed the placekick for point.

Hopes for a victory rose in the hearts of the Bronco fans when Belmond promptly struck back to tie the count and then go ahead. Keith Madsen returned the Viking kickoff from his own 10 to the 41. On the first play, Bill Murray tossed a pass to LeRoy Smith good for 33 yards; and on the next play connected with Ron Hansen, who lateralled off to Madsen. Keith scampered the remainder of the distance to the goal and then passed to Hansen for the conversion. That left the Broncs in command, 7-6, at the intermission.

Bronco Defense Crumbles

Belmond's defense simply ripped apart in the second half and the Broncs couldn't get the ball for enough plays to keep in the game. In the final two periods, Northwood had possession for 38 plays and Belmond for only 14. The Vikings gained 162 yards to the Broncos' 79—all but 20 of which were concentrated in LeRoy Smith's sensational TD dash in the fourth quarter; and the victors held a 9-to-1 edge in first downs.

After receiving Belmond's kickoff as play resumed after halftime, Northwood marched from its own 34 to the pay stripe without a halt. A Viking fumble on the 10 gave the home team a chance for a reprieve, but the opportunity was bobbled away. A nine-yard pass from Reyerson to DuWayne Carnes brought the tally and Halland kicked the extra point. Not long after the following kickoff, Northwood again got the ball as Halland intercepted a Murray pass on Belmond's 38.

Carnes Breaks Away

Reyerson picked up five, and on the next play Carnes was apparently trapped for a loss. But as one Bronco tackler after another slid off of him or missed him completely, he galloped all the way to the six before Phil Schmitz speared him from behind. Two plays later, Schmitz temporarily ended the threat by snagging one of Reyerson's heaves and returning it to the 16. The Broncos made 9½ yards in three cracks at the line and then lost the ball on the 25 when a 4th-down pass fizzled.

This time, the Vikings broached no interference from the Broncs. A pass, Stanley Perkins to Norris Julson, netted 17 yards; a second pass went astray; and then Carnes took a handoff over for the touchdown. Again Halland's kick for point was wide, leaving the score 19-7, Northwood.

Smith Romps 59 Yards

Belmond came back once more in explosive fashion. Ron Steenblock raced the kickoff from his own 18 to the 41 — the same place from which the Broncos' earlier scoring drive was launched Two passes failed to connect, then on third down LeRoy Smith gained the Viking secondary on some nice blocking, reversed his field to evade the last two, would-be tacklers and went 59 yards to pay dirt. Ron Steenblock's buck for point was stopped cold. Northwood 19, Belmond 13.

The Vikings picked up a pair of first downs after then ensuing kickoff, but once again Belmond took over on its own 41. A Murray-to-Smith pass missed; then Murray hit Madsen for eight; but a bad pass from center cost a four-yard loss and the Broncos' hopes went down the drain when a final toss to Smith was unsuccessful. Northwood ran out the clock on three more plays and that was that.

Carnes and Reyerson played fine offensive ball for the winners, the former also showing to advantage as a line-backer. In the Viking line, Tackle Gary Rapp and End Norris Julson were stand-outs. Then entire Northwood line out-charged Belmond's a good share of the time, although the Broncos had several stars whose exploits are covered in the Player-of-the-week story.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pratt and son Wayne of Des Moines were Sunday dinner gusets in the Chester Luick home.

Clarion 13, Humboldt 7

Tommorrow night might very well see this year's battle for the North Iowa championship settled, with the season just getting well under way. At any rate, when Forest City travels to Garner, the outcome is certain to have a very important bearing on the title race.

Forest City got into gear last weekend, shellacking Britt 40 to 6, while Garner edged the tough Buffalo Center outfit 12-7. Lake Mills, the only other undefeated NIC team stepped outside the league to suffer a 13-7 defeat at the hands of Nashua.

Belmond, on the strength of its showing against Northwood, will definitely be the under-dog when it tackles the Bison at Buffalo Center tomorrow. A more dependable indication of whether Northwood is definitely shucking off its doormat role may be forthcoming when the Vikings play host to Lake Mills. Northwood seemed to like the business of winning, here last Friday night, and might give the Bulldogs a busy evening.

$14,000 Goal Set for 1st Campaign Of East Hancock Community Chest

A budget of $14,000 has been drawn up for the newly organized East Hancock Community Chest, which will conduct its first fund campaign between Oct. 11 and Oct. 24, it has been announced by B. C. Berge of Garner, president of the organization. The Garner attorney became head of the East Hancock Chest when Rev. Dallas Gibson of Garner, who originally was elected president, moved to Lincoln, Neb.

Establishment of the East Hancock Community Chest developed from a meeting held in November of last year at Garner, at which all townships and communities in the east half of the county were represented. Subsequently, the Chest was incorporated and affiliated with the Community Chest and Councils of America.

28 Directors Named

A board of directors consisting of 28 representatives from participating areas, on the basis of one for each 300 population, was selected. Included on the board are J. J. Cook of Goodell, Raymond Wille and Leonard Kaduce of Avery township, Mrs. Herman Heginger and Russell Hansen of Twin Lake. All townships and towns in the proposed area expressed a willingness to join in the Chest organization and are duly represented.

Budget Drawn Up

In June, the budget committee heard representatives of the following agencies in regard to appropriations they would require for the coming year: United Fund of Iowa, Winnebago Council of Boy Scouts, Iowa Children's Home Society, Council for Retarded Children, Sister Kenney Foundation, American Cancer Society, North Iowa Council of Girl Scouts, Garner Recreational club, Salvation Army and American Red Cross.

It was found that national policy would prevent the county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis from affiliating and that no suitable arrangement could be made for inclusion of the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health association or the Iowa Crippled Children's organization. Both of the latter distribute seasonal seals by mail, which are the source of their income.

Eight Agencies Included

Garner Recreational club and the Girl Scouts will be included in the Garner Chest campaign, only. The other eight agencies will derive funds from the entire East Hancock area. Pledge cards will enable a contributor to state specifically what groups are to share in his donation, if he desires. Otherwise, allocations of funds will be made by the directors according to the budget.

Heading the campaign as cochairmen are Ben Greiman of Liberty township and W. L. Baggs of Garner. They are at present meeting with township and town chairmen to set up the drive. Funds collected will be distributed some time after the first of the year. Pledges may be met by quarterly payments, if the donor wishes.

Donations Deductible

Mr. Berge emphasizes that it is not the purpose of the Community Chest to minimize giving to the organizations included in the Chest, but to encourage giving to legitimate organizations through united effort. Each agency in the Chest has been thoroughly investigated and by contributing to the Chest, one may be assured that his money will go to worthy causes, says the Garner lawyer.

It is suggested to all families that their Chest donations be guided by theri income tax listings of contributions in 1953, plus whatever additional they can afford to give. Mr. Berge reminds that all amounts contributed to the Community Chest are deductible on income tax returns .

"When someone from your community calls upon you to contribute to the Community Chest, treat him as a welcome neighbor." urges Mr. Berge, "as he is a representative of an organization of which you are a part. When you contribute to the Chest, do so generously to insure its success."

Postmaster Cleon Brady reports that the driver of the HPO bus on its inaugural trip last Thursday was guilty of a temporary oversight as it was making its various "ports of call." The vehicle sped through Twin Lakes, Minn., and it wasn't until arrival at Emmons that someone recalled that a stop was scheduled at the community to the north.

As the Emmons High school band members held instruments poised to their lips, ready to provide a musical greeting when the bus pulled to a halt, the red, white and blue traveling PO unhesitatingly passed the assembled onlookers and back-tracked to Twin Lakes.

None of the visiting party mentioned the incident here—but it just possibly might have accounted for some of the 25-minute delay of the HPO in arriving at Belmond. Mr. Brady reports, incidentally, that the bus drew the biggest turn out here of any stop along the entire Albert Lea-to-Tama route

Lloyd Lewis, proprietor of Belmond Hardware, is convinced that The Independent really covers the Belmond trade territory—and then some. A coupon deal he ran recently on a cheese slicer for five cents brought responses from Kanawha, Alexander, Meservey, Goodell and as far away as Forest City, Garner and Clarion. The climax-capper, though, was a mail order received from LaVonne Peters, Lawndale, Calif. Lloyd admits he went in the hole on THAT one, but he has acquired a rather awed admiration for the "pull" of The Independent

Elsewhere in today's paper appears a letter from "Rollie" Kinseth regarding a distinctly disappointing moose hunt he participated in not long ago in Alaska. A subsequent letter received by his wife just this week brings the information that he later took another try at the "meece." This time his luck was better. He bagged one bull, all by himself, and got credit for an "assist" on another one.

SMALL WORLD DEPT. — Mrs. Bill Stadtlander called us to tell of a friend of hers recently running into an old home-towner recently, 'way down at the bottom of the Royal Gorge in Colorado. A Des Moines friend of Mrs. S while sight-seeing out of Colorado Springs made a purchase at a gift shop in the bottom of the "gulch." As is pretty apt to happen when two Iowans get together, both customer and clerk casually identified themselves as natives of the Hawkeye State. The sales lady turned out to be Arlene Craig, former Belmondite and proprietor of the curio shop "out thar."

Concrete evidence that there ARE "Minnesota-sized" northerns in Lake Cornelia was provided a couple of weekends ago by a Clarion fisherman. It weighed 10 lbs. ¼ oz. and measured 38 inches. One thing about catching a lunker at Cornelia, an angler gets a 20-lb. thrill out of an 8 or 10-lb. pike. Conservation net tests lately conducted indicate that more big ones are there for the catching. The fisherman just has to be smarter than the fish.

Received a note from Mac and Dee Jensen last week saying some foul-up has been either slowing up or preventing delivery of their Independents and that they're starving for news from home. Mac, you will recall, is with the U. S. FOA Mission to Haiti. They say they've just moved into a new house in Petionville, which appartently must be a suburb of Port au-Prince.

"At present," says Mac, "we have just three servants and Dee is having her hands full with them. We both spoke a little French but we find we need much more and we are taking lessons three times a week."

Mac adds that his office hours are 7:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Monday through Friday—with no break for lunch—and 7:30 to 12:30 on Saturday. But he says he's getting used to the lunchless routine and rather likes it. He tells that their new home is about 1,000 feet above sea level and provides a "lovely view of the valley and the sea and mountains."

Members of the Lions club ask "Let there be light" — plenty of light around each and every home in Belmond, and let it be provided by a Bag-of-Bulbs purchased from a Lion. Yes, this is the week that the Lions are peddling those bags of a dozen assorted light bulbs at the bargain price of just two bucks.

All proceeds to go toward financing worthwhile welfare projects of said Lions.

Incidentally, if you have some specific need in the bulb line, which a Bag-of-Bulbs won't satisfy, the Lions will gladly provide you with exactly what you need. 'Twon't cost you any more, and the club will get the profit. . . . Bulb-snatchers of Belmond, unite!!! Buy yourselves some spares!

—M-S—

Rev. Emory Van Gerpen reports that he recently closed a big deal with his "mail man." Mail has to be picked up 50 miles from where the Van Gerpens' Wagini mission station is located in Northern Nigeria, and a native had been making the trip for the equivalent of one U. S. cent. Don't laugh. That's REAL money by "bush" calculations.

But all of a sudden the errand boy got cagey. He wanted a raise. He threatened to go on strike unless his pay was boosted by 50 per cent.

Negotiations were entered into by management and labor, and at last an agreement was arrived at. The mail carrier would get his pay boost. Better than that, he'd get TWO cents per trip. But as a safeguard against faithful performance of duty, the extra cent is payable when the Van Gerpens are eligible for return home two years hence.

Consolidation of Tomahawk, Carlson Sales-Distribution Forces Announced

Consolidation of distribution and sales facilities of the Tomahawk Hybrid Corn company and Carlson Hybrid Corn company of Audubon was announced Friday of last week. R. B. Thompson, Tomahawk president, says that as a result of the consolidation, the distribution of Carlson seed corn will be directed out of the Tomahawk office in Belmond.

Tomahawk officials estimate that the consolidation will about double the volume of business handled through the local office. Due to the fact that a Remington Rand punch card tabulating system not long ago installed by the Tomahawk firm is not presently being used to capacity, it is expected that the additional volume can be handled with a minimum of new equipment.

Carlson Was Husking Champ

It also appears, according to Mr. Thompson, that not more than three additional office employees will be required. Two present employees of the Carlson company will be transferred here—Eugene Griffen and Helen Jayne. Five salaried district supervisors are added to the Tomahawk payroll by the consolidation. These men are located at Audubon and Ute in Iowa, Madison, Minn., Washington, Kans., and St. Joseph, Mo. Besides the supervisors, about a half dozen district men working on an overwriting basis for Carlson's are included in the personnel transfer. One of the latter is Elmer Anderson of Galt.

Elmer G. Carlson, whose name the Audubon hybrid firm bears, won the world's cornhusking championship in 1935. He owns 2,300 acres of land near Audubon, is owner of that community's two newspapers and is major stockholder in Chemco, Inc., an anhydrous ammonia distribution company. Currently he is candidate for U. S. Representative from the 7th Iowa District on the Democratic ticket.

Second Major Consolidation

This is the second major consolidation in which Tomahawk has figured. Two years ago the sales organization of Tomahawk was consolidated with that of the Clarke Hybrid Corn company of Conrad. Mr. Thompson says that the Carlson consolidation is a "natural," as was the merger with Clarke.

He states that the three firms have conducted a joint research program for about the past 20 years, with corn breeding plots at Belmond and Conrad and at Lexington, Ill., and winter plots in the Rio Grande valley of Texas and in southern Florida.

C. E. Wilmarth of the Tomahawk company has headed this research work for the past 11 years.

Advantages Pointed Out

Mr. Thompson believes that the Carlson consolidation will place Tomahawk in a stronger competitive position in the hybrid corn industry for two reasons.

First, the seed production risk will be spread out over a wider territory, with growing areas hereafter at Belmond, Corwith, Conrad, Audubon and Avoca in Iowa, Lexington, Ill., and Amboy, Minn.

Secondly, the Tomahawk president states that only three or four other seed corn companies will have as much sales volume processed through a single office—which will give the local firm sales and distribution efficiency equal to that enjoyed by any of its competitors.

TWO MEN DRAFTED

Two men from Wright county were inducted into the Army on Monday of last week to fill the county's latest Selective Service quota. They were Everett Nelson of Dows and Roger J. Anderson of Clarion.

GENTRY ON BATTLE WAGON

Word comes from the Navy's Fleet Home Town News Center that Gunner's Mate 3 c Donald E. Gentry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gentry, is now serving on the crew of the battleship USS Wisconsin.

Former State Director of FHA Joins Rowat-Murray; To Open D.M. Office

B. W. Lodwick of Des Moines, who on Aug. 1 resigned as state director of the Farmers Home Administration in Iowa after serving for more than seven years in that capacity, on Friday of last week joined the firm of Rowat-Murray, Engineers. He will establish an office of the Belmond firm in Des Moines in the near future.

L. W. Murray, head of Rowat-Murray, and Mr. Lodwick have known each other since both were affiliated with the Indianapolis office of the FHA (then the Farm Security Administration) some 15 years ago. Mr. Murray was regional stationary engineer, 1934-41, and Mr. Lodwick was assistant regional director from 1937-47. Indianapolis was FSA headquarters for Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois and Ohio.

Firm Employs 40

Mr. Lodwick will represent Rowat-Murray in making contacts with municipalities, counties and other governmental units and agencies that contract for engineering services. The engineering firm at present employs 40 persons and does work in connection with all types of drainage problems, municipal development including town planning, hydraulics, structural and highway engineering. It also offers mapping and estimate service.

Since the death of R. L. Rowat, Estherville, in 1952, Mr. Murray has owned and operated the firm. A 1930 graduate of Iowa State college with a degree in general engineering, he worked with the Iowa State Planning board from 1934-39.

Belmond is now Rowat-Murray's principal place of business. A field office is maintained at Emmetsburg.

Lodwick ISC Alumnus

Until relinquishing his recent position with the FHA Mr. Lodwick had been an employee of the U. S. Department of Agriculture since 1920. He served as county agent in Poweshiek, Worth and Fayette during the period 1920-35.

In 1935 he moved to Des Moines and set up the Rural Rehabilitation program in Iowa, predecessor to the FSA, continuing as director of that agency until his departure to Indianapolis. Mr. Lodwick is a native of Mystic and a 1920 graduate of Iowa State college.

2 OTHERS ADDED TO R-M's STAFF

Another newcomer is joining the local staff of Rowat-Murray, Engineers, on Oct. 18 in the capacity of chief designing engineer. He is Robert W. Rosene. A native of Lincoln, Neb., Mr. Rosene has lately been serving as resident engineer in charge of Navy construction at Athens, Ga., holding rank as a Lieutenant.

The new R-M staff member holds Bachelor and Master of Science degrees in civil engineering from the University of Minnesota and is a registered professional engineer in Minnesota and Iowa.

Besides his recent Navy job, his experience has included: research assistantship at Minnesota; Naval engineering service at Okinawa; work with the Minneapolis engineering and architechtural firm of Lang and Raugland; and employment with Conlin Construction company of Dubuque.

Still another addition to the Rowat-Murray staff is Charles E. Hankes of Clarion, who was hired last month as a senior technician on field and office work. He was formerly employed by the Soil Conservation Service at Clarion as a conservation aide.

He had been with the U. S. Department of Agriculture since 1934, excepting time off for military service during World War II, part of which was spent in India.

Mr. Hankes' wife is the former Muriel Gartz of Belmond. They have three children and are still living in Clarion, until satisfactory living quarters can be found.

HPO RESPONSIBLE FOR CHANGES IN MAIL RECEIPT AND DELIVERY

Postmaster J. C. Brady says that several changes in local receipt and delivery of mail have been effected as a result of the introduction of Highway Post Office mail service here last week. Because the HPO bus arrives a bit later than the Garner star route truck used to, carrier delivery of mail will be a little later than it was. The mobile post office will arrive at Belmond at 8:22 a. m. northbound, and 5:00 p. m. southbound.

Compensating for this slight lag will be the fact that later mail can be included in the day's deliveries than was previously the case. Delivery of mail to the business district will start at 8:45 a. m. instead of 8:30, and residential deliveries will start at 9:00 instead of 8:30.

Changes in schedule also affect the Mason City and Hampton star routes. The truck from Mason City in the morning will be following practically the old schedule arriving at 8:15 and returning at 8:30. But the afternoon truck that did arrive at 2:00 will now get in at 2:45 p. m., and instead of going on to Clarion and returning through here at about 3:00 o'clock, the truck will now lay-over in Belmond until starting back to Mason City at 5:05 p. m.

Whereas the Hampton westbound truck formerly arrived at Belmond at 9:00 a. m., it now gets here at 9:25, and the eastbound departure time will hereafter be 3:10 instead of 2:50 p. m.

Fire Chief Lauds Good Record Set So Far This Year

Fire Chief A. W. Johnson takes the occasion of National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 3-9, to express appreciation for the care that people of Belmond have clearly been taking to avoid fires—and to offer several suggestions to protect the good record that has been made.

Wallace Cramer, Fire Department secretary, reports that the firemen have answered only five local alarms since the first of the year. Two of these were to residences, two to business establishments and one involved a car that caught fire on Main street. No damage of consequence was caused in four instances, and only a $50 loss was suffered in the "worst" residential blaze.

12 Calls This Year

Mr. Johnson says the firemen are proud of this record and he believes the community has every reason to take pride in it. Altogether, the fire department has answered only 12 calls since the start of the year. These included one to Rowan, one to Thornton, one to Goodell and the others were to farms in the immediate Belmond vicinity. Heaviest loss was that incurred in the fire at the Ward Martin farm, tenanted by Fred Vestweber, last week.

Chief Johnson urges that the following precautions be observed to keep Belmond's fire-loss record among the lowest in the state:

(1) Remove all rubbish, trash, papers and other fire-inviters from around your premises; (2) Have chimneys, furnaces, stoves and flues cleaned before winter; (3) Be sure you know how to turn in a fire alarm correctly and promptly.

Check on Wiring

(4) Disconnect all electrical appliances immediately when through using them; (5) Regularly inspect all electrical wiring in your home—be sure your radio and television sets are properly hooked up and that the aerial is grounded. (6) If you smoke, be sure stubs are completely extinguished; and DON'T smoke in bed.

(7) Keep matches in a closed container—and out of reach of children; (8) Do not allow curtains or drapes to hang near an open flame; (9) Build with fire-proof materials.

"RED HOT" Bargains

Attention is called to the appropriately "red hot" specials that are being advertised in this issue of The Independent as a feature of Fire Engine Day, this Saturday. Twenty-seven business places are participating in the event and they are offering an aggregate of nearly five dozen genuine, money-savings bargains—good Saturday ONLY. And to get the "old folks" into town so they can avail themselves of these buys, the astute Retail Trade bureau of the Chamber of Commerce has arranged for the Fire Department to give kiddies free rides on one of the city firetrucks between 1:30 and 4:30 p. m. It's promised that Mom and Dad will be happy that the kids "brought" them.

Jones New Man At Belmond Auto

E. G. Jones of Ocheydan on Monday of last week joined the sales force of Belmond Auto company. He is married and has two sons—Jack, age eight, and Alan, six. The Joneses have moved into the Ernest Johnson apartment.

For quite a number of years, Mr. Jones traveled the Iowa territory for Ford Motor company. For the past 4½ years he has been conducting a Ford agency at Ocheydan, having sold the business just recently.

FOLLOWWILL DISCHARGED

Milton Lee Followwill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Followwill, returned home Wednesday evening of last week after having been discharged from the U. S. Air Force at Parks AFB, Calif. He had completed a four-year enlistment and attained a rating of Staff Sergeant. The past year he served in Korea.

Belmond Community Chest Sets Budget at $3,900; Cecil Carstens Heads Campaign Starting Oct. 25

Belmond's annual Community Chest drive will be conducted the week of Oct. 25, it was decided at a meeting of the Chest Council held Monday of this week. At the same meeting, a budget of $3,900 was approved, an amount $100 less than the goal of the three previous campaigns the Chest has conducted. Cecil Carstens will serve as chairman of the fund drive.

In spite of increased appropriations for several of the affiliated agencies, the Chest Council found it possible to reduce slightly the total budget due to withdrawal of the Wright county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. In previous years, a minimum of $450 has been contributed by the Chest to the polio fund.

Five Appropriations Upped

Increased appropriations were approved for: United Fund of Iowa (includes USO) from $225 to $291, Camp Fire Girls $250 to $300, Sister Kenney Foundation, $198 to $220, Iowa Children's Home Society $385 to $400, and Salvation Army $367 to $380.

With these changes, the budget for the nine affiliated agencies plus a modest allowance for contingency and administrative expense, stands as follows:

American Cancer Society	$700
Boy Scouts	900
Camp Fire Girls	300
Iowa Children's Home Soc	400
PTA Summer Recreation	300
Salvation Army	380
Sister Kenney Foundation	220
United Fund of Iowa	291
Volunteers of America	150
Reserve and Admin Exp	259
Total	$3,900

Red Cross Still "Out"

An effort was made to work out arrangements whereby the Red Cross could be included in the Community Chest, but it was finally decided by the Chest Council that such a step would not be feasible this year. Goal for the 1954 Red Cross fund drive was $1,405 and Belmond's proportionate share of this amount was approximately $950. On the basis of a similar budget, the Chest Council has felt that the Red Cross funds for 1955 might safely be consolidated in the Chest budget.

However, it was reported by Mrs. Arlo Pitcher, chairman of the Belmond Red Cross chapter, that that group felt the '55 budget of the Red Cross should be increased to $1,900 and that $1,300 of that amount would have to be raised in Belmond. According to the Community Chest president, Mrs. James T. Barry, the Council regarded that boosting the Community Chest goal to $5,200 might seriously jeopardize success of the up-coming drive.

Assistant Chairmen Picked

Mrs. Pitcher explained that the decision to increase the Red Cross goal by $500 was prompted by the fact that sponsorship of the annual swimming program has regularly cut into the chapter's reserve fund in recent years. It is the chapter's wish to at least reduce the operational deficit in the coming year.

Mr. Carstens has selected most of his assistant chairmen for the coming Chest campaign and these individuals are now drawing up their lists of workers. He says that a determined effort will be made this years to complete the major part of the soliciting in two days time. He added that the drive at the General Mills plant will pre-date the general campaign, being planned for the preceding Friday and Saturday.

RURAL AREA OF WRIGHT COUNTY FORMS CHEST; DRIVE OCT. 18-23

Wright County Rural Community Chest, whose establishment has been in the forming stage for nearly a year's time, became a reality on Thursday night of last week when its constitution and by-laws were approved at a meeting held at the conference room of Hagie Hybrid Corn company, Clarion.

Community Chests have previously existed at Belmond, Eagle Grove, Clarion and Goldfield. Included in the rural Chest is all other territory in Wright county, exclusive of the town of Dows, which has not yet decided to affiliate with the new organization. Representatives from all other towns and townships in the county attended last week's meeting and affixed their signatures to the regulations that will govern the Rural Community Chest.

Will Meet Rural Problem

Mrs. Glen Wilson of Eagle Grove, publicity chairman for the new Chest, points out that several counties in the state have had rural Chests in successful operation for some time. She cites as examples the Chests in Osceola and Scott. An East Hancock County Community Chest has also just been launched and is to open its first fund campaign on Monday of next week.

Multiple drives in the course of each year have posed a serious problem in rural areas from the [illegible] obtaining volunteer solicitors to conduct them. Canvassing is even more of a problem in the country, needless to say, than in town. Mrs. Wilson says that the rural people have been most willing—eager, in fact—to give their fair share, but that setting up one fund raising campaign after another has become increasingly difficult in recent years.

Eleven Agencies Included

It is foreseen, says the publicity chairman, that the rural people will respond generously to the appeal of the new Chest in appreciation of the convenience that it makes possible. Eleven agencies will derive their funds for the coming year through the Rural Chest. Practically all that have regularly solicited funds in the country are included, with the exception of those organizations that limit their appeals to direct-mail campaigns, such as the seal sales of the Tuberculosis and Health association and the Crippled Children's society.

At last Thursday night's meeting, the appropriations tentatively suggested by the budget committee were approved by the area representatives with only minor changes. These call for a total budget of $13,350. A kick-off meeting of the campaign workers has been set for the evening of next Wednesday and

Jacobson Store Sold Wednesday To M. Johnston

Another Belmond business went into new hands Wednesday of this week when a deal was closed whereby the stock and equipment of Jacobson Furniture store was sold by Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Jacobson to Maynard Johnston. Mr. Johnston the middle of last month acquired ownership of the former Boone Funeral Home, now Johnston's Funeral Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson have made their home in Belmond for over 12 years. They came here in 1942, at which time they purchased the IGA grocery from C. A. "Cully" Perkins. This business was located at the site now occupied by the P&G grocery. About 10 years ago, they disposed of the grocery and bought the furniture business that had been operated by Kenneth Hanson.

Future business plans of the Jacobsons are undecided at this time. They say, however, that their present intention is to continue to make Belmond their home.

Mr. Johnston has had 11 years experience in the furniture line. He was employed during that period of time by Hanson Furniture store at Forest City. For several years, before his recent move to Belmond, he was in charge of the bookkeeping end of the business.

Final Rites Held For Lyle E. Hall

Funeral services were held Sunday at the Alexander Methodist church for Lyle E. Hall, 70, lately of Spencer, Ind., who for a number of years lived 2½ miles west of Alexander. He was the father of Harry Hall and Mrs. H. C. Hanson and brother of Mrs. Lloyd Green and Mrs. Ethel Kelting, Belmond.

Mr. Hall died Tuesday of last week at Spencer, Ind., where he had bought a farm only four months ago. He had been living in Howard county, Iowa, before his recent move to Indiana.

Services Sunday were conducted by Rev. B. R. Price, pastor of the Alexander church, and Rev. William Schorman of the Belmond Congregational church. Burial was in the Alexander cemetery. Fulton Funeral Home was in charge.

Survivors, besides the two children and two sisters already mentioned, include the deceased's wife; two other children, Mrs. R. C. Ripple of Chester and George Hall, living with his parents; also eight grandchildren.

CHICKEN SUPPER

Women of Trinity Lutheran church will serve a chicken supper in the church basement on Tuesday of next week, starting at 5:30 p.m.

Bohning Qualifies As "Carrier Pilot"

PENSACOLA, Fla. (FHTNC) — Now qualified as a carrier pilot after six landings aboard the light aircraft carrier USS Monterey in the Gulf of Mexico is Naval Aviation Cadet Donald C. Bohning, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Bohning of Route 1, Belmond, Iowa. He attended Iowa State college, Ames, and Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta, before entering the Flight Program through the U. S. Naval Air Station in Lincoln, Neb.

The landings completed a stringent schedule in military, academic, physical and flight training.

A course of instruction in instrument flying at the Corry Field U.S. Naval Auxiliary Air Station here is his next step towards earning the coveted Navy "Wings of Gold."

Department Wants Friends, Donors To See New Home

Members of Belmond's volunteer fire department are inviting the public to join with them Sunday in celebrating an achievement which, so far as is known, is unique in the entire state of Iowa. Between the hours of 2:00 to 5:00 p. m. they will have open for inspection the new fire station, built and owned by the department. Fire Chief A.W. "Doc" Johnson says he knows of no other fire department in the state—or elsewhere, for that matter—that has a similar accomplishment to its credit.

During the open house hours, the firemen will serve ice cream, cookies and coffee to all who come to inspect the new station and the department's "fleet" of three trucks. They hope that their friends will turn out by the hundreds to share the occasion with them.

Honor Roll for Donors

More than $11,200 toward the cost of building the station was raised by public subscription. Time and materials for its construction were donated by a number of individuals, also. The department, itself, gave $2,000 toward the project. Altogether, the individuals and business firms on the donor list number approximately 250. Their names will be listed on a roll to be placed on permanent display at the fire hall.

Ownership of the land on which the station stands was retained by the city, with right granted the fire department to build on it. Chief Johnson says that the station will ultimately be deeded to the city, which takes responsibility for its maintenance just as it maintains the trucks.

80 Farm Shareholders

Both of the rural trucks were bought by the firemen, with funds derived from sale of shares to farmers of the adjacent countryside. About 80 farmers have an interest in the two trucks, one bought in 1936 and the other in 1948. No charge is made for summons to the farm homes of shareholders, whereas a fee of $75 is levied for answering all other rural alarms.

The city truck always remains within the city limits and at the time of rural calls enough firemen are left behind to provide protection in case of a simultaneous fire in town.

Department Formed 1884

Belmond's volunteer fire department has protected life and property over a period of 70 years, having been organized in 1884. Membership in the department is exclusive and is attained only by approval of a very large majority of the active members. There is almost always a waiting list of men aspiring to membership in the organization.

Other current officers, in addition to Chief Johnson, are: Lem Long, assistant chief; George Hansen, treasurer; and Wallace Cramer, secretary. Matt Holtzbauer, now retired after 50 years of service, is honorary chief.

Members Listed

Besides these men, the following are members: R. B. Thompson, M. H. "Barney" Dillon, Ray Davis, Asa White, Charles Studebaker, George Waddington, Cecil Carstens, Clark McNeal, J. C. Brady, Harold Olson, Ted Behrends, Paul Dorr, Ronald Courson, Clair Bonte, M. B. Dannewitz.

George Jenison, O'Larry Dorr, Glen Crapser, Ray Thompson, R.G. "Bud" Packard, Don Bunnell, Dr. Robert Misner, Maynard "Gus" Taylor, Merle Bonte, Lawrence Kelley, Leo Dorr, Sr., Leland "Bud" Barkema and Ed Gabrielson.

Three Boys Take Money from Store

Three boys ranging in age from 12 to 14 were taken into custody last Sunday after they had stolen some change from Waddington's store. According to Sheriff Bob Blecker, Jim Waddington had entered his place of business some time earlier and neglected to lock the door when he left. Junior Saunders of the By-Lo Food market had seen the youngsters go into the store and reported the fact.

Mr. Waddington reported to the police that $8.60 was taken, and most of that sum was recovered. Sheriff Blecker says the matter has been turned over to the county attorney's office for further action.

Two of the boys had been involved in an escapade just a week earlier, when a group of four were discovered in an attempt to enter Adams Pharmacy. The sheriff states that all of the boys involved in the two incidents have been guilty of previous delinquencies. Whether the trio caught Sunday will be ordered to appear in juvenile court now rests with the county attorney.

250 DOLLARS Up Next Week

After an "off week" this week—only three prizes for a total of $150, and no winners—Cash Gift Day will get back into stride next Tuesday. There will be six awards for a total of $250. As to the number of winners, time alone can tell. This week's 3:00 p. m. prize of $100 is being boosted to $150; and at 2:00 p. m. there will be four, instead of two, $25 plums for the picking. This week was the first blank one in many months. The Cash Gift Day sponsors hope that claimants will show up to haul off at least part of next week's money. They don't want the stuff to spoil.

28 Boys Enrolled In Safety Patrol

Twenty-eight boys are serving this year in the Student Safety Patrol that watches over street crossings near the Belmond schools before and after class hours. Dick Evenson, junior high teacher, is in charge of the patrol.

E. R. Lange of Davenport, safety director of the AAA Motor Club of Iowa, which sponsors the student patrols, says, "Teachers and police officers who have helped to develop the School Safety Patrol have done a wonderful job; but they cannot do the job alone.

"Parents must also impress upon their children the necessity of obeying the patrol members if they want the journey to and from school to be safe. And parents should also conscientiously follow the signals of Safety Patrolmen whenever they encounter them, because children follow the examples set by adults."

Monthly posters for school bulletin boards are provided by the AAA Motor club to foster the spirit of friendly cooperation between the patrol members and their young charges. The first month's poster was drawn by a 14-year-old New York City student who won first prize in the 10th National AAA Traffic Safety Poster contest last spring.

Heading the local patrol is Kenny Hawley as captain. He has two lieutenants, Roger Hoppel and Howard Mussell.

Other Student Patrol members this year are: from 8th grade—Alan Dean, Alan Flanagan, Donald Hanson, Peter Jenison, Howard Johnson, Gaylen Lathrop, Robert Lerdal and Harvey Sturm.

The Way to Go

One of those big, gleaming coast-to-coast busses roared past Carl Johnson's gas station the other day, and someone mentioned how much travel had changed since the good old days.

"How do you mean, good?", laughed Carl. "You call slow schedules, rough rides, poor connections, and frequent breakdowns good? Not for me!"

No, and not for me, either. Give me today's transportation. It's fast and comfortable, and I can take my choice of rail, plane, bus, or my own car.

When you come right down to it, freedom of choice should go with everything. Take refreshment for example. Freedom to choose is important because different things hit the spot with different people.

With me it's a temperate glass of beer. Now, lots of folks agree with my choice, but not all. Some have different preferences of their own. Seems to me each of us should choose what he likes, and let the other fellow have the same privilege. That works out fair for everyone, whether we're choosing ways of going places or refreshments to enjoy.

Cycling Wayfarer Visits Belmond; Has Made Stops At All But Two State Capitols During U. S. Tour

A different kind of See-America-First'er visited Belmond on Monday of this week. He was Walter E Devine, 32, of Portland, Ore., who is about to conclude a bicycle tour that has taken him to the capitals of all but two states of the Union. He had St. Paul, Minn., and Nashville, Tenn., still remaining as "ports of call" on his itinerary. He explained that a flood prevented him from visiting Nashville when he was traveling that part of the country a year ago.

Devine took off from Portland on May 5, 1952, and had covered more than 38,000 miles when he passed through here. He said he knew of five other fellows who had attempted the journey he is winding up, but all of them "gave out" long before they got the job done. He figures he'll have pedalled about 41,000 miles by the time he reaches the west coast the end of next January.

Travels Are Documented

He carries with him well documented evidence that he's been all the places he claims. At each capitol building he picked up a couple of autographed pictures of the governor, plus a letter signed by that honorable gentleman attesting that Devine had actually called. To each letter is affixed the state's official seal.

The traveler said he's now on his tenth set of bicycle tires and that he's had to have the frame of his vehicle welded five times to mend breaks. He does most of his highway riding at night when traffic is lighter. He hopes to capitalize on his stunt by publicity at its conclusion and stated that he has commitments to appear on nationwide TV and radio programs when he reaches California on his way home

Started With a Dime

There was just a dime in his pocket when he started, Devine said, and he still has the 10-cent piece. He's clever with a pair of pliers and a piece of wire and has made his way by designing personal names and profiles out of that material. He never makes a charge, he said; but if a small fee is proffered he most willingly accepts it He earned breakfast at Belmond cafe with a few minutes' wire-twisting.

A logger by trade, he practiced up on the wire-bending art before he started his tour and says it has held him in good stead. He was traveling extremely light and his most immediate concern was getting his St. Paul call made and proceeding to the southland before cold weather caught up with him.

Beresford Gives Word on Feeding Outlook for 1955

"Cattle feeders must make their profits on margins in the coming year's time, as profit will not be produced over cost of gains," Rex Beresford predicted at the Wright County Livestock conference held Tuesday of last week at Clarion.

The Iowa State college expert pointed out that large cattle numbers are still a threat to profits in feeding operations, with the cattle slaughter expected to reach nearly 40 million head in 1955, the same as in 1954. Beresford anticipates there will be plenty of feeders for the corn belt, but suggests watching purchase price carefully to assure a profit margin.

Feed Prices No Lower

He does not expect the fed-cattle prices next year will be any higher than in '54, whereas feed prices will be as high or higher Beresford said that the gross national product, which is commonly used as a gauge in estimating outlook, is expected to match the 357 billion dollars of the current year.

Turning his attention to the hog picture, Beresford said it is less favorable than the cattle-feeding outlook. Compared to 92 million head of hogs in 1954 and 83 million in 1953, the prediction for 1955's hog production is 95 to 98 million head. Experts estimate an 11 per cent increase in hog farrowing from December through February.

For the sheep raiser, he said, farm flock outlook is favorable but the coming year is not so promising for the lamb feeder.

Ample Feed Grains

Poultry supplies are very large, Beresford added, and adjustments will have to be made in that industry.

From the standpoint of feed grains to support large numbers of livestock, Beresford believes there should be ample supplies even though the corn crop this year is smaller than last year's. It will be necessary to dip into the reserve supply of corn, he anticipates, which likely will cause corn price to approach ceiling level as the season advances.

Beresford noted that there has been a big increase in soybean production, 262 million bushels having been produced last year and the estimate for 1954 being 330 million. Exports of soybean products, he said, can be expected to influence soybean price to a marked extent.

Purpose of the clinic was to discuss how the retail lumber dealer can be of more assistance to his community through analysis of the community's needs.

HRUSKA, COX REAPPOINTED TO CITY LIBRARY BOARD

Mrs. G. J. Hruska and Luin Cox were appointed this week by Mayor Henry Hokel to succed themselves as members of the city library board and the appointments were approved Monday night by the city council.

Mrs. Hruska and Mr. Cox were named to serve full, six-year terms on the board. Both had originally be appointed to fill board vacancies, left by the resignations of the late Daisy Cameron and Jim Adams.

First Extension Training Lesson Given Last Week

First leaders' training lesson for the new extension year was presented to 32 rural women on Thursday of last week at Clarion by Allene Thompson, area home economist. It was on the subject, "Using Milk and Dairy Products," and included use of dry milk products. These were used in almost all dishes prepared for the noon luncheon.

During the lesson it was pointed out that studies made of the diets of school children in Wright county showed that not enough milk and milk products are being used to fill dietary needs for protective diets. It was also pointed out that studies made of diets of older people showed that they are not receiving enough milk to keep them free from trouble caused by calcium deficiencies.

Rural women who attended the lesson will conduct follow-up meetings in their own communities using the material and ideas presented by Mrs. Thompson.

The luncheon menu prepared and served in conjunction with the lesson consisted of meat loaf, escalloped asparagus, relish tray, cheese spread, muffins and butter, ice cream, peanut butter cookies and coffee. The milk products used were the equivalent of one eight-ounce cup of whole milk per person for the meal.

Mrs. R. C. Nolte, chairman of the county committee, stated that the next leader training meeting, also to be conducted by Mrs. Thompson, will be held Nov. 4 at the VFW hall in Clarion. It will be an afternoon meeting on the topic "Planning Good Use of Time."

OUR FARM NEIGHBORS

NELS BACK and "CORKY"

Here we have Nels Back, a redent of this farming community for 28 years, and his pal "Corky" a Scotch collie.

We visited for a while the other day with Nels on his 80 acre farm about three miles NE of Goodell when he stopped ringing the fall pigs long enough to tell us a little bit about himself.

Nelson lost his wife two years ago and has been "batching it" since. His daughter Marcele and husband who live in Mason City generally join him every weekend. We couldn't help but admire how neat and clean his place was and suspected the fine hand of Mr. Back was responsible for same.

Mr. Back keeps himself just as busy as he wants to be kept. He likes to take time off for fishing occasionally and to come in to town for visits. On the farm he feeds out an average of 100 hogs each year, no favorite breed, just mixes 'em up. Write Leghorns are his favorite chicken and he keeps about 300 pullets.

Since he bought his farm in 1925 and moved on the following year he modernized the home, built a new machine shed and corn crib.

He stated that he would kind of like to retire but he didn't know where he would go or what he would do, so he guessed he would just continue farming with time off now and then to go fishing and visiting.

Ye Ed got an anonymous phone call last week, raking him over the coals for being somewhat less than enthusiastic over the showing the Broncos made against Northwood. The lady said we "ought to be ashamed." Well, mebbe. But if it wasn't two different football teams that stumbled before the Vikings and then played the far superior Buffalo Center eleven to a standstill, we'll go along with our critic and agree we haven't any business even writing about football. Let us say here and now that we are proud . . . proud . . . PROUD of that Belmond performance against the Bison.

Frankly, we want the gridders on our side just as staunchly as we're on their side. If we needle 'em now and then, we do it only in the hope of making them mad enough to show us how plumb wrong we are.

It wasn't a perfect game that the Broncs played Friday night. But anyone inclined to forget their never-ending scrap just to dwell on their shortcomings can go jump in the lake, so far as we're concerned. They played hard, eager football; and they did themselves, their school and their backers proud. If you think they weren't playing a tough brand of ball, you might confer with the Bisons' star ball-carrier, Jerry Gerdes, on the matter. He had to be benched before the end of the game, simply because he was worn to a frazzle with the repeated, viscious tackles he absorbed during the evening.

—PSS—

While we're involved in this impromptu and totally unsolicited pep talk perhaps we might say a word about a young fellow by the name of "Chuck" Miller who plays offensive quarterback for the West Bend High school team. He's 5-6, weighs 150, and according to his coach is one of the key men in the West Bend line-up. So what? So Chuck's got an artifical leg!

An injury when he was only 5½ years old made it necessary to amputate his left leg above the knee. He's never let the handicap deter him from participation in sports, though; and he's been playing football since junior high.

Last year, Chuck played second team quarterback at Tekamah, Neb. When the family moved to West Bend, he found himself promoted to varsity signal caller. And his team mates say he takes the same sort of treatment from opponents that any of them do. Besides football, Miller plays basketball and baseball and is an excellent swimmer. . . . How about that?

—PSS—

Belmond and Lake Mills dropped completely off the list of rated teams in last week's R & T poll of coaches and officials. Incidentally, the Bulldogs (13-7 losers) were tied with Nashua 7-all until FIVE seconds before the game ended. Garner remained among the also-mentioned teams, drawing six votes. Despite their defeat by the Cardinals (a last-minute, Bison pass that slipped through the receiver's fingers could have reversed that one), Buffalo Center gathered three votes.

—PSS—

Take note in this week's bowling results that "Steady Eddie" Albers last week became the first local kegler to enter the 600 circle in this season's league bowling competition. Eddie came through with a 616, with the help of a 247 high game. Eddie isn't one of these cannoniers. He rolls 'em easy, but he's got a hook that sure harvests the pins!

It was truly a rejuvenated bunch of Broncos that took the field at Buffalo Center last Friday night and brought home a well-earned 6-6 tie. When the game ended John Drugg, coach of the tough BC aggregation, remarked of the Belmond grid machine, "Say! That's a real good team! They should give trouble to any outfit in the conference."

That can be regarded as noteworthy praise, considering that the doughty Bison have already met Lake Mills and Garner. There was no question at any point of the game that the Broncs were determined to give a worthy account of themselves. They were never outfought. Three times they brought serious scoring threats of the opposition to a halt. And with a break or two along the line, the Broncos might well have chalked up a victory.

Broncs Score Early

Belmond lost little time in getting its TD march underway. After an exchange of punts at the outset of the first quarter the Broncos gained possession of the ball on their own 44-yard line and proceeded downfield to pay territory on a series of 13 plays. Keith Madsen and LeRoy Smith traded off as ball-toter to gain two 1st downs in five plays.

When the next two tries went for naught it looked like the drive might fizzle; but Harold Steenblock fixed that by racing for 21 yards on an end around. That put the pigskin on the 13. Smith picked up three, Madsen six, then Smith three more. Madsen covered the final yard on two smashes. Bill Murray was spilled for a loss on the try for extra point. Belmond 6, Buffalo Center 0.

The Bison came back with a vengeance, clicking off three first downs and advancing to the Broncos' 18 before the Purple and White took over. An offside penalty spoiled Belmond's attempt to run the ball into safe territory and then a third down pass by Murray was intercepted by Conrad Nelson on the 15 to put the Broncs back in a bad hole again.

Four downs gave the Bison 1st-and-goal on the four. Two more pokes left the ball only six inches from the promised land — but they didn't make it. Perry Ersland spearheaded a jam-up that stopped a plunge attempt, and on the last down, Ron Hansen batted down a spot pass. The Broncs were unable to manufacture a 1st-and 10, and on fourth down Tom McNulty punted from the three to his own 32.

Three plays netted the Bison 14 yards. At this point, the Broncos were guilty of their only crucial defensive lapse of the evening. Jerry Gerdes romped around the strong side of the BC line and, as two tacklers made futile attempts to stop him, went the final 18 yards to score. His place-kick attempt at conversion went wide and the score stood 6-all.

Breaks All Bad

Although Belmond maintained an edge over their foe throughout most of the last half a number of breaks went against them and they never were able to advance far enough beyond midfield to mount a serious attack. Twice, penalties at crucial points deprived them of 1st-and-10's, once a fumbled punt lost valuable ground, and near the end of the final stanza a penalty put them clear back on the one-yard line. Earlier, a 15-yarder set them back to their 13.

But far from showing discouragement over these disappointing developments, the Broncos played their hearts out to defend that tie score. As the fourth quarter started, the Bison battled from the midstripe clear to their eight-yard line before the Purple and White stemmed the drive. It was a viscious tackle by Madsen and McNulty that finally halted the advance.

Gerdes, Steffensen BC Stars

In the waning minutes of the battle, Coach Hobbs kept his secondary tight on a fourth-down punt — apparently to assure against a pass attempt into the flat — and the ball was downed on Belmond's eight. Typical of the never-say-die spirit they showed all evening, the Broncs made four 1st downs in a row and were down to BC's 43 when the whistle cut short the drive.

Fullback Jerry Gerdes was a standout in the Buffalo Center backfield and Guard Marvin Steffensen played an excellent game in the Bison line. Larry Yahnke was also a constant threat wth the ball and Nelson did a first-rate job as line-backer.

Belmond's stars will, as usual, be described in the Player-of-the-Week story.

GAMES FRIDAY NIGHT

Belmond at Lake Mills
Northwood at Britt
Buffalo Center at Forest City
Garner at Nora Springs

Garner took one giant stride in the direction of the 1954 North Iowa conference football championship Friday night by nicking Forest City, 13-7. Lake Mills kept pace by tromping on Northwood, 31 to 0. On the face of it that should point to the Lake Mills-Garner battle at Garner on Oct. 22 as the next "big one."

But there will be those among the Belmond fans who saw the Broncos in their revitalized showing against Buffalo Center who will point out that the Bulldogs have to get past Belmond this Friday before they've a right to start any title-talk. The BHS crew showed remarkable improvement, and if they make continued progress in practice this week they should provide Lake Mills with a rough, tough evening tomorrow.

During the next two weeks, Garner hooks up with non-conference foes — Nora Springs tomorrow night and Manly on Oct. 15. So the Cards are certain to enter the Lake Mills game with their record unmarred.

Second in interest after the Bronco-Bulldog clash this week will be Buffalo Center's battle with Forest City. Garner beat both by a touchdown and it stacks up as a pretty even game, though home field advantage always seems to stack high with the Indians. They'll be on the war-path, too, after dropping that one to Garner.

Colts Takes 13-0 Win Over Garner

Two passes, Kenny Hawley to Larry Tideback, brought victory to the Belmond Junior high football team over Garner on Wednesday of last week, 13 to 0. Hawley plunged over on the one point conversion. It was the fourth win a row for the Colts over Garner. The BHS froshmores didn't fare so well and had to settle for a scoreless tie.

After a 0-0 first half, the Colts struck in the third quarter when the Hawley-Tideback combination covered 15 yards for the first score. In the fourth period, the same pair combined talents for a 32-yard counter.

In the froshmore game, Belmond had a couple of touchdowns taken away by decisions of the officials. Tom McNulty galloped 60 yards to pay dirt on one occasion, but the play was called back due to a ruling that the free ball he'd grabbed on a fumble was dead.

Later, Tom snared a Garner pass on his own 15 and romped 85 yards to the double-stripe. This time an offside ruling cancelled the play. Garner made only one threat, following a pass interception deep in Belmond territory, but the Junior Broncs promptly held for downs.

Additional Gear Needed to Outfit Big Jr. Hi Squad

One of the biggest, if not THE biggest, junior high football squads in local school history is reporting this fall to Coach Dick Evenson. Included in the group of 40 are about a half dozen boys from Goodell and the country, for whom the Gridiron club has arranged daily transportation, as it does for members of the BHS squad who need it.

So large has been the turn-out that a shortage of equipment presented a serious problem. In this connection, too, the Gridiron club has offered assistance in the way of purchasing 18 pairs of football shoes and also new pants to outfit the 11 starters.

Eight of the 8th-graders on the squad were on the Colt roster last year. They are Kenny Hawley, Bob Lerdal, Howard Johnson, Peter Jenison, Roger Hoppel, Howard Mussell, Alan Flanagan and Charles Hanson. Also drawn from the 8th grade ranks are Harvey Sturm, Cecil Eccles, Gaylen Lathrop, Allan Fuller and Robert Kurtz.

Twenty-eight 7th-graders are on the squad list. They include: Merle Anderson, David Dorr, Roger Ginapp, Jeff Hansen, Lynn Jenison, Larry Crotty, Jerry Kaduce, Jerry Kramer, Bruce Leinbach, Mike Long, Clark McNeal, Donald Madison, Jimmy Crotty.

Dennis Pastour, Dean Pals, Larry Tideback, Mark Mason, Tom Quigley, Russell Lerdal, Merle Robbins, Emmett Studebaker, Martin Stoltenberg, Randy Musselman, Arthur Jenison, Johnny Murray, Gary Porter and Mark McNulty.

The Colts dropped a 7-0 decision to Britt in their first fame, but then trimmed Garner, 13-0. Their next encounter will be at Forest City on Oct. 18.

CHICK CHATS

DON'T KEEP HENS

I hate to be ruthless, but after a hen has laid for a year, I'm all for putting her in the freezer—unless, of course, I'd have some place to keep her for a couple of months, provided she was still laying.

I believe in an all pullet flock. No hens in the flock. I've got what I consider some pretty sound reasons for that. In the first place, hens won't make you as much money as pullets. You have to feed 'em through a molt and then they will come back and lay eggs with poorer shells and poorer interior quality. And eggs aren't too high priced now anyway. It takes quite a few eggs to pay for the feed they ate while losing feathers. Hens average about 3 dozens less eggs than pullets.

If you have hens that you plan keeping over all year, I'd advise selling 'em off. Even if that's all the chickens you have on the place. There were too many pullets hatched last spring so that means that egg prces will stay lower than usual until next summer. Of course, next spring, the prices will be low enough to discourage a lot of folks from buying chickens. So that means that eggs will be high the next fall. So while we're at it, plan on chicks next spring if you want to make money. But they'd better be really good chickens or you're wasting your time and feed.

Mixing hens and pullets is a risky thing. Because the old hens have lived for a year and a half, they're pretty tough old coots. But that doesn't mean that they're perfectly healthy. They can be hauling around disease germs that'll ruin the pullets even though they won't hurt the hens. And one of those diseases may be leukosis—which kills most of the birds that die in laying houses.

Of course, if the hens are still laying, it might be a good idea to put them in the old horse barn after you house your pullets. But don't keep 'em through a molt. It ain't worth it, nohow.

An all pullet flock is a better money maker. And I want you to make money.

HARD CHARGING OF LEROY SMITH BRINGS HIM "PLAYER" LAURELS

When He Hit, Something Gave

Since the Broncos' offense held its own for the first time this year in the bang-up battle last Friday with Buffalo Center, it would seem reasonable to look for "Player-of-the-Week" among the men primarily responsible for this happy state of affairs.

It goes without saying that the backs were getting improved blocking, or they wouldn't have been going much of anywhere. But a back has to do some high-powered digging of his own, as well; and LeRoy Smith was certainly doing that.

Perhaps it could be said that "Smitty" might well have been driving just as hard in previous games. But the point is that he WAS ramming in genuine pile-driver fashion against the Bison. Having "discovered" himself, it is devoutly to be hoped that Smith will continue the very fine work against succeeding adversaries. They will all give bfore the kind of charging he did last weekend.

It was no easy deal for the "Player" panel to make this week's choice. Two previous selections, Phil Schmitz and Perry Ersland, turned in highly praisworthy performances. Bob McLaughlin played far and away his best game of the season. Ron Hansen and Harold Tendall did very creditably — though the latter found himself sadly out of position on an occasion or two, due unquestionably to his relative lack of experience.

Perhaps it would be unfair to mention more of the Broncs, without citing all. For practically every one of them played a commendable brand of ball. Tom McNulty's fine punting should be noted, though; and Keith Madsen's all-around play, which was marred only by his unfortunate habit of leaving his feet at the end of a plunge instead of sticking to the ground where he could jolt for an extra yard or two.

Any shortcomings the Broncs showed, however, were more than compensated for by their determination and fire. The "Player" panel members would love to have their choice made equally difficult in the games yet to come.

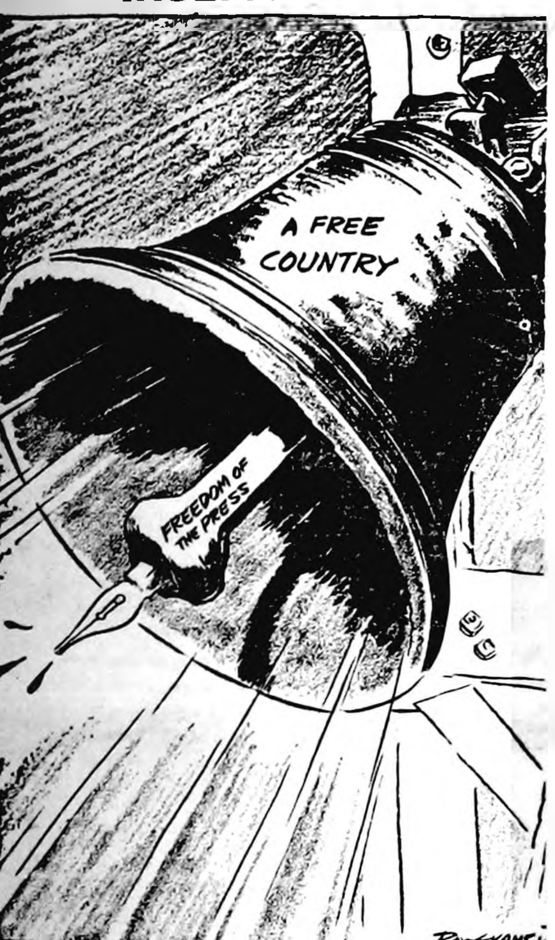
INSEPARABLE



IT'S NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK AGAIN; BUT WE'RE NOT SHOUTING VERY LOUD

This week is National Newspaper Week, an occasion for newspapers the country over to call attention to their merits, to remind their readers of the services the press performs — and, perchance, to do a little soul-searching. As a matter of fact, publishing a newspaper is a pretty frustrating business; and if members of the press take advantage of their "week" to do a bit of bragging, it should best be regarded in the spirit of a youngster whistling through a graveyard than as anything on the order of actual conceit.

You might not believe it, but more newspapermen than not suffer the consequences of tending too much toward being perfectionists. Now and then an issue may come off the press in which the editor and staff take a mild sort of pride. But that satisfaction does not stem from any delusion that the issue was the best of which they're capable. More likely it derives from the fact that they know it COULD have been one heck of a lot worse. Putting out a paper isn't like adding a column of figures, selling a stove or building a house exactly to plan. When a job like that is done, it's done. But you can't make a nice package out o fa newspaper issue and tie it up with ribbon. There are always the things left out that should have gone in; and not infrequently, a few things get in that should better have been left out.

Probably that's why self approval takes a back seat to self appraisal in the case of most newspapers as they stand back to take a look at themselves on National Newspaper Week. Let it be said that we at The Independent will NEVER be wholly satisfied with the paper we're serving up to our readers.

On the other hand, we DO take immense pride in the profession to which we belong. We truly believe that the press of America is one of its major strengths; and while that press continues to stand in honest judgment of our nation, the people in it and the men and women who are elected to run it, our future is as secure as the times permit ANY nation's to be.

We at The Independent try, above all else, to make our newspaper live up to its slogan, "A Community-Minded Newspaper." We do take humble satisfaction in the fact that our efforts have twice in the past three years been regarded successful to a degree that first place in the Iowa Press Association's annual community service contest has come our way. In the intervening year, we were ineligible to enter the contest.

But even on this score, we're not fooling ourselves. It was not the challenges which we presented to this community that won recognition. It was Belmond's whole-hearted RESPONSE to those challenges that did the trick. A cheer-leader can below like a bull, but it takes a responsive crowd in front of him to make him look good.

NEW STATION STANDS AS MONUMENT TO FIRE DEPARTMENT'S PROUD PAST

This is a doubly significant week for the Belmond Fire department. It is National Fire Prevention Week, when the firemen annually point out the wisdom of sensible precautions against fire; and on Sunday they plan to hold open house at their new fire station.

There is no question but what the efficiency of our company has been instrumental in giving Belmond and vicinity its fine record of low fire losses. In a way, that new fire hall can be regarded as a monument to the department's proud past and at the same time a guarantee of continued service on a par with that of the past.

The high regard in which the smoke-eaters are held by Belmond and its farm neighbors was unmistakably manifested by their generous response when the department set forth on its building project. We know that the firemen must be as proud of that new "home" as their well-wishers are proud of them.

Roland Kinseth Writes About "Fun" Enjoyed on Alaskan Hunting Jaunt

(Many friends of A2/c Roland Kinseth, presently stationed at a U. S. Air Force base at Anchorage, Alaska, will find interest in the following account of a recent hunting trip he took part in. The report on the trip was provided to The Independent from a letter received by his wife.)

We only intended to be gone about five days, but ended up staying 13 days. We had all kinds of trouble on our trip and none of it was very good. It took us three days to get there. The road we traveled was all gravel and we could only drive 20 or 25 miles an hour.

The trailer we took our Weasel (an amphibious craft) on broke down the first day after going about 150 miles. All that broke was a wheel bearing; but it just happened it was an early model axle and we drove 70 miles before finding a bearing. We drove about another 100 miles and we burnt out another bearing on the same wheel. Then we got within a mile (of the place the hunting jaunt was to start) and the whole axle broke, so we just drove the Weasel off and left the trailer sit.

First White Men on River

We finally got started hunting on Wednesday. We hunted for about four days around in the woods (adjacent to where one of his companions lived) and we didn't see anything but cow moose. I guess it was about Sunday night when we decided to take a boat and float down the Susitna river.

They claim that no white man had ever gone down this river — that is, until we made the trip. The trip down the river and back from where this fellow lives is about 130 miles. We figured we could make it in two days, but ended up taking it in four as we had one heck of a time.

Boat Nearly Turned Over

We just about turned the boat over the first mile we went. We had to carry the boat over two log jams and don't think that wasn't a job! We had to unload all the supplies and load them up each time. The river was so shallow, we knocked a few small holes in the boat. The bottom was only ¼-inch plywood. We all had wet feet the whole four days because we had to get out and pull the boat over the rocks.

The second day down the river we shot a black bear weighing about 350 to 400 pounds. After we put it in the boat, that made things just that much worse. By the time we got the bear to a locker, most of it had spoiled; but we saved two meals from it.

One Bull — Too Distant

We didn't get any more game, but we would have lost it coming back down the river anyway. We saw quite a few cow moose, but only one bull; it was back in the woods so far we couldn't hit it. I took quite a few pictures of the cow moose, standing about 15 feet from our boat.

This river runs into the bay around Anchorage, which you have to hit at full tide. We just about didn't make it at all. The boat got to tossing in the waves and would either have broken up or filled with water, ifwe'd had to go another 100 yards.

We did a little more hunting after that, but still no luck in finding a bull. I really enjoyed the trip. After the first day back at work, I decided I'd rather go hunting.

What Other Ed's Are Saying

Wiley Beveridge, Wright County Monitor
Reminisces About the Old Model T

In ths age of modern motor cars, with automatic transmission, power steering and power brakes, almost any teenager who might perchance get into a Model T made 40 years ago, might have a tough time to start the motor and get from here to there.

As any owner of a Model T who drove 30 or 40 years ago can tell you, handling a car at that time was quite a trick.

I presume a 1954 teenager would get into the car and look all around to find a starter. Well, it wasn't until about 30 years ago that the Model T's finally came equipped with starters. So the driver had to get out and take hold of the crank and flip the motor over a few times until it started

But before doing that, he had to reach in and pull the gas lever down a few notches, and push the spark lever up to the top If the spark lever wasn't fully retarded, the cranker often got a mean kick, and more than one suffered a broken wrist. After the motor started, then the spark was advanced, and of course the speed was governed by how much the gas lever was pulled down.

Sometimes a balky motor wouldn't start without pulling the choke some. There was a wire extending out through the radiator which the cranker pulled as he turned the crank. Some motors wouldn't start except to make several complete turns — "twisting its tail" was the popular description of that

When the driver got in and took his seat, he found three foot pedals on the floor and a lever at his left. One foot pedal was lower gear, the second one was reverse and the third was the foot brake. The lever on the side was a hand brake and when it was thrown into forward position, the car traveled in high gear

The light switch was on the dash, and the driver had to reach up there and flip the lever back and forth to dim the lights when meeting another car.

No automatic windshield wiper. When the first wipers came out, they were all hand operated.

When the [illegible] and sedans came onto the market, motorists thought they were a radical innovation. Before that the touring cars and runabouts were equipped with curtains. Many a driver had the experience of meeting up with a rain storm and getting a ducking before he finally got the last curtain on.

It was quite a trick to change a tire. All of the Model T's of those days had 30 by 3½ tires—and no demountable rims. The tires had to be taken off the wheels while they were right on the car.

oOo

The distributor was at the front of the motor right behind the radiator. More than one driver has had the experience of his motor conking out because the distributor got wet in a rain storm

The gas tank was under the right front seat. Every time the tank was filled the front cushion had to be lifted There was no gas gauge on the dash—just an ordinary ruler with which to measure the depth of the gas in the tank.

Gas was fed to the carburetor by gravity. That was fine until the car was driven up a steep hill. Then the gas wouldn't feed to the carburetor. More than one driver has had the experience of his motor dying half way up a big hill The only solution was to coast backward to the bottom, turn around and drive up the hill backwards.

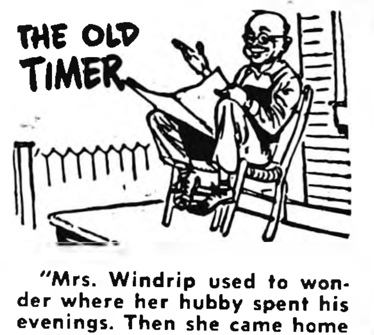
The first lights were the carbide type A tank was mounted on the side of a car. When darkness fell, the driver had to get out, open the front lens, open a valve and strike a match to light the gas. Later when cars were wired, electricity came directly off the magneto. When the motor was running at high speed, the lights were bright But at low speed they were very dim.

The Model T brought out a whole flock of Ford jokes. One was about the Ford driver who went to heaven. Saint Peter admitted him without question with the comment. "You've had all the hell shaken out of you." Even the tunesmith took note of the Model T and turned out a ditty with the title, "He Had to Get Out and Get Under."

THE OLD TIMER



"Mrs. Windrip used to wonder where her hubby spent his evenings. Then she came home one night—and there he was!"

...AND I QUOTE

In recognition of Natiional Newspaper week, we devote this issue's column to a few voices that have been heard through the years in behalf of a strong, free press and the principles that have made the American press what it is today.

"Freedom of expression is not merely a right—in the circumstances of today, its constructive use is a stern duty." —Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"Freedom of conscience, of education, of speech, of assembly, are among the very fundamentals of democracy and all of them would be nullified should freedom of the press ever be successfully challenged." — Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."—John 8:32.

"The freedom of the press and an able press are so ingrained as a part of American civilization that any enumeration of its value seems unnecessary." — Herbert Hoover.

"I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire.

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances." — Bill of Rights, Article One.

"Our liberty depends on freedom of the press and that cannot be limited without being lost." — Thomas Jefferson

Sankey, county superintendent of schools, reports. Eight Wright county schools participated in the Iowa School Lunch Program during the year. In these schools 237,966 Type A or complete lunches were served. Of this number 5,656 were served free to children unable to pay.

In addition to these funds, Mr. Sankey says that the schools received, without cost to them except for transportation from the distribution center, a large variety of commodities such as canned peas, canned peaches, tomato paste, canned tomatoes, peanut butter, dry beans, dried apricots, grapefruit section and orange juice.

93,510 Meals Here

The above items were purchased from a part of the school lunch appropriation as authorized by the National School Lunch Act. In addition, the following surplus commodities were distributed to schools and institutions during the past year: processed cheese, print butter, frozen ground beef, canned beef and gravy and cotton seed oil shortening.

93,510 Lunches Here

Supt. Don Faris reports that more than a third of all the noon meals served in schools of the county last year were served in Belmond. The hot-lunch program here saw 93,510 meals served at a total expense of $21,668.71, of which $3,047.70 was provided by the government. Income from the lunches amounted to $20,726.15.

A break-down of the expenses shows that $13,480 was paid for food, $5,663.93 for salaries and $145.82 for Social Security "tax," $1,072.80 for miscellaneous supplies, $895.75 for equipment and repairs, $410.39 for other expenses.

890 Participating Schools

The county superintendent said the money paid to participating schools in this county is part of the total of $942,689 allotted to the public schools of Iowa to help finance the lunch program in the 890 participating schools. That word comes from C. W. Bangs, the State Director of the School Lunch Division of the Department of Public Instruction. This division administers both the school lunch program and the commodity distribution program in Iowa.

Bangs also reports that the total value of commodities distributed to schools and eligible institutions amounted to approximately $1,500,000.

THIS IS NOT A GOODBYE AD

BUT A WORD FROM US TO THE PEOPLE OF BELMOND AND THE SURROUNDING AREA—

Truthfuly it is with regret that we announce our retirement from the furniture business in Belmond after 10 years of pleasant business relationships with you, who have been our customers.

The thought of selling our business was the farthest from our minds until recently, when we were approached on the subject. However, after agreat deal of thought, it was our decision to do so.

We are not going to leave Belmond just because we have sold out, for our home is here. However, the future, as far as business is concerned is indefinite.

Our acquaintance with Maynard Johnston, the new owner of Jacobson's Furniture, although short—has been long enough for us form the opinion that you will enjoy dealing with him. He is a member of a fine Forest City family and has an excellent recommendation from his community at to personal integrity, good character and business enterprise.

We sincerely hope you will be as good to him in the future as you have to us in the past.

OUR BEST WISHES FOR SUCCESS GO WITH MAYNARD JOHNSTON AND HIS FAMILY AS WELL AS OUR THANKS TO ALL OF YOU FOR YOUR PATRONAGE

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

There is NOTHING new under the sun! You'll recall our little story not long ago about the late Blanche Pritchard Grundy, member of the first BHS graduating class, marrying the school superintendent not long after she'd received her diploma. We suggested it was likely a distinction that she alone held, at least in these immediate parts. But not so.

Mrs. F. E. Purcell informs us that at least one other BHS coed made a conquest of the school superintendent and in due time became his bride.

Stella Arnold was this miss's name. She was a senior when Mrs. Purcell was a freshman and presumably graduated about '95. Not long after getting HER sheepskin, she TOO got the superintendent, "Professor" Angus McDonald. He went on to become Wright county superintendent. Mrs. McDonald is still living and makes her home at Friendship Haven, Fort Dodge. Her husband died in the late '40's and is buried at Goodell.

Did you know Opportunity sometimes doesn't knock; it just turns on a light? We learned this to be the case the other morning while waiting for a word with Clark McNeal. Conversing with his office girl, a very pleasant miss by the name of Doris Terwilliger—a former telephone operator—we recalled how she used to connect us with Des Moines and Mason City as we phoned in ball game results.

Doris observed that both Clark and Mainstreeter Gallagher have "telephone voices" that are easy to recognize. And thereby hung the tale.

Miss Terwilliger told us that Clark lit the switchboard to place an early phone call one morning (before the switchboard supervisor was on duty) and, identifying the speaker, Doris inquired, "Mr. McNeal, could you use a good secretary or office girl?" He allowed as it just happened he could. "I'm not fooling," Doris emphasized. "Nor am I," Clark assured. That was nearly a year ago. . . . P.S.—very obviously, she got the job!

A release last weekend from the Army's public information center at Des Moines boasts: "Army efficiency has snipped a line from its overseas address system and eliminated the phrase 'c/o Postmaster' from mailing addresses to personnel in Europe, the Far East and other trans-oceanic points." It goes on to say that this is the first change made in APO procedure since June 23, 1941. . . . Well, everyone's entitled to his opinion; and if discovery that the APO line is superfluous took only 13 years, we'd be the last to deny that the Army's "sho 'nuff" getting mighty efficient.

—M-S—

Can't help but wonder if the Army, generally speaking, feels the same sense of achievement in that life sentence that was handed out to Cpl. Claude Batchelor, the 22-year-old Texan who deserted the Reds in Korea to return to the "land of the free." Another prime example of the reason why Uncle Sam, while never losing a war, has never "won a peace."

—M-S—

Last year when Mr. and Mrs. Harve Peterson's son Clarence was a patient at Rochester's Mayo clinic, they made the acquaintance of a graduate nurse — Agnes Jorgensen — who shared care of the patient. A Danish girl, she was in the U. S. for a year on an exchange-student basis. Miss Jorgensen made a favorable impression on the Petersons and she promptly looked upon the Belmond couple as kindred spirits.

But it seemed most unlikely that their paths would ever cross again. However, upon her return to Denmark, the young nurse began to recall with longing her time in this country. Then she wrote the Petersons to inquire if they would consider being her sponsor so she could emigrate to the U. S. to make her home.

Harve and his wife looked upon the proposition with approval and took the necessary steps to vouch for their new friend, if the immigration service would permit her return. Last week the Petersons had a very grateful guest in their home, in the person of Miss Jorgensen. She's since then left for a brief visit in Oregon with a former Rochester nurse acquaintance before seeking her niche over here.

Rudy Mellott, tenant on the LeRoy Jenison farm, brought in to the Independent office a couple of over-grown sweet potatoes when Ye Ed was out of the office last Thursday afternoon. They were mammoths —the two of 'em weighed over three pounds. We presume they were to go in the window with George Dorr's 3-lb. 12-oz. "cuke;" but Mainstreeter No. 3 happens to be fond of sweet potatoes and crabbed the act by taking them home to supplement the family larder.

Leona Bras asked us to make note of the fact that gravel for the new parking space just at the west edge of Belmond cemetery was provided by the Cemetery Aid society. Leona feels that TOO FEW who should have a personal interest in improvements at the cemetery lend a hand to the Aid society in its good works. The ladies (some men have lent a hand, too) have done much to make and keep the cemetery attractive. The interest and cooperation of ALL lot-owners in the Aid's undertakings would be appreciated, Leona says.

STEEL BARS MAY NOT a prison make, but they will help immeasurably to make a secure stronghold of the new Wright county jail for which the board of supervisors hopes funds will be voted on Nov. 1. Details of the floor plan above are explained in the accompanying story. The jail proper would measure 29x45 feet in dimension, with an 8½x27-foot vestibule wing attached to the west. Adjoining the jail to the south would be new living quarters for the county sheriff and his family.

Detailed Plans Released by Board of Supervisors For New Jail Wright County to Vote on Nov. 2nd

Replacement of Wright county's obsolete, long-condemned jail with a modern lock-up that meets present-day requirements of state law is the objective of the special issue upon which electors of the county will vote on Nov. 2. Plans for the proposed jail were released this week by the board of supervisors to show the voters just what they would be getting for the proposed bond issue of $68,000 upon which they will cast their ballots.

In the accompanying floor plan, only the jail itself is shown. Attached to the front would be a two-story home for the sheriff, supplanting the dowdy, ancient quarters presently occupied by this offical and his family.

Two Visitors' Panels

Entrance to the jail would face west, opening onto a 7½x7-foot vestibule. To its north is shown a 9x7½ office where incoming prisoners could be questioned; and to the south is a serving room of the same dimension, adjoining the sheriff's kitchen, where meals would be prepared. A steel door off the vestibule connects with the jail proper. Immediately inside the jail is the visitors' corridor, in which is provided two heavily glassed panels adjoined by speaking tubes, through which family and friends can see and talk to inmates on visiting days.

A guard corridor surrounds the prisoners area on the other three sides, so inmates are entirely shut off from the barred outside windows. Access to the 13x25-foot living quarters for prisoners is gained by a safety vestibule with a double set of doors. After entering the outside, steel door to the vestibule, it is locked before the barred door to the main quarters is opened to admit a prisoner to the bunk area.

Meals Via Window

Meals would be passed through a serving window, making it unnecessary to open any door to the inmate area at mealtime. Facilities in the prisoner area, which is enclosed by steel bars on the south and east, include: six double bunks, two tables, two sinks and shower and toilet, and a washing machine in which the inmates launder their own bedding and clothes.

Adjoining the main area to the north are separate retention cells for juveniles, women and prisoners who have earned solitary confinement. Each of these three cells is equipped with double bunk, sink and toilet. The "solitary" has an extra bunk to be utilized at such times as there is an overflow of inmates. Under usual circumstances, a prisoner in "solitary" will be entirely isolated.

Escape-Proof Windows

The quarters for women are shut off from the rest of the jail not only by the barred, cell door but by a set of steel doors in the corridor on either side of the cell. The old jail has offered completely unsatisfactory provisions for the proper isolation of women and juveniles from the rest of the prisoners.

Besides being heavily barred, the exterior windows are of a special dentention-type of construction to make them entirely escape-proof. Exterior lights encircle the jail roof for night-time illumination as an added safeguard against escape attempts.

At a meeting of the Belmond Lions club Tuesday at Jones cafe, Sheriff Bob Blecker will explain to that organization why the county officials regard construction of the new jail a positive "must."

Present Jail Condemned

The present jail, a relic of over 70 years' service, has repeatedly been condemned by the state fire marshal. Required repairs would cost upward of 25 per cent as much as the new jail and suffice to keep the old-lock in usable shape only temporarily. It is regarded by the supervisors that such a stop-gap procedure would be more expensive, in the long run, than replacing the jail at this time.

Sheriff Blecker explains that the decision not to provide individual cells in the proposed jail was dictated by economy. Each, individual cell of approved construction would cost about $4,000, he noted. Arranging group accomodations for the general run of prisoners makes possible the very moderate expense for the new jail.

Gift to Hospital From Mennengas

A gift consisting of three pieces of equipment for the nursery has been received by Belmond Community hospital as a memorial to the late Alyce Mennenga.

Administrator Stuart Kutz reports that purchase of the items was financed by the parents of the little girl, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mennenga. Alyce was in sixth grade in the Belmond school when leukemia claimed her life on Sept. 17 of last year.

As a result of the Mennengas' gift, the hospital nursery was equipment with: a new stethoscope; an otoscope, for making ear examinations; and a percussion hammer, for testing muscular reflexes.

Father of Seven Dies in Cave-In

Services were held at Rowan Methodist church Wednesday afternoon of last week for Louis Steffen, 52, who lost his life in a tragic accident while engaged on a construction job at West Bend. Rev. R. H. Lingaard conducted the funeral. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery at Britt.

Mr. Steffen was employed on a storm sewer project when a ditch in which he was working caved in. He came within 10 feet of escaping as the sides of the ditch crumbled in on him. He was completely buried by the falling dirt.

Although his co-workers promptly dug him free, the Rowan man died of a crushed chest and a burst blood vessel in his head.

Surviving Mr. Steffen are his wife and seven children.

Aaron Bowman One of 3 Iowa Extension Directors To Receive '54 U. S. Distinguished Service Award

Aaron R. Bowman, Clarion, will be honored tonight in Salt Lake City, Utah, for his work as Wright county extension director, a post he has held for almost 12 years. At the annual meeting of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents, Bowman will be one of three Iowa county extension directors to receive the association's Distinguished Service Award.

This award recognizes both the outstanding educational work accomplished by a county extension director and his continued study of specific agricultural subjects to improve his ability to do the job as a county extension director.

Director Since 1942

Bowman, who assumed the duties of Wright county extension director on Dec. 1, 1942, was born in Clayton county and is a graduate of Iowa State college. He taught vocational agriculture from 1926 to the time he entered extension work in Wright county.

As county extension director, Bowman has been instrumental in developing and carrying out many programs that have benefited the farmers of the county. Among major activities with which Bowman has worked are:

Organization of the Wright County Soil Conservation district, experiments and demonstrations on fertilizer use, education programs on terests of the county are coordinated, was the first of its kind in Iowa.

About 600 boys and girls of Wright county enroll annually in 4-H clubs with which Bowman works. He established the 4-H Fun Nite in 1945, which has now become one of the highlights of the year for 4-H members in the county. In 1944 Bowman organized a Rural Young Married Group in Wright county, which has had a membership of about 100 couples participating in six to eight educational and recreational meetings each year.

These activities, plus many others, have made the Wright county extension program one of the outstanding ones in Iowa, according to state extension administrators who recommended Bowman for the distinguished service award of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

New Organization Tells 'Why' Behind Its Appropriations

Consolidation of all rural, door-to-door canvasses — for welfare, youth and service agencies — into a single yearly campaign is one major objective of the Wright County Rural Community Chest, according to Mrs. Glen Wilson of Eagle Grove, the Chest's publicity chairman. Second, and equally important, is to assure all of these agencies the same generous support from the rural area of Wright county that they have been accustomed to receive.

Not all of the affiliated agencies have regularly received funds from all parts of the county. Organization of the Rural Chest, consequently, will have the effect of spreading future financial assistance to these causes over the entire rural area, Mrs. Wilson points out.

$3,360 to Red Cross

Largest of the Chest appropriations will go to the American Red Cross and the American Cancer Society, which in years past have been most generously supported by rural Wright county. In the fund campaign that will be conducted from Oct. 18 through 23, a total of $13,350 is the goal — and of that amount, $3,360 will go to the Red Cross and $2,950 to the Cancer Society.

Service, rather than financial aid, is the rule of the Red Cross. Its water safety courses have proved very popular in Wright county and have involved heavy outlays of money by several of the chapters. Hundreds of children have learned to swim or improved their skill by means of the swimming classes. As a welfare agency, the Red Cross has also provided needy children with tonsilectomies, dental work and eye glasses.

ACS to Get $2,950

Home service for servicemen and their families is another important phase of Red Cross work, as is flood relief and other forms of disaster relief. Last year in Blaine and Vernon townships and Dows, alone, nearly $1,385 was expended on local Red Cross services.

Wright county has helped to make Iowa one of the outstanding states in the nation in regard to support of the American Cancer Society. No surplus has ever been built up by the ACS, all of its annual receipt of funds being promptly spent on cancer research and education. The Iowa chapter of ACS regularly invests heavily in research to the ultimate end of finding cancer's cause. It has been spending $25,000 annually for nursing scholarships, which have benefited a number of Wright county girls.

Education and service also are generously supported from ASC funds. Teaching the public to be alert to the danger signals of cancer has saved the life of many an Iowan. Audry Engen, county nurse, supervises the county chapter's loan closet which provides sickroom equipment to cancer patients free of charge.

Contingency Fund

An amount of $1,660 has been earmarked for Community Welfare. In reality, this is a contingency fund, set up to take care of unanticipated demands upon the Rural Chest. It will also meet the modest administrative expense of conducting the campaign.

Wright county farmers have with regularity given freely in support of the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP). Therefore, the Rural Chest has budgeted $1,600

Bode Man Picked To Oversee Farm Census in County

Appointment of Herbert M. Kinseth of Bode as a crew leader for the 1954 census of agriculture was announced last week by Field Supervisor W. A. Rekers of the Fort Dodge office of the Bureau of the Census. Mr. Kinseth will direct a force of 16 enumerators, who will canvass all farms in Humboldt and Wright counties. He reported Monday to the census agriculture field office at Fort Dodge for a week of training.

The crew leader is one of the key people in the field operations of the census of agriculture. It is his responsibility to train the enumerators and supervise their work; plan and allocate work assignments; review the work of the enumerators and take remedial action where necessary, and to conduct difficult enumerations.

After attending the training conference, Mr. Kinseth will return to his district, where he will spend three weeks recruiting enumerators, checking enumeration district boundaries, and training enumerators in preparation for the start of the census on Nov. 9.

Applications for employment as enumerators in Wright and Humboldt counties will be accepted starting Oct. 18. Persons interested should notify Mr. Kinseth at Bode or the field office at 214 Snell Bldg., Fort Dodge.

To qualify as an enumerator, an applicant must be a U. S citizen, be in good health, of good character and between 18 and 65 years of age. An enumerator must have sufficient financial resources to sustain himself until the first salary [illegible]ck is received, four to five [illegible]s after appointment.

[illegible]erans who meet all require[illegible]s will be given preference [illegible]ong the applicants, all of whom must provide and be licensed to operate privately owned automobiles, Pay rates will cover cost of operating cars on census business.

Big Crowd Accepts Firemen's Bid To Look Over New Station Sunday

In spite of threatening weather, a large throng turned out Sunday afternoon as the Belmond Fire department held open house at its new fire station. It is conservatively estimated that at least 800 persons must have visited the building between 2:00 and 5:00 p. m. The meeting hall in the station was made festive by many bouquets of flowers sent by local business firms to show their high esteem for the fire-fighters.

Cookies, ice cream and coffee were served to the guests and the event was made a big one for the kiddies by a plentiful supply of favors and ample opportunity to inspect the fire engines at close range. Although many of the youngsters the day previous had enjoyed free rides on one or another of the trucks, their curiosity regarding the shining equipment seemed not lessend by their earlier contact with the trucks.

Wide publicity was received by the open house and informal dedication of the new station. WOI-TV, Ames, sent a camerman, who shot quite a quantity of film. Interesting sequences from the day's festivities were shown on the Monday newscasts at 6:15 and 10:00 p. m., in which many familiar faces were clearly identifiable.

Both the Mason City Globe-Gazette and the Des Moines Register helped "tell the world" of the event. A special feature writer, Rolfe Hofstad, spent a greater part of the day on Tuesday of last week gathering material and taking photographs for an interesting, well-illustrated story that made its appearance in the Globe-Gazette's Saturday issue.

Members of the fire department were honored Sunday by the presence of one of the top officers in the Iowa Firemen's association, Secretary Carl H. Fuchs of Des Moines and State Fire Marshal Zack Cook, also of Des Moines.

Open house mementos in the form of souvenir bricks were sold during the afternoon, Sunday, and added $38.45 to the funds already contributed by the public for building and equipping of the station.

PRIZES BOOSTED TO $325

You might have thought that that green stuff they're giving away on Cash Gift Day was no good, the way everyone steered clear of it last Tuesday. With six numbers good for money prizes, not a cent "left home." One lady with a number that would have brought her $25 at 2:00 p. m. showed up with it just an hour late. Explained she'd been home mowing the lawn. Darn it! So all $250 that was in the kitty this week is still there; and the committee is adding $75 more to that amount for next week. That will bring the 3:00 o'clock award up to the comforting sum of $175 and provide for six $25 prizes at 2:00 p. m. Water bill's gone up; gas bill's goin' higher, now that fall's here. YOU better be on hand next Tuesday!

Want to Lose Pounds? Night School Class Planned That Will Help You

Calories Anonymous, a weight-control course that has the blessing of the state department of health, is a new addition to the Adult Education curriculum for this year that seems to be arousing a lot of interest. Mrs. Gerhard Thompson, president of the Adult Education Council, reports that a good many inquiries regarding the course have been received.

Assistance in organizing the class, which will be taught by Carol Richards, homemaking instructor, has been offered by the nutrition service of the department of health. The project has received approval from Dr G. J. Hruska, president of the Wright County Medical society. Each registrant will be required to obtain a certificate from his or her medical doctor before launching upon the course.

Course Popular Elsewhere

Among the objectives of the weight-control course are: to convince men and women that overweight is a health problem that affects life expectancy as well as personal well being; to point out the many advantages of reaching and maintaining normal weight; and to emphasize that reducing safely takes time and requires the establishment of permanent new eating habits.

Adult Education groups in Mason City, Des Moines and elsewhere in the state have formed Calories Anonymous units and are at present engaged in paring off pounds. Further information regarding the local class can be obtained from Mrs. Richards.

Citizenship Class

Mrs. Thompson also announced this week that quite a demand has been expressed for inclusion of a citizenship class in the Adult Education program, to prepare for taking naturalization tests. Mildred Henry has tentatively agreed to teach the course. Non-citizens who would be interested in enrolling should contact Principal Clair Hugh or Miss Henry.

Don Carnahan, instructor for the art course, has decided that he will include group instruction in the art of tying fishing flies, if enough are interested. What more conventional phases of art study will be included will depend upon the desires of those enrolled for the course.

Mrs. Thompson offers another reminder that Adult Education classes will get under way on Monday, Nov. 1, will extend over a period of 10 weeks and that registration fee will be $3.00.

Bob Jenison Home After Iceland Duty

Robert Jenison, Airman Electrician 3/c, arrived home Monday to spend a 20-day furlough. He left Iceland, where he has most lately been stationed, last Saturday morning and arrived that evening at Jacksonville, Fla.

The trip to the States was made "interesting" by a severe hurricane that Bob's plane had to fly through.

He came on to Des Moines by plane, also, and was met there by his wife. She and their son Rickey will return with Bob to Florida at the end of his leave. He will be stationed at Jacksonville, upon his return to duty.

O'CONNOR TRANSFERRED

Private Malcolm O'Connor has lately been transferred to the Marine base at Camp Pendleton and would appreciate hearing from Belmond friends. Correspondence should be addressed: Pvt. James M. O'Connor 1463638, H&S CO. 52-M6, 2nd Inf. Trng. Reg., M.C.B., Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Parade, Crowning of Queen and Tilt With F.C. to Highlight Homecoming

Preparations were all complete today for Belmond High school's annual homecoming, which will find the usual round of festivities on tap tomorrow — climaxed by the Forest City-Belmond football game at 8:00 p. m.

Much interest is centered in selection of the Homecoming Queen, who will be chosen by a vote of the football squad members tomorrow morning. A candidate has been nominated by each of the classes as follows: senior, Kaye Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Wagner; junior, Mary Luick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cortland Luick, sophomore, Karon Lee Bohning, daughter of Mr and Mrs. A. F. Bohning; freshman, Margaret Gabrielson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Gabrielson.

Feature of the afternoon program will be the Homecoming Parade, which will form up adjacent to the school grounds at 2:45 and start on its line of march approximately 10 minutes later. It will move down Third street, cross on First avenue to Main street and then proceed to the football field. Progress of the parade will be interrupted at the First State bank corner for a brief pep meeting.

In the evening at 7:40 o'clock, the floats will make a circuit of the football field for the benefit of fans who were unable to see them in the afternoon and winning entries will be announced at that time. Between halves of the Indian-Bronco game. Her majesty the Queen will be crowned by the team captain for the evening.

Concluding the day's program will be a dance at the high school gymnasium, from 10:00 p. m. to midnight, with Ted Herbst and his band from Algona providing the music.

C. Carstens Picks Assistants to Aid In Campaign Here

Cecil Carstens, chairman of the annual Belmond Community Chest campaign which will get under way on Oct. 25, says that Carl Frick of Britt has been engaged to speak at the kick-off meeting of solicitors. Mr. Frick directed the Chest campaign at Britt last fall, which was phenominally successful. In two days of intensive canvassing, that community's goal was reached and surpassed and a very great majority of the solicitations completed.

It is Mr. Carstens' hope that Belmond's campaign can be conducted this year in the same expeditious manner, and it was with that aim in view that he has invited Mr. Frick to tell the local workers how it was done.

All Agencies Familiar Ones

Relatively little publicity has been given Belmond's '54 drive, Mr. Carstens admits; but he points out that all the affiliated agencies were generously supported by Belmond in the years before the Chest was organized here. For that reason, he regards that residents should require little "selling" to give freely to the Chest, just as they have for the past three years.

He has released for publication the names of the various sub-chairmen who will assist him in conduct of the fund drive. Solicitation will be broken up in appropriate categories, the same as previously, with one or more chairmen heading each division.

Assistant Chairmen

Mr. Carstens' chief aides will be: George Keleher and Russ Dougherty, directing the canvass of business and professional men; Ethel Brunes and Don Nielsen, employees; Clair Hugh, Belmond schools; and sharing responsibility for the "clean-up" canvass of the residential district, assigned this year to the American Legion Auxiliary — Cecilia Holtzbauer and Mesdames Harold Svendsen, Harold Johnson, Robert Garms, Ted Behrends, Ray Pals, Carroll Bamford and Leland "Bud" Barkema.

Assistant chairmen for various, individual businesses are: Robert Hein and LuVerne Smith, General Mills; George Sharp and Claude Larkin, Tomahawk Hybrid Corn company; Lois Hammond, Belmond Auto company; Margaret Schollian Belmond Community hospital; Loretta Smith, Central Telephone; Ed Reasoner, Iowa Electric Light and Power company.

Al Stadtlander will canvass the city employees and Rev. William Schorman will contact all the ministers.

72 Will Receive Tuberculin X-rays

Climax of the 12th annual search in Wright county for unknown tuberculosis among those persons who may have been in contact with the disease will come on Thursday, of next week when a mobile x-ray unit will be in Clarion. Audrey Engen, R.N., public health nurse, has spent the past eight weeks interviewing people as referred by their family physicians. Tuberculin skin testing is advised by the State Department of Health. For those whose skin test was positive, the physician recommends that an x-ray be taken.

"Practically everyone I visited has expressly willingness to participate in this program," says Miss Engen. "We anticipate about 72 persons will be x-rayed when the mobile x-ray unit parks at the west side of the post office in Clarion. Appointments have been given to those who are to participate in the program.

"It's this kind of cooperation which will lead to the ultimate eradication of tuberculosis," the nurse says, adding her appreciation to all persons who have helped in the carrying out of the project.

The contact case-finding program has been sponsored by the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association. A portion of the cost is borne by the sale of Christmas Seals each year.

Firemen's Annual Dance Next Week

Fire Chief A. W. "Doc" Johnson urges all who have received tickets to the annual Firemen's Benefit Dance to return money for same promptly. Stamped and addressed envelopes accompanied all tickets, to make return of the purchase price as simple as possible. The tickets are $1.00 each.

Chief Johnson emphasizes that the dance next Tuesday at Veterans' Memorial hall is the only money-making venture the firemen are undertaking during the entire year and is their sole source of funds.

CHICK CHATS

MANAGEMENT IS KEY TO PROFIT

Placing good pullets in a well built laying house is a fine start toward profitable poultry raising—but it's only a start. Management inside the laying house can make the profits either large or small.

A short time after the flock has been housed, start culling the non layers. Rely on your own observations if a scientific method such as trap-nesting is not used. Watch for color of the beak, shanks and eye rings. If the bird is laying, the yellow pigment should begin to disappear.

Observe the vent for a clue to the bird's production. If it is large moist and faintly bluish, the bird is laying. If the vent is shrunken, dry and yellowish, the bird is not producing.

Clean Eggs

There should be 20 nests for every 1000 birds. Keep the nesting materials clean. Eggs should be gathered, preferably in wire baskets, at least 3 times a day.

Provide at least 40 feet of feeder space and a 5-gallon waterer per 100 birds. Follow a regular feeding schedule closely and do not make sudden changes in your feeding program.

Artificial lights should be used to provide layers a 12 to 14 hour working day. Make sure the light bulbs are clean. The time clock should be adjusted reguarly to conform to the steadily shortening days of natural light.

Build up the laying house litter to at least 6 inches. Be sure it is deep before cold weather arrives. Old built-up litter will stay drier than new litter. Stir the litter frequently to keep it loose.

Ventilation

The poultry house should be well ventilated—perhaps using a fan will help. Proper ventilation will do much to prevent damp litter. Also watch for drafts which might lead to respiratory troubles.

Don't forget that rats will be moving into winter quarters shortly and will be looking for food. Start a rat control program. Also check birds for lice and mites. Give the flock regular worming treatments.

Make friends with your newly housed pullets. Successful control of poultry diseases and parasites depends to a great extent on prompt diagnosis and this, in turn, depends on early recognition of irregularities in the flock. By being alert for signs of trouble you have a chance to avoid serious setbacks.

After Broncs Take 7-6 Lead, Bulldogs Come Back for 18-7 Win

Belmond's Broncos played their hearts out in an effort to spoil Lake Mills' homecoming Friday night, but a lack of offensive punch plus too many crucial mistakes saw their efforts fail by an 18-7 margin. For nearly three quarters of the game, the Purple and White gridders gave the Bulldogs all they could handle. They fought back from one misfortune after another and even held a 7-6 advantage for a brief period of time.

But Lake Mills' tricky T-offense, along with continued Bronco errors, finally saw the Bulldog homecomers' hearts made glad as the host team racked up two counters in the last quarter. Surely no one could find fault with the amount of fight shown by the losers. A less determined crew would have lost its spirit entirely, in face of the repeated bad breaks, long before the Broncs were forced to acknowledge defeat.

Fumbles Exchanged

The first quarter saw Belmond get off on the wrong foot right at the outset as Lake Mills nabbed a Bronco bobble on the 45. The Bulldogs went 20 yards in two plays, but their next four tries netted only eight yards and Belmond took over on the 17. Three downs later a pass was completed that would have come close to making first down, but a lateral was attempted, the ball was fumbled, and Lake Mills was in possession on the 21.

After getting nowhere on two attempts, Lake Mills tried a pitchout that went astray and Belmond regained the pigskin on the 26. Shortly afterward the Broncs were obliged to punt; but signals apparently went awry and Keith Madsen's effort from just behind the line of play was a total failure. That set the Bulldogs up in business again on Belmond's 27.

Penalty Costly

Lake Mills picked up six, lost eight on a driving tackle by LeRoy Smith, and the third down left five still to go. Gene Nicholson hauled Dennis Madsen down two short of the necessary yardage — but a Bronco offside gave the Bulldogs an extra try at their 1st-and-10, and this time they made it. Four more plays produced a 1st and goal to go, then Dennis Johnson piled over from the three. A fumbled center pass on the placekick attempt left the score Lake Mills 6, Belmond 0 at the half.

Strangely enough, after Belmond's second-half kickoff, the Broncs touched the ball only twice during the entire third quarter. With the help of a 15-yard penalty, a Lake Mills drive was stalled at their own 44. A punt to Belmond's 30 was fumbled by Tom Lowenberg — who otherwise turned in a very creditable performance as a first-time starter — and the Bulldogs recovered.

Smith Breaks Away

It was the SECOND time that a Bronc got a hand on the ball that provided the evening's biggest thrill. Two LM tries lost four yards, with Madsen producing the key tackle that accounted for the loss, and the Bulldogs then attempted their only pass of the game. LeRoy Smith stole the ball on his own 13, pulled out of a mass of would-be tacklers with the aid of some fine blocks, and finally outran one last defender to travel 87 yards to TD territory. Keith Madsen kicked the point and Belmond sailed into a 7-6 lead.

However, before the quarter was over, Lake Mills was well on the way to re-establishing its advantage. On the second play after the kickoff, the Bulldogs' Madsen sprinted inside tackle on a delayed hand-off and raced 50 yards — to Belmond's 22 — before LeRoy Smith hauled him down from behind. The Broncs gave up only four yards in the next three plays, but Johnson broke through for seven and a 1st-and-10 on the 11 on the fourth down effort. Another 1st down was set up only a yard from the goal, early in the final stanza, and two plunges later Roger Lande went over. Again a fumble ruined the kick attempt but Belmond trailed 12-7.

Don Holst Scores

Lake Mills' kickoff was returned to the 15 and Belmond fans found some encouragement as the Broncs reeled off a first down. But a too-hard pass from center bounded off Smith's chest on the next play and the Bulldogs recovered the loose ball on Belmond's 25. Six plays sufficed to run over another TD. Don Holst setting up the counter on a 13-yard burst and then going over from the three.

David Gunderson and Ron Hill were defensive stand-outs for the winners, while Holst, Madsen and Lande all proved adept in the ball-carrying department. Belmond's best performers are, as usual, duly reported on in the Player-of-the Week story.

—PAT S— SPORTS SHORTS

Mainstreeter George Hansen felt a glow of family pride when selection of Iowa State college's "Player of the Week" was announced following the Cyclone's game at Nebraska. The highly approved choice was Weldon Thalacker of Ottumwa, son of GCH's sister, Mrs. Lester (Gladys) Thalacker.

While cogs began to slip in the exhausted ISC grid machine in that unhappy, final quarter (which saw a 14-14 tie fade into a 39-14 defeat), the 180-lb. guard played the game out with distinctiion to the bitter end.

An end as a sophomore, he seems to have found his proper niche at the guard spot and has been a Cyclone stand-out all season. Weldon's a senior in the school of engineering at Iowa State. He's kept tough during the summers by spending his vacations shoveling coal for the electric light company.

—PSS—

We said it before, and we'll say it again. The North Iowa conference is probably the least publicity-minded loop in the state. Why the NIC coaches don't give their own conference leaders a break in the R&T state state football rankings, we cannot understand. Garner slipped still farther down last week, despite its win over Forest City. Lake Mills' top-heavy conquest of Northwood put the Bulldogs back among the rated teams with three vote-points, compared to Garner's five.

Pocahontas, although blitzkrieged by Laurens 33-6, remained in a 12th place tie among the Class II teams—with a higher rating than Laurens! Eagle Grove, by doing nothin' (the Eagles were idle) dropped out of the Class I top 15; while Manson jumped from 4th to 2nd in Class II by whipping Humboldt 39-6 . . . Eagle Grove beat Humboldt earlier, 37-0!!

That this rating business is silly, is generally recognized. If it serves ANY purpose, it's to provide publicity and prestige for the state's better teams—or at least, those that most earnestly SEEK the publicity. Since "politics" seems to play a major role, the NIC could—for example—work out a back-scratching agreement with the North Central, and BOTH loops would get the sort of ratings they deserve.

—PSS—

Both the North Iowa and North Central conferences rate near the top among loops involving schools of similar size. But you'd never know it from the indifference shown by the coaches and or school administrators. This is "de-emphasis" of sports, maybe?

—PSS—

If you've been wondering what gives with the team scores in the men's bowling leagues this year (they've been sky-high in spite of the fact that individual scores have been mediocre so far) the reason lies in a new system of handicapping. Whereas each man used to get as handicap 80 per cent of the difference between his average and 180 pins, this season he gets 80 per cent of the difference between average and 200. That has boosted maximum handicap from 40 to 64 pins.

This "new deal" enabled the Independent's pin-busters to rack up an all-time new high for series last week of 3,109 gross pins. Dows, in the Inter-City league, alomst matched that total with 3,097.

Presumably the theory is that the "have-not" teams will be able to hold their own better against those that are loaded with hot-shots. Whether or not it will actually work out that way, the end of the season will tell. While discussing bowling, we might note that a new, local star seems to have arisen in the person of young Oscar Jenison. He had high game in the Inter-City league last week (212) and high series in the Main Street league (594). Meanwhile, Ed Albers continues to top 'em all. Had another 600 last week.

—PSS—

In a manner of speaking, it might be said that the Homecoming Queen was responsible for a 15-yard penalty levied against the Lake Mills Bulldogs last Friday night — though through no fault of her own. Not the slightest effort was made to limit the between-halves ceremonies to the officially allotted time of 15 minutes. They must have run 15 or 20 minutes overtime. So when the second half finally got under way, the indignant officials charged Lake Mills 15 yards for delay of the game, permitting Belmond to kick off from the Bulldogs' 45 instead of the Broncs' own 40.

GAMES THIS FRIDAY

Forest City at Belmond (homecoming)
Lake Mills at Britt
Buffalo Center at Northwood
Manly at Garner

Play in the North Iowa conference this weekend will have very little if any bearing on the championship race. Forest City will endeavor to protect its slim chance of salvaging a share of the title when the Indians appear here tomorrow as the Broncos' homecoming foe. Garner plays outside the league again, facing Manly; and Lake Mills figures to have a "breather" against the down trodden Britt Eagles.

Lake Mills kept very much in the thick of the contest for the NIC football crown with its 18-7 decision over Belmond last week. However, the Bulldogs have the easy part of their schedule all concentrated in the first half of their season and must yet meet both Garner and Forest City.

They play host to the Cards next week and the Friday following will entertain Forest City. It may be helpful to Lake Mills to have home-field advantage in both cases, but it seems unlikely that the Bulldogs will escape unscathed against both of these rugged foes.

Garner ran into unexpected opposition at Nora Springs last Friday, absorbing a 20-0 licking. Only a touchdown loser to the strong Greene eleven a week earlier, Nora Springs figured to be tough; but the margin of victory over the Cards came as a general surprise.

Northwood pulled up to a .500 record by nosing out Britt, 13-7.

The Broncs might have found some encouragement in Clarion's 38-0 whipping at the hands of Webster City, in view of the fact that the Lynx managed to nose out Hampton by only a 7-6 count. On the basis of performances so far, the Cowboy-Bronco battle at Clarion on Oct. 22 is beginning to stack up as quite a joust.

87-YARD TD GALLOP WINS SMITH 'PLAYER' LAURELS FOR 2ND TIME

After due deliberation, the Independent's Player-of-the-Week panel decided there was no logical way to prevent LeRoy Smith from bearing the title for the second week in a row. "Smitty's" 87-yard touchdown run against Lake Mills was unquestionably one of the top thrills that Bronco backers will enjoy this season. But Smith's heroics were by no means limited to this one effort.

He also did a fine job on defense. At one time he threw a Bulldog ball-toter for an eight-yard loss and on another occasion he temporarily staved off a Lake Mills score by catching Madsen from behind on the 22 when it looked as if he were going all the way.

Keith Madsen again had an excellent night on defense and more than once broke through to spill opposing backs for losses. Perry Ersland and Eugene Nicholson both were rough customers throughout the evening. "Nick" perhaps was not charging like he might have, but any runner that got in his vicinity was usually through, then and there. In the last half, particularly, Bob McLaughlin and Ron Hansen turned in some nice defensive work.

Tom Lowenberg, starting a game for the first time, gave evidence that he's going to be of real value to the team the rest of the season; and Tom McNulty gave Bronc fans further reason to be convinced that he has a really bright future ahead of him. For the greater part, all of the Broncos played commendably. True, it was another loss; but they showed their followers a lot of good football, mixed in with the costly mistakes.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Rev. William Schorman, Pastor

One of the main topics discussed at the World Council of Churches which recently met at Evanston was "The Layman and his Vocation." This is but one reflection of the growing emphasis upon the importance of the lay people in our churches. Another indication of this growing concern is the fact that many churches in our country will be observing Laymen's Sunday this week. In keeping with this theme, Mr. Schorman will preach on "The Witness of the Man in the Pew."

A cordial welcome is extended to all to worship with us.

Froshmores Beat Lake Mills 12-0

Belmond's freshman-sophomore football forces chalked up their second win of the season Tuesday night, taking Lake Mills into camp on the local gridiron 12 to 0. Both teams showed up quite well defensively, but little of a spectacular nature was exhibited in the way of offense.

Fumblitis in the backfield kept the Bulldogs in hot water a good share of the evening. Belmond did make one commendable advance in the fourth quarter, which paid off with a TD. The score was set up by a Bill Murray to Roland Jenison pass that netted about 20 yards, to the four.

A couple of plays put the ball six inches shy of the pay stripe, whereupon Murray passed to Larry Kinseth in the end zone for the Junior Broncs' second counter.

The victors' first tally came in the third stanza after a bad pass by the LM center gave Belmond the ball on the four-yard line. Tom McNulty went for three and then Murray went off tackle to tally. Murray missed both kicks for point.

In the second quarter, the Bullpups turned back one BHS threat that went as far as the four. Lake Mills at no time penetrated far beyond the 50-yard line.

Martin Tells How Bills He's Backed Aided Agriculture

Congressman Thomas E. Martin of Iowa City, Republican nominee for the U. S. Senate, reportedly made a highly favorable impression on a capacity crowd of Republicans who filled the Clarmond Country club dining room Wednesday night of last week at a dinner held in his honor.

He declared that his party has done a remarkably effective job in aiding agriculture to switch from a war-time to a peace-time economy without serious consequences. He added that the comprehensive tax bill passed by the 83rd Congress will mean a savings to farmers of more than $10 000.000.

Mr. Martin pointed to four measures favorable to agriculture that he actively sponsored during the past four years and which have become law. They were:

(1) Capital gains tax treatment for dairy and breeding stock.

(2) Permission to write-off in five years the cost of crop storage facilities.

(3) Permission to double the amortization rate on declining balance of the investment of all new farm buildings, farm equipment and farm machinery.

(4) Permission for farmers to deduct up to 25 per cent of their total income from farming each year for money spent on water and soil conservation.

He added that he'd also secured approval of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for livestock raisers to shift from the accrual to the cash basis of accounting on dairy and breeding livestock so that the farmer can secure full benefit of the capital gains tax.

RURAL CHEST

for this agency. The United States government ships $20 worth of surplus commodities overseas to needy countries for every dollar contributed to CROP, providing these nations with vitally needed assistance and at the same time creating a market for domestic surpluses.

Three Get $840 Each

Three agencies have been allotted $840 each — the Sister Kenny Foundation, Iowa Children's Home Society and United Defense Fund.

Money to the Kenny fund goes to educate nurses in the Sister Kenny method of treating polio and equipping hospitals to offer these treatments.

Unwed mothers find a needed friend in the Children's Home society, which provides them with counsel, offers hospitalization at modest cost or without charge if necessary, and helps the unfortunate mothers to put their babies up for adoption. Four unwed mothers from Wright county have been aided by the society in the past two years and the agency has arranged for eight Wright county children to be cared for in foster homes during the current year.

Ex-GI's Know USO

One of the major affiliates of the United Defense Fund is the United Service Organization (USO), which has helped to make life away from home more liveable for military personnel since early in World War II. It shares UDF funds with a number of other servicemen's organizations that serve not only the men in uniform but their families, too, in innumerable important ways.

A special, $500 appropriation is set aside for the Eagle Grove Junior Fair to help finance conversion of the former poultry building into display space for 4-H girls' exhibits. In later years, such temporary needs will be met out of the Community Welfare fund. The fair will not be included in next year's budget.

Forty boys in the rural area belong to the Boy Scouts, and the Chest has appropriated $8 apiece to go to the Winnebago Council, with which Wright county is affiliated a total of $20.

Give Enough for All

Mrs. Wilson suggests that the good works of the Salvation Army are too well known to require review. It has received regular support from rural Wright county and the Chest has budgeted $240 for this agency.

A relative newcomer to the welfare field, the Mental Health association has been organized to investigate and relieve the causes of mental illness. The Chest has allotted $210 to this agency to assist in the educational program that is being set up on a state and county level.

All the Chest officials join in urging rural Wright countians to lend their wholehearted support to the newly formed Community Chest. "Give Once, and Be Sure to Give Enough for All," is the campaign slogan. Contributors are reminded that their donations are deductible for income tax purposes.

Miss Norma Jean Hopkey Wed Saturday to Eugene C. Waage

Miss Norma Jean Hopkey, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Edward Hopkey of Belmond, became the bride of Eugene Charles Waage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nico Waage of Goodell, Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the Belmond Methodist church. The Rev. M L. Jones performed the double-ring ceremony before a candle-lit altar decorated with baskets of yellow, white and lavender mums.

MR. AND MRS. WAAGE

Mrs. Ronald Courson, organist, played the traditional nuptial music and accompanied Dr. Paul Rietz as he sang "With This Ring" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of nylon net, styled with a net and shell bodice and slipper satin bolero. Her veil was a mantilla of Spanish lace. She carried a bouquet of white mums and white rosebuds.

Ruth Watkins of Des Moines, close friend of the bride, was maid of honor and Arlene Sheriff of Des Moines, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore mint green and lavender, waltz-length gowns respectively. Both dresses were of nylon net and satin with satin shrug jackets. Each wore a satin tiara with a lace veil in colors harmonizing with their gowns and both carried colonial bouquets of yellow mums.

Candy McClenahan, as flower girl, wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin and carried a small colonial bouquet of mums. Jeffery Sheriff, ring-bearer, carried the rings on a white satin pillow trimmed with nylon lace. He wore a brown suit with a carnation boutonniere.

Rolland Pals was best man and Paul Dieger was groomsman. Myron Waage of Goodell, brother of the groom, and Larry Boller of Mason City served as ushers. Jerry Hopkey and Lew Waage of Goodell, brothers of the bride and groom respectively, were candle-lighters.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress and the groom's mother also wore navy blue with white accessories. Their corsages were of white and red carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors for relatives and friends. Marlene Waage of Goodell, sister of the groom, had charge of the guest book. Mrs. Pete Oredson of Chapin, cousin of the bride, cut the three-tier wedding cake, which was topped with a minature bride and groom. Mrs. Clarence Hopkey, aunt of the bride and Katherine Strasburg, cousin of the groom, poured. Mrs. Bill Drape of Ames and Luann Waage of Goodell, sister of the groom, were in charge of the gifts. Others assisting were Mrs. Dell Rankins, Mrs. Lawrence Gealow, Mrs. William Sheriff, Mrs. Grant Chapman and Mrs. William Pals.

Hancock County Establishes New Safety Committee

Dr. J. T. Enggas of Britt has been named chairman of the recently established Hancock County Traffic Safety committee, which is soon to hold its first countywide meeting. Hancock county is one of 88 in the state that have now formed committees of this nature at the suggestion of the State Department of Public Safety.

Composing membership of the Hancock committee are the chairman, county attorney, sheriff and engineer, county superintendent of schools, mayors of the various communities and delegates from each township representing local civic organizations and law enforcement agencies.

Purpose of the committee will be furtherance of public safety education to the end of creating more safety-minded drivers, promoting better law enforcement and improving local safety conditions.

Doctor Enggas says that a specific goal will be establishment of a Teen-age Drivers club in each of Hancock county's high schools. He adds that improvement of safety conditions at county road intersections will also be an objective.

In the past nine years, 25 Hancock countians have been killed in auto mishaps, according to the safety committee chairman. Last year there were eight fatalities and so far this year there have been seven. The Highway Patrol, alone, has handled 26 traffic accidents in the county thus far this year, Doctor Enggas says.

ADMINISTRATOR KUTZ AGREES IT IS TIME OUR HOSPITAL "TOOK A WIFE"

As should be apparent by now to readers of The Independent, organization of a women's auxiliary to aid and abet the Belmond Community hospital is an objective this newspaper is determined to promote until it becomes a reality. While our efforts in this regard have achieved exactly nothing so far, from a local standpoint, we were gratified last week to learn that at least they have gained some attention farther afield. We are in receipt of a letter from one of the state's leading authorities on hospital auxiliaries. We'd like to pass it's contents along.

Oct. 5, 1954
Des Moines, Ia.

Editor
The Independent
Belmond, Ia.

Dear Sir:

I was intrigued by your editorial of August 12th advocating the organization of an auxiliary for your hospital. I presume you have read or heard about the successful auxiliaries in some 50 of our Iowa cities. The American Hospital Association has fostered the Hospital Auxiliary movement and calls it, "The Hospital Takes a Wife."

I am the state advisory counselor for auxiliaries in Iowa and my express purpose is to help in the organization and development of auxiliaries. A year ago now, Britt organized an auxiliary for Hancock County Hospital. I consider it one of the most successful auxiliaries for a small hospital in the state. I am sure they would be happy to assist you in the organization of an auxiliary for your hospital.

But my specific purpose for writing is to invite some of your community leaders to attend a meeting we are having at Waterloo on Nov. 10th. If you are really interested in having an auxiliary, call the administrator of your hospital. He must approve such a project before it can begin. Then contact me at the address below and I will see that information on the Waterloo meeting, and organizing of an auxiliary, is directed to the hospital.

Representatives from auxiliaries in the North-Central part of the state will be attending the Waterloo meeting and it will be most inspiring and informative.

Sincerely yours
Mrs. James Enyart
930 — 45th Street

Consultation with Administrator Stuart Kutz of the Belmond hospital reveals that he fully shares our conviction that an auxiliary is NEEDED here. Some concrete steps to the end of actually organizing one will be taken soon. We sincerely hope that those whose cooperation is required and asked will lend it readily and graciously.

DELINQUENCY DOESN'T JUST START IN THE 'TEENS, SUI PROFESSOR STRESSES

While juvenile delinquency is not a major problem in Belmond — yet — is is unquestionably a GROWING one. That's why an article that arrived in our mail last week promptly caught our eye. It should give us ALL something to think about.

Entitled "Delinquency May Begin BEFORE Adolescence," it was one of a series of articles on "Understanding Iowa Children," written by Afton Smith of the University of Iowa faculty. Below are Professor Smith's remarks.

Two pictures recently appeared in the newspapers. They can tell us more than a book of sermons.

One picture showed a hapless, bewildered 17-year-old youth on his way to the penitentiary to serve a 50-year sentence. He had committed murder. His father is with him in the picture with his arm around him.

The other picture shows a youth of the same age in a stupor in a hospital, fighting for his life. He had been in an automobile wreck. His father sits by the bed, head bowed on the covers in grief.

Each of these pictures could be titled "Too Late." According to the newspapers, in the first case the boy had no family life. He had lived at random among relatives who did not want him. He had scarcely known he had a father until too late.

In the other case, the boy's father appeared to be prosperous but he was too busy to give any time to his son. He gave him a brand new automobile instead. Now the hours spent by the boy's bedside are too late.

When the child is three and cute it is easy to love him and care for him. When he is 10 and a nuisance it is easy to send him out to play and get rid of him. A stack of comics and money for a movie are very comfortable ways to keep him quiet.

Delinquence does not always begin at adolescence, although that is when we hear most about it. Delinquency may begin at 10 or before. It may begin as soon as a child must manage his own moral life without help from parents.

It is too late to woory about the adolescent when he has committed a crime. The time to be concerned is the day he is born.

What Other Ed's Are Saying

The Manson Journal Rebukes "Us" on Traffic Toll; And Takes A Turn to the Lighter Side

"THEY" KILLED 'EM?

"They certainly killed them over the weekend," a friend said to me Monday morning discussing the highway death toll of 20.

Therein lies one of the difficulties in our safety program. "They" refers to no one unless it is to some unknown maleficent spirits patroling the highways to select victims for their pleasure.

If my friend had said "we certainly killed . . . " then he would have identified the safety problem with himself.

oOo

It seems odd that in this, supposedly the most intelligent and progressive of all nations, that the citizenry cannot (or refuse) to accept their individual responsibility for highway safety.

Until you do and I do so the Michigan idea seems to be the only solution — flood the highways with police officers so that one cannot travel a mile without being observed.

The cost of such a police program will be staggering but that appears to be the only way to force the motoring public to become mature drivers.

VENETIAN "PUZZLES"

Apparently, I didn't have enough to complicate my life. Now, I have venetian blinds. It's not that I don't like them, exactly. As a matter of fact, I had always admired them, in a vague sort of way, as adding distinction to windows—other people's windows, that is. I had never felt that I must have a fur coat on my back or venetian blinds at my windows in order to be socially acceptable.

Still, on the other hand, I had never said I wouldn't have the things in my house, either. So when we moved into this house equipped with blinds, I didn't think too much about it.

But the first time I found occasion to operate them I approached them warily, and I have not since had any reason to change my attitude toward them.

I never can remember which cord to pull for what ever I want them to do. If I want them open, I grab for the handiest cord and yank and like as not I just clamp them tighter, or else they start zipping toward the ceiling, then stop suddenly at a horrible lopsided angle when I give another panicky jerk. I hastily haul at another cord pull it this way and that until with a frightening grinding of gears, the blinds clatter and bang back to the window sill — still closed.

So I stand back and consider the situation carefully. One of those cords open those slats so I can see out. I have seen the children perform this miracle. One by one, I cautiously tug at each cord and finally the slats are out horizontally and the world is mine again.

I have the same struggle every time, but I didn't fully appreciate the lurking horrors of the creatures until I started cleaning them I am now in the middle of this process and it's going to take a few days, for I find myself so unnerved after an hour of it, that I can't do many at a time.

Rain, Rain and More Rain Puts Belmond GMI Plant Behind 8-Ball and Soybean Producers in Quandry

Missing so far this year have been the long lines of a grain transports waiting at the Belmond General Mills plant to have their loads of soybeans weighed. And the absence of these highway behemoths is adding up to a king-size headache for Buyer Henry Stokke—to say nothing of representing a major threat to the continuous operation of the soybean processing plant.

Rain, rain and more rain has been responsible for this unhappy state of affairs. And as plenteous precipitation continued over the weekend, no prompt relief was in sight.

Many Plants Shut Down

Combing of soybeans is usually "well over the hump" by this time of the year. But as of last Saturday, percentage of harvesting in the major soybean states stood approximately as follows: Iowa and Minnesota 15 per cent, Ohio 20, Illinois 85 and Missouri 90.

Some soybean processing plants in Iowa, Minnesota and Ohio have simply thrown in the towel and shut down, Mr. Stokke reports. Others, like Belmond's, are simply operating on a day-to-day basis, scrounging for bean purchases wherever and whenever they can.

Yields High—in Field

According to the local buyer, general rains over Iowa and Minnesota beginning Monday, Sept. 27, stopped combing in both states after it had been under way for only two days. Soybeans had dried down to an average of 10 per cent moisture; but the continued rains through last weekend have boosted moisture content in Iowa to 15-16 per cent and to 17-18 in Minnesota.

Yields before the rains came were reported to be running well above previous averages in both states, 30 bushels to the acre being very common and even higher ones being not infrequently reported—up to 47 per acre. Due to the continued precipitation, however, the beans have swelled as their moistur content steadily mounted.

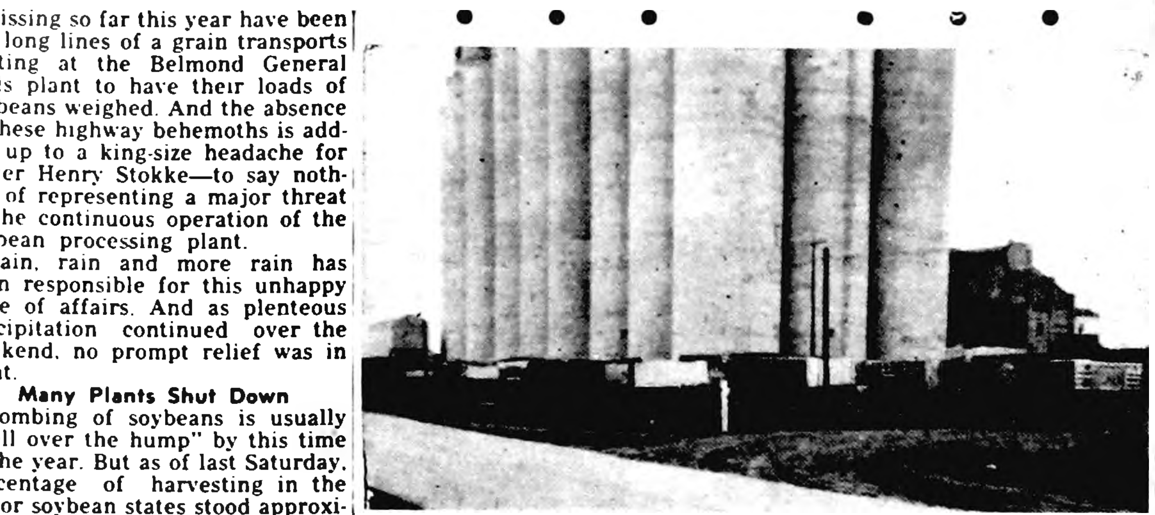
This has left the farmer with a very dubious choice, come the time that his field has dried enough that he can get in with a combine. If he waits until the beans have dried in the field there is apt to be extensive shattering, because the pods will shrink much faster than the swollen beans and the result will be a considerable reduction of yield due to dropped grain. And if he doesn't permit the beans to dry, he will have to accept a discount at time of sale because of excessive moisture.

It seems probable that decision to combine as soon as possible will be forced on the farmer, since the discount for high moisture is a known factor—up to 18 per cent—whereas the loss due to shattering might run much heavier. In the meantime, beans delivered to the Belmond plant from the current harvest has run 80 per cent under average for this time of year.

With commitments on soybean oil steadily to be met, local plant officials are resolved to keep in operation so long as the present trickle of beans permits. Meanwhile, they're thumbing their almanacs and eyeing the sky, hoping that a chain of rainless days will bring delivery of beans up to a seasonable normal.



WHERE ARE THE TRUCKS of yesteryear? Noticeable by its absence is the long line-up of grain transports customarily jamming the GMI plant premises at this time of year. This picture was taken exactly three years ago this past Monday morning. On Monday morning of this week, two lonely trucks sidled up to the scale, deposited their loads, and silently (?) stole away.

VOL. 35 NO. 2 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1954 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

It's truly a "small world" these days. Time was when it was quite an event for a weekly newspaper to acquire a subscriber outside the United States. But we can think right off, without referring to the files, of seven different countries The Independent is mailed to every week — Alaska, Canada, France, Germany, Haiti, Korea and Liberia —and we've very possible overlooked some.

—M-S—

Kinda makes you wonder, when you hear folks yammering about Uncle Sam's participation in the United Nations (because it "infringes upon our sovereignty" or some similar fool reason) where they've been keeping themselves. Everyone living on this old globe today is a "close neighbor" to everyone else.

We've got all our eggs in the same basket, whether we like it (and there are plenty who regard it for the best, in the long run) or not. This being UN Week, it might not be amiss to spare the matter a moment's thought.

Like any kind of neighbors, there may be those we like and those we don't. But since we haven't the choice of moving out of the "neighborhood," it surely behooves us to bend every effort towards "getting along." Who can point to a better means to this end that the UN? Best we should praise the Lord for the United Nations than fret over its flaws! . . . Sermon over.

—M-S—

Mrs. Arvid Jacobson (nee Leila Packard) writes the Mainstreeters from Chelles, France, where she and her husband are living while preparing for missionary work in Madagascar. She tells that the mayor of Chelles killed a soldier during German occupation of the community during World War II. The value that the Nazis attached to that one life was the lives of 12 men of the village! The residents hold a high regard for Americans. It was the Yanks who finally chased the Nazis out of town.

Mrs. Jacobson says that right across from the apartment she and her husband occupy is a lovely park commemorating the death of the dozen innocent Frenchmen.

The Jacobsons are studying French at a school in downtown Paris. They commute by train and "metro" (equivalent of New York's subway). Leila says Paris has the most efficient subway system in the world, and that New York could learn a-plenty by studying it. She adds that it's almost impossible — even for a small-towner from the U. S. midwest — to get lost on the metro. Ye Ed can vouch that it is easy as nothin' to get magnificently lost on the N. Y. subway. Many's the time. . . !

—M-S—

In a letter published today, Robert W. Rowen clarifies a point or two in regard to the naming of Rowan, stating it was his grandfather (Robert E.) and not his illustrious uncle (John E.) who was thus honored. Mrs. Maggie Templeton of Clarion, a daughter of J. E., now comes along with some more interesting data — and verifies a tale we'd often heard.

She informs us that her father (best remembered for having been U. S. consul, to the Faukland Islands and later to Punta Arenas, Chile) once edited a predecessor of The Independent, the Belmond Press. . . . We'll thank you, incidentally, not to observe that Belmond journalism's day of glory is plainly behind it!

But that's not the tale. The Press was printed on a printing press that Mr. Rowen had had salvaged from the bottom of the Mississippi river. Seems that when the Mormons were moving west and temporarily settled on the Illinois side of the river, a ruckus developed between them and still earlier settlers. One development of the scrap was that this press the Mormons had with them got tossed in the drink.

—M-S—

Ella Luick dropped in at the office the other day with a four-line verse which, she admits, rather works poetic license to a frazzle—in this autumn of 1954. Entitled "October," the quatrain reads:

October is a shining cock pheasant
With multi-colored feather.
Its days, gold-ringed and pleasant
Bring happy-hearted weather.

The fellow at the weather controls sure likes to mix it up, doesn't he? Last year this time, you dasn't drop a lit cigaret butt for fear of enflaming the entire countryside. This fall you couldn't start a pile of leaves burning with a blowtorch!

—M-S—

Don Collinson, who with his wife is now attending Scarritt college in Nashville, Tenn., preparatory to taking up missionary work in the Belgian Congo, recently sent us a welcome letter. He related that their first three weeks down south they shared their apartment with a German family that's going to Argentina. Don says that with he and Mary working on their French at every opportunity and their guests speaking both German and Spanish, the kids were a bit confused.

By an odd coincidence, the ministrative secretary who will oversee the Collinsons' work in Africa, is a former northeast Iowa farm neighbor of Rev. M.L. Jones, local Methodist tor.

Scarritt is a highly cosmopolitan college, boasting more than 40 foreign students. Don told of accompanying a group of his new friends (two carloads) on a visit to several rural schools and churches in the Cumberland mountains. "You should have seen the faces of those little tots in a two-room school," he says, "when students from Japan, Korea, Germany, Argentina, Brazil and Cuba talked and sang in their own languages!"

George C. Johnson Loses Life Friday in Collision on Highway 69

Aim of Community Chest: One Day to Finish Drive

Great stress will be laid this year on completing the annual Community Chest drive to the fullest possible extent in 24 hours' time. All workers are being urged to report promptly at 9:00 a. m. Monday at the Veterans' Memorial hall for the kickoff meeting. At that time Carl Frick of Britt will tell them of the remarkable success achieved by the Community Chest there last fall by adopting this policy—and making it work.

Last year was the first of the Britt Chest's existence. Mr. Frick was chairman of the campaign and laid his plans carefully to provide for completion of virtually the entire canvass on the drive's opening day. Not only was this aim achieved, but the campaign goal was generously over-subscribed.

Quick Way Is Easiest

Cecil Carstens, local campaign chairman this year, is convinced that all of the solicitors will find their jobs much less of a burden if they follow the Britt plan. When solicitations are delayed, enthusiasm is lost and the canvass is much less likely to be completed, he believes. Consequently, he is addressing letters to all workers requesting that they plan to make their calls immediately following the kickoff meeting and report by the end of the day.

It is taken for granted that some clean-up calls will have to be made later than Monday. But if the solicitors bend every effort to make their rounds promptly, Mr. Carstens foresees that the canvass can be for the great part entirely out of the way by Monday night.

Past Drives Have Lagged

Pledges for later collection will, of course, be acceptable; but even in these cases, signed pledge cards can be turned in the first day so the campaign manager can accurately ascertain how returns are matching with the goal of $3,900.

In past years, conduct of the local Chest campaign has anually lagged over a period of two weeks or more. It has been recognized by all the previous campaign directors that procrastination on the part of some the drive was launched. If given an honest trial, Mr. Carstens predicts that Belmond will never want future Community Chest drives conducted on other than a one-day basis.

Workers Now Picked

Chairmen and workers for the campaign next week have been assigned as follows: business and professional men—chairmen George Kelcher and Russ Dougherty; M.B. Dannewitz, Neil Flanagan, Dale Kessler, J.D. Saunders, Floyd Stevens, Arnold Alderson, Jim Waddington, Dr. C. J. Neuman, Dick Gowdy, Don Nolan, Ed Gabrielson, Ted Behrends, Jim Cairns.

Bean Flow Now Nearing Normal

Evidence that the soybean "drouth" (due to too much wet weather) is over could be witnessed at the General Mills plant this week. Replacing the mere trickle of beans that has been filtering into the plant since the normal harvest season began in late September, lines of trucks were waiting in front of the scales this week to have their loads weighed.

Henry Stokke, bean buyer for the local plant, stated Wednesday that the influx of beans promises to reach usual proportions for this time of the year during the current week. On Tuesday, for the first time this season, the plant was open to truck deliveries on a 24-hour basis in order to accomodate the vastly increased flow of beans.

Driver of Second Car Hospitalized By His Injuries

Tragic, sudden death came last Friday afternoon to George C. Johnson, 79, prominent retired farmer, when the auto he was driving on Highway 69 two miles north of Belmond was involved in a collision. He was a life-long resident of this community and the high esteem in which he was held by his neighbors and friends was repeatedly manifested by the positions of trust to which he was elected during his active years.

Patrolman L. W. Dickinson of Humboldt, who was summoned to the scene of the accident when Wright county's two patrolmen were not available due to Friday being their day off duty, says that an eye-witness report on the accident was obtained from an Elmore, Minn., party in a car that was following Mr. Johnson's.

Was Turning Corner

These witnesses stated that the collision occurred about 2:30 p. m. when Mr. Johnson endeavored to turn across the highway onto the gravel road leading west. He evidently did not see the second car which Homer E. Cies, 64, of Boone was driving from the north. The two vehicles crashed, bumper to bumper, the Cies car being shoved onto the right shoulder and the Johnson car being spun entirely around and left heading south in the middle of the paving.

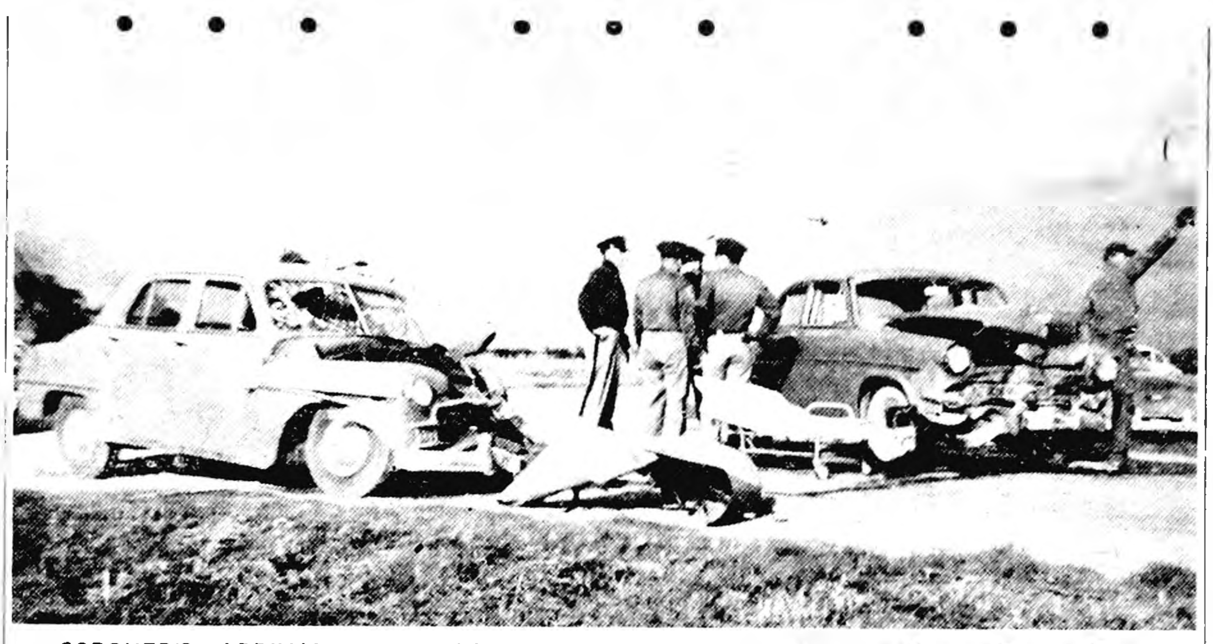
Dr. Charles Hawkins of Clarion, acting county coroner, says Mr. Johnson was apparently killed outright. The victim suffered a crushed chest and possible broken neck. Mr. Cies was rushed to Belmond Community hospital in a serious condition. His right leg was broken and he also suffered a brain concussion and a severe laceration above the left eye. He is reported making a satisfactory recovery.

Dog Only Dazed

Mr. Cies was returning home from a duck-hunting trip and had a hunting dog in the car with him. The animal, which apparently was suffering from shock, was taken by Game Warden Bill Ayers to Dr. H. J. Classick. Examination brought to light no injuries and when members of the injured man's family picked up the pet Friday night, the dog seemed to be getting back to normal.

Front ends of both of the cars were badly damaged by the terrific impact of the collision. Both sides of the windshield in the Cies car were shattered, apparently when the driver and his dog companion were dashed against it. Oddly enough, the windshield of the Johnson car remained intact.

Sheriff Robert Blecker reports the Cies car was regarded as a "total loss," except for salvage value. Damage to the Johnson car was estimated at $900.



CORONER'S ARRIVAL at the scene of the accident that claimed George C. Johnson's life was being awaited as this picture was taken last Friday afternoon. A stretcher stands ready to receive the body of the prominent retired farmer while a group of four highway patrolmen is gathered adjacent, reviewing details of the mishap. At right, a volunteer "deputy" motions an oncoming car around the Johnson auto, which remained in the middle of the highway—where impact of the collision had deposited it, facing opposite to its original course — until the medical officer had opportunity to examine the victim.

FUNERAL SERVICES FRIDAY FOR BERNARD GAFFNEY, 68

Funeral services for Bernard Gaffney, 68, of Garner will be held at St. Francis Catholic church Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Rev. R. A. Ormsby will officiate over the rites and Fulton Funeral Home is in charge. Burial will be in St. Francis cemetery here.

Mr. Gaffney died Tuesday night at Mercy hospital, Mason City. Among survivors are the following three sisters and brother living in Belmond: Mrs. Anna Barry, Mrs. Nellie Quigley, Bridget and Tom Gaffney.

GEORGE C. JOHNSON
Victim of Highway Collision

Final Rites Held For Crash Victim Monday Afternoon

Funeral services for George C. Johnson, whose life was abruptly snuffed out in an auto accident Friday afternoon, were held Monday at 2:00 p. m. at Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. O. M. Severseike officiated over the rites and Johnston Funeral Home was in charge.

Burial was in Belmond cemetery. Pallbearers were Thorlief Rikansrud of Kanawha, Harold Johnson, Fred Gellett, A. C. Hanson, Otto Hanson and Percy Swenson.

Mr. Johnson had lived all of his 79 years in the Belmond community. He was born near Belmond on July 18, 1875, at the farm home of his parents, Christian and Alice Johnson. He was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith at St. Olaf church by the late H. C. Holm.

A life-long member of the St. Olaf church until his retirement from farming several years ago, Mr. Johnson at that time moved in to Belmond and affiliated with the Trinity Lutheran church.

On Dec. 4, 1907, he was married to Emma Holm. Two children were born to them; a daughter, Mrs. Gwin (Alpha) Olson of Milwaukee, Wis.; and a son, Luther, living at home.

Survivors besides his wife and two children include a brother and sister, Herman C. and Minnie I. Johnson, both of Belmond; two grandchildren, Susan and John Olson; and many other less immediate relatives.

A man highly regarded for his honesty and integrity as well as his friendliness, Mr. Johnson was chosen to serve his community and his church in many ways in recognition of these traits. He served as treasurer of the St. Olaf church for a period of 35 years, was treasurer of the Belmond township school district for 48 years and served both as treasurer and director of the Olaf elevator.

Rural Chest Drive Off to Good Start

Approximately 60 workers were present for the kickoff meeting of the Wright County Rural Community Chest held Monday of last week at Clarion. Cookies and coffee were prepared and served by Mrs. Leo Woodley.

Kenneth Allbaugh of Eagle Grove, who is United Defense Fund representative in that community, told those present how the Community Chest idea came into being and how it has succeeded.

Mrs. Bernard Collins and Harold Yanney, co-chairmen of the rural drive, gave out campaign materials to the town and township chairmen and their solicitors.

It is reported by the chairmen that the canvass got off to a good start Monday and they are confident it will be very largely completed by Saturday. Deadline for all division chairmen to have their money turned in to the First National bank at Clarion is next Monday.

Belmond Cub Pack Meets Next Week

First pack meeting of the new Scouting season will be held by Belmond's Cub Scouts on Wednesday evening of next week at the school lunch room, starting at 7:15 o'clock. Games will open the evening of fun, to be followed by ceremonies and skits presented by the Cubs.

All boys of age eight through 10, as well as their parents, are invited by Cubmaster Leland Jenison to attend this pack meeting. In a recent reorganization, Mr. Jenison succeeded Cubmaster Walt Hotvet, who will now serve as assistant Cubmaster. Den Mothers are Mrs. Glen Eccles, Mrs. Clark McNeal and Mrs. Robert Garms.

These leaders are making a special effort this month to make it possible for all boys to enter Cub Scouting who are interested in doing so. A Cubbing program is planned for both town and rural boys.

Karon Bohning Reigns Over '54 Homecoming as Queen; Senior Class Home Room Float Takes 1st in Parade

Karon Bohning, junior class candidate for the title of 1954 BHS Homecoming Queen, was elected to that honor by members of the varisty football squad and reigned over last Friday night's Homecoming festivities.

She was crowned during halftime of the Belmond - Forest City game by Bob McLaughlin and presented with a bouquet of roses by Keith Madsen in the presence of the other three candidates—Kaye Wagner, Mary Luick and Margaret Gabrielson — and the approving throng of spectators. McLaughlin Madsen had been chosen by their team mates as co-captains for the Homecoming game.

What was unanimously regarded as the finest Homecoming parade in the six years that it has been an annual event was viewed by a good-sized crowd Friday afternoon. Close to 30 floats and decorated cars—nearly 20 of them prepared for the occasion by local business firms—comprised the parade, along with the high school band.

Judges appointed to select the prize-winning floats among the school entries were Mrs. H. E. Colby, Mrs. A. P. Thompsen and George Keleher. They awarded first place to the senior class home room of which Margaret Lapitz is supervisor; second went to the junior high entry; and third prize was given to the sophomore class float.

"We're Expecting a Victory" was the title illustrated by the first-place winner, depicting a worried "doctor" pacing the floor as a stork stood by with a "precious bundle" slung in a diaper. The junior high's "On the Prowl" float consisted of a white fence inhabited by a multitude of cats and made gay with flowers.

The sophs' "We'll Lick 'em" showed a large clown face with a giant, protruding tongue aimed at a papoose representing the F. C. Indians. Honorable mention went to the FFA-FHA entry, "We'll Push 'em Over the Falls," which showed a canoe-full of Indians in dire straits. The judges also gave special mention to the commercial entries of P&G grocery, Belmond Auto company and Waddington's.

WINNING FLOAT in last Friday's "best ever" Homecoming parade was the one pictured on top, above. It was constructed by the senior class home room supervised by Margaret Lapitz. Below it is the junior high float, which was awarded second place. Several floats cleverly designed of paper suffered serious damage from the gusty wind that prevailed while the parade was in progress and but faintly resembled the original product by the time the parade had reached the business district.

Somebody Seems to Dislike EVERYTHING About The Operation of Belmond School System. Period!

Members of the Belmond Community School district planning committee and two members of the school board have received anonymous letters in recent weeks complaining about nearly everything but the brand of paper towels in the school rest rooms. Whether the writer is simply a jokester or really has something stuck in his craw, they can't fully decide.

Carl Green of Goodell and Gerald McNulty, Pleasant township farmer—both of whom are members of the school board—were first "favored" with unsolicited advice a short time before school started.

Nobody at "Meeting"

Early this month they received a second unsigned missive, as did the members of the planning committee, which includes the approximately 2½ dozen individuals who worked in behalf of the local school reorganization. The committee has continued to serve the school board as an advisory group.

Last week a meeting of the letter-recipients was "called" by their unknown critic. Whether or not Mr. A. Nony Mous showed up or not is not known, since those invited to attend said meeting chose to disregard the summons.

Dated at Goodell

The school administration, certain members of the faculty and janitorial staff and various facets of school planning were given a thorough scorching in the abusive letters. All were dated at Goodell but mailed at Belmond; and all were typewritten.

Supt. Don A. Faris says the writer apparently regards he can best conceal his identity by employing a type writer. This is a rather fallacious idea, however. The fact of the matter is, each typewriter has characteristics that are just as markedly individual as a person's finger print.

Using Mail Risky

This, plus the fact that Uncle Sam frowns on having his mail service utilized for such purposes, places the letter-writer in a rather risky position.

Recipients of the letters are in agreement that if the letters are intended as a joke, it's a rather poor one. They suspect they're more likely the work of a crank, though. Whatever their purpose, they've achieved nothing more than mild aggravation toward the sender.

Not much thought has been devoted to the problem of trying to identify the writer. Mr. Faris regards, though, that the possible authors could be reduced to a mere handful in number, should the matter be carried too far. Meanwhile, one and all are waiting with well-controlled curiosity to see if more letters will be forthcoming.

$200 PICKED OFF

Two claimants lowered the boom on this week's Cash Gift Day "kitty" to the tune of $200. Mrs. Adolph Wenzel picked off the big one—$175 at 3:00 o'clock. Wallace "Soupy" Cramer had a number that was good for $25 at 2:00 p. m. After a quick look at the bank book, the Cash Gift Day committee decided on a $100 transfusion for said "kitty" to bring next week's total to $225. That means five $25 prizes will be up at 2:00 p. m. next Tuesday and the 3:00 o'clock amount will be $100.

MYF WILL CONDUCT "WORK DAY" FOR BENEFIT OF DON COLLINSONS

Members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship plan a "Christ's Work Day" this Saturday to accumulate a fund for Mr. and Mrs. Don Collinson, who are preparing for missionary duty in Africa. Mr. Collinson, former vocational agriculture instructor in the Belmond High school, was MYF advisor before his departure early last summer.

It is the wish of the Methodist young people to provide the Collinsons with money for some extra undertakings in behalf of their native charges that the regular budget for their station would not permit. To this end, they're ready to roll up their sleeves and devote the hours of 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. Saturday to the cause.

Any kind of work assignments will find them ready and willing. The boys and girls will happily undertake any type of household jobs, lawn raking, washing and putting-up storm windows, car-washing, baby sitting.

No set fee will be charged for work done, the rate of reimbursement being left to the discretion of those for whom the jobs are done. It is believed by Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Van Gorp, who are advisors of the MYF, that many friends of the Collinsons' will be anxious to have a part in the project by having the young people take care of fall chores for them.

Workers can be obtained by phoning either Mrs. Van Gorp at 6837 or Mrs. George Jenison, 411.

AD STOP ORDER RECEIVED TOO LATE; NO MORE RACES

A standing order with Wright County Raceways for insertion of a weekly ad in The Independent concerning its regular racing cards "stood" a bit too long this week. Last Sunday concluded the Raceways' season, but the newspaper was not so informed until after an advertisement had already been printed in the first section of this issue to go to press. Frank Barber, Raceways secretary, urges that the ad be disregarded. There will no NO MORE racing at the track until next year.

JURORS EXCUSED

Clerk of Court Bessie Johnson announces that petit jurors who were originally requested to report for duty at 10:00 a. m. next Monday have been excused until the same hour a week later, Nov. 1.

OPEN HOUSE AT JAIL SUNDAY

Wright county voters are reminded by the county board of supervisors that the old jail at Clarion will be open to public inspection this Sunday afternoon from 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock. It is hoped by the board members that a good many Wright countians will avail themselves of this opportunity to see for themselves why the supervisors regard it as so essential that issue of bonds for building a new jail be approved at the Nov. 2 election. Retirement of the $68,00 in bonds would be scheduled over a 10-year period of time. Although the proposition calls for a millage not to exceed three-tenths of a mill, County Attorney Ben Birdsall states that a levy of .25 mill or less should suffice.

Eagle Rank Bestowed Upon Three Belmond Scouts In Ceremony at IOOF Hall on Wednesday Evening

Three Belmond Boy Scouts received Scouting's highest award at ceremonies conducted Wednesday evening at the Odd Fellows lodge hall. Eagle Scout badges were at that time presented to Larry Flanagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Flanagan; David Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Long; and Bill Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Murray.

Don Nielsen, institutional representative, was master of ceremonies for the program, which opened with a ceremony performed by members of the local Explorer Post. Several boys were inducted into Scouting as Tenderfoot Scouts, after which a Court of Honor was held. Promotions and merit badges were awarded at that time.

Four boys entered Scouting as Tenderfoot Scouts: Robert Courson, Kirk Cunningham, Gary Luick, Mark Mason and Jay Mennenga. Two were elevated to 2nd class—Bruce Leinbach and Gary Porter; and three were advanced to 1st Class—Cecil Eccles, Jeff Hansen and John Murray.

Additional merit badges were awarded to: Jerry Dorr (10), Bill Murray (7), David Long (4), Marlan Cunningham and Larry Flanagan (one each).

Following an appearance by the BHS boys quartet—Ron Hansen, Bill Murray, Norman Pals and Gene Mehl—the Eagle Badges were presented as climax of the evening. An impressive ceremony which has become a tradition in the Winnebago Council attended the presentation. Peter DeJong, Council Scout Executive, was assisted in the ceremony by a team of Eagle Scouts that included Jerry Dorr, Belmond; Don Thompson, Kanawha; Dean Shupe, Clarion; Bob Thompson, Clear Lake; and Gary Poorman, Shellrock.

Mr. DeJong stated, "Belmond can well be proud of its Scout Troop and Explorer Post and their leaders, Glen Eccles and 'Bud' Packard," pointing out that the five boys achieve Eagle [illegible] in the past 12 months, [illegible] and Kenneth Eccles are [illegible] who have become [illegible] in that period of time.

Seeing Things Straight

We were talking about Halloween bugaboos, down at the store . . . and that reminded Bill Simpson of a scare his grandson had the other night.

"Sat up in bed and yelled to his ma there was a ghost by the dresser," Bill chuckled. "It was his own shirt hanging over a chair."

It's funny how things we were afraid of as kids fade into insignificance with knowledge and understanding. Seeing things in their right light is a part of growing up. Maybe we don't always see eye to eye with our neighbors, but we recognize the other fellow's right to his point of view.

For example, along about this time of year some folks put on long underwear. Others keep theirs short and lightweight. It's a matter of personal choice, that's all. Like a preference for pork chops or steak . . . detective plays or comedy on television . . . pop or a temperate glass of beer.

Like I said, maybe we can't always see things from the other fellow's point of view . . . but let's never lose sight of his right to have them.

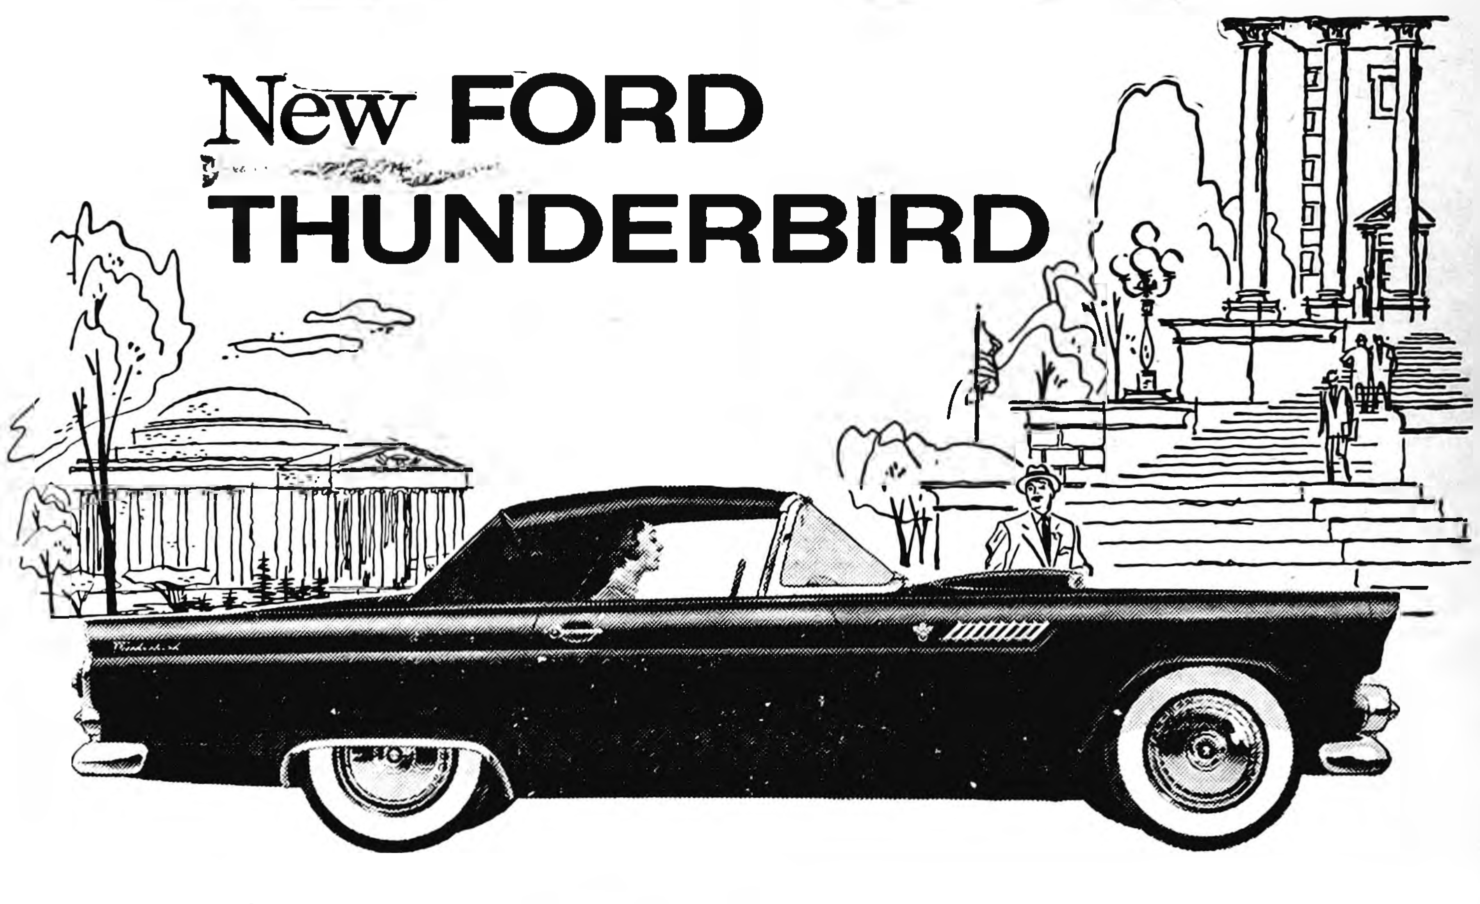
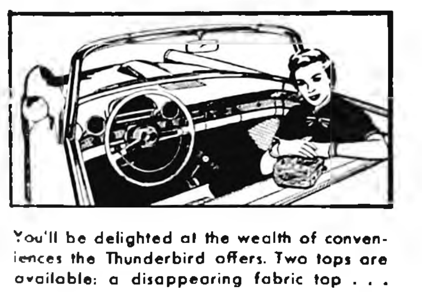
New FORD THUNDERBIRD



A personal car of distinction ...with Trigger-Torque performance



You'll be delighted at the wealth of conveniences the Thunderbird offers. Two tops are available: a disappearing fabric top . . . and an easy-to-lift-on hard top. The extra-wide vinyl upholstered seat is foam-rubber-cushioned . . . power-operated 4 ways. Windows roll up . . . by power, if you like. There is a tachometer . . . and a clock with a sweep second hand. There is a telescoping steering wheel. And you can have power steering and power brakes.

Something totally fresh is here—a bewitching new all-steel beauty that sets the styling keynote for other Ford cars to come.

But, styling gives the merest hint of what the Thunderbird has to offer. In traffic and on the open road the Thunderbird's Trigger-Torque performance is literally a revelation. Here is hair-trigger response . . . fleet, liquid agility . . . backed by a reserve of swift, sure power to meet safety's every demand. Trigger-Torque performance stems from Ford's new Thunderbird Special V-8—a high-torque engine with 4-barrel carburetor, dual exhausts, wide-opening valves and Ford's famous low-friction design. And you can have the Thunderbird with the transmission of your choice—Conventional, Overdrive, or new Speed-Trigger Fordomatic.

Ford's Ball-Joint Front Suspension not only velvet-cushions your ride, it also allows the Thunderbird to handle with utmost ease—to corner with greatest stability.

But, more important, the Thunderbird is the product of the same advanced engineering . . . the same manufacturing skills that have made Ford products so dependable, so value-full and so desirable to so many.

TOM MARTIN

Today... Iowa's Best Man for the

U. S. SENATE

There comes a time when only the best — and nothing but the best — will serve the purpose. That's when the experienced, reliable man... the seasoned, tried-in-the-fire man — comes through as the one on whom to rely. This is such a time and Tom Martin is Iowa's logical choice to serve in the U. S. Senate — with the same devotion with which he's served state and nation in the House.

Turn the pages of his record. See where — far back in 1939 — he envisioned the need of defense for his country. Tom Martin authorized the very first law for stockpiling strategic and critical war materials this country ever had!

See how Tom Martin worked hard and faithfully, through discouraging years, and then, in these last years, he had the opportunity for magnificently constructive work for his state. His was the sponsorship of bills giving farmers substantial taxation benefits. One of his laws permits farmers to deduct up to 25% of gross farm income each year for money spent on soil and water conservation.

Yes... Tom Martin has been your "work-horse" in the House — he'll pull his heart out for you in the Senate! He's Iowa's choice... her best man for the U. S. Senate to help support the Eisenhower program.

THE PRESIDENT SIGNS A MARTIN-SPONSORED BILL

And every law Tom Martin sponsors is good for every Iowan. For 16 years, he's been in Washington, working for you. Recently Ike recognized Martin's legislative contributions to America with these words: "Dear Tom: I want you to know how deeply I appreciate your contribution to the legislative program just completed. With warm regards." Dwight D Eisenhower

OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTERS

of Wright County, Iowa

At the General Election on November 2nd, this year, you will find in addition to the regular matters on the ballot a proposition calling for a new Wright County Jail. As voters you will have an opportunity to authorize your county officials to build this new jail. Your County Board of Supervisors is unanimously in favor of the proposition. However, this is a matter which must be presented to you.

We believe that the county needs this improvement. Several Grand Juries, including the last three, have, at the time of their annual inspection in January of each year, strongly recommended this proposal. These bodies represent a good cross section of the Wright County community and their reports have been unanimous. In 1953 the State Fire Marshall condemned the present jail structure. All who have seen and inspected the old jail know that it must be replaced.

The cost of a new jail building and site will be approximately $68,000.00. Although this figure may seem large the proportionate share of the expense for each taxpayer is insignificant. For example, on an assessed property valuation of $2,000.00 the total tax over a ten year period will not exceed $3.00 or about thirty cents a year.

We sincerely believe that you should vote in the affirmative for this new jail building and site.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN GREENLANDER, Chairman
CARL P. KELLING, Member
GEORGE S. TROWBRIDGE, Member
HARLAND HILL, Member
ALBERT CHRISTOPHER, Member

WRIGHT COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

TO THE VOTERS

OF WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA

Your Board of Supervisors thought that the following information would be of interest to you in connection with the new jail proposition to be voted at the November election. Following are the number of prisoners and meals served in your jail for the years shown.

Year	Prisoners	Meals
1950	127	3127
1951	123	3323
1952	150	4337
1953	117	3610

Prisoners shown are by the month and any man that was held over the first of any month will appear twice or more. The most prisoners in the jail at one time during this four year period were 22 and in that month there were 702 meals served.

The Board has arranged with the Sheriff to show the old jail to all interested voters during the afternoon of Sunday, October 24th from one to five. It is suggested that you as a taxpayer visit the jail at that time yourself.

SINCERELY YOURS,

Wright County Board of Supervisors

BERT SUNTKEN

Had the pleasure of visiting with Bert Suntken who farms 120 acres 6½ miles northeast of Goodell a couple of weeks ago and found him plowing up a 14 acre piece of clover pasture that will be planted to corn next spring. This was one of those days, in fact one of several, that it hadn't been raining. Remember?

Bert, a good customer of the State Savings Bank for many years, owns 80 acres of his farm and rents 40 from Mrs. Herman Lauen. The buildings were all new in 1948 with the exception of the machine shed which he built in 1946.

Hadn't been talking with Bert long when we discovered he was a member of the Garner Saddle Club and loved horses and horseback riding. He was quite proud of a new colt that was the result of breeding his mare to a Shetland stud, the stud only 42 inches high. He expected the colt to stand no higher than 52 inches. Bert's daughter, Judy Ann age 11, loves to ride horses just as much as her father and does every chance she gets. No doubt his son Byron, age 5, will catch the bug too, as he gets a little older.

Asked him about the pheasant population on his farm and he said they weren't as thick as usual and he noticed it particularly when he picked a load of corn a few days ago.

Bert said he had had bad luck with his pigs this year. Usually plans to raise in the neighborhood of 125 but was left with only 89 when disease hit this spring. Plans on about 35 pigs in the fall but had none this time. Other livestock operations include milking 8 to 10 cows and feeding the same number of steers. His wife now has 400 Hy-Line and Leghorn pullets.

Hancock County Gives $2,500 For Polio Fund

Hancock county contributed approximately $2,500 during the recently conducted emergency drive in behalf of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

This fact was made known last week by Joe Osman of Britt, Hancock county chairman for the polio foundation, during a visit at the home of Mrs. Amos Hanson, who was Avery township campaign chairman.

Mr. Osman reminds all that the special drive was made necessary by deficits resulting from the polio epidemics of the past couple of years and does not supplant the annual March of Dimes campaign. This will be conducted in January, as usual.

Attention also is called by Mr. Osman to the fact that the polio foundation is not affiliated with the East Hancock County Community Chest, so its only source of funds from this area will be the January drive.

James H. Bremmer of Eldora called a week ago Tuesday among Goodell friends. He was local druggist some 30 years ago. Since the death of Mrs. Bremmer four years ago, his son Donald and oldest daughter, Gladys Ward, have made their home with him and operate his drug store. His older son Gerald and his wife, the former Gladys Johnson also of Goodell, have a drug store in Traer. His other two daughters are married, Opal residing in Mt. Carrol, Ill., and Delores on a farm near Eldora. The Bremmers' home in Goodell is now the property of the Theodore Kemps.

Mrs. Everett Anderson assisted Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ness last Wednesday to move from Olaf to Clarion. Their daughter's family, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Forgy who farm near Belmond, are moving to Clarion Dec. 1st where Mr. Forgy will operate a service station.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jenison and Ricky of Belmond spent last Wednesday evening in the home of relatives, the Sandbergs and Hansons. Mr. Jenison has spent the past six months with the navy in Iceland, flying back Oct. 9th to his former training base in Jacksonville, Fla., then coming via plane to Des Moines on Monday where Mrs. Jenison met him. He is having a 20-day furlough.

Presley Griggs of Manly visited a week ago Tuesday in the home of his uncle and aunt, the J. J. Cooks.

Mrs. Arthur Ruka received word that her uncle, Adolph Kline, age 71, of Admiral, Sask., Canada, passed away Oct. 14. He is a brother of Mrs. Mac Thompson of Belmond and was a Goodell resident some 40 years ago.

Mrs. William Ayers and Mrs. Lee Robbins went to Forest City Friday to attend a Tri-County teachers' meeting—the counties of Hancock, Worth and Winnebago.

Mrs. Blanche Johnson of Mason City is visiting in the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson.

All ladies of the southeast part of Twin Lake township, Goodell and southwest part of Avery township are invited to attend.

Mrs. Donald Peterson of Rockwell and Mrs. Donald Sellers of Thornton called Tuesday of last week in the Sandberg-Hanson home. Local folks will regret to hear that Mrs. Sellers fell from a chair while papering and broke her left arm. Bones were broken in her hand, wrist and splintered near the wrist.

Elmer Schneider and Gerald Janssen were business callers in St. Paul, Minn., Wednesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Trees and Belinda spent Thursday evening in the home of relatives, the Melvin Sorensons. The former is with the Air Corps and leaves soon for the west coast and overseas duty. His family will stay in her parental home at Alexander and with his folks, the James Trees, at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mayhew, with their son Junior, went to Williams Thursday and were supper guests in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Charles Sprugel. She is 8th grade teacher there. Mr. Sprugel is a rural mail carrier and attends Ellsworth college at Iowa Falls in the afternoon to continue his education.

Alvin Schlichting of Klemme spent Sunday with relatives, the Gilbert Kropps.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lauen and Larry were Sunday dinner guests in the home of her mother, Mrs. Unverferth, at Meservey. In the evening the Lauens visited friends, the Carl Willes, at Klemme.

Five on Probation For Delinquency

Five Belmond boys, charged with delinquency as a result of recent escapades, were heard in Wright county juvenile court last Saturday and placed on probation by Judge G. B. Hill. They will be under the jurisdiction of Harlan L. Hill of Goldfield, county probation officer.

Conditions of the probation were largely left up to the probation officer, but Judge Hill set forth four provisions that the boys must observe:

(1) They are restricted from entering any bowling alley or pool hall; (2) they must be at home each night by 9:30 o'clock; (3) they are prohibited from smoking; and (2) they shall have no association in each case, with any of the other four defendants.

In the case of one of the boys the names of three other boys were included with those of the other four defendants as former companions with whom he must have no further association.

Gordons Go West For M.F. Bairds' Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gordon and children left Tuesday by train for California to be present for the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of Mrs. Gordon's parents on Nov. 1. Mr. and Mrs. Manley F Baird, 11669 Chenault st., Los Angeles, are well known to a great many Belmond residents by virtue of their annual, summer visits in the Gordon home.

All four of the Bairds' children will be with them on the occasion of their anniversary, and it is expected that all but two of the couple's 16 grandchildren will be present, too.

Besides Mrs. Gordon, the children are Bruce Baird of Salsburg, Austria, Manley, Jr., of Santa Maria, Calif., and Mrs. Robert (Ruth) Clark of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Bruce Baird, a native Austrian, visited the Gordons in 1950 when she came to the States to obtain citizenship papers. However, this will be her husband's first return to the U. S. in 10 years. They plan to stop briefly in Belmond on their return trip to Austria.

While the Gordons are in California, Fred's parents—Mr and Mrs. George Gordon of Los Angeles—are in charge of Belmond Greenhouse. The Gordons intend to return to Belmond about Nov. 6.

Business Course Should Help Open Job Opportunities

Members of the Adult Education Council believe that a good many women who would be interested in obtaining part or full-time office work are missing a bet by not signing up for the night school course in business practices.

This is one of eight courses being offered by this year's Adult Education program which gets under way on Monday, Nov. 1. Registration for the business course—and for most of the others for that matter—have been very slow up to the present.

Don Bunnell of the Adult Education Council says, "Any woman with aspirations to become an office worker should surely take advantage of that course in business practices. Opportunities for employment on either part or full-time basis will be much improved for a person who has had this training."

As office manager for Tomahawk Hybrid Corn company Mr Bunnell is in a position to know whereof he speaks. He says that members of the business class will be instructed in filing, setting up a correct business letter, operation of various types of office machines and will be given other training of great practical value.

In regard to the "Calories Anonymous" unit which she will teach as a night class, Carol Richards suggests that overweight men will find it just as valuable as will women. Or, as Mr Bunnell put it "If you have a tubby hubbie bring him along!"

Colts, Froshmores Both Win at F.C.

Monday evening Belmond's froshmore and junior high football forces got done the job that the varsity couldn't quite manage last Friday. Both aggregations achieved victories over their opposite numbers at Forest City. The Junior Broncs racked up a 12-0 decision while the Colts lowered the boom on FC's junior high team 25-0.

Kenny Hawley figured in three of the Colts' scores. In the first quarter he tallied personally from six yards out and then heaved a TD pass to Charles Hanson, the play covering 65 yards.

Hawley tossed another pay-off pass to Larry Tideback in the third quarter, good for 35 yards. The final Colt counter came in the same period on a one yard plunge by Lynn Jenison. Hawley converted on one of four placekicks for extra point.

Roland Jenison passed to DaDean Obrecht for the froshmores' first TD from 15 yards out in the opening quarter. With BHS reserves in charge Forest City went ahead in the third stanza 7-6. Bill Murray had missed the Junior Broncs' first try for extra point and had no better luck on his kick after their final tally in the fourth period.

This score was produced on a 15 yard around end by Tom McNulty. Another touchdown was almost produced by Tom just as the game ended. He took an FC punt near midfield and returned to the one yard line before being hauled down from behind. Time elapsed before another play could be squeezed in.

Monday's game completed the Colt season, giving them a 2-1 mark. The froshmores will wind up their schedule with a return game at Clear Lake next Monday.

Robert Rowen Sheds More Light On Early Days of Horse Grove, Rowan

ROBERT E. ROWEN
From Heirloom Photograph

Robert W Rowen of Oakland, Calif., whose recent gift of $10,000 to Belmond Community hospital touched off a flurry of historical investigation into the past of the Rowan community in general and of the Rowen family in particular, last week contributed a few additional facts in a letter to The Independent.

He suggest that many branches of the Rowen family which originated in northern Ireland, spell the name Rowan — so he considers it a matter of small point that the Wright county community fell heir to the latter version instead of the former.

Was First "Fryburg"

It will be recalled by readers who have been keeping up with the historical discussions inspired by Mr Rowen's generosity that the original settlement from which Rowan developed was just to the southwest of the present community at Horse Grove. Writes Mr Rowen:

"The post office at Horse Grove was at the south end of the grove and was originally called Fryburg. My grandfather, Nathaniel Niles Hiams, was the postmaster for many years. He ran a small store in connection with the post office in the southeast corner of his home, where he sold almost anything from gingersnaps to Jew's harps. This building, remodeled, still stands as the home of Mrs. Burt Hiams and sons.

Otisville Became Dows

"When Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern railroad (now the Rock Island) was built, many changes were made. Otisville (a cornfield at the time) became Dows, Fryburg became Rowan, Amsterdam became Goodell, etc.

"There was a man in Iowa Falls who had obtained tax titles to a large number of tracts of farm land. I think his name was Gene Ellsworth or something similar. He came to Grandfather Rowen's home with officials of the B C R & N when they were securing right-of-way for the railroad. He was a good friend of Robert Rowen. They had dinner in the old Rowen home and it was agreed that the townsite would be named ROWEN.

Depot Sign Was "Rowen"

"The name 'Rowen' was put up on the depot and remained there for some 70 years, being changed to 'Rowan' only recently. I always presumed that parties making application for the new post office misspelled the name; however, it might be as stated in your Main Street item published recently.

"There is no doubt, I am sure, about the town and post office being named to honor Robert Rowen and not for his illustrious son, John E. Rowen, whose political career occurred long after the town was named."

Junior Class Play Set for Oct. 29th

A comedy, "Grandad Steps Out," will be presented at the high school auditorium at 8:00 p. m. on Friday of next week as the annual Junior Class Play. A cast of 13 has been selected by James Schmidt and Margaret Lapitz, co-directors, to fill the various roles.

Lead parts will be taken by Bradley Hammond portraying Grandad, and Connie Hill as his daughter, Mrs. Morton. Larry Wolters will enact the part of Jim Mahoney, an old school chum of Grandad's; and Mary Jo Benson will play Tilly, Mrs. Morton's maid.

Grandchildren of the title character will be Annette Swenson and Larry McMurray and a set of next-door triplets (of assorted sizes) will be depicted by Phyllis Lee, Elaine Reichardt and Maryellen Johnson.

Marlan Cunningham takes the part of a brother of the triplets and Neva Kyser plays the role of a nosey, old maid neighbor. Sharon Thompsen is cast as the wife of a friend of Grandad's and Charles Johnson fills the role of the inevitable detective, who fouls things up while "knowing" all the answers.

Action of the play has to do with the revolt of Grandad from a life of semi-invalidism, during which his daughter has kept him on a soup-and-crackers diet while he's dreamed of thick, juicy steaks.

Corrine Daveport serves as prompter and Sharon Thompsen is assisting as student director.

APPOINTED CORN SEALER

John Diekhuis has been appointed by the Wright county ACS committee as corn sealer for Belmond and Pleasant townships. He takes the place of Galen Johnson, who had served in that capacity for the past 2½ years. Oscar Hanson, ACS office manager, says that all calls for sealing service in the two townships should hereafter be directed to Mr. Diekhuis.

Belmond Schools Serve Noon Lunch To 537 Per Day

Supt. Don Faris released figures this week on meals that were served in the schools of Belmond Community School district during September under the hot-lunch program. On the 20 days of that month that meals were served, they totaled 11,579. That came to a daily average of 42 at Goodell and 537 at Belmond.

Receipts during the month came to $2,746.50 from the children, $225.70 from adults and $4.73 from miscellaneous sources. With the federal aid claim of $405.22, income for the month totaled $3,382.15.

Mr Faris says that expenses amounted to $5,129.85, consisting of $4,078.78 for food, $702.37 for labor, $33.29 for equipment and $315.41 for miscellaneous items.

No concern need be shown over the apparent deficit, Mr. Faris observed, since the inventory is at present being built up and expenditures will not continue at the first month's level. The hot lunch program, he says, operates entirely within it own budget and requires no support from local tax sources.

County Bond Total At 91% of Quota In Nine Months

When Wright county citizens invest only $119,642 more in United States savings bonds, they will have exceeded the county's quota for the entire year.

Charles Kramer of Clarion, county chairman of the savings bonds division, reported this week that purchases of series E and H bonds for the first nine months of 1954 amounted to $1,235,759 for 91.17 per cent of the county's annual quota of $1,355,400.

Total sales for Iowa during September were $10,799,860, an increase over September of 1953 of almost one million dollars. With sales for the first nine months of the year amounting to $119,560,163, the state has attained 85.46 per cent of its 1954 quota. Iowa still is ranking second in the nation in percentage of quota attained.

"Citizens of this county certainly are to be congratulated on the outstanding record they are making," Mr. Kramer said in announcing the report. "Not only are they saving and investing safely for their own future spending and security, but they also are helping to maintain the value of the dollar for all of us."

Nine-month sales and percentage of quotas attained are shown below for adjacent counties: Franklin county, $644,340 or 84.96 per cent; Hancock, $738,814 or 91.94 per cent; Hamilton, $973,365 or 81.44 per cent; and Kossuth county, $1,134.622 or 77.90 per cent.

If you would measure how the Belmond Broncos fared against Forest City before a proud throng of Homecomers last Friday night, take a look at the game statistics, not at the score. The sad fact is, the Purple and White had to settle for the short end of 14-2 count; but those 238 net yards gained by the Broncos, compared to the Indians' 172, give an accurate indication that the Belmond gang was certainly not outplayed.

Forest City generated two sustained drives — one in the second quarter of 45 yards and one in the fourth that covered 55 — and both paid off with TD's. Belmond was two feet shy of pay dirt, with two downs to go, when the whistle stopped play at halftime. In the third quarter, the Broncs marched 67 yards after the opening kickoff only to have the ball (and a score) stolen as the end zone was reached. And the end of the game found them only 10 yards away from a touchdown.

First Quarter Was Indians'

Even the most ardent FC supporter would have to admit the losers had more that their share of tough breaks. No apologies are due from Coach Dick Hobbs and his stalwarts for the Broncos' showing. It's been a long time since a BHS football team has come back, come back, and come back again in the face of such highly discouraging developments. But they were never fighting harder at any time than when defeat was a virtual certainty as the game drew to a close; and all credit is due them for that fact.

Statistically, the first quarter appears to belong to the Indians. Belmond had possession of the ball only once, failing then to make downs. After an exchange of punts, Forest City took off from its own 33 and battled 44 yards downfield before the Broncs halted the drive on their 23 as the second stanza got underway.

FC Marches 45 Yards

In the second quarter, the Purple and White outgained the visitors 73 yards to 51; but the Indians' yardage was mainly concentrated in that 45-yard march that brought their first score. Doug Glime accounted for 21 of those yards on four carries, Carroll Carson contributed a 15-yard sprint, Art Gilbertson slashed once for 8 yards, and it was Tom Bartleson that covered the final two yards that paid off. Glime rammed over for the conversion to put Forest City ahead 7-0.

A 15-yard holding penalty cut short one promising Belmond advance. After the FC tally, the Broncs were set back on their heels when Dennis Suby intercepted a pass launched by LeRoy Smith and raced to Belmond's 24. Four plays later, Marlin Cunningham returned the courtesy, stealing the ball from an Indian receiver on the 31. Belmond missed a 1st-and-10 by inches and surrendered the ball on its own 41.

Broncs Two Feet Short

Four plays later, having lost 14 yards in three tries, Forest City endeavored to punt and Bob McLaughlin broke through to block the kick. Phil Schmitz covered the ball on FC's 36. A bit over a half-minute of time remained until the intermission. Smith launched a pass to the corner of the field, where two Broncs tussled for the ball and Ron Hansen finally gathered it in only to be tackled on the three. With time left for only one more play, Smith cracked over left tackle but was spilled a meager 24 inches inches from the double-stripe.

After receiving the second-half kickoff, the Broncs were unstoppable. LeRoy Smith smashed for 34 yards in eight carries, passed once to Keith Madsen for 12, and was spelled occasionally by Tom Lowenberg as the Belmond brigade determinely drove toward the goal. With a yard to go and two downs to make it, Smith exploded into the center of the line; the head linesman indicated the ball was over—then an Indian showed up with the pigskin on the one-stripe. Forest City was given possession.

Glime Spilled for Safety

The aroused Broncos stopped Glime cold on one poke at the line, then the Indian fullback was swarmed under in the end zone for the safety that gave Belmond its two points. Forest City kicked off from its 20 and Cunningham returned to the 47. Once again the Broncs were thwarted by a narrow margin in making 1st-and-10 and the Indians took over. An exchange of punts set the Indians up in business on Belmond's 45, and again Foerst City took off on a successful sustained drive.

Bartleson and Glime alternated with the ball during this march, the former covering the final yard and Glime jabbing over for the point making the count 14 to 2. That would have been an understandable time for the Broncos to "fold;" but they had by no means lost their scrap.

Again—Too Little Time

Madsen took the kickoff from his own five to the 30. Smith picked up five; passed to Hansen, who lateralled to Madsen for three more; then Madsen grabbed a pitch for another nine yards. Battling the clock, Smith launched a long toss to "Joe" Smith that added 39 more, to FC's 14; and just as the final whistle tooted, Madsen caught one that put the ball just inside the 10. That was the ball game, but a fine show it was for the Homecomers, despite the loss.

Glime and Bartleson were as tricky a pair of backs as the Broncs have faced this year. Bartleson was also an effective line-backer and Dave Fredrickson, tackle, was a defensive stand-out for the winners. Belmond's stars are, as usual, given recognition in the "Player-of-the Week" story.

NIC

Tomorrow night the Belmond Broncs travel to Clarion in search of that elusive second win of the season. The Cowboys have not been having one of their better seasons, but must probably be conceded the favorite's role in this annual battle. They have a 2-3 mark in the North Central conference, their victims being the tail-end Humboldt and Algona outfits.

There is one thing certain. The Broncos will be going into this one with the firm determination of winning. They have shown steady improvement since the Northwood debacle, and against Forest City they clicked on offense for the first time this season. If Lady Luck will give them an occasional smile tomorrow instead of playing them for fall guys, as has too often been the case in recent games, the Broncos should stand an excellent chance against the Cowboys.

Meanwhile, the North Iowa conference season should reach its climax Friday with undefeated Garner and Lake Mills having at it on the Bulldogs' gridiron. Lake Mills has exhibited a stronger defense than the Cardinals, but Garner has perhaps a little edge in offense. Last week, the Cards racked up Manly 25-0 whereas the Bulldogs managed only a 7-6 decision over the Railroaders earlier in the season.

Forest City figures to keep alive its chance of figuring in the loop championship when the Indians play host to Northwood. If Lake Mills should take Garner into camp, then a three-way tie for the title could result if Forest City could pull the rug out from under the Bulldogs next week.

Of course, such a result would reckon on a Garner victory over Belmond in the loop finale on Nov. 3. At this particular juncture you'd probably find the Broncos very unwilling to concede that a Cardinal win must be regarded as a foregone conclusion.

TOUGH PICKIN' THIS TIME—BUT McLAUGHLIN GETS "PLAYER" NOD

BOB McLAUGHLIN
He Blocked That Punt

When an entire team is "puttin' out" like the Broncos were against Forest City last Friday, the proposition of picking a "Player of the Week" gets a bit rugged. It was with definite misgivings that the "Player" panel went about its task this time. To single out one man seemed a sure way to do injustice to about a dozen others. But an assignment's an assignment, so they went about their task — and came up with a first-timer in the person of Bob McLaughlin.

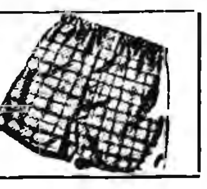
Bob's been improving game after game and he really hit a peak against the Indians. He was in on tackle after tackle. He broke through to block that Forest City punt that almost paved the way for a Bronco TD just before the half. He up-ended Doug Glime for a 14-yard loss when the FC star was guilty of a fumble. And he contributed many a fine block that helped make the Belmond offense look the best it has all year.

LeRoy Smith probably played as well or better than he has at any time; but Friday, he had a lot of company. Tom Lowenberg took another giant stride towards becoming a first rate player; and Marlan Cunningham turned in easily his best performance of the season. Bill Murray turned in a defensive job in the secondary that stifled several scoring threats as Glime and Tom Bartleson broke through the Bronc line for occasional long gains.

There was hardly a place to stop giving credit, the way all the boys played. Perry Ersland was again a stand-out in the line, and Keith Madsen and Tom McNulty did some bang-up work on defense. Tom's punting was first class, too. Dwight Beavers and Phil Schmitz? They were there; ask the Indians. Rich Kuhlers and the Steenblock brothers, Ron and Harold; you can't overlook 'em.

Give every Bronc a great, big A-plus for effort and you've just about got it.

—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS



More than one onlooker at the Homecoming game last Friday remarked at the end of the first quarter that it had seemed like a dog-goned short period. From the standpoint of action, it WAS, too. In fact, after the kickoff only 22 plays were run. That compared with 37 in the second quarter, 35 in the third and 30 in the fourth. There were fewer passes in the opening stanza (only two) than in any of the others, but it hardly seems that that fact could wholly account for the discrepancy.

—PSS—

In the story on the game with the Indians, it is pointed out that the Broncs better than held their own statistically. Another good measure of how well two teams are matched is the number of plays during which each is in control of the ball. Friday night, Belmond was in command of the pigskin on 59 scrimmage plays, Forest City on 58.

—PSS—

LeRoy Smith made an impressive debut as a double-threat man against FC—and further doubled in brass as signal caller for the first time this season. Smitty's passing was the most effective that the Broncos have exhibited all year. That, above everything else, succeeded in spreading the opposing defense so the Purple and White offense had a chance to get into gear. However, the Belmond linemen took good advantage of the looser defense to get in the most expert blocking they've produced all year.

—PSS—

All last week, the Broncos worked hard daily—mud or no mud. On the night before the game, Coach Hobbs had the boys hard at it until 6:15. Says its the first time in his coaching career he's conducted such a stiff, pre-game workout.

But there was never a squawk from the gridders. They're gettin' to LOVE this game of football; and you can see the difference.

Norm Jesperson, the FC basketball coach, had scouted Belmond FOUR times. To say that he was a bit flabbergasted at the Broncs' performance Friday would be putting it most mildly. They're coming!

—PSS—

So it's Clarion this week, then Garner a week from Wednesday. And if you think that the Broncos are going into those frays with any intention other than winning 'em both, you've got another guess coming.

It may not come off (though you'd never catch this writer saying they won't), but it's a double-dyed cinch there'll be no rolling over and playing dead for the benefit of the Cowboys and the Cards.

The kids figure fate owes 'em a couple, and you can rest assured they're going to do their durndest to collect. They've discovered they are just as tough as the next outfit—and how to prove it.

—PSS—

Did you notice, by the way, that last week the North Iowa conference had nary a representative among the rated teams in the D.M. Register weekly poll? That means that not one NIC coach voted for a team in the loop for so much as 10th place among the Division II outfits in the state. Maybe that makes 'em honester than coaches in these other leagues. Different, at any rate. Certainly an overweening pride is not a weakness of us North Iowa leaguers.

NIGHT LIGHTING BOOSTS LAYING

When autumn days become so short that less than 12 of the 24 hours are actual daylight, it's time to use artificial light in the laying house.

The laying hen doesn't work after dark so, as the days continue to get shorter, the time each hen devotes to laying is also reduced. And less hours on the job means fewer eggs laid.

Actually, lights do more than just lengthen the working day. Added light influences the pituitary gland which leads to stimulation of the hen's reproductive process. Some increase in feed consumption follows in order to provide the necessary nutrients for egg formation.

Good Response

Response of layers to light is both prompt—usually from 7 to 10 days—and of considerable magnitude. Experimental tests have shown that birds can be made to lay "around the clock" depositing about half their eggs at night or will completely reverse their schedule and lay all eggs at night—all by the manipulation of lights. To perform these last two tests, all natural light was eliminated.

Several different lighting plans may be used. Lights can be turned on in the early morning and off at daylight or you can turn lights on at dusk and off a few hours later. Some poultrymen prefer to use a combination of morning and evening lighting. Automatic switches are a great convenience but are not necessary.

With any of the plans, hens should be given a 13-14 hour day. Regularity in the use of lights is important. Once started, lights should be used all winter, without interruption.

Feeding Schedule

The time of feeding should be arranged to fit the lighting schedule. If the lights are to be turned on early in the morning, feed should be put out in the hoppers after the hens have gone to roost the night before. Fresh water should be provided at the same time.

The usual recommendation for lighting equipment is to use a 40-watt lamp equipped with a cone-shaped reflector 16 inches in diameter at the base and 4 inches high. At a height of 6 feet above the floor, such a light will give a sufficient intensity over an area of about 200 square feet.

All-night lights are gaining favor with some poultrymen. With this plan, intensity of illumination is reduced (a 15-20 watt bulb is used) with the object being to provide just enough light to enable hens to find food or water at any time of night.

WRIGHT COUNTY BADLY NEEDS NEW JAIL; AND THAT, FOLKS, SHOULD SETTLE THAT

It is doubtful that very many of the voters of this county will avail themselves of the supervisors' invitation to pay a visit to the county jail this Sunday. Jail's a place most of us would prefer to stay away from. But if a representative percentage of us who will vote Nov. 2 on the jail bond issue DID take the supervisors up, there is no question in our mind as to how the ballotting on the special proposition would go.

WRIGHT COUNTY NEEDS that NEW JAIL. The present lock-up has deteriorated to a point where any repair effort would constitute only wasteful temporizing. The aged structure is literally breaking apart. It is a highly dangerous fire trap. It is an insult to the self-respect of the good people of Wright county. It might be added that the adjoining quarters that are occupied by the sheriff and his family are equally unworthy of us who take pride in the American privilege of self-government, which carries with it the obligation to see that things are run RIGHT.

It is a widely prevailing practice that an Iowa sheriff receives a part of his remuneration in the form of living accomodations adjacent to the jail. This not only eliminates the need of a guard for the premises, but makes it feasible for the officer's wife to prepare the prisoners' meals (perhaps we should have said that the free quarters also represent reimbursement for these labors of Mrs. Sheriff). An advertisement inserted by the board of supervisors in this issue of The Independent brings out the fact that such meals at the jail in Clarion have come to a total of 14,397 in the past four years!

There can be no debate over the NEED for a new jail, AND new sheriff's quarters, short of senseless quibbling. That $68,000 bond issue will involve annual additional millage equivalent to only 30 cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation while the debt's being paid off. We can do no less than put the jail proposition over by a "land-slide" majority.

LOOK AT THE FOREST, NOT THE TREES, AND YOU'LL GIVE CHEST YOUR SUPPORT

We've heard some well-intentioned persons threatening to withhold their support from the Community Chest drive that starts next week because the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the Red Cross are not affiliated. Such an attitude, we fear, fails to see the forest of united solicitation for the tree of omission. Let it be borne in mind that NINE worthy causes ARE consolidating their fund-raising efforts in the Community Chest campaign, that the need for EIGHT separate solicitations (with all the organization and workers thereby required) are being eliminated by the existence of our Community Chest.

Withdrawal of the polio foundation was by its own choice; and that, in the last anaylsis, is ITS business. The local chapter of the Red Cross feels it must raise $1,300 in Belmond alone to meet a 1955 goal of $1,900 from the entire chapter area (Belmond and the townships of Pleasant, Belmond and Norway); and that's ITS business. The Community Chest Council, however, was dubious lest the one-third increase in the Chest budget that inclusion of the Red Cross would necessitate might place in jeopardy the success of the Chest campaign. It seems reasonable that the Chest Council should not risk fulfillment of its obligation towards the established Chest agencies in an effort to bite off more than it might find possible to chew.

It can be said, without qualification, that the Belmond Community Chest has heretofore been a thorough success. It has achieved its objectives. It will continue to do its job so long as it receives the cooperation it deserves.

HONOR BESTOWED UPON AARON BOWMAN SPEAKS WELL FOR THE JOB HE IS DOING

Our congratulations go to Aaron Bowman for honor that was so deservingly bestowed upon him at last week's meeting of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents out at Salt Lake City. His receipt of the association's Distinguished Service Award was notably well earned and we are happy that Mr. Bowman's fine record as county extension direction was thus fittingly recognized.

Too often a job well done is not duly appreciated by those who benefit thereby, because they are not aware of its true superiority. We've all realized, beyond doubt, that the activities fostered by the Wright county extension office have been wide in range, effectively carried out and of great value to the county's farm community. But not being in a position to measure the program against those of other counties, it's been easy to take it all pretty much for granted.

However, such outstanding programs don't "just happen," as the nationwide recognition bestowed upon Mr. Bowman makes patently clear. We've been luckier than we knew to have a man of Aaron's capability directing the extension work.

Anamosa Eureka Comments on 'Coons; Emmetsburg Reporter on Embarrassing Incident

'COONS MAKING COMEBACK

Few people realize that during the rage of the coon-skin coats at football games the native racoon was nearly destroyed. We do not suppose there are many today who can even remember the coon-skin coat craze. But fortunately it died out saving the lives of a few racoons from the hunters and trappers.

Before this craze the skins of the racoons were valueless and hunters only hunted them for the sport of the run of the coon dogs, and trappers let them alone only to hate them because they were clever enough to trip thbeir traps and then steal and eat the bait. However, after the coon-skin coat craze, the game commission shipped in many racoon and restocked in states where the craze struck, especially in Iowa.

The racoon is an expert tree climber and frequently have their dens in hollow trees. Although they are tree frequenting animals, the great part of their activity is is confined to the ground, especially along water courses. Their hind feet rest flat on the ground like those of a bear and make tracks that have a curious resemblance to a very small child. The fore toes are long and separated, thus permitting the animal to use his front feet with almost the facility of a monkey's hand.

One reason a racoon stays near the water is that he loves to swim and fish, and also as a matter of defense. One time we were out with a couple of coon hounds and ran across a coon. The dogs attacked him and he worked closer and closer to the stream.

Then all at once the coon grabbed one of the dogs by the nose and before we knew it Mr. Coon had our hound in the water and soon drowned him, as the coon could swim under water. We could not get the other hound to go in and help the other dog in the water as he knew it was sure death.

So we came home shy one dog and wiser on the ways of racoons and to keep the dogs off him near water It was a pretty good fight until the racoon took the one into the water.

OH! FOR GOODNESS . . . . !

Have you heard of the two dignified matrons, sisters, of Emmetsburg and a nearby northwest Iowa town who went to the lakes this summer on a little vacation trip? Deciding to enjoy the Coney Island atmosphere of Arnolds Park, they had their pictures taken at one of those little points where the photographer provides a "glamorous" background. This time, the two appeared to be wearing Bikini swim suits as a bit of cheesecake art. Afterwards, with the pictures tucked in a small envelope, they returned to their homes.

oOo

At church Sunday, in reaching for her collection envelope, our Emmetsburg matron fumbled around her purse, extracted the Bikini shot and placed it in the collection box. To her horror a few hours later, she discovered the error. Swallowing her embarrassment, she bravely called on her pastor and explained what happened. Goodnaturedly, the Reverend smiled and said: "It was quite a good picture of you, Mrs. ——, but a poor one of your sister." Retrieving the photo, she handed him the church envelope and fled.

MORTIMER VON KESSEL

Ex-General's Son Tells of Plight Of '54 Germany

(The following article concerning an interesting Belmond "guest" of the past five months was written by Rolf Hofstad, feature writer for the Mason City Globe-Gazette.)

One of the East Germany's ten million refugees is learning the secrets of America's hybrid seed corn industry at Belmond.

Paying his own fare across the Atlantic, young, affable Mortimer Von Kessel is employed in the research division of the Tomahawk Hybrid Seed Corn Company.

After picking up all he can learn on his North Iowa visit, Mortimer will leave next month for Florida and a close look at production of sweet lupine seed, a legume his German company produces at its Hamburg plant.

Father Headed Tank Corps

The son of a full general (his father was commander of a Wermacht tank corps which fought on the Russian front in World War II) has a two-year visa to the United Sates. Part of the time he has spent in Belmond.

Hybrid corn, says the German, is not as yet important to agriculture in his native land. But the breeding lore he takes back may change all ths, he hopes. Thus far German farmers have been slow to accept hybrid seed. "They are a conservative lot," says Mort. "Especially in South Germany, where most corn is raised."

According to Von Kessel, Germany is far from recovered, will, in fact, never be a balanced economic unit until East and West Germany are united, a possibility which has popped into the headlines this week.

Fled from Russians

He explained that West Germany traditionally produced food, East Germany manufactured goods.

The family farm, in Sielesia, is a case which illustrates his point. Five days before the conquering Russian army reached his home, the Von Kessel family packed what they could and fled. To have stayed would have meant certain death to his father, declared a "war criminal" for leading the fight against the Russians.

Now, says Mort, the land his forefathers tended so carefully is neglected, gone to weeds. The Russian conquerors simply cannot supply enough farmers to work the rich West German land, denuded of its former owners.

From Silesia the Von Kessel family fled westward to the middle German district of Thuringia, then occupied by the United States. This was at the end of the war. Following the Potsdam Conference, Russia was given Thuringia and the ex-general and his family fled westward again, one jump ahead of the avenging Russians.

Five Million Killed, Deported

"Five million Germans were deported or killed in Silesia," says the German visitor. "Only 200,000 natives are left on the land and there are not enough Poles to farm the barren land to this day."

Although Mortimer was very young in Hitler's hey-day, he has his opinions on the dictator.

Asked why the German leader gained such incredible power over his subjects, Mortimer says: "For one thing, and this is important, he created jobs in the depression-hit Thirties. When that first project was a success, he had labor behind him and went on to greater triumphs.

Nazism's Return Unlikely

"There is little danger of Nazism returning in post-war Germany," he says, "unless Germans are not treated fairly by occupation forces. For years the Russians have tried to foment unrest in West Germany, with little success. But Germany must be re-united. That is vital. That is the most important factor in Germany today. Divided we are only half alive. The agricultural East needs the industrial West."

West Germany was forced to improvise when deprived of the East's great farm areas, says Mortimer. Great peat bogs were drained, converted into productive land in the nation's northwest section. Germans have dug canals, laid miles of drainage pipe.

Still, West Germany is desperately dependent on agricultural imports, he says. Chiefly they import rye, wheat, barley and oats from North and South America. There is practically no trade with Russian-occupied Germany.

German Yields Higher

What few Americans realize, the German says, is that yields are actually higher in Europe than here, chiefly because of more intensive fertilization. Farms are much smaller and consequently each crop acre gets more attention. Actually, he says, open pollinated corn there yields about the same as the best hybrid variety in the United States. He believes hybrid corn in Germany would produce at a record rate.

What is Mortimer taking back to his native land in the way of ideas?

For one thing, he no longer views the United States as a high-pressure land of movie actresses, millionaires and cowboys, a conception fostered by American motion pictures on the continent.

Americans Very Helpful

"I have found Americans exceptionally helpful," says the German, "And I have picked up a number of good idea on how to facilitate handling mass produced articles. You Americans have a genius for creating products on a mass scale. Here at Belmond I learned many new techniques which we hope to use in Germany.

"But I find that Americans lay less stress on quality. In Germany, quality is of prime concern. Everything else is secondary.

"But those are minor differences. We in Germany respect Americans. We like the way they get things done I think we will get along in the years to come," Von Kessel concluded.

MAKES A
GOAL OF $3,900
IT MUST BE MET
DURING
Campaign STARTING MONDAY Oct. 25

THIS IS Belmond's 4th, annual Community Chest Drive. All three previous drives have gone "over the top" because so many have responded to the plea to "GIVE—And Give Enough for ALL." The Community Chest Council is confident that the response will be just as generous this year as in the past.

EACH INDIVIDUAL must bear in mind that the Community Chest has TWO major purposes: (1) To consolidate into a single drive as many fund-raising campaigns as possible; (2) To assure all participating agencies the same degree of financial support from this community that they have always enjoyed. All of these agencies benefit EACH of us, directly or indirectly. We OWE them our support.

CHOICE IS LEFT each contributor to specify exactly what agencies are to share in his donation, if he has decided preferences. You may make such designations on the back of your pledge card, if you wish.

ONLY BY EACH individual giving his fair share can the goal be met. This year's goal is virtually the same as in the past. Obviously, donations MUST be on a par with previous years if the 1954 campaign is to be the same success as those of the past three years.

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

There have been a lot of changes in The Independent in 10 years' time. As a pretty general thing during wartime 1944, the paper ran eight pages per week. In the old seven-column size, that added up to 1,120 column inches of reading and advertising matter. Lately we have regularly been publishing 12 pages of eight, longer columns (22 inches in length, compared to the former 20), which provides space for 2,112 column inches of reading matter and advertising.

Obviously, our subscribers are getting practically twice as much for the present subscription price of $3.50 annually than they got at the $3.00 rate that prevailed in '44.

Every department in the paper has grown. Perhaps the growth of none, however, has been more impressive than that of the classified ad section. In the first three weeks of October in 1944, The Independent average 30 classifieds per week. At present, we're averaging 72! "Results" explains "why." For example, one customer recently advertised a couple of gas heaters. She actually had a half dozen on hand; and she delightedly reported to us that she sold every one of 'em.

—M-S—

In this regard, we note that there's a little matter we must take up with Dale Kessler. With him using words like "dihydrostreptomycin" in his classifieds—at the standard rate of only four-cents-per, including insertion in the Buyers Guide—how can we make our cut? About the first time he spells out aspirin on us (sodiumacetylsalicylate), we're going to start charging HIM by the syllable.

—M-S—

Ever deliberately try to "run into" some friends at a huge gathering? It's a needle-in-a-haystack proposition that rarely works out. But not even knowing that any hometown friends were around, Mr. and Mrs. Galen Johnson and Marjorie Sue at the American Royal Horse Show and Kansas City last Saturday night found themselves sitting right next to Mrs. Luther Proeger, Sr., and Shirley! Since some 10,000 to 11,000 persons attended the event, both the Proegers and Johnsons considered it quite a coincidence. They just about decided they were traveling the same circuit when their paths crossed again on a crowded K. C. street the next morning as they were preparing to depart for home!

—M-S—

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Eccles got off to a running start as grandparents this month when their two oldest sons each acquired an addition to his family. A1/c and Mrs. Stanley Eccles (he's stationed at Scott AFB in Illinois) on Oct. 18 became the parents of a daughter, who's been named Dani Gale. Then on Oct. 19, a son—Kim Allen—was born to S/Sgt. and Mrs. Edward Eccles. Ed is attached to the Air Force Base at Lincoln, Neb.

—M-S—

If a few ridiculous errors appear in the article by Mrs. Alfred Muelled on the editorial page of this issue, don't blame the author. The first half of the article went to press without the typographical corrections having been inserted in it. We're sorry, because Mrs. M. is a bit dubious of her mastery of English—and, actually, she writes in the language remarkably well (speaks it excellently, too). So chalk up the errors against us, not her.

—M-S—

It is foreseen by the Belmond firemen that the profits from their recent benefit dance are going to be dented by the price of a new coat unless a mix-up is cleared up. Seems that the check room accidentally got a couple of similar-looking coats handed out wrong; but the mistake has been reported by only one of the parties involved. Mrs. "Barney" Dillon has a lemon-green number with white gloves in one pocket, which she'd very much like to exchange for her own coat of similar color. If the party of the second part will contact Wallace Cramer, the firemen's secretary, he'll see the switch is made.

Funeral Tuesday For Ben Arends

Ben Arends, 79, Blairsburg farmer, died Friday night at the Hamilton County hospital at Webster City, six hours after he had been buried under shelled corn in a bin. He was the grandfather of Marilyn Johnson, who is employed as receptionist and office girl at Belmond Community hospital, and father of Mrs. Henry Johnson and Mrs. Oscar Hensel of Alexander.

Mr. Arends fell into the bin as he was changing the spout of a corn sheller from one crib to another. Strenuous efforts were made to save his life by use of a resuscitator, but he had inhaled a quantity of grain and failed to rally. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at both the Blairsburg Congregational church and the Alexander Reformed church.

R-M Engineer Hit, Injured by Truck

Merritt McCoy of Hampton, an assistant engineer with the firm of Rowat-Murray, suffered a fracture of both bones in his lower right leg last Friday afternoon when caught between two trucks at Clarion. He has been inspector on the Clarion street-laying project, for which Rowat-Murray did the engineering.

While talking with the job superintendent, McCoy was standing in front of one of the construction company's trucks as a city truck drove up and stopped just in front of the other vehicle. The driver turned off the ignition with the truck still in gear and the engine unexpectedly turned over again, propelling the city truck into the one standing ahead of it and pinning McCoy between.

Broncs in 1st Win over Clarion in 13 Years, 6 to 0

Belmond's Broncos took an eraser to the Clarion jinx last Friday and marked up the first Purple and White victory in 13 years over the county seat Cowboys. The deed was done on the losers' home field and in much the same manner that several BHS teams have seen their hopes dashed in past years. A nine-yard gallop by LeRoy Smith put the ball in pay territory for the Broncs as the clock showed just six seconds of the first half remaining.

It was a thriller all the way, with Belmond dominating play by a wide margin in the opening half and then desperately hanging onto their advantage as the Cowboys took command after the intermission. Coach Dick Hobbs, who has done a fine job of selling the boys on themselves in the closing stages of the football season, used only 17 players during the entire course of the game—and it was an exhausted bunch of Broncs that battled it down to the wire.

Broncs Get Some Breaks

Clarion possessed the ball in Belmond territory only once in the entire first half. That was after a short punt by Keith Madsen that traveled only from his 31 out of bounds on the 46. On the very next play, Maynard Mosher fumbled and Gary Meyer covered the ball, with Ron Steenblock sharing honors on the recovery. The farthest the Cowboys were ever able to advance under their own power was two yards shy of the mid-stripe. All the rest of the time, play was in Clarion's end of the field.

Up to halftime, Belmond amassed 157 yards to only 59 for the Cowpokes. It became evident early in the game that Dame Fortune was destined to treat the Broncs more kindly in this fray than she had in earlier games. Belmond kicked off, and on the very first scrimmage play Clarion fumbled and Madsen fell on the elusive pigskin on the Cowboys' 46. Eight plays put Belmond on Clarion's 20, but three consecutive passes then went astray and the host team took over on downs.

Fumbles Spoil BHS Drive

Clarion's ever-dangerous Don Witzel struck fear into the hearts of the BHS fans by slashing for 17 yards; but two more tries netted only three yards and Joe Smith then stole a pass by Jack McClelland on the Cowboys' 46. The Purple and White advanced 16 yards in five carries, but the drive fizzled on the 30 and again Clarion took over. McClelland rambled for 9, an offside penalty knocked off five yards of the profit, then Witzel sprinted for 19. But at that point the Bronc defense stiffened and McClelland was forced to kick.

His feeble effort slanted out of bounds on Belmond's 43, and the Broncos set forth on a drive that for a time looked like it might go all the way. Tom Lowenberg ripped off six yards, LeRoy Smith added 12, Lowenberg romped for 11 more — and then a fumble interrupted proceedings, Smith recovering for a four yard loss. It appeared that the Broncs migth "get well" from the lapse when Smitty piled for another eight, and then four more. But with the ball on Clarion's 16, fourth down and just two to go, another fumble wiped out the opportunity.

58-Yard March Pays Off

Clarion set forth from its 21, but soon had to kick. A nine-yard loss on an attempted pass play promptly put the Broncs in a punting situation and Madsen sailed that short one out on his own 46. Mosher's fumble followed on the next play — and Belmond set forth for the goal line, 58 yards away. Smith cracked for five, Lowenberg four and Madsen added two more. A second 1st-and-10 was produced in short order as Smith hit for two and Lowenberg rambled for nearly 15. Smitty got another 10-plus, a pass to Ron Hansen missed and then Lowenberg went for four and Smith for nine more.

BELMOND CARRIER FIRST IN IOWA TO TOTE MAIL WITH CADDY CART

MAYNARD HOLMGAARD
And That New Totin' Wagon

Belmond has a mail carrier who these days might well be the envy of 99.44% of the nation's letter-toters. Maynard Holmgaard, you see, has been mechanized.

This circumstance came about when Postmaster J. C. Brady learned that the post office department proposed to give a trial to caddy carts for carriers. Believing there could be nothing amiss about asking for one, Cleon put in a bid—and got one for the local P.O.

Not another post office in the state has one of the contrivances, at present. In fact, no others have been issued in this general mid-western area. Only a small number were acquired by the postal department, to be tested on a trial basis.

So far as Maynard is concerned, the idea is a fine one. He starts his route daily with about 20 to 25 pounds of mail in his 9-lb. sack, and he says the cart is a great shoulder-saver.

Made by a manufacturer of conventional caddy carts for golfers, the new vehicle is plainly a conversion of a standard cart to fit its specific, new purpose. The mail bag fits onto a bar near the top of the cart and below the bar is a shelf to hold a second bag—or a kit of golf sticks, should the carrier decide to take a busman's holiday by getting in 18 holes on his day off.

Wallace "Soupy" Cramer, the other regular carrier, was off duty Saturday—the day the bag-wagon arrived—and Monday. Just what his reaction was destined to be when he caught sight of Maynard carting off his mail on Tuesday morning was being awaited by the rest of the P. O. staff with considerable interest.

Postmaster Brady anticipated some degree of insistence on the part of Mr. Cramer that his judgment would be required to make the local test a valid one. Gotta be scientific about these things, eh, Soupy?

Minor Plaintiffs Seek Judgments In District Court

Two suits were filed last weekend in Wright county district court in behalf of minors who were injured in auto accidents, one involving a judgment petition for $30,200 and the other $3,000.

Harley W. Hill of Blaine township filed the first suit as next of kin of his seven-year-old son, Walter Edward Hill. Defendants are Margaret Stevens, driver of the car that injured the youngster, and Lewis F. Stevens, the car's owner. The Stevens live east of Highway 69, a short distance south of Greyhound station.

In Mr. Hill's petition it is claimed that the Stevens car struck and ran over the boy in the Hill farmyard on Oct. 23, 1952. It is also set forth that the victim suffered probable permanent injury to his brain. Making up the total judgment of $30,200 is $10,000 for pain and suffering of the young plaintiff, $200 for medical and doctors bills and $20,000 reimbursement to the child for the probable permanent injury incurred.

Raymond J. Bailey of Clarion brings the second suit in behalf of his four-year-old daughter, Renee. She was riding with her family on March 26 of this year when their car collided with a tractor-trailer on Highway 18 about 2½ miles west of Ventura. The "semi" was owned by Sears Roebuck and Company, defendant in the suit. The Bailey tot suffered a variety of injuries in the accident, which brought the death of a younger sister.

Of the total judgment in amount of $3,000 which the petition asks, $150 is to cover medical expenses and $176.25 for hospital expense paid by Mr. Bailey as the result of his daughter's injuries.

The Bailey case is left to the judgment of the district court magistrate. Mr. Hill has requested a jury hearing of his suit.

HOME ON FURLOUGH

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Banning and family arrived Monday night for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Banning, after return to the States following four years spent at Laoag, the Philippines, in missionary work.

"Largest" Crowd At Johnson Rites

Rev. O. M. Severseike reports that the largest crowd ever to assemble at the Trinity Lutheran church for a funeral was present Monday afternoon of last week to attend the last rites of George C. Johnson. Relatives and friends from many points in Iowa, in addition to Belmond, and several from out of the state gathered to hear a final tribute paid to the elderly gentleman who lost his life in an auto accident on Oct. 15.

That Mr. Johnson was highly regarded as a friend by a host of people and will be deeply missed by this community was manifested by the numerous memorial gifts presented to the family in his name. Funds amounting to $500 will go to various worthy causes.

As reported by the family, $206 will go for mission work of the Lutheran church, $277 has been placed in the Trinity church's hymnal fund and $17 was earmarked for the general memorial fund of the church.

Besides local persons, relatives and friends attended the funeral from Detroit, Mich., West Salem and Holmen, Wis., Chester, Cresco, Lime Springs, Rudd, Charles City, Mason City, Clear Lake, Forest City, Buffalo Center, Thompson, Stratford, Boone, Waverly, Algona, Britt, Iowa Falls, Clarion, Marshalltown, Huxley, Ames, Winterset, Eagle Grove and Kanawha.

MAX ELDER VISITS

Max Elder of Kansas City, Kan., spent the weekend in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Elder.

Lions Club Will Sponsor Home-Talent Production; Director Lining Up Acts for Show November 8-9

"You Can't Beat Fun" is the title of a home-talent show which Belmond's Lions club will present Monday and Tuesday evenings, Nov. 8-9, at the high school auditorium. The Hidie-Ho club provides the setting of the production. Ten, prominent local men will appear in special costumes representing Broadway Butterflies and Butter and Egg Men who are attending the gay spot where "everyone goes and anything can happen."

IDA LUEDDEKE
Will Direct Home-Talent Show

Ida Lueddeke, a graduate of William Jewell college, Liberty, Mo., arrived in town the first of this week to start organizing the show and drawing the cast. She has been interested in Little Theatre work, radio, TV and publicity, and the promotion of civic entertainments. She has had special training in direction of both dramatic and musical talent.

Chorus Line of 24

"I am most enthusiastic over this production and the possibilities for an outstanding show here at Belmond," Miss Lueddeke says. "Everyone has been so friendly and cooperative that I am sure I will thoroughly enjoy my stay here."

A master-of-cermonies will introduce the variety of stage acts that will comprise "You Can't Beat Fun." Plans call for a dancing chorus of 24 Belmond teen-agers and five, outstanding local specialty acts. Miss Lueddeke is scouting for musicians, singers, dancers and impersonators to fill the specialty spots.

Now Seeking Talent

Anyone in Belmond and surrounding vicinity is welcome to bid for a part in the show. There is no age limit and those who participate need not be affiliated with the Lions club nor in the family of a Lions member. Persons interested in volunteering to appear in the show are asked to phone Cecil Carstens, chairman in charge, at the Iowa Electric Light and Power office.

"You Can't Beat Fun" has the recommendation of many organizations which have produced it successfully and before well-pleased audiences. Further details regarding the production will be published next week.

Jurors to Report Monday, Nov. 8th

Assignment of the case of Bernice I. Jacobson vs. Luin B. Cox, Executor, which was originally made for next Monday, has been changed to Nov. 8. It is to be heard by jury, so the jury call for Nov. 1 has been cancelled also. Instead, the petit jurors are to report at the courthouse on Nov. 8 at 10:00 a. m.

This case is concerned with a dispute over the legal will of the late Walter M. Davis. Mrs. Jacobson is endeavoring to have the will that was probated set aside in favor of an earlier document, which she contends should be regarded by the court as the deceased's official last will and testament.

Chest Drive Attains 64o/o of Its Goal in Two Days

Campaign Chairman Cecil Carstens reported Tuesday night that, while the hope of the Community Chest campaign committee to have most of the current canvass completed by Monday evening was not realized, the '54 drive seems to be progressing at a record pace.

Collections in his hands by the end of Tuesday afternoon came to slightly more than $2,500. This represented 64 per cent of the $3,900 goal achieved in the first two days of the campaign. Mr. Carstens believed that several additional solicitors had largely completed their canvasses by that time, but hadn't yet reported; so the actual total by Tuesday night probably exceeded the $2,500 figure by somewhat of a margin.

"At this point, the follow-through is the important thing," the campaign manager stated. "Response of donors has, by and large, been good to date. If those solicitors who have had to delay their canvasses will get at them promptly and complete them before the end of the week, I'm sure we will have a highly successful response all the way through."

Mr. Carstens is determined to see the goal met and surpassed by the end of the first week. This would be an achievement unmatched in any previous drives of the Belmond Community Chest and, he pointed out, give every worker in the '54 campaign good reason to be proud of a job well done.

GOING UP! Cecil Carstens, Community Chest campaign chairman, is pictured here as he posted the fact—at mid-afternoon Monday — that the Chest drive had by that time reached 20 per cent of the set goal of $3,900. "Thermometer" on the First State bank shows the percentage of goal attained, as collections come in.

Two $25's Won

Two $25 Cash Gift Day awards were picked off Tuesday, the winners being Mrs. Frances Swalve and Mrs. Dick D. L. Pals. Undismayed by the "loss" thereby sustained—in fact, quite happy to have been of service—the CGD committee is boosting the ante for next week. There will again be five $25 prizes offered at 2:00 p. m. and the 3:00 o'clock award is being increased from $100 to $125. Six numbers will be worth cash—IF presented at the time they're drawn.

Sign-Up Lagging For Night Study; Farm Course Set

Advance registration for this year's Adult Education classes was still lagging at the start of the current week. However, it was anticipated by Mrs. Gerhard Thompson, president of the Adult Education Council, that enrollment at time of the opening session next Monday would see about the usual number signed up.

Except for the driver training class, which began early, all the class groups will be organized as soon as registration—starting at 7:30 p. m —has been completed. The proposed courses are: agriculture, art, business education, Calories Anonymous, citizenship, home nursing and men's choral singing.

Farm Course All Set

Francis Kelly reports that he has completed drafting the list of subjects to be studied during his course in agriculture. He believes they will be of very general interest to farmers and hopes for a good-sized class. Next Monday night's topic will be "Farm and Highway Safety," with a Highway Patrolman being the speaker.

Subsequent evenings will find the course plan as follows: Nov. 8—swine meeting, entailing a trip to Webster City to visit a packing plant and to hear a panel of leading swine producers, Iowa State college specialists and representatives of the packing industry; Nov. 15—"Livestock Diseases," discussed by a local veterinarian; questions answered.

Will Discuss Social Security

Nov. 22—"Welding," demonstration and practice in welding; Nov. 29—"New Developments in Farm Buildings;" Dec. 6—"Sheep Production"—led by Dewey Jontz, field representative of the Iowa Sheep Breeders association; Dec. 13—"Social Security and Income Tax," panel of experts will be heard and will answer questions.

Jan. 10—"New Developments in Fertilizer," Joe Stritzel, Iowa State college extension agronomist; Jan. 17—"Farm Management," Jack Alexander, manager of Iowa State college foundation farms; Jan. 24—"New Developments in Control of Crop and Soil Insects," including full story of insect damage to 1954 crops.

New Hybrid Firm Now Incorporated

Notice of the incorporation of Carlson Hybrid Corn company, dated as of Oct. 19, makes its first of four appearances in the columns of The Independent this week. It observes that the firm is authorized to issue $150,000 in capital stock at $1.00 per share, to be divided equally into Common and Participating stock. An original issue of 10,000 shares is allowed, any subsequent issue to be dependent upon majority approval of the stockholders.

R. B. Thompson, president of the Tomahawk Hybrid Corn company, will also serve as president and treasurer of the new corporation. Other officers are: Hugh H. Clarke, Conrad, vice president; C. E. Wilmarth, Belmond, secretary; and Elmer G. Carlson, Audubon, chairman of the board. Mr. Thompson, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Wilmarth and E. W. Martin of Des Moines comprise the board of directors.

According to the notice of incorporation, Belmond is designated as the firm's principal place of business. Mr. Thompson points out that this refers solely to the firm's management and office headquarters.

Unmanned Tractor Runs Over Tracy, Breaking His Hip

Ed Tracy, local rural mail carrier, suffered a broken right hip and other injuries shortly after 5:00 p. m. last Saturday when he was run over by a tractor as he was helping combine beans at the Clarence Kirkendall farm northeast of town. He had been assisting his son Bob, who runs the farm, with the harvesting job.

While Bob was making a trip to the house to get some gas for the tractor attached to the combine, Ed pulled up with a second tractor and a trailer with a load of beans. He'd pulled back the hand clutch but in jumping off the front of the tractor his sleeve caught the lever and set the tractor in gear.

The rear wheel of the tractor passed over both of Ed's legs and then the front wheel of the trailer grazed his head and smashed into his right side, breaking several ribs, before the victim could struggle out of the way. The unmanned trailer and tractor traveled in a circle and once again headed toward the injured man when he saw them coming and managed to crawl out of their path.

Mr. Tracy was admitted to the Belmond Community hospital, where examination of the hip revealed a fracture-dislocation of such a nature that his transfer to the University hospital at Iowa City was recommended. He was taken to Iowa City Sunday morning, where an operation was performed to set the fracture.

Tuesday morning the surgery was performed by Dr. Carroll Larson, head of University hospital's orthopedic department. Following the operation, Dr. Larson informed Dr. S. P. Leinbach by phone that the surgery was very successful and that Mr. Tracy appeared to be making a good recovery.

Work Day Brings Youth Group $80

Eighty dollars was realized by the Methodist Youth Fellowship from labors performed during the "Christ's Work Day" conducted last Saturday for the benefit of Mr. and Mrs. Don Collinson. The sum was dedicated by Rev. M. L. Jones in the course of Sunday morning's service, to be used by the former Belmond couple in furthering their work after they take up their missionary duties in the Belgian Congo.

Eighteen boys and girls turned-to to give their time and effort toward the cause. Storm windows by the dozens were washed and "put up;" a number of lawns were raked, a couple of yards got a belated mowing and other, miscellaneous jobs were performed. A steak fry at Tyrrell grove was enjoyed by the MYF'ers at the end of the day. The steaks were provided by Mrs. R. W. Courson and the other food by other adults who had an interest in the project.

VFW-Legion Hold Dance Tomorrow

Belmond's American Legion and VFW posts are joining forces in sponsorship of a Halloween masquerade dance at the Veterans' Memorial hall this Friday night. It's intended as a fund-raising project for the two organiaztions, but they guarantee "your money's worth" and more in fun.

Admission will be only $1.00 per couple and the popular Rythm Kings orchestra will provide the music. Prizes for the best costumes will add interest to the evening.

A pair of tickets was sent to each member of the VFW and of the Legion. Marvin Meinders, who is in charge of the dance arrangements, asks that veterans mail cash or checks for the tickets to Keith Chandler. Checks may be made out to either VFW, Legion or both.

DEMOCRATIC LUNCHEON

Mrs. Olaf Eliason will review the book "A Study of History" by Arnold J. Toynbee as the program feature of a luncheon meeting that is to be held next Monday by the Democratic Women's club. The luncheon will be held at the Blue Bell Tea Room at 12:00 noon and tickets will be $1.00. Women wishing to make a reservation should phone Mrs. Duane Anderson, 8001.

Pulvers Purchase Belmond Bakery

It is announced this week by Mrs. Ed Olson that the Belmond Bakery, operated by her and her late) husband from October of 1945 until a few weeks before his recent death, has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Pulver of Mankato, Minn. The new owners are acquainted with both Belmond and with the local bakery, having been in possession of the business for the first nine months of 1945 after purchasing it from Mr. and Mrs. Fred McBride.

At the end of that period, Mr. Pulver was forced to give up the business because of health and sold out to the Olsons. Subsequently, he moved to Mankato and re-entered the bakery business as an employee of the Popular Bake Shop at Mankato.

Friendship between the Olsons and Pulvers is of 20 years standing. Mr. Olson and Mr. Pulver both worked in a Northwood bakery owned by an uncle and aunt of the former, where Mr. Pulver learned the bakery trade from Mr. Olson.

The Pulvers are taking possession of the Belmond Bakery next Monday, Nov. 1. They were scouting this week for housing accomodations in Belmond. They have three children. A daughter, Barbara, 18, is a senior at Mankato High school and will finish her final year there. A son, John, 16, will enter Belmond High school as a junior; and a second son, Thomas, age six, will enroll in first grade.

JEAN OBERHAUSER HOME

Jean Oberhauser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Oberhauser, returned home Wednesday of last week after spending the past eight months studying at the University of Vienna in Austria. Under auspices of the Institute of European Studies she had an opportunity to travel in several countries during her stay abroad.

Garner Tilt Last For 12 Gridders

Twelve senior members of the Belmond High school varsity football squad will close out their gridiron careers as wearers of the Purple and White when the Broncos meet Garner here next Wednesday night. Marlin Jenison, another letterman from last year, was forced to depart from the squad two weeks ago due to an injury.

Those who will be suited up for final appearances next week are: Dwight Beavers, Perry Ersland, Ron Hansen, Keith Madsen, Bob McLaughlin, Kyle Mennenga, Eugene Nicholson, Jerry Quigley, Phil Schmitz, LeRoy Smith, Harold and Ron Steenblock.

Despite mediocre success to date, the Broncos have the opportunity to make their season relatively one of the best, should they be able to upset the favored Cardinals. Depending upon the outcome of the Forest City-Lake Mills game tomorrow night, Garner stands to share the North Iowa conference championship or end up in sole possession of second place — IF they can whip the Broncs.

But having obviously liked the taste of that upset at Clarion last Friday, the BHS crew is clearly determined to finish their season with a flourish by springing another surprise. Game time Wednesday is 8:00 p. m.

Martin-Gillette Contest Attracts Highest Interest

Although the Democratic party has shown less sign of rejuvination in Wright county that in many other counties of Iowa, preparatory to conduct of the 1954 general election, there have been indications that the county vote next Tuesday may show a considerably slimmer majority for the GOP than in 1952. The Democrats are offering virtually a full ticket above the county level this year, with the exception that there are no nominees for 11th District judgeships.

Major interest in this county will—as elsewhere in the state—center in the effort of Rep. Thomas E. Martin to un-seat the Democratic incumbent in the U. S. Senate, Guy Gillette. However, a good deal more than casual attention also has been attracted to the gubernatorial race between Republican Leo Hoegh and Democrat Clyde E. Herring. There can be little question that the Democrats consider that their chances of taking control of the statehouse are the brightest since their last election success 18 years ago.

Former Governor's Son

It is noteworthy that the Democratic candidate who launched the six-year reign of that party, 1933-39, was Clyde L. Herring, father of the current nominee.

Completing the Democratic state ticket are: Maurice Rawlings, Sioux City, lieutenant governor; Frank Davey, Des Moines, secretary of state; Rex Weddle, Knoxville, auditor; J. E. Hansen, Dedham, treasurer (who appeared at a rally here with Herring last summer); Albert J. Loveland, Janesville, secretary of agriculture; L. E. Plummer, Northwood, attorney general; Walter Conway of Muscatine and Walter Vaughn, Clinton, for commerce commissioners; Loren Hullinger of Cedar Rapids, Frank Messer of Iowa City and A. R. Shepherd, Des Moines, judges of supreme court.

Other than Hoegh, only three members of the state GOP slate are seeking election for the first time. Dayton Countryman of Nevada is nominee for attorney general; John Tallman, Clarion, for commerce commissioner; and Robert L. Larson of Iowa City, at present filling the office by appointment, for supreme court judge.

McNeal vs. Cressey

Republican incumbents are: Leo Elthon, Fertile, lieutenant governor; Melvin Synhorst, Orange City, secretary of state; Chet Akers, Ottumwa, auditor; M. L. Abrahamson, Boone, treasurer; Clyde Spry, Bronson, secretary of agriculture; John Ropes, Des Moines, commerce commissioner; John Mulroney of Fort Dodge and W. A. Smith, Dubuque, judges of supreme court.

Lumund Wilcox, Jefferson, Democratic candidate who is opposing James I. Dolliver of Fort Dodge for the 6th District seat in the U. S. House of Representatives, is another office-seeker who appeared at the party rally here. William Cressey of Clarion, vying with Clark McNeal for the privilege of representing Wright county in the state legislature, also made an appearance at the rally. Candidates for the state senate from the 37th District are John Walker of Williams, Republican, and Mrs. G. H. Maxon, Jewell, Democrat.

Price, First-Timer

All four GOP candidates for 11th District court judgeships are Republicans and incumbents, though Harvey Uhlenhopp—currently serving by appointment—will be seeking election for the first time. His fellow magistrates appearing on the

77 VISIT JAIL

Only 77 visitors showed up Sunday to avail themselves of the county supervisors' invitation to inspect the jail at Clarion. However, among those who did look over the crumbling, outmoded building there seemed unanimous agreement that Wright county DOES need to erect a new jail. As a special proposition during next Tuesday's election, the voters will cast their ballots on whether the county should obligate itself for $68,000 in bonds for that purpose. The individual cost to the taxpayer will not be more that $2.50 per $1,000 of assessed property valuation during the 10 years required to retire the bonds, according to County Attorney Ben Birdsall.

LeRoy Smith Goes 9 for TD as Six Seconds of 1st Half Remain

With the ball situated on Clarion's nine, just 32 seconds of playing time remained before halftime. Smith passed to Hansen. No good. Another toss was directed to Ron Steenblock, but he was clobbered

Another thing that is rather un by two defenders as he made an all-out try for the ball. It looked like curtains as Smith went back a third time, scouted anxiously but unsuccessfully for a receiver and found himself the target of three or four red-garbed tacklers. Barely avoiding the grasp of one Cowboy, Smitty sprinted wide to the left, picked up a block or two and slanted into the end zone.

Cowboys Come Back Strong

A Simth-to-Hansen aerial failed on the conversion, leaving the count 6 for Belmond, 0 for Clarion. With only six, skinny seconds showing on the clock, the Broncs had only to make sure the received of the ensuing kickoff was kept under control. McClelland made a spirited run-back from the 15 to the 38, but there he was sacked by Perry Ersland and Ron Steenblock Time was out before the play was completed.

It was a different story in the second half, as the aroused Cowpokes suddenly seemed to realize that they could conceivably get beat. The start of the third quarter was even-steven, but play was largely in Belmond territory With about 3½ minutes of the period to go, Clarion got a break that set up its most serious scoring threat.

After a punt exchange, the Cowpokes had the ball on their own 16. They saw two plays net nothing —then a McClelland to Roger Brooks pass was fielded on a diving catch just a foot from the out of-bounds stripe.

Broncs Take Over on 13

That effort was good for 16 yards. Witzel and McClelland ground out 25 yards in four downs — with a blank by Mosher mixed in — and it was 1st-and 10 for Clarion on about the 13 Here the Broncos dug in. Phil Schmitz and Perry Ersland stopped Witzel cold. Ron Steenblock and Meyer gave McClelland the same treatment Matters took a gloomy turn when McClelland hit Brooks on a pass for eight yards; but on fourth down, McClelland was racked by a swarm of Purple and White tacklers, fumbled, and Bob McLaughlin came up with the ball on the eight stripe

A punt exchange gave Belmond possession on its own 39 and four plays later 1st down was missed by a matter of inches. The Broncs successfully stopped a flurry of Clarion passes, forcing a punt which traveled from the Cowboy 44 to the Broncs' 32. But in a burst of over-enthusiasm, a Belmond tackler roughed the kicker and gave Clarion a second chance. Needing only two yards for 1st-and-10 after the 15-yard penalty, Witzel made the needed distance, carrying five yards beyond midfield. Two efforts, including a McClelland-to-Witzel 12 yarder gave the Cowpokes a new set of downs on the 30.

Witzel Drops Pass

Witzel legged it for four, a pass was n.g., then Witzel hit for two more. With a shade over a minute and a half to go, McClelland lofted the ball to Witzel on the 19 — and the Cowboy star, wholly unattended, dropped it. That was the break the Belmond brigade needed. Three plays wasted all but 30 seconds of remaining playing time, whereupon Tom McNulty booted to the 45 and determined dash by Witzel was abruptly stopped by Ron Steenblock on the 38.

The thrills weren't quite over for the evening, however. Mosher was nailed for a four-yard deficit; but on the final play of the game, McClelland angled a pass that connected and Don Witzel got clear to the 14 before Ron Steenblock laid him low. In that final half, Clarion outgained the victors 115 yards to 55 and posted seven first downs to Belmond's two. But the rally wasn't sufficient unto the need and the Broncos went home with their second win in a series with Clarion that has covered 31 games.

Witzel and McClelland, both juniors, gave the winners' numerous uneasy moments with their fleet, shifty running. Duane Bierl, John Hagie and Mel Seifert were defensive standouts for the Cowboys. Laurels to the victorious Broncos are handed out in the Player-of-the-Week story.

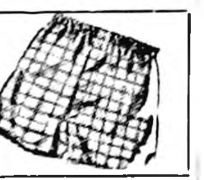
SPORTS



—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS

Coach Dick Hobbs had your scribe dust off the files last week to learn exactly when the Broncs had last chalked up a victory over the Clarion Cowboys. It took quite a lengthy search. According to available records, in the first 30 meetings between the two teams—extending through 1953—Belmond had exactly one win to its credit!

That came in 1941, when the Broncos turned the trick 6 to 0. Only 14 players were used in the Belmond line-up: Loats and Nielsen, ends; Wilson and Whipple, tackles; Riggs and Tyrrell, guards; Hogenson, center; Lowenberg, quarterback; Eggers and Covington, halfbacks; Norris, fullback; Dorr and Bier, reserve backs, and Campbell, substitute guard.

The 1941 Independent stated that in 17 preceding Belmond-Clarion games, the Broncos had never once emerged on top. On several occasions, the Purple and White entered the game a heavy favorite on the basis of the respective season's performances; but the Cowboy jinx always reared up to smite down Belmond's hope. But not Friday!

—PSS—

Cases in point are the 13-13 tie that occurred in 1948 and the 9-7 defeat suffered in 1952. In '48, with Sonny Greenfield et al comprising the team, the Broncs made 11 first downs in the opening half and Clarion had net yardage of minus-11. Also, Belmond led, 13-0! Then in '52, Belmond had net yardage for the evening of 228 to Clarion's 16. But the scoreboard still read 9 to 7, wrong end to.

—PSS—

To make it readily available in years to some, we're presenting herewith the scores for 1941-53. It's about time a new "trend" was established. Clarion score, in each case, is listed first: 1941—0-6; 1942—6-6; 1943—20-0. ~~1944~~—39-6; 1945—18-0; 1946—660. 1947—14-0; 1948—13-13; 1949—19-12; 1950—20-0. —1951—20-0;1952—9-7; 1953—20-0. What the game scores were in the 17 battles fought before 1941, we aren't in a position to report. When a surge of ambition griups us one of these times, we're going to look 'em up.

—PSS—

No one could say that the Bronco offense was "punchless" against Clarion. LeRoy Smith and Tom Lowenberg were the workhorses, with Keith Madsen and Marlan Cunningham helping out mightily with blocks — and the forward wall often opening big holes. As the BHS crew "held on" during that final quarter, the running game didn't amount to much; but it was a different story in the first three quarters. On 17 carries in the first three periods, Lowenberg averaged a shade over five yards per try; and achievement that was exactly matched by Smitty on 16 plays.

—PSS—

More than one Bronco fan has wondered what happened to Marlin Jenison this season. The senior, light-weight back was one of the Broncs' hardest hitters last fall. The answer is, he developed a calcium growth on his right thigh, which severely hampered him from the start of the season. When the cause of his difficulty was discovered shortly before the Homecoming game, the doctor ordered Marlin to turn in his suit.

—PSS—

The Broncs proved that there comes a time that first shall be last and last shall be first. Meservey's bowling team did likewise last week. The Meserveyites may win relatively few games; but they sure have a lot of fun. And they must have super-enjoyed it last week when — from their cellar position in the Inter-City league — they reached up to blank the league-leading Dows aggregation, 3-0!

GAMES THIS WEEK

Lake Mills at Forest City
Garner at Britt
Swea City at Buffalo Center
Waseca (S.S.A.), Minn., at Northwood

This year's North Iowa conference football season is certainly not lacking for climaxes. Lake Mills took over sole possession of first place in the standings by nosing out Garner last weekend, 9 to 7, but the Bulldogs now must take the measure of Forest City on the Indians' home field tomorrow night to nail down the crown. Lake Mills had the benefit of playing Garner on the Bulldogs' own gridiron. With the Indians fired up for a last chance at a title share, this key battle promises to be a humdinger.

Garner takes its turn at the short-manned Britt crew in the only other loop action this week. Buffalo Center winds up its season playing host to Swea City, and Northwood entertains the Waseca, Minn., parochial high school. The Vikings have one more game on their card, tackling Manly on Nov. 5.

That finishes off the NIC gridiron action for the year, except for the Belmond-Garner clash here next Wednesday. Whatever the intervening developments are, the Broncos are apt to find the Cardinals in a rather mean mood. If Forest City should pull the rug on Lake Mills, Garner could still tie for the championship by winning. But if their dream of glory is dashed, the Cards will still be on the alert—determined not to suffer the same fate as Clarion at Belmond's hands.

Trapping Seasons Set for 1954-55

Iowa trapping seasons for 1954-55 have been set by the State Conservation Commission, with several changes over last year.

Because of a severe muskrat shortage and a decline in mink numbers, this year's mink-muskrat season is only half as long as last year's. The 1954 mink-muskrat trapping season will open over the entire state at 12 o'clock noon, Nov. 20, and close at midnight, Dec. 4.

The trapping season for raccoon, skunk, civet cat, badger, oppossum and beaver will open at 12 o'clock noon, Nov 10, and will extend to midnight, Jan 10, 1955. There is a continuous statewide open season on weasel, red and gray fox, groundhog and coyote. There is a continuous closed season on otter.

Owners and tenants of land and their children may trap upon their land without a trapping license. All other trappers are required to hold a trapping license and mark each trap with tags furnished when the license is purchased.

PLAYER-OF-WEEK HONORS SHARED BY ALL BRONCOS IN CLARION WIN

LAST FRIDAY'S HERO
The Cowboy Was Sent Flyin'

When a football aggregation comes up with a "team victory" like Belmond scored against Clarion last Friday night, who are you going to pick as "the" star? That was a question that the Player-of-the-Week panel could find no answer for; so this week's choice is simply "The Broncos."

Every one of the 17 players who got into the Bronco line-up had a part in the triumph. As the score indicates, it was defense that held the key to that long-awaited win. Clarion was able to gain a net of only 92 yards on running plays. Of that total, 56 yards were produced on four, sudden bursts — three by Don Witzel for 47 yards and one by Jack McClelland for nine.

That means that, on their remaining 31 running plays, the Cowboys averaged just a shade over a yard per try! And although the Bronc pass defense sagged on a few occasions, the losers managed only five completions in 13 attempts.

Actually, 13 men played most of the game for Belmond. The linemen who performed such yeoman service were Ron Hansen, Harold Steenblock, Perry Ersland, Gary Meyer, Phil Schmitz, Bob McLaughlin, Dwight Beavers, Ron Steenblack and Roger Smith. Relieving these stalwarts on occasion were Kyle Mennenga, Harold Tendall and Tom Stadtlander.

The starting backfield went all the way, except of appearances by Tom McNulty in punt situations. The "horses" were LeRoy Smith, Tom Lowenberg, Keith Madsen and Marlan Cunningham.

There were, of course, outstanding plays by a most of these Broncs that would merit special mention. But it was the united effort that paid off. That's why this week's "Player" picture is simply "A Bronco." It might be noted that that Cowboy clinging to his flanks was rolling on the sod when the final whistle blew.

16-Game Schedule For Bronc Cagers

Belmond High school's 1954-55 basketball schedule has been released, showing identically the same line-up of foes that the Broncos have met regularly in recent years. The cagers will get their first taste of action just 10 days after the closing football game with Garner when they travel to Forest City for the annual North Iowa conference jamboree, Nov. 12.

As usual, all opponents will be played on a home-and-home basis with the exception of Eagle Grove and Clarion. The annual, single shot at the Eagles will be on the BHS floor this year; the Clarion game there.

Following is the complete 16-game schedule:

Nov. 12—NIC Jamboree, Forest City.
Nov. 19—Hampton, there.
Nov. 23—Eagle Grove, here.
Dec. 3—Britt, there.
Dec. 7—Northwood, here.
Dec. 10—Buffalo Center, there.
Dec. 14—Lake Mills, here.
Dec. 17—Forest City, there.
Jan. 4—Garner, here.
Jan. 7—Britt, here.
Jan. 11—Northwood, there.
Jan. 14—Buffalo Center, here.
Jan. 18—Clarion, there.
Jan. 25—Lake Mills, there.
Jan. 28—Forest City, here.
Feb. 1—Hampton, here.
Feb. 4—Garner, there.

Clear Lake Beats Jr. Broncos Again

Belmond High's freshman-sophomore football team closed its season rather inauspiciously Monday night, losing to the Clear Lake froshmores on the Cubs' gridiron, 25 to 0. This gave the Junior Broncs a season's mark of three wins, two losses (both to Clear Lake) and a tie. They were playing without the services of DaDean Obrecht and Bill Murray at Clear Lake, which weakened the team's offense considerably.

The winner's scored on runs of 40 and 80 yards and their other two tallies developed from a blocked punt and a pass interception. Belmond's best scoring chance came on a pass from Tom McNulty to Roland Jenison that covered some 40 to 50 yards before the receiver was caught from behind as he was goalward bound. Coach Dick Kratke reports that Jim Fetrow looked particularly good on defense for Belmond and Jerry Chandler on offense.

Mr and Mrs. Harry Draves of Klemme visited Wednesday of last week in the Elmer Jacobson home.

MORE BASS STOCKED

Game Warden Bill Ayers reports that another 1,000 small-mouth bass fingerlings were recently placed in the stretch of the Iowa river two to three miles north of Belmond. These came from the state hatchery at Decorah. Last month, 500 fingerlings were stocked in the same area. These fish will have attained legal size about three years hence, Bill says.

16 from Belmond Enrolled at ISC; Eleven Taking Engineering Courses

AMES — Wright county has 59 students enrolled at Iowa State college during the present fall quarter, according to information released by Dr. Arthur M. Gowan, registrar.

Total college enrollment of more than 8,300 represents an increase of approximately 500 over last year's figure, and marks a steady advance which is expected to continue for a number of years to come. Higher birth rates in the late 1930's and in the 1940's and an increasing tendency for high school graduates to continue with college education has sent larger and larger groups to the campus in recent years.

2,739 in Engineering

High demand of industry for engineering talent has made the Division of Engineering at Iowa State the largest division of the college, with 2,739 enrolled. A similar need for scientists has pushed the Division of Science to 1,842. The Division of Agriculture, showing an increase, has 1,754 students, and the Division of Home Economics, also growing, has 1,543. The Division of Veterinary Medicine has a limited enrollment and holds practically steady at 274.

The graduate college, becoming more important each year because of the need for more highly trained persons both in the basic sciences and in agriculture, has approximately 900 students.

Six, Town; Ten, Rural

Of the total enrolled from Wright county, Belmond accounts for 16 students. Eleven of them are registered in the school of engineering. Six of the students live in Belmond and the other 10 are from rural homes in the immediate vicinity.

The rural students — class of each designated in parenthesis — and their courses are: Jerry Aldrich (3), agronomy; Mary Lou Baker (3), home economics; Oliver Bohning (1), electrical engineering; Roy Johnson (1), mechanical engineering; Ronald Ketchum (3), forestry.

OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTERS of Wright County, Iowa

At the General Election on November 2nd, this year, you will find in addition to the regular matters on the ballot a proposition calling for a new Wright County Jail. As voters you will have an opportunity to authorize your county officials to build this new jail. Your County Board of Supervisors is unanimously in favor of the proposition. However, this is a matter which must be presented to you.

We believe that the county needs this improvement. Several Grand Juries, including the last three, have, at the time of their annual inspection in January of each year, strongly recommended this proposal. These bodies represent a good cross section of the Wright County community and their reports have been unanimous. In 1953 the State Fire Marshall condemned the present jail structure. All who have seen and inspected the old jail know that it must be replaced.

The cost of a new jail building and site will be approximately $68,000.00 Although this figure may seem large the proportionate share of the expense for each taxpayer is insignificant. For example, on an assessed property valuation of $2,000.00 the total tax over a ten year period will not exceed $3.00 or about thirty cents a year.

We sincerely believe that you should vote in the affirmative for this new jail building and site.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN GREENLANDER, Chairman
CARL P. KELLING, Member
GEORGE S. TROWBRIDGE, Member
HARLAND HILL, Member
ALBERT CHRISTOPHER, Member

Chevrolet for '55 On Display Today

Lee Mussell announces in a full-page advertisement in this issue that the new, re-styled Chevrolet for 1955 will be on display at Mussell Chevrolet company's showroom today. Featured in the new line are the Turbo-Fire V-8 and the Blue Flame 6.

Part of the "new look" is attributable to lowering of all roofs, which emphasizes longer, fleeter appearance. Mr. Mussell says sedans have been lowered 2½ inches and the station wagons as much as six.

He's particularly enthusiastic about the Turbo-Fire models, which present the first V-8 engine Chevrolet has offered in 35 years. It delivers 162 horsepower.

Higher horsepower ratings characterize the Blue Flame series, too. A 123 hp engine is available with manual gearshift and the six built exclusively for Powerglide automatic transmission now develops 136 hp.

Other features of the '55 Chevrolet include increased safety through greater visibility, windows throughout all the new bodies being larger than before; and added riding comfort is promised due to revamping of front and rear suspensions.

Mr. Mussell says he's mighty proud of the new motoramic Chevrolet and hopes the public will accept his invitation to drop in today or during the weekend for a look.

Sharen Strait Married Oct. 17 To Allen Ter Hark of Kanawha

Miss Sharen June Strait, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emra Strait of Belmond, became the bride of Arnette Dale Ter Hark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ter Hark of Kanawha, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 17, at 2:30 o'clock at St. Olaf Lutheran church west of Belmond. Rev. O. M. Severseike performed the double-ring ceremony before a candle-lit altar decorated with baskets of ferns and white mums.

Mrs. Harold Simerson, organis, played traditional nuptial music and accompanied Gene Mehl as he sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin. It was styled with a short, lace jacket over lace bodice, the sleeves coming to a point at the wrists. The net skirt cascaded into luxurious fullness, with rows of gathered net ruffles. Her veil of imported French illusion edged with Chantilly lace was attached to a tiara of Chantilly lace formed into a pointed crown with a single-strand of pearl trim. She carried a white prayer book, gift of the groom, bearing a lavender orchid tied with satin streamers.

MR. AND MRS. TER HARK

June Snider of Fort Dodge, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor wore a ballerina-length gown of deep blue lace net ruffles. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue and white carnations tied with white satin ribbon. Myrna Strait, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Shirley Smith were bridesmaids. They wore ballerina-length gowns of light blue net, and satin tiaras decorated with little blue flowers and covered with blue net veils. They carried colonial bouquets of blue and white carnations with satin ribbons.

Nancy Ter Hark of Kanawha, niece of the groom, as flower girl wore a short, white nylon net gown styled with rows of ruffles and carried a basket of assorted pompons. She wore a tiara of the assorted pompons. Jimmy Peterson of Rockwell, nephew of the groom, carried the rings on a white satin pillow tied with blue bows. He wore a white suit and blue boutonniere.

Allen Ter Hark of Kanawha served his brother as bestman. Groomsmen were Paul Jackson of Kanawha and Gene Ter Hark of Clarion. Larry Ter Hark of Clarion and Harold Elberg of Eagle Grove were ushers. Candle-lighters were Charles Strait, brother of the bride, and Ronald Snider of Fort Dodge.

The bride's mother wore a prevance blue dress and the mother of the groom wore a green dress. Both had black accessories and corsages of white and yellow symbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. The bride's table was decorated with her colors and the centerpiece was the three tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Art Homervold cut the cake and Mrs. Jack Benoit of Baybridge, Ohio, aunt of the groom, poured.

Mrs. Bennie McGrath of Clarion had charge of the guest book and Mrs. Dillion Strait and JoAnn Slining were in charge of the gifts. The bride's table waitresses were Colleen White and Mary Jo Benson and the tea table waitresses were Monica Jones and Mrs. Arnold Nodland. The dining room hostess was Mrs. Kenneth Severson of Clarion.

The bride's grandfather, Hans Larson of Port Clinton, Ohio, and her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Strait of Fort Dodge, were honored guests.

For going away the bride wore a plum, tweed suit with black accessories. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Ter Hark will be at home in Kanawha, where he is employed by the Lambert Lumber company.

GOODELL NEWS

BY MRS. AMOS HANSON

Judith Brede Wed on Oct. 10 To Dale F. McClure at Klemme

Miss Judith Brede, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brede of Goodell, became the bride of Dale F. McClure, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley McClure of St. Charles, on Sunday, Oct. 10, at 2:30 p. m. at the Klemme Methodist church. The double-ring ceremony was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Melvin Miller, assisted by Rev. Arnold Edwards of Ellington Prairie church, St. Charles. Candles and baskets of yellow and bronze mums decorated the altar.

Mrs. Paul Jenison of Belmond provided nuptial music on the organ and accompanied Mrs. Leland Lieuwen of Kirksville, Mo., as she sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white acetate satin. Her fingertip veil of nylon net fell from a pearl-trim hat. Her only jewelry was a triple-strand necklace of pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of white fugii mums on a white Bible.

Mary Twinan of Crawfordsville was maid of honor and Shirley Spear of Tipton, bridesmaid. Former room mates of the bride at Iowa State college, both wore waltz-length gowns of bronze acetate slipper satin and carried bouquets of bronze mums and yellow pompons. Richard Harmon of Garner was bestman and Delwyn Brede, brother of the bride, groomsman.

Marilyn Hall of Garner, in a dress of white slipper satin and carrying a basket of yellow pompons, was flower girl. Charles McClure, brother of the groom, carried the rings on a lace-covered satin pillow. Candlelighters were Nancy Guth of Klemme, in a gold-colored satin gown, and Leland Halfpop of Kanawha, cousin of the bride. Ushers were Dean Bagby of Stockport and Glen Peterson of Ames. All the men wore white carnation boutonnieres.

The bride's mother wore an aqua dress with red accessories and the bridegroom's a navy blue with dark accessories. Both wore corsages of white fugii mums.

Immediately after the ceremony, refreshments were served to 220 guests in the church parlors. An ornamented, four-tiered cake decorated in yellow and white and topped with miniature bride and groom, baked by Mrs. D. P. Anderson of Klemme, was served by Mrs. Alfred Jurgemeyer of Klemme and Mrs. W. W. Kline of Chula, Mo., aunt of the groom. Waitresses were Barbara Doty, Patricia Branson and Sue Kauzlarich of Ames, Mrs. Dean Bagby of Stockport and Yvonne Olson of Forest City.

Mrs. Roger Halfpop of Kanawha, cousin of the bride, and Carole Finn of Iowa City had charge of the guest book. Gifts were in the charge of Eunice Helps of Klemme and Ila Mae Anderson of Goodell.

After a short wedding trip, the newlyweds are at home in an apartment at Duncan. The bride chose a red wool suit with black accessories for going-away.

Mrs. McClure is a graduate of the Klemme High School, class of 1952, and has completed two years of study at Iowa State college, Ames. Mr. McClure is a graduate of the St. Charles High school, class of 1947, and is now D.H.I.A. supervisor for Hancock county.

VOTE AS YOU WILL, TUESDAY; BUT GIVE EISENHOWER A COOPERATIVE CONGRESS

Next Tuesday's election will be decided to a far greater degree than most in recent years by the on-the-fence voter. Perhaps the growing body of "independent" voters can be explained by the fact that more and more people have become disgusted with the back-alley tactics of organized politics and have developed the attitude, "a curse on BOTH your houses." Be that as it may, it remains for the majority of voters to determine what party shall prevail—and a heavy responsibility rests on the independent, whether he likes it or not.

As we see it, the most crucial consideration in the up-coming election is to assure a unified congress in support of the Eisenhower administration. Experiences of the past leave no room to doubt that the entire nation will suffer if President Eisenhower should have to struggle through the next two years battling a hostile Congress. A Democratically controlled Senate or House would be deliberately disposed to make the administration "look bad;" and they could do so only at the cost of obstructing progress in the form of needed legislation.

Senator Gillette has repeatedly proved himself no friend of the current administration. Tom Martin could be counted upon to lend consistent support to President Eisenhower in carrying out his program. And in the next two years, we have the choice of Eisenhower's program — which was favorably enough regarded to put him in the presidency — or NO program. And a soundly conceived, properly implemented program is a MUST for any nation.

So we suggest that you vote as your conscience would have you vote where state issues are involved. But keeping an eye to the side his bread is buttered on, it will behoove the "independent" voter to keep buttered side up by giving the President a Congress that will work with him.

IF "WE" DON'T LOOK AFTER SOCIETY'S UNFORTUNATES, THERE'S NONE TO DO SO

An interesting piece of reading came our way last week in the form of the second report of the Citizens' Council for Legislation regarding Iowa institutions that are under jurisdiction of the State Board of Control. These are the 12 mental, children's and penal institutions, plus the Iowa soldiers home. The report was based on visits to these institutions by representatives of the Council last spring and is a follow-up to a similar report following a visitation program in 1952.

Belmond has groups affiliated with a number of organizations that belong to the Citizens' Council; to mention only a few — Iowa Synod of Evangelical and Reformed churches, Federation of Women's clubs, League of Women Voters, American Legion and its Auxiliary, Conference of Catholic Charities and Congregational Christian conference. It logically follows that many persons in this community SHOULD be interested in some of the disturbing facts brought to light by the Council's investigation.

The facts of the matter are, these institutions are in far too many cases: (1) overcrowded; (2) understaffed due to too meager appropriations; (3) seriously hampered in rehabilitation efforts for the same reason; (4) and in many instances forced to care for improperly classified inmates for lack of an efficient screening center.

Basic behind the troubles of these institutions is the fact that they serve individuals whom the general public would prefer to forget. Innocent victims of circumstance in a vast majority of cases, these inmates and patients have had no influential spokesmen in their behalf when appropriations are considered in the legislature. The Citizens' Council has corrected this deficiency to some degree, but it critically needs the support of the individual members of the groups that make it up. Only by such support can it become a force equal to the need it seeks to fulfill.

An accurate measure of the strength and adequacy of our democratic system of government should include how well we look after the unfortunate ones who fill these institutions. While we're gradually doing better, there is vast room for improvement; and such improvement will not be brought about unless it is demanded by far more people than are now interested in bringing it about.

Ironically enough, the expenditure of more money for a time might well pave the way for lower expenditures in the long run; for many of these institutions' inmates might be rehabilitated and returned to useful lives if adequate funds were available. Instead, we are regularly "saving money" at the cost of dooming salvagable individuals to an institutional existence for life — or for far longer periods than necessary.

That a Christian society should permit such a condition to persist is a critical reflection upon that society. If we truly believed that we ARE "our brother's keeper," we could make the Citizens' Council the powerful force that it deserves to be. If these institutions are not the individual citizen's responsibility, they are NO ONE'S responsibility. And that's where the trouble has laid.

What Other Ed's Are Saying

John Anderson, Britt Tribune, Offers an Answer;
Ed McLoone, Hampton Times, Dusts Off An Old One

MATTER OF GEOGRAPHY?

Our editorial colleague over at Belmond recently did a little bragging about the saving and spending habits of the people in his county of Wright.

He was using Hancock and Franklin counties in his comparisons explaining that Wright was some 3,400 people bigger than Franklin and 4,600 bigger than Hancock.

He points out that Wright countians have more bank deposits, have bought more savings bonds and had higher retail sales by some big margins. He's a little in the dark on the reason why and asks for the reason.

Here's one them, Pat. It's simple matter of geography. You in Wright county have three towns, all of which are bigger than any town in Hancock. In addition, both Belmond and Eagle Grove sit in the corners of the county, drawing trade from more than just the county. Belmond draws from Hancock, Cerro Gordo and Franklin. Eagle Grove draws from Humboldt, Webster and Hamilton.

Look at us poor starved souls in Hancock, Pat. Garner and Britt serve mainly Hancock county by reason of their locations. Yet according to sales tax returns both towns out-did Belmond in retail sales in 1953. The year ending June, 1954, you were behind Garner and just ahead of Britt.

We don't imagine that the spending and savings habits of Wright countians and Hancock countians are much different. Out-of-county spenders are no doubt raising your figures out of proportion to your county. (We have four small towns on the edges of the county that can not nearly compare with your situation.)

You requested a reason. We pass this along to you for what it is worth.

(Ed's Note: Neighbor John Anderson is helpful, above, up to a point. But he completely disregarded Ye Ed's concluding question, i. e.: If Wright countians in general have so bloomin' much money, why doesn't more of it come Ye Ed's direction? No consarned geography involved there!)

"NO JOY" INDICATED

This one is "old as the hills" but I appreciate it every time I hear it or see it in print so I'll pass it on here. Seems that a man took his long and waggly-tailed dog to the veteriarian and told him that he wanted its tail cut off. The vet started to snip it off, leaving about three or four inches of it. The owner said "no." He wanted it removed flush with the furthest extremity of hind anatomy. When the vet told him that he always left the three or four inches of tail so the dog could wag it, the fellow almost threw a fit. He told the vet that "my in-laws are coming for a visit tomorrow and I don't want the slightest thing to show any [illegible] of happiness when they arrive."

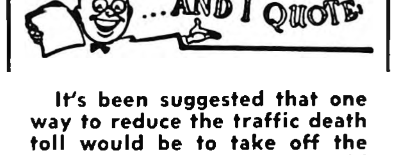
GENERAL ELECTION
TUESDAY, NOV. 2

THE OLD TIMER

"Sometimes a clear conscience can be nothing more than a poor memory."



It's been suggested that one way to reduce the traffic death toll would be to take off the highways all cars not fully paid for.

A friend of ours says, "When my wife tells me she's got a lot of things she wants to talk to me about, it usually turns out to be about a lot of things she hasn't got."

On the other hand, a young lady of our acquaintances complains, "My husband shares all his troubles with me—but keeps everything else to himself."

Sniffed one elderly lady, who's forgotten times don't change much: "Modern young men seem less concerned with a girl's family tree than with the shape of her limbs."

Character is like a rifle; it cannot shoot higher than it is aimed.—Weekly Animator.

Mark Twain once observed there can be the same difference between the right word and almost the right word as there is between lightning and lightning bug.

Many a dismayed politician is finding that a election time approaches, the public seems to become more acutely aware of who has to pay all those bills that Congress passes.

After a tiff with his wife, one Iowa editor daringly remarked in his personal column, "If women ever get equal rights, it will be quite a comedown for them."

Many an officeholder would hit the skids if enough people learned the difference between a good, sound reason and a reason that sounds good.

Law recognizes a husband as head of the house and the pedestrain as having the right of way. Both are fairly safe unless they try to exercise their rights.

Mumbled a lady at the meat counter, "A choice cut of meat is fine and dandy; but what I'd like to see is some choice cuts in prices."

You Voters: Is American Citizenship Worth Owning? This Former German "DP" Says Resoundingly, "Yes!"

(Particulary appropriate to this pre-election week is the following essay on Americanism and its meaning to a former German displaced person, now gratefulling living in the United States. It was written by Mrs. Alfred Mueller at the request of Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen, who read it as the feature of a Progress club lesson on "Americanism."

Mrs. Mueller is bookkeeper for Helland and Long Implement store and her husband is employed in the laboratory of the local General Mills plant. Both are currently studying in preparation fo rtaking naturalization test that will give them U. S. citizenship.)

What is Americanism? According to Webster, it stands for three things. First: attachment or loyalty to the United States, its traditions, interests, or ideals; second: an American custom or characteristic; third: a word or phrase peculiar to English as developed in the United States.

You, as members of a women's organization, might be mostly inand thoughts of a newcomer about this country. Therefore, we could combine the definitions of Americanism to one single phrase, which is commonly known as the American way of life.

Why do people from many different parts of the world have a desire to settle down in the United States? Would you, as American citizens, desire to live in aany other country? This question might surprise you, because you probably have never thought of it.

War Hard on Civilians

Obviously, there must be a reason why other people choose to live here. One of the main reasons is that the destruction during World War II ruined a number of countries financially, economically and socially. Never before in history did war endanger the civilian population almost more than the fighting armies.

A soldier could see his enemy, be it on land, on sea, or in the air. But the civilian population during the last war could only seek protection in air-raid shelters or basements and wait for the things to come. With bombed-out cities, a good many of them destroyed 50 per cent or more, people were left without adequate housing, clothing and food. Things looked hopeless and without a future.

With leaders and dictators going from one extreme to the other, there is one country which is known the world over for its democratic tradition, love of peace, and respect for the rights of the individual that are guaranteed by the four freedoms: the United States. This is why broadminded people who look for a better future and happiness in their lives try to make this country their home.

Husband Was P.W.

My husband was in this country during the war as a prisoner and learned to like this country and its people and desired to come back and settle down here. Not to mention the difficulties and screenings that follow application for immigration, we were finally permitted to enter the United States from Germany in December of 1949.

The first and lasting impression of a strange country is gained from the attitude of its people toward foreigners. The friendliness and helpfulness of the American people deserves to be highly praised. The moment you meet some persons, they make you feel at home and treat you like old-time friends. It is much harder to get acquainted and to make friends in the old country. The reason for this might be the imposed hardships on the individual.

The relationship between an employer and his employees in this country is somewhat unusual compared to the European. It takes quite a while to get used to calling your boss by his first name. In Germany, someone could hold a job for 20 years and he would address his boss or would be addressed by him as Mr. or Mrs. so-and-so.

Another thing that is a rather unusual sight to a newcomer is the way shopping is done over here. Everything is so convenient. Almost any item can be bought in the grocery store and can be picked up in packages or cans from shelves. The pushcarts you find there make it even easier for the housewife.

In Germany, you have special stores for the different types of groceries. For instance, you get meat only in the butchershop; bread, cake and cookies only in the bakery; vegetables and fruits only at the fruit market; fish only at fish markets, etc. As we do not have self-service in these stores, shopping takes up considerable time. You have to wait for your turn and everything you buy is weighed out individually.

Let me talk about the modern appliances which you find in almost every American home and which makes this country the one with the highest standard of living in the world. There are refrigerators, automatic stoves, washing machines, clothes driers, television sets and the like; things which should be greatly appreciated.

German Prices High

Europeans still cook and heat with fuel, wash their clothes by hand over a board with a brush, and also wring them by hand. All the modern appliances are not available for the common laborer over there due to lack of mass production.

The average worker's income is just enough to enable him to buy his daily needs. For example, if he wants to buy a pair of shoes he has his choice of either cutting down on food or of fixing up the old ones once more. This may sound unbelievable to you, but the cost of a pair of shoes is about equivalent to the weekly income of an unskilled laborer, about 50 German marks. One pound of coffee costs 15 German marks—almost one third of a week's income.

"Americanism" Wonderful

It is not hard to figure out that coffee is something available only on Sundays and holidays. Other staple grroceries are about three to four times as high over there. These few examples should serve to point out the difference in living conditions, although I could go on for hours about it.

There are not enough words to let you know how much I appreciate living in this country and how much I like the American way of life. I would like to sum it up in these few words: Americanism is something great and wonderful, its principles worthwhile to be put into practice wherever you go and wherever you are.

There would be a much better understanding amongst the peoples of the world if more forgeigners had a chance to see true Americanism in action. The kindliness and consideration shown, and the warm welcome given to my husband and me since entering the USA left us with only one wish: to become citizens of this great country as soon as possible.

Wright County Vote Margins to Martin, Hoegh; Jail Issue Passes

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

We're told that Dwight Tyrrell had to do his own retrieving during a recent hunting jaunt to the Dakotas, despite the fact that he has a new hunting dog in which he takes much pride. He's had the pooch for some months now, and had been looking forward with anticipation to his first chance to give the canine a trial.

Came the evening before the trip, and Dwight assembled the dog's accoutrements (feeding pan, etc.) along with his own, in preparation for the next day's departure.

Came the dawn, and Dwight went outside to "whistle in" his pet. No response. Anxious calls were in due time succeeded by disgusted shouts. Still no dog. Finally Dwight was obliged to load up and take off, unaccompanied by his canine companion. He still doesn't know if "Gus," a German short-hair pointer, can hunt.

—M-S—

We were laboring under a misapprehension, Mrs. Alfred Mueller informs us, when we identified her and her husband last week as German DP's. They were NOT displaced persons, she says. Their emigration to the U.S. was prompted solely by attraction to the "American way" of life and they came to this country under the regular, German immigration quota. The Muellers take pride in the entirely voluntary nature of their decision to emigrate; and we're happy to clarify the matter.

—M-S—

TONGUE-IN-CHEEK department: We suspect the editor felt he was pretty clever to come up with the following filler for a three-line space in the latest issue of the Iowa Realtor — "The Internal Revenue Service is 92 years old this month. Many happy returns!"

—M-S—

Wonder if the perspective of some of us "elders" doesn't at times get just as badly out of balance as was that of Ye Ed's three-year-old a while back when the moon was full? An ardent admirer of that particular heavenly body, Kevie had watched the huge, orange ball with awe as it crept above the horizon.

But as it rose in the sky, its diminishing size greatly disappointed him. Apparently placing the blame on his vision, he urged Dad to take him across the railroad tracks (about 50 yards to the east) so he could "see the moon closer."

Just try explaining to a tot that walking 50 yards CLOSER to the moon WON'T enable him to see it BETTER! Yuh can't do it! But don't you suppose that sometimes the kids get just as disgusted with us over our inability to see THEIR point of view on a matter? There are times they probably do—and justifiably so.

—M-S—

We thought we'd heard of every conceivable type of "give-away" in these late years of high-powered merchandising, but we ran into one in the 40-years-ago issue of the Belmond Herald-Press. It told of an advertisement in the Waverly paper of the previous week proclaiming, "A Live Baby Given Away Free!"

And, belive it or not, it meant just what it said!

The infant was the "grand prize" in a contest sponsored by a Waverly store. Coupons were issued to every person over six years of age registering for the contest and with a $1.00 cash purchase said coupon could be cast as a vote. The family receiving the largest number of votes was to get the baby.

—M-S—

Concering our squib recently regarding the one-time press of the Belmond Press that was dredged from the bottom of the Mississippi, Mary Rankins says our history was askew. She asserts that Mormons had nothing to do with the machine's dunking, but that a pro-slavery vs. abolitionist squabble gave rise to the ruckus that sent the press to the bottom. Further, she cited the date of a 1925 Independent in which the truth of the matter is recorded. We're going to have to look that up—and then tell YOU, so you'll know as much about it as we do.

Kachelhoffer Rites Conducted Monday

Funeral services were held Monday morning at Johnston Funeral Home for Mrs. Mabel Kachelhoffer, mother of Mrs. Carol Miner, Rev. William Schorman officiating. Rites were then held at the Presbyterian church at Ackley at 2:00 p. m., conducted by Rev. Richard Emory and Rev. J. H. Thaden. Burial was in Oakwood cemetery at Ackley.

For the past five years, Mrs. Kachelhoffer had lived a good share of the time in her daughter's home here. She died of a heart ailment at Belmond Community hospital last Saturday.

Born at Brainerd, Minn., on Sept. 11, 1884, the deceased was a daughter of Adam and Catherine Brown. She taught school for several years in Minnesota before her marriage to Victor Kachelhoffer on Jan. 18, 1910. After their marriage, the couple moved to Ackley, where their five children were born.

Mrs. Kachelhoffer was a life-long and active member of the Presbyterian church. She served on the board of trustees of the Ackley church, the first woman to be given a position on the board, and taught Sunday school for many years. For 13 years she was secretary of the Eastern Star. She was very active in civic affairs, always being interested in making her community a better place to live.

Her husband preceded her in death Feb. 4, 1949. She was also preceded by a daughter, Ruth Elizabeth, who died in 1916; and by three brothers and two sisters. Surviving are the four other children: Mrs. Carol (Helen) Miner, Belmond; Mrs. Robert (Jean) Arthur, Spirit Lake; Edward, Milwaukee; and [illegible], Waukegan, Ill.; also sev- [illegible], two sisters and

Lions Show Will Launch Swim Pool Fund

McNeal to Em-cee Revue Next Week

An enthusiastic cast has been working hard each day this week on the forthcoming production, "You Can't Beat Fun," the musical variety revue which the Belmond Lions club is presenting at the BHS auditorium next Monday and Tuesday evenings. Curtain time will be 8:13 p. m. (that's right: 8:13!)

Clark McNeal — but naturally — will act as master of ceremonies, Lucky Lamson, of the Hidie-Ho club and introduce the various specialty acts, chorus numbers and other features of the evening's entertainment. Two of the more prominent guests at the night club's ringside, Diamond Lil and Oil Well Willie, will be portrayed by Gus Taylor and Joe Marchese.

Other Cast Members

Other customers of the imaginary "nite spot" are Frivolous Sal, Goodtime Charlie, Klondike Kate, Bull Moose Malloy, Minnie the Moocher, Wall Street Sam, Big Bertha and Senator I. Kissem, whose parts will be played — in order — by Duane Anderson, Ed Gabrielson, George Hinman, L. B. Oberhauser, Jack Lansing, Dr. Paul Reitz, Maynard Johnston and George Sharp. Doctor Reitz will double in brass as a singer and Mrs. Dick Gowdy will serve as fashion commentator.

Specialty acts will feature: Betty and Margaret Eccles in a tap routine; Carolyn Classick, marimba solo; Donna Doeringsfeld, vocal solo; Marlys Howell, accordion solo; and an instrumental "combo" under direction of Roland Brom. Accompanist for the show will be Mrs L. M. Helland.

56 Girls in Chorus

Fifty-six girls make up the chorus of dancers that will be presented in several fast-stepping dance routines and production numbers. In the group are: Linda Bonte, Mary Carlin, Mary Brady, Karen Chapman, Connie Gabrielson, Karen Dannewitz, Sharon Dorr, Imogene Strait, Eloise Soma, Kathryn McLaughlin, Connie Swenson.

Peace Officers Reward Volunteer "Citizen Aides"

In the opinion of members of the Wright County Peace Officers association, guardians of the law are too wont to accept the cooperation of helpful citizens—perhaps, even to expect it—without showing proper appreciation. On Thursday evening of last week at the New Home cafe in Clarion, they made a gesture to amend matters.

Five civic-minded individuals who have been particularly helpful to this county's law officers, and one organization, were honored at an Awards Night banquet, an event that the association hopes will acquire the status of an annual event.

Each of the men cited was presented with a plaque expressing the gratitude of the Peace Officers association for services rendered. The awards were handed out by Sheriff Bob Blecker, who was introduced by Policeman Roger Brock of Woolstock, the association's president.

Award Recipients

Recipients of the plaque were:

Dean Myers of Eagle Grove, owner of the M&M Livestock Products company. In the early days of the association's existence, when limited finances posed a serious problem in planning the group's first, annual pistol shoot, Mr. Myers reloaded some 500 shells for the officers to make the target event fall within their means.

George Ripley, Clarion garageman. He worked closely with the officers in organizing their first countywide car-safety check and has contributed liberally of both time and equipment to make this annual, public service an important phase of the association's safety program.

Samson, Champlin Cited

Bert Samson, Clarion Ford dealer. Since the car-safety check was inaugurated five years ago, Mr. Samson each year has provided free transportation for necessary equipment and has supplied mechanics to assist in conducting the auto inspections, without charge.

Frank Champlin of Holmes, secretary-treasurer of the Clarion chapter of Alchoholics Anonymous. Extensive rehabilitation work among prisoners of the county jail has been carried on by Mr. Champlin and his efforts have enabled a number of them to overcome a weakness for liquor that was threatening to ruin their lives.

Airplanes Have Helped

Capt. "Bud" Etters, Woolstock farmer, and Lt. Russell Bauer, Clarion radio announcer, in behalf of the Clarion unit of the Civil Air Patrol, of which they are officers. These men have repeatedly made patrol planes available to law authorities for search and emergency duty in connection with law enforcement and public safety.

Dean Latta, Eagle Grove livestock buyer. On several occasions Mr. Latta has provided his personal airplane and his services as pilot to assist the peace officers in performance of their duties, when air reconnaissance was required.

Sharpshooters Rewarded

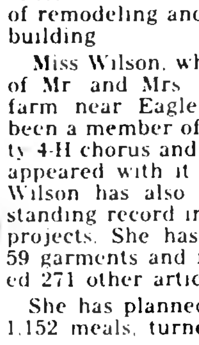
Another highlight of the evening's program was presentation of trophies to officers who had earned them in the association's 1954 pistol shoot. Three went to E. W. "Curley" Lucas, former Belmond policeman who is now a member of the Clarion force; and one each was received by Sheriff Blecker and Deputy Sheriff Dale Walrod.

As entertainment for the evening, Game Warden Bill Ayers showed a highly interesting colored film about quail, tracing life in a typical covey from spring mating time through an entire year's adventures and tragedies.

Wright County 4-H Club Girl Given 1954 State Award for Citizenship

Iowa's slate of 4-H members receiving 1954 state awards includes 18-year-old Glenda Wilson, winner of the Citizenship certificate of honor, the Wright county Extension Service was advised this week following judging of record books at Iowa State college.

Miss Wilson's record book will compete with other state winners for one of two $300 scholarships in a national 4-H contest. The certificates and scholarships are provided in honor of Thos. E. Wilson of Chicago and are awarded to deserving 4-H members who are outstandingly helpful to their parents, neighbors, members and leaders of their local clubs and in civic activities affecting the 4-H club and community.



Glenda Wilson

The Wright county 4-H'er, who served as state girls' 4-H president this year, is in her eighth year as a member of the Woolstock Willing Workers girls' 4-H club. One of the more recent community projects in which Miss Wilson participated was the conversion of an old county school house into the local 4-H clubhouse. She planned the color scheme and assisted with the task of remodeling and redecorating the building.

Miss Wilson, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wilson who farm near Eagle Grove, has also been a member of the Wright county 4-H chorus and has several times appeared with it as a soloist. Miss Wilson has also compiled an outstanding record in home economics projects. She has made a total of 59 garments and remade or repaired 271 other articles of clothing.

She has planned and prepared 1,152 meals, turned out 168 baked products, canned 226 quarts of food and 38 pints of jams and jellies. She has also frozen 185 pints of fruits and vegetables. While carrying her home furnishing projects, she finished 63 articles and painted two others. She has also painted two rooms and made one other major home furnishing improvement.

Other offices which Miss Wilson has held during her 4-H club career include the county girls' 4-H presidency and every office except historian of her local club.

Arrangements for the award received by Miss Wilson were made by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago. This privately supported, voluntary group encourages public spirited citizens to assist the United States Department of Agriculture and state extension services, official sponsors of the 4-H program, in conducting the work.

Tavern Business Changes Owners

What has been known the past six months as Ace Tavern and Pool Hall — and before that was Curt's Place — on Main street changed hands on Monday of this week. The business was sold by Mr. and Mrs. Leo Tonn to Herman Matthees of Manly and Mrs. Jessie Carr of Mason City.

Mr. and Mrs. Tonn, who were "burned out" in the disastrous fire at Elma early this year, are returning to that community to operate a restaurant.

Mr. Matthees, a World War II veteran and member of the Americaan Legion, was in the restaurant business at Manly. Mrs. Carr has been an office employee of the Mason City Brick and Tile company. They are calling their newly acquired tavern the Horse Tap.

Hunters Invited To Give Pheasant For Disabled Vets

Instead of holding a separate Pheasant-for-Vets hunt, as has been done in the past, Belmond's American Legion and VFW this year plan a new approach to the matter of getting birds for shipment to Iowa's veterans' hospitals.

Keith Chandler says the local ex-servicemen are asking all sportsmen of this vicinity to donate one pheasant from their opening day's bag of birds to this worthy project. In past years, a Sunday hunt later in the season has been held to obtain Pheasants-for-Vets and the return in birds has never been satisfactorily large.

All hunters wishing to share their "good eating" of the pheasant season with hospitalized veterans are asked to leave their donated birds at Veterans' Memorial hall at the end of the day next Thursday, Nov. 11. Legion and VFW members will prepare the birds for shipment to Des Moines, where they will be divided up so the VA facilities at Des Moines, Knoxville and Iowa City will all be able to set up a pheasant feast for their disabled vets.

Adult Education Enrollment Poor

Poorest registration for the annual Adult Education night school classes since the program was established was reported by Principal Clair Hugh following Monday night's initial session of the 1954-55 program. Only 41 adults showed up for the opening night classes and enrollment was sufficient in only four courses to assure their continuation for the 10-week period.

Largest registration was for the business education course, for which 14 signed up. Eleven enrolled in the art class and another three or four could be accomodated very nicely. Calories Anonymous, the weight-control course, attracted 10. Several more could still be included in that class, too.

Only two enrolled for the citizenship course, with prospect that two more will be added. As a service to these four foreign born individuals who are studying to take naturalization tests, this course will be carried through despite the small enrollment.

Only two adults showed up for the agriculture class, the small turn-out being attributed to the late work that farmers are finding necessary in the field right now. The weekly classes will be continued, at least for the time being, in hope that more farmers will turn out as their seasonal work grows lighter.

Two persons showed interest in the home nursing course; but since this was insufficient to justify forming a class, that course will be dropped.

CARD PARTY NEXT WEEK

Camp Fire Girls, Blue Birds Launch Pre-Holiday Candy Sale This Week

On Wednesday of this week Belmond's Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds opened their annual candy drive, which is a primary sources of revenue for financing the expense of Camp Fire and Blue Bird activities in Heart of the Hawkeye Council.

About 1,000 boxes of chocolates have been ordered by the local Camp Fire Council for re-sale by some 55 Camp Fire Girls and older Blue Birds who will participate in the campaign. Once again, Johnson's popular brand of chocolates will be sold. Of the $1.00 purchase price, 32 cents goes to Hawkeye Council and seven cents goes into the Belmond Camp Fire fund.

Carstens Drive Chairman

Cecil Carstens will be chairman of the candy drive, as he has been the past two years. He says that Belmond has four Camp Fire and four Blue Bird groups, with total membership of about 80 girls, that will benefit directly from the candy sale.

Blue Bird leaders are Mrs. Duane Anderson, Mrs. Rex Fetrow, Mrs. Robert Garms and Mrs. Severin Chinberg. Leaders of the Camp Fire Girls are Mrs. Dwight Tyrrell, Mrs. Jim Cairns, Mrs. Bob Foss and Mrs. Darwyn Van Gorp. Mrs. Tyrrell is president of the local board. Gordon Kessler is treasurer. Mrs. Lloyd Stevens is secretary and other members are R. H. Gowdy, Don Nolan, Mr s a Grms and Mr. Carstens.

Can Earn Camp Expense

Any girl who sells 50 or more boxes is rewarded with a week at Camp Hantesa near Boone at just half the regular cost; and any selling 100 or more receives an expense-free week at the camp. It is expected that more than 300 girls will earn part or all of their next period at camp "the candy way" in the course of the candy drive.

A generous portion of last year's sale proceeds went to build a Blue Bird recreation lodge at Camp Hantesa. A simil[illegible] is ear-marked this year f[illegible]uction of a recreation l[illegible] Shady Glade unit of t[illegible]

Club Takes First Step on Project

It was decided at a special meeting of the Belmond Lions club held Wednesday evening of last week at the city hall that the organization's proceeds from next week's home-talent show, "You Can't Beat Fun," will go to establish a community swimming pool fund.

For some weeks now, the Lions have had under consideration a proposal to take the initiative in launching a swimming pool fund campaign. Members of the club have been making a study of various types of pools that have been built in this part of the state and are in the process of investigating the cost of a pool that would be adequate to fill Belmond's needs.

Show Would Provide Start

L. B. Oberhauser, president of the club, says, "Obviously, the few hundred dollars that the Lions figure to realize on the home-talent production next Monday and Tuesday will be but a very small start towards a fund of sufficient size to build a pool.

"However, it is the Lions' hope that their taking the initiative in this matter will inspire other local groups to offer cooperation to the end of financing construction of a community pool. The need of a pool here in Belmond seems very apparent. The display of sufficient enthusiasm on the part of enough people should make the pool a reality."

Lions Offer Leadership

It was added by Mr. Oberhauser that the play proceeds will be earmarked as the foundation of the proposed swimming pool fund for a two-year period. If the project isn't carried through in that time, the Lions retain the privilege of diverting the money to other uses. The club hopes, though, that public response to the proposition will eliminate any need to exercise the special provision in regard to the fund.

The Lions club, according to Mr. Oberhauser, has no delusions that it can promote the project all by itself. On the other hand, it will be happy to provide or to share leadership in the undertaking. At a meeting of the Civic Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce held last Thursday, a suggestion was offered that that group might appropriately lend its active support; and formal action to that end may shortly be forthcoming.

Early Reactions Favorable

In recent years, the Belmond Chapter of the American Red Cross has been heavily subsidizing the annual swimming program that local children have enrolled for at the Clarion pool. Over-all expense of this program has been running in excess of $1,500, which would represent a good start toward the annual maintenance cost of a local pool, the Lions point out.

"Early response to our idea has brought forth a good deal of favorable comment," Mr. Oberhauser says, "not only right in Belmond but in surrounding territory which would share the benefits if a pool were built. At this early point, prospects for success of the project appear quite bright."

Chest Campaign "Over The Top"

Campaign Chairman Cecil Carstens announced Tuesday afternoon that the goal of this year's Belmond Community Chest fund drive had been reached and surpassed. As of that time, donations had reached a total of $3,959, compared to the budget requirements of $3,900.

Mrs. James Barry, president of the Community Chest Council, expressed enthusiastic praise for the fine job done by Mr. Carstens and his workers. It is the first time that the Chest goal has ever been reached in so short a time. The campaign was launched on Monday of last week.

Mr. Carstens reported that one or two workers were still delinquent on their reports and that two or three dozen individuals not at home when the canvassers made their rounds last week remain to be seen. He urges persons who were not seen by a solicitor to leave their contributions at the Iowa Electric Light and Power office so it won't be necessary for someone to make a special trip to see them.

Courson Elected Head of Gridiron

R. W. Courson was elected president of the Gridiron club for next season as last regular meeting of the year was held by that organization Monday night at Clarmond Country club. Other newly-elected officers are: Dick Gowdy, vice president; and Lloyd Cunningham, secretary treasurer.

Retiring-President Cecil Carstens will relinquish his duties to the new president at the annual Gridiron banquet for members of the high school and junior high football squads, which is to be held on Dec. 1. The other retiring officers are Ellis Elliott, vice president, and M. B. Dannewitz, secretary-treasurer.

This season's banquet is being delayed until later in the year than usual in order that a member of the University of Iowa coaching staff could be obtained as speaker. Efforts to line up Head Coach Forrest Evashevski proved unsuccessful, but he has informed President Carstens that Line Coach Bob Flora will be present to fill the speaking engagement.

Letter-winners on both the varsity and froshmore squads will be presented with their monograms as part of the banquet program.

Fire Does Damage To C. Luick's Cafe

Prompt and effective action by the Belmond Fire Department about 7:30 p. m. Tuesday prevented what might have developed into a disastrous fire when a blaze broke out in Luick's cafe on Main street.

Absence of wind was extremely helpful to the fire-fighters as they succeeded in confining the flames to the kitchen of the restaurant. The adjoining building occupied by Followwill Implement company was in severe danger until the blaze was brought under control.

No estimate of loss was obtainable Wednesday morning, but considerable damage was done to the cafe kitchen. Fire Chief A.W. Johnson says that defective wiring seemed the probable cause, though the exact source of the fire had not yet been investigated.

$300 Next Week

Taking away $25 and adding $75 makes a total of $300 that that will be available in prize money on next Tuesday's Cash Gift Day. Mrs. William Anderson was a 2:00 p. m. winner this week, acocunting for the $25 that disappeared. But the CGD committee is replacing the 25 and adding another for next week's 2:00 o'clock drawing, making six prizes up for grabs at that time. An additional $25 is also being put with the $125 that was this week's 3:00 o'clock prize, bringing the amount to $150 for next Tuesday.

Republican Sweep Of All Contests; Balloting Light

Wright county voters in Tuesday's general election gave moderate to strong majorities to Republican candidates for all offices that were contested, and approved the proposed bond issue of $68,000 for construction of a new county jail by nearly 63 per cent.

Leo Hoegh was given a slightly larger margin over Clyde E. Herring for the governorship (3,364 to 2,710) than Rep. Thomas Martin had over Guy Gillette for the U.S. Senate (3,269 to 2,811).

In the vote on the special proposition, Clarion provided a large part of the issue's winning margin. The county seat voters approved by a 909-293 count. Belmond's corner of the county also gave the proposal sound support. In Belmond and in the townships of Belmond, Pleasant, Norway and Iowa the special measure was approved 802 to 491.

60% Needed on Jail

Sixty per cent "yes" votes were needed to pass the jail proposition. Eagle Grove failed to give the measure quite that edge, 698-457. Also the balance of the county—excepting Clarion and the northeast corner—was short of giving the measure the percentage of favorable vote needed to pass.

In spite of the sharp contests for governor and U.S. senator, voters in the county did not turn out in very large numbers. Total vote ran something in excess of 6,100. This was no more than half the vote total in 1952's general election and was a thousand less than cast ballots in the off-year of 1950, when the races involved Bourke Hickenlooper and Al Loveland for senator and William Beardsley vs. Lester Gillette for governor.

Dolliver's Support Heavy

Except for candidates seeking county office, James I. Dolliver swung the heaviest vote in the field. In seeking re-election as 6th District representative, he polled 3,807 votes to 1,904 for Lumund Wilcox of Jefferson. Clark McNeal easily won his contest for re-election to the Iowa house of representatives, drawing 3,618 votes to 2,041 for William Cressey of Clarion.

John Walker of Williams was an easy winner over Mrs. G. H. Maxon of Jewell for the Iowa senate seat from the 37th District, his margin being 3,481 to 1,978.

Contending for a first term as state commerce commissioner, John Tallman of Clarion polled 3,593 votes and his GOP running mate, Incumbent John Ropes of Des Moines, 3,415. Their Democratic opponents, Walter Conway of Muscatine and Walter Vaughn of Clinton, got 2,142 and 2,078 respectively in Wright county.

Blecker Polls Most Votes

In general, Wright county appeared Wednesday morning to be giving the Republican ticket a bit heavier support than it received in the state as a whole, though there was an apparent indication of a GOP sweep in Iowa.

All county office incumbents were unopposed, leaving only the question of what size vote each would receive. As was the case in 1952, Sheriff Bob Blecker was the best vote-getter, receiving a total of 4,193. Only county post on which there was no report at press time was that of coroner, for which there were no nominations.

In Belmond, the special measure, Martin and Hoegh all received favorable margins, though Ward I went Democratic by a single-vote margin on the two, major races.

Belmond Ward Voting

Ward votes on the key contests were: I—jail 131 yes, 94 no; Martin-Gillette, 118-119; Hoegh-Herring 118-119; II—jail 129 yes, 72 no; Martin-Gillette, 144-79; Hoegh-Herring, 144-79; III—jail 161 yes, 9[illegible] no; Martin-Gillette, 157-106; Hoegh-Herring, 153-115.

In the neighboring townships the balloting went: Belmond—jail 78 yes, 49 no; Martin-Gillette, 79-56; Hoegh-Herring, 79-57; Pleasant—jail 51 yes, 44 no; Martin-Gillette, 52-51; Hoegh-Herring, 51-49; Norway—jail 85 yes, 47 no; Martin-Gillette, 72-61; Hoegh-Herring, 84-52; Iowa—jail 167 yes, 87 no; Martin-Gillette, 152-124; Hoegh-Herring 158-118.

3-Hour Interruption in Water Service Last Week Results When "20-Minute Job" Turns Complicated

While Belmond residents muttered and cussed because city water service was interrupted for three hours on Wednesday afternoon of last week, practically every municipal employee except the city clerk and attorney sweated and fumed at the scene of the difficulty — a water hydrant located at the southwest corner of the city park.

What had been looked upon as a repair job that would require not more than 20 minutes was undertaken by the water department at 1:30 p.m., time having been allowed for lunch to be completed in homes throughout town — and possibly for the dishes to have been washed and put away.

It had been discovered that the internal mechanism of the hydrant was broken and a new one was to be installed. Ordinarily this would not constitute much of an undertaking. But very shortly it became apparent that there was going to be more to the job than anticipated.

its hook-up with various auxiliary mains, water could be shut off from the hydrant only by closing eight different gate valves in as many lines of pipe. But it was found some of the pipes were so badly sedimented that the valves would not close tight. Consequently it proved necessary to shut the main gate valve at the water plant in order to make the exchange of hydrants possible.

Even at this point, a lengthy shut down of water distribution didn't seem likely. All that would be required was time enough to disconnect the broken hydrant, attach the new one — and the water could flow once more. But then it was learned by the dismayed workmen that the connection on the 60-year-old main was of a type entirely different from the hydrant fitting. Then the fun began.

The complicated series of improvisations required to get the hydrant installed AT ALL, to say nothing of completing the job in three hours, was too lengthy a procedure to be here reported. Suffice it to say that Clarence Hildebrand, city construction and maintenance superintendent, regards that the workmen did nobly in getting their exasperating task completed in as relatively short a time as they did.

Inconvenience and annoyance were rampant in homes and business establishments throughout town as faucet handles were repeatedly twisted to no avail during the "drouth." And thirsts grew [illegible] grew, which would not even have existed had water been readily available from the nearest tap.

Supt. Glen Eccles promises there will be no repetition of the incident — barring development of a similar set of unforeseen circumstances at some later date. He added that advance publicity will be given in the future before any repair is undertaken that just MIGHT prove as deceiving as last Wednesday's did. Then if it takes three hours instead of an expected 20 minutes at least the public will [illegible] of what's responsi-

OUR FARM NEIGHBORS

ED KUHLERS

In 1940 Ed Kuhlers made a good move when he purchased a 160 acre farm about 7½ miles northeast of Goodell from the Equitable Life Ins. Co. of Iowa. Previous to that time the Kuhlers family of five had been living on a rented farm five miles north of their present home.

Ed didn't let any grass under his feet and still isn't when it comes to making improvements. He has built a new barn, machine shed, chicken house and remodeled the home, including the addition of a new kitchen and the family now have a fine modern house. Carpenters are currently building a cattle shed.

The two Kuhlers boys, Edward Gene, age 20, and Marlyn 16, are both members of the Garner Saddle club and own their own riding ponys. Elaine, who is 14 and completes the family of 3 children is not unfamiliar with the ways of a pony and the pleasures of riding. Ed, Jr., since graduating from school is remaining at home to help his dad, but at present is expecting to be called up for 2 year service in the army.

We appreciated Mr. Kuhlers courtesy in stopping his work a few minutes, as he was out raking hay the morning we called, to tell us a little bit about his farming operations. This year he raised 80 acres of corn, he said he always seemed to be short of corn because of his cattle feeding plans, 30 acres of oats and the rest of the ground was in hay and pasture. Always had some soy beans but didn't this year. He prefers the Farmers Hybrid hog breed and raised 250 of them this year and is keeping 25 sows for next years crop. They also buy from 600 to 750 Hyline pullet chicks each year.

Remember When?

FROM THE FILES OF YESTERYEAR

TEN YEARS AGO—

Supt. Ted Johnson has released the BHS basketball schedule for 1944-45, showing 19 games. Besides home-and-home games with all North Iowa conference schools, the Broncos will exchange tilts with Eagle Grove and play single contests with Dows, Webster City, Nevada, Clarion and Hampton.

—1944—

Fimbrink Post of the American Legion will conduct its 3rd scrap drive Friday. Tin cans, washed clean and flattened, will be picked up by truck; also papers and magazines securely tied in bundles and wastebasket paper boxed in pasteboard cartons.

—1944—

F. and F. Garage has been opened by Fred Wantz and Francis Knight in the Main street location formerly occupied by Jones Harness company. Both men are experienced mechanics.

—1944—

Wright county school children have gathered 91 bags of milkweed pods, which will provide enough floss to line 570 aviators' suits. Payment of 20 cents per bag was made to the schools for collecting the pods.

—1944—

R. G. "Bud" Packard announces opening of Packard Electric Service on Main street in the building occupied for several years by the Nickel Nook.

—1944—

Chairman R. W. Courson says the completed report on the latest War Chest drive in Belmond shows $2,025 collected, compared to the goal of $1,807.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—

Wright county went Democratic in last Tuesday's election, where state offices were concerned, but returned all Republican officeholders to their county posts. Herring drew 3,629 votes for governor, compared to Dan Turner's 3,217. In the race for county representative, Robert D. Blue edged his Democratic rival, R. E. Lee Aldrich by 130 votes. All three Republican candidates for reelection as district court judges were successful.

—1934—

A family party at the Fred McBride home Sunday honored his mother, Mrs. Harriett McBride, on her 80th birthday.

—1934—

Outweighed by an average of 30 pounds per man, the Belmond Broncos lost to Clear Lake in their final conference game of the season last Friday, 25 to 0.

—1934—

A meeting of sugar beet growers of Wright county will be held here next Thursday night to hear H. E. Nichols of Ames discuss the sugar beet adjustment program, of which he is in charge in Iowa.

Two selections will be sung at this evening's PTA meeting by the high school girls sextet, which includes Beth Snader, Marjorie Hewlett, Barbara Chamberlin, Dorothy Finndorf, Muriel Patterson and Marion Larsen.

—1934—

Some from here plan to attend the national cornhusking contest today at Farimont, Minn., just 100 miles north of Belmond.

THIRTY YEARS AGO —

Nate Benson and Pink Trees returned home last week from a fishing jaunt to Cross Lake in Minnesota with a 21-lb. "muskie" that was caught by the former. They say that landing him was out of the question, so they towed him around until he drowned.

—1924—

Clear Lake defeated Belmond's Bronocs in a conference game here yesterday by a 23-3 score. The contest was unusual in that a field goal was made good by each of the contending teams.

—1924—

In explanation of the whistle toots being heard from the sugar plant these days, be it known that: one blast means, "shut down the beets;" two, "more beets;" three, "feed 'em steady;" and four, "feed 'em fast." Judging by the way the mill is turning out sugar these days, four toots must be the most common.

—1924—

Tuesday's election came off quietly in Belmond and vicinity, with a total of 805 votes cast in Pleasant township as a whole. All Wright county went strongly for Coolidge, with LaFollette running second ahead of Davis.

—1924—

Funeral services were held Thursday of last week at the Methodist church for James W. Sheriff, who would have been 70 this coming January. He leaves his widow and two sons, William and Elmer Sheriff.

FORTY YEARS AGO —

Tuesday's election saw both Wright county and Iowa go Republican. There is also indication that the GOP made some gains in Congress, but the Democrats will retain control.

—1914—

The frogs have folded ther arms, turned up their toes and gone down into the mud to remain until the resurrection of the tulip and cowslip; but the voice of the croaker is still heard in the land.

—1914—

We are informed that the Belmodn Boys Band has disbanded, many of its members having left town.

—1914—

Last Saturday night being Halloween, a number of special officers were placed on duty. While they did not succeed in surpressing all the deviltry, they reduced it to a minimum and it is believed that there was less property damage than has been the case for a number of years past.

—1914—

A local man made an inspection of hoboes incarcerated in the local jail one day last week and found one encased in a good coat and vest which the gentleman's wife had kindheartedly handed out to the wayfarer the previous afternoon.

—1914—

Tuition for non-resident students has been set by the school board at $2 for grade students; high school, $3.50 first semester, $4.00 for second.

FIFTY YEARS AGO—

Two amendents to the state constitution will be voted upon Tuesday as special propositions. One would give each county a state representative and the other provides for election of state and county officers to be held every two years hereafter.

—1904—

We are told that E. L. Tiede last week purchased the three corner lots formerly occupied by the Clark hotel and owned by Fred Zager. We believe it to be the intention of the new owner to erect thereon a new brick building.

—1904—

Sharper Selection Urged in Setting Up County ACP Cost-Sharing Work

Efforts to acquaint the greatest possible number of farmers with details of the 1955 agricultural conservation program (ACP) were urged at a district ASC meeting held Wednesday of last week at Estherville, it is reported by the Wright county ASC committee.

The 1955 conservation program and the procedure for administering it on the county and community levels have been designed to increase the total effectiveness of of cost-sharing practices. Highlights of the information given to ASC committeemen and representatives of other agencies attending the district meeting, including the points that follow.

Iowa Apportionment Up

1. Iowa's apportionment for cost-sharing ACP work in 1955 has been fixed at $8,972,000, or $2,210,000 more than for 1954.

. 2. The new national Agricultural Act provides that compliance with basic crop acreage allotments will be one requirement for eligibility for cost-sharing ACP work in 1955.

3. Emphasis will be placed on the most-needed and the enduring types of conservation and on pooling agreements aimed at solving a joint problem of several adjoining or neighboring farms. Special attention will be given to practices designed to conserve and build up cropland taken out of production through acreage allotments.

Ask County Selection

4. The state ASC committee recommends that each county ASC committee consider the selection of one, two or three of the most important and most needed practices in the county and to budget a considerable portion of the county's ACP funds for approval of requests for such practices. This method would permit the county committee to give full or nearly full cost-sharing approval for all such work requested by farmers and found to be needed.

5. Farmers will be urged to study their conservation needs more thoroughly and county ASC committees will be expected to screen cost-sharing requests .more carefully. Such action on the part of farmers and committees should reduce the big slippage between the number of cost-sharing requests which are approved and the number of approved requests which are actually carried through.

Deadline, Dec. 10

Since the initial period for filing cost-sharing requests on practices to be established in 1955 expires on Dec. 10, no time can be lost in submitting the program for the consideration of farm owners and operators.

First step will be to determine which of the cost-sharing practices listed in the state ACP handbook should be offered in Wright county in 1955. ASC community committeemen, as well as county representatives of other agencies and groups concerned with conservation, will be invited to assist in formulating the county program

After the county program is formally approved, the community committeemen will be called for a meeting at which detailed instructions will be given on presenting the program to farm owners and operators.

Jr. Hi-H.S. PTA Meets Next Week

Wednesday evening of next week, starting at 8:00 o'clock, the November meeting of the junior high and high school division of the Belmond Parent-Teachers association will be held. Keyed to observance of American Education Week, plans have been made for parents to visit exactly the same class rooms as their children do during the course of a day's schedule.

They will have an opportunity to ask various teachers questions regarding the specific subjects that they give instruction in, thereby obtaining a clear idea of what the course their youngster is taking entails.

This type of meeting program has been followed several times in the past, Principal Clair Hugh says, and has always proved very interesting to the parents. He and PTA President Walt Hotvet join in urging as many parents as possible to attend the meeting.

Test on Dec. 9th For Men Desiring School Deferment

Continued man-power demands make it important that draft-eligible students who haven't yet taken College Qualification Tests, but intend to do so, should promptly apply for blanks in advance of tests to be given on Dec 9. So announces Col. R. A. Lancaster of Des Moines, state director for Selective Service in Iowa. A repeat of the tests will be given next April 21, also.

Eligibility to take the test rests on: (1) intention to request deferment as a student; (2) satisfactory pursuit of a full-time course of instruction; (3) not having previously taken the test.

Apply to Draft Board

Application blanks can be obtained in Wright county only from the local board at Clarion. A self-addressed envelope will bring an application, on request. Applications must be postmarked not later than midnight, Nov. 23, to be accepted for the Dec. 9th test. They are to be mailed directly to Science Research Associates, Inc., Chicago, Ill.

Consideration for deferment as an under-graduate student depends upon: (1) a college qualification test score of 70 or more; (2) class standing as follows—upper half of male freshman class, upper two-thirds of male sophomore class or upper three-fourths of male junior class.

Test Itself Doesn't Exempt

Students entering graduate school after next Jan. 1 must have been in the upper fourth of the full-time, male students in their class or had a score of 80 or more in the college qualification test during their last academic year.

Adequate test score does not in itself constitute a directive to the local board to place a student in deferred classification, nor does it constitute an exemption of any kind, Colonel Lancaster emphasizes. It simply constitutes additional evidence for consideration in connection with a deferment request.

County 'TB' Assn. Contributes $100 To Research Fund

Wright County Tuberculosis and Health Association this year contributed $100 toward research in tuberculosis, according to Charles Kramer, Clarion, president of the voluntary health group. This pledge was above and beyond the regular 1% of the annual Christmas Seal Sale regularly paid to the National Tuberculosis Association to assist in its diverse program of medical and social research.

"We are proud that the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association could have a share in supporting national research programs," Mr. Kramer says. "While our voluntary contribution alone might have been unavailing, it has been added to those of the other 3,000 tuberculosis associations, to make for lasting good."

This gift represents one more activity which the local tuberculosis association supports with the funds raised through the purchase of Christmas Seals. Since 1947, the county tuberculosis associations in Iowa have voluntarily contributed approximately $75,000 to the National Tuberculosis association's research program. Last year, alone, the national association spent over $300,000 on the program.

S/Sgt. ED ECCLES GUIDES PLANE TO SAFE LANDING, USING RADAR

S/Sgt. Edward Eccles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Eccles, recently was given credit for saving a civilian plane from likely disaster and very possibly saving its pilot's life when the craft made a landing at Lincoln (Neb.) Air Force Base during some nasty weather.

Eccles, was senior operator on duty at the control tower when the pilot of the Beechcraft Bonanza called in asking an approach clearance. He was flying above the clouds, which had only a 500-foot ceiling. The distressed flyer advised that he was not familiar with instrument approach procedures and requested that the Belmond airman "talk him down."

During the plane's initial contact with the tower, Eccles had asked how much gas the plane still carried and was told the fuel would hold out for approximately one hour and 30 minutes. Keeping check on the plane's position by means of radar, the control operator informed the incoming plane of the approach pattern it should follow and set about guiding the craft in.

As the Bonanza made its first approach, the pilot became confused on a "turn" order by a matter of 90 degrees and it was necessary to start him in on a second approach. This time matters worked out OK, and the relieved flyer set his plane down on the runway without incident.

The plane had originally intended to land at the Union Airport, some distance away, but accepted Eccless' suggestion that he'd better "set down" at the air force base. It was probably just as well. The landing procedure took an hour and 15 minutes, leaving little more gas in the tank than enough to dampen the bottom.

Belmond Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds will hold their second annual Dad and Daughter banquet on Tuesday November 16 at Veterans' Memorial hall, starting at 6:30 o'clock.

A committee of Camp Fire mothers will serve the food. Special entertainment is planned to highlight the evening's festivities. Last year's Dad-Daughter banquet was a highly successful affair and the large turn-out prompted a move to larger quarters for this year's repeat.

Last fall, the basement of the Congregational church was packed by the gathering of dads and daughters.

JOHN W. FOX DIES AT 71; FATHER OF MRS. WILLIAMS

John W. Fox, 71, father of Mrs. Trev Williams, passed away Tuesday at Belmond Community hospital. He had come on Oct. 23 for a visit in the home of his daughter to recuperate from a recent illness.

A turn for the worse necessitated his entering the hopsital here on the following day, but he seemed on the way to recovery before a sudden relapse the early part of this week.

Mr. Fox had been making his moe at Blue Island, Ill. The body was sent to Galesburg, Ill., where funeral services will be held and where he will be buried beside his wife.

Belmond Realtors Given State Posts

Latest issue of the Iowa Realtor, published by the Iowa Real Estate association, notes that two Belmond residents and one other Wright countian were recently honored by election to high, state offices by their fellow realtors.

Clark McNeal was named vice president of the IREA, representing the north central district of the state; and Don Knudsen of Eagle Grove was made an associate vice president, from the same district.

Neil Flanagan was elected as one of the four vice presidents of the state chapter of the National Institute of Farm Brokers. He had just completed a three-year term as member of the group's board of directors.

These three men, along with other officers elected for the coming year, will be honored at an Inaugural Meeting of the IREA and NIFB to be held in Des Moines early in January. This all-state meeting will be the first of its kind held in Iowa.

ATTENDED CONVENTION

Mrs. Ed Frohling, Mrs. Bert Kalkwarf and Mrs. Harm Sandman spent last week at Grand Rapids, Mich., attending the national convention of the Women's Missionary Federation of the American Lutheran church as delegates of the St. John Lutheran church.

Thompsen's Opens 10-Day Sale Event

One of the biggest merchandising events Belmond has ever seen in the line of men's wear is announced in this issue by Geroge Keleher, manager of Thompsen's Clothing store. It takes the form of a 10-day sale identified as Red Letter Days.

Tuesday of this week was the event's opening day and it will extend through Saturday, Nov 13. While special purchases have been made in a number of lines, especially for the sale, Mr. Keleher says that supplies of some types of merchandise will be limited—behooving bargain hunters to visit the store during the earlier days of the sale to be assured of the best selection.

Contest to Pick King and Queen Of "Small Fry"

Ninety-three "small fry" living in Belmond and vicinity are contending for honors in a baby contest being held in conjunction with the Lions' home-talent production, "You Can't Beat Fun." Their pictures are on display in the window of Waddington's store and coin containers in which votes can be cast (at a penny each) are to be found in various downtown stores.

Proceeds from the contest will go to augment the community swimming pool fund, which the Lions club is establishing with its profits from the show.

Boys and girls under six years of age are eligible to compete for the title of "King and Queen of Toyland," which will be bestowed upon the popularity contest winners. Second and third place winners will be crowned as Prince and Princess, Duke and Duchess. Loving cups, as well as crowns, will be awarded next Tuesday evening to the contest winners.

All children entered will be introduced from the auditorium stage on the final night of "You Can't Beat Fun." There is no entry fee; no rehearsals or costumes are required, Director Ida Lueddeke emphasizes. Inquiries in regard to further entries should be directed to Miss Lueddeke, who is staying at the home of Mrs. Nellie Smith, phone 8521

Teachers' Parley Friday, Saturday

Belmond's schools and the Goodell grade school will dismiss classes this (Thursday) afternoon at 2:00 p. m. so that faculty members can make preparations for attending the annual state teachers meeting at Des Moines.

The convention opened today and extends through Saturday, but only a relatively small number of the teachers will be attending sessions scheduled for this evening.

It is the teachers convention that annually accounts for the final football game with Garner being advanced to Wednesday evening, rather than being played on a Friday night.

Plans Under Way For '54 Seal Sale

Annual fall dinner of the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association was held at the IOOF hall at Clarion Wednesday evening. At that time final plans were laid for the annual sale of Christmas Seals. This will be the 48th year that the nationwide sale of seals has been conducted.

Mrs. Vera Ewing of the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health association was present to give the members of the county association some pointers on conduct of the up-coming sale. Christmas Seal chairmen for the various localities in the county were given their supplies following the dinner.

Ethel Brunes of Belmond is secretary of the county association and Mrs James Barry is health education chairman. Directors include Mrs. Al Mennenga, Mrs. J. H. Winter and Mrs. Lester Buseman, all of Belmond.

Driver-Training Instructors Outline Four-Point Plan for Highway Safety

At a statewide meeting of the Iowa Driver Education association held recently in Des Moines, the group went on record as recommending a four-point, positive program of reducing needless traffic deaths on Iowa streets and highways. According to John Haack, Davenport, president of the association, the group urged the following steps to be taken:

1. Passage by the 56th Iowa General Assembly of a fixed night-time speed limit of 55 miles per hour on open highways.
2. Stiffening drivers' licenses requirements.
3. Legislation increasing the strength of the Iowa Highway Patrol by at least 100 officers.
4. Formation of teen-age safe driving clubs in all public and parochial school systems throughout the state.

Against Daytime Limit

In explaining the position of the I. D. E. A. in recommending a 55 mile per hour night-time speed limit for Iowa highways, Haack said that it was sheer nonsense for any driver to drive faster than 55 miles per hour at night because even the best automobile headlights today are incapable of illuminating the distance ahead necessary to make a safe stop at higher speeds.

The association went on record opposing any fixed statewide daytime speed limit. Haack commented that the group rejected the daytime speed limit idea because the tremendous variation in highway conditions throughout the state would make it impossible to select any maximum speed which would be reasonable for all highways. He said a safe maximum speed limit for our older highways would be unreasonable on newer, wider surfaces. If there should be insistence for daytime limits, Haack said that each individual stretch of highway where accidents are predominate should be inspected, evaluated and zoned according to realistic daytime standards for safety.

Urge Teen-Age Clubs

In regard to inspecting and zoning, Haack recommended that the only reasonable way to accomplish this task would be to survey each stretch of highway, recording present speeds at which motorists travel. The top limit should be then set at the rate below which 85 per cent of the motorists drive.

The association urged increase of the Highway Patrol be at least 100 officers with more men being assigned to the Drivers License Division. At that time it is hoped that a more stringent examination would be given to beginning drivers, as well as to accident prone drivers.

"The establishment of teen-age safe driver clubs in all public and parochial schools is a must," stated Haack. Clubs should not be restricted to driver education students, but should include the entire school enrollment. The problem should be given immediate consideration by school officials and civic organizations inasmuch as Iowa's younger drivers who hold only three per cent of the drivers' licenses in the state are presently involved in 17 per cent of all fatal accidents.

The Iowa Driver Education association is the official organization of high school driver education instructors dedicated to promote safety through the medium of education and enforcement.

Last Rites Held For Ida Atherton

Word has been received of the death on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 21st of Mrs. Ida Atherton, 90, of Mason City. She was the widow of John Atherton, who before his death in 1939 was a shoe repairman here for a number of years.

Mrs. Atherton had been in poor health since suffering a heart attack last December. Funeral services were conducted at the Colonial Funeral home by Rev. L. A. Gustafson, pastor of the First Methodist church of Mason City. Burial was in Elmwood cemetery.

Mrs. Atherton was born Sept. 17, 1864, at Prairie du Chein, Wis. In 1885 she wed William Hamilton, who preceded her in death. The only living member of her immediate family, William Hamilton of Chicago, also was a heart attack victim last December and was unable to attend the funeral.

BHS Cagers Start Drills Today; Season Opens With NIC Jamboree

Attention of Belmond sports fans will take an abrupt turn to basketball next week as the BHS Broncos get an early test under fire when the North Iowa conference teams gather at Forest City for their annual cage jamboree. The Broncs will very nearly be taking up where they left off. They are scheduled to oppose the F. C. Indians, who were their first-round foes in the sub-state tourney at Ames last spring in a game that was the Purple and White's next-to-last appearance of the season.

Coach Dick Hobbs planned to start cage practice today, with stiff sessions Friday, aSturday and the first four days of next week in preparation for the jamboree.

With four member sof last year's "[illegible]st ever" basketball aggregation back for another year of competition, Bronco followers are looking forward to another good season. Returning lettermen are Ronnie [illegible]nsen, Keith Madsen, Gene Mehl and LeRoy Smith. Missing from the team that went through the 1953-54 North Iowa conference season unbeaten and recorded a 23-2 mark for the full route are Ken Loats, Don Hoppel and Larry Larson.

6 Froshmore Lettermen

Coach Dick Hobbs will find some promising players from last year's better-than-fair froshmore squad ready to contend for places on the varsity this season. Both Bruce Hall and Roger "Joe" Smith were promoted to the tournament squad last spring. Hall is no longer in school here, but Smith will be among the leading prospects to fill vacancies in this year's first string.

Other cagers, besides Hall and Smith, who won froshmore monograms last season were Dale Caquelin, Jerry Chandler, Gary Meyer, Larry Schimp and Arlo Stoltenberg. All of these boys are juniors this year except Chandler and Schimp, who are only sophomores.

Lowenberg Good Prospect

The Bronco squad will be augmented by several members of last season's Goodell High school team, outstanding among them being Tom Lowenberg. As a sophomore last year, Tom was high scorer for the GHS quintet and showed a lot of class.

One thing seems very apparent at this early point; there will be sharp competition for all positions on the team. And another thing is equally certain. After bowing to the Broncos in three games last season, the Forest City Indians will hopefully be determined to use that jamboree clash as an opportunity to forecast that Belmond domination of the conference will not be so complete as it was in 1953-54.

Tie With Indians Enables Bulldogs To Win NIC Title

LAST FRIDAY'S RESULTS

Lake Mills 0, Forest City 0
Garner 39, Britt 13
Buffalo Center 31, Swea City 13
Northwood 28, Waseca, Minn. (S.S.A.) 13

Lake Mills clinched sole claim to the 1954 North Iowa conference football championship last Friday night although having to settle for a scoreless tie with Forest City in the season finisher for both teams. The Bulldogs were rather the surprise team of the loop this fall. After losing 10 lettermen at the end of the '53 season, which saw them finish with only a 3-3 mark in the conference, they were not too seriously regarded as title contenders.

However, the Bulldogs went through their eight-game card with only one loss—a 13-7 defeat at the hands of the strong Nashua eleven. Defense was Lake Mills' major strength. They permitted only two touchdowns to be scored on them in NIC play for 13 points while chalking up a total of 89.

Second place in the final, loop standings was left dependent upon last night's tussle between Belmond and Garner. The Cards could gain sole ownership of the runner-up spot with a win over Belmond; but a defeat stood to shove them into third place behind Forest City.

Northwood, its conference schedule already completed, finished its season last week with the Vikings' best mark in several years by whipping Waseca, Minn., agricultural school 28-13. hat gave Northwood an over-all record for the year of 4-3-1. In the conference, however, the Vikings had the leakiest defense of any of the seven teams. They allowed their NIC foes a total of 125 points, eight more than tail-end Britt permitted.

Offensive honors in the honors in the North Iowa league were left undecided last week. Despite being blanked by Lake Mills, Forest City amassed 120 points against league opposition to stand first in that department. It seemed unlikely that Garner could fatten up its 95-point total enough against the defensively strong Broncos this week to challenge the Indians' scoring feat—but the possibility still remained.

GAME STORY NEXT WEEK

No account of last night's football game with Garner appears in this week's paper because The Independent goes to press weekly on Wednesday afternoon. A full report on the Broncos' final gridiron appearance of the season wil be published next week.

—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS

One prognosticator who claimed the privilege of saying, "I told you so," after the Broncos surprised Clarion was Wiley Beveridge, the Clarion Monitor editor. He'd been warning of a Belmond upset since the first of the season.

There was one remark in his sports column of last week, by way of explaining "wha' hoppened," that we can't go along with, though. We take it that he had the Broncs in mind when he stated: "One thing that football fans never cease talking about is how important the psychological factor is with high school players. They are all keyed up and play well over their heads one game, and then fall into a complete funk in the next one."

Frankly, we didn't think the Broncs played over their heads at all, against the Cowboys; probably not even up to their best in that second half, due to tenseness. That outfit simply improved one whale of a lot in the last half of the season.

—PSS—

There must have been less difference between the calibre of the North Iowa and North Central conference football teams this year than usual. Ordinarily, the NCC has a definite edge over the NIC. But recall how two down-to-the-wire North Iowa title contenders made out with two of the top North Central elevens. Garner lost to Eagle Grove only 7-0; and Forest City trimmed Clear Lake 13-7. . . . And, for that matter, note that Clear Lake was able to beat Clarion only 6-0—exactly the same margin by which the Cowboys lost to the Broncs. Yes, strength of the two loops was obviously pretty even-Stenven this season.

—PSS—

Incidentally, the Eagles' 12-0 win over Clear Lake last Friday gave them a clean slate to date and assured them the NCC championship. At present, there's a three-way tie for second, involving Clear Lake, Iowa Falls and Webster City. The latter two tangle tomorrow, while Clear Lake winds up against Hampton.

—PSS—

Bronco fans who had thought that THIS might be Belmond's year to do things in football were disappointed over the slow start that the Purple and White forces got off to; but it probably should have been expected, what with a new coach AND a new system. There won't be so large a number of returning lettermen next fall as this, but it should be borne in mind that most of the B-men who'll be back will have TWO seasons of experience behind them, whereas a majority of this year's top candidates had had only a year. The Bronc line should be quite strong again in '55, and if Coach Hobbs can develop some speed in the backfield the prospects should be bright for a more impressive showing a year hence. Dick plans to have ALL '55 gridiron candidates out for track next spring, which should help appreciably on the speed proposition.

—PSS—

When Jim Van Heel, sports editor of the M. C. Globe-Gazette, made an appearance week before the Gridiron club, he did a pretty thorough job of putting that organization's "experts" in their place. To hear a lot of the gents talk, you'd think they were walking encyclopedias of athletic knowledge.

At the conclusion of his talk, the sports scribe gave the Gridironers a 20-question examination to separate the sheep from the goats—and found himself situated smack in the middle of a goat herd.

Only Gridiron member who achieved so high as 50 per cent on the test was Kenny Kinseth, who got exactly 10 answers right. Four or five correct answers seemed about the average. What President Cecil Carstens scored on the exam, we'll leave for him to divluge. They weren't trick questions, either; but did demand a better than fair memory.

—PSS—

So now comes the basketball season again—with every foe having their sights aimed especially at Belmond, after the Broncs' sensational record of last year. Coach Hobbs very understandably feels he's rather "on the spot." The Broncos will really get a baptism of fire in their jamboree showing a week from Friday. Those Indians will have a memory like an elephant, recalling unhappily the THREE beatings absorbed at Belmond's hands last year. Whether the Broncs hit a win-'em'all pace this season, or not, they should be a classy aggregation to watch. Good fun coming!

"TRIPLE-TRIPLE FOR MASTITIS".

by Dr. W. L Beebe

For some time it has been realized that the combination of sulfas and antibiotics are much more effective than either alone. The sulfa group has been used alone without anything added for some time but is has never been successful for mastitis until applied with antibiotics.

Triple-Triple contains: Penicillin-Dihydrostreptomycin-Bacitracin-Sulfanilamide-Sulfamerazine and Sulfathiazole.

This is an ideal combination for the treatment of obstinate mastitis. Farmers having these problem cases should know which organisms are present and which Beebe product to use. The Beebe Laboratories maintain a bacteriological service for mastitis. Merely tell your druggist how many quarters you want examined and he will have the necessary milk sample bottles sent to you. There is a nominal charge of 15c per quarter.

THREE CHEERS FOR THE LIONS; THEY'VE TAKEN LEAD ON THAT SWIMMING POOL

It's hardly timely to consider the matter of a community swimming pool right now, perhaps; but we're nevertheless disposed to remark on the Lions Club's recent launching of such a project locally. Belmond will never have a pool of its own by virtue of some seasonal head-wagging each summer when the need for a pool is temporarily most evident. It's going to take a considerable period of planning, a good deal of cooperation and a lot of hard work to achieve the goal of a swimming pool.

For that reason, we're happy to see the Lions exercising commendable foresight by formally creating the nucleus of a swimming pool fund through the proceeds of the home talent show they're sponsoring next week. It has been up to someone to start the ball rolling, and the Lions are highly deserving of a pat on the back for taking the initiative.

It is to be taken for granted that some opposition to the project will develop. Which leads us to point out an odd discrepancy that so often exists between contemplated spending of a public and of a personal nature. Most individuals, when they want something that is within their means, don't let the simple fact that it will cost money to buy it deflect them from making the purchase. "You pays your money and you takes your choice," in the familiar lingo of the carnival spieler.

But too often, a considerable portion of the public is inclined to view only the means and not the end when an outlay of cash in involved. We hope that won't be the case as Belmond goes about the job of acquiring a swimming pool. The need has been only too clearly demonstrated in recent years. And a look at the number of Iowa communities of our size and smaller that take pride in pools of their own makes it equally clear that WE CAN afford one, most assuredly.

Now that a start has been made, let's maintain the momentum until the job is done. Encouragement to those willing to undertake it will help. Cooperation from as many sources as possible will be vital. Let's see our kids swimming in a pool of their own next summer!

HERE'S ONE "CALCULATED RISK" THAT HAS BEEN PAYING OFF SATISFYINGLY

We hear a lot these days about "calculated risks;" and part of the time we're disposed to wonder if tabbing an undertaking with this label isn't simply a way of setting up a ready-made alibi for what looks suspiciously like plain, poor judgment from the outset.

But at the Awards Night dinner of the Wright County Peace Officers association last week we learned of a "calculated risk" that Sheriff Bob Blecker has been taking over a period of years which deserves the public's blessing—even if it SHOULD backfire at some later date

At the suggestion of Frank Champlin, secretary-treasurer of Clarion's chapter of Alchoholics Anonymous, Bob has with regularity been releasing county jail prisoners on meeting nights so they can accompany Mr. Champlin to the AA sessions. There always exists, of course, the possibility that one—some time—may take advantage of the situation to make a break for freedom.

Should that ever happen, the sheriff could very well end up in the soup It never has, though; and to our mind, the good that this "calcuated risk" has achieved far outweighs any hazards involved. We believe Bob has all credit due him for risking personal censure in this manner; and in the unhappy event that a prisoner SHOULD sometime fail to measure up to the trust placed in him, we hope the public will readily accept the incident as a small price to pay for an important piece of rehabilitation work

In a dismayingly large share of cases, liquor plays a part in putting otherwise dependable and self-respecting individuals on the wrong side of those jail doors. Probably a majority of first-timers find themselves there because drink temporarily destroyed their judgment. Sheriff Blecker and Mr. Champlin can both attest to the fact that introduction to the fellowship of AA affiliation has directed the feet of more than a few transgressors back to the "straight and narrow."

We'd like to doff our hat to both of these gentlemen and commend them for taking a "calculated risk" that is so heavily weighted in favor of potential good.

What Other Ed's Are Saying

Lawrence Jaqua, Humboldt Independent, Gives Stirring Account of The Great Mouse Hunt

Well it happened It is Fall, and the mice seek warmer quarters, and one of them got into our house.

We arrived home for lunch one noon and there was no lunch ready or even nearly ready. Instead, the wife stood shivering in the kitchen. "There's a mouse in the electric range. I heard him chewing on something in one of the drawers."

So we opened the drawers and sure enough, a mouse had been chewing on a box of crackers stored in one of them.

oOo

But where was the mouse? All the drawers were pulled out. All the burners were taken out; the stove was kicked, jarred and slapped in attempts to scare out the mouse. But no mouse.

A broom and a yardstick were selected as weapons, and while being selected, the lady of the housed glanced at the stove and promptly screamed. "There he is. He looked at me out of the burner openings."

More pounding, slapping and poking with the yard stick failed to dislodge the mouse. He just couldn't be located

oOo

After a time we had a cold lunch, for the food expert was afraid the mouse would be electrocuted if the stove was turned on.

So we went back to work, and during the afternoon called the house a couple of times to find out the fate of the mouse. Getting no response we had visions of our helpmate lying on the floor electrocuted as a result of poking around the stove trying to find that mouse.

We went home to find the kitchen barricaded, with all door openings blocked, and the stove pulled to the center of the kitchen. But no wife at hand, and no mouse in any of the traps.

oOo

After a search of the house we returned to work, wondering what had happened. Maybe the good wife had gone for reinforcements, maybe she was trying to get a neighbor to join the hunt. But as we couldn't locate her we returned to work.

At supper time we went home. The kitchen was in order, the evening meal was under way, and the red-gold Norwegian had an exhausted smile on her face.

"What happened," we inquired "Where is the mouse?" "Well" she replied, "When I came home from the neighbors he was not in any of the traps, and as I looked around the kitchen I saw him looking at me from undernearth the refrigerator.

oOo

"I set three traps around the refrigerator and he came out over two of them and wasn't caught. Then he ate some of the bait from a trap and it didn't go off. He turned around to go back under the refrigerator and stepped on a trap AND I HAD HIM."

That ended the latest mouse episode at our house. But Fall is here and the mice seek warmer places indoors. Maybe there will be another mouse hunt at our house.

Noting a remarkable change of attitude in her son, one mother observed a while back when baseball still held sway: "A boy's growing up when he'd rather steal a kiss than second base."

Is it not true? . . . The hardest thing on a woman's clothes is another woman."

Said this gent lovingly pocketing a bundle of green stuff withdrawn at the bank, "One nice thing about money—the color never clashes with any outfit your wearing."

One ex-enthusiast of the body-building school remarks, "As we grow older, we find the best time for a cold shower is some other time."

An observant man of our acquaintance claims, "These days it's hard to tell whether you're walking behind a man who needs a haircut, or a woman who's just got one."

Says another, saddened male, "There are three things a woman can make out of nothing—a hat, a salad, and a quarrel.

Clever people, these husbands. Only a married man would be led to observe, "Thank heaven this is still a free country, where a man can do as his wife pleases!"

Says one Belmondite who makes enough to know: "The difference between gross and net income, in untechnical language, is PLENTY!"

Admits one of our town's younger grandmothers, "When grandma was a girl, she didn't do the things girls do today . . . but then, again, grandma didn't do the things that grandmas do today."

Then there was the disappointed but philosophical reader who returned a volume to the library with the statement, "At least, one of the boring things in this world that CAN be shut up is a dull book."

A lot of us can sympathize with the harried breadwinner who moaned, "The thing that keeps me financially bent is having to face bills—and foot 'em at the same time."

The Old Timer

"Nothing is impossible to the man who doesn't have to do it himself!"

Jean Oberhauser Finds "Iron Curtain" Destroying Morale of People, Producing Poverty in Yugoslavia

Jean Oberhauser, recently returned from Europe after eight months of study and travel, says one thing above all else left a deep impression on her as a result of her experiences abroad She came back convinced that there is no political influence in the world of today to match communism in demoralizing a population, robbing it of hope and plunging it into poverty.

She personally witnessed the effects of two varieties of totalitarian regime In Spain, she had opportunity to see how the people fare under the facist rule of Dictator Franco; and in Yugoslavia she got a close look at the results of communist rule under Dictator Marshal Tito. She says she will never forget the oppressiveness of the latter.

Spaniards Happy

In Spain, Jean reports, the people are poor—at least in the southern areas where she spent most of her time. But they seem reasonably happy and are perhaps not materially worse off under Franco's rule than they were in earlier days. Evidences of severe regimentation are not widely apparent and the "government" is not a spectral presence that blights every-day conversation and constantly stifles free action.

In Yugoslavia, however, what Miss Oberhauser described as "the gestapo influence" seems to pervade the very atmosphere. People are reluctant even to discuss the Tito regime; and most often, flatly refuse. The stores' stocks of merchandise are pitifully meager, and what little IS offered is extremely shoddy by American standards. Jean felt that the state of Yugoslavia's economy was significantly reflected by the construction gangs she saw at work on rail lines—comprised of women.

"Guided Tour" Provided

Jean and three friends, who like herself were studying at the University of Vienna in Austria, made the jaunt to Tito-land. She says that special visas had to be obtained from the Yugoslavian embassy to make the visit to that country permissable. Such credentials were required by none of the 10 other nations in which she traveled.

Their transportation to Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, was via steamer over the Adriatic sea. Upon their arrival, a young, Communist Naval officer took them insistently under his wing and determinedly guided their tour of Dubrovnik so they would see only those sights that reflected the least discredit upon the Iron Curtain mode of doing things.

Religion Discouraged

Never, Jean says, did she lose the feeling of being followed while she was in Yugoslavia, although neither she nor her companions were ever able to detect anyone specifically "shadowing" them. Apprehension, she added, seems to be a prevailing state of mind under the communist rule.

Yugoslavia claims to permit religious freedom. But the Belmond traveler says that church attendance places a stigma on a person and since the state controls nearly all jobs, to be known as a churchgoer may easily cost one his means of livelihood This is particularly true where the Catholic church is concerned, and the story is widely spread that many Catholic priests participated in the concentration camp pogroms of the Nazis.

Visited Sarajevo

Clothing, shoes, healthful food and other essentials of life are difficult to come by for the native Yugoslavain, the American girls found. On a side-trip to Sarajevo—known in history as the tinder spot from which World War I blazed into fury—the four students made the acquaintance of three little girls on the train. Typically, the youngsters (11 to 12 years of age) were obvious victims of the same cruel deprivation that is common throughout the country.

Jean plans to collect a package of clothing to send to her little friends. She doesn't know how successful delivery of the garments can be achieved, for sure, but the childrens' need of them is so great that she feels compelled to try.

Vienna Lives in Past

Between the time of her arrival in Europe last February and her departure the middle of last month, Miss Oberhauser visited England, Ireland, Scotland, Denmark, the Netherlands, France, Germany, Italy and French Morocco (in north Africa), as well as Austria, Yugoslavia and Spain. Specific purpose of her eight months abroad was to study in Vienna. At the university there she took courses in art, music, philosophy and history—all taught in English, she adds.

Vienna, she observes, clings tightly to its past glories while making rather pitiful if heroic efforts to relive the earlier days of gaiety. A long season of social activities is still conscientiously followed through, but it lacks the lavishness and splendor that once prevailed.

Austria has a socialistic government and Jean says its people show the same lack of personal initiative and energy that characterized those of all the socialist nations she visited. She came back convinced that only in a capitalistic land, where the rewards of private enterprise can be won by the skillful and ambitious, can life be fully satisfying and provide adequate challenge to the individual.

With all its troubles and problems, Jean found Europe intriguing and she would like to return. She taught briefly in a U. S. Army summer camp for children last summer and found the job a pleasant one. She plans to apply for a position either with the U. S. government or at an Army establishment abroad and hopes she may have the opportunity to go back before too long.

New spherical joints flex freely to cushion all road shocks. New exclusive Anti-Dive Braking Control, assures "heads up" stops.

New Outrigger Rear Springs
Rear springs are longer—and they're attached at the outside of the frame. This means they're spaced wider apart, outrigger-fashion, to give you greater stability in cornering. And Chevrolet's new Hotchkiss drive cushions drive-line shocks through the rear springs!

Even Air Conditioning, if you wish
Air is heated or cooled by a single unit that fits compactly into the front of the car. Requires no trunk space! (V8 models only.) And that's only one of the wonderful extra-cost options you can get!

Great new V8—two new 6's
New "Turbo-Fire V8" delivers 162 h.p. with an ultra-high compression ratio of 8 to 1. You can choose from two new 6's, too—the new "Blue-Flame 136" with Powerglide (optional at extra cost) and the new "Blue-Flame 123."

OVERDRIVE POWERGLIDE CONVENTIONAL DRIVE

Easier steering, stopping, clutching
The new Chevrolet steers with ball-bearing ease, thanks to new friction-cutting Ball-Race Steering. New Swing-Type Pedals pivot at the top.

A ventilating system that really works
Chevrolet's new High-Level Ventilating System takes in cleaner air at hood-high level—away from road heat, fumes and dust.

Three drives, including Overdrive
There's Powerglide teamed with the new V8 or the new "Blue-Flame 136." New Overdrive teamed with the new V8 or the new "Blue-Flame 123." (Powerglide and Overdrive are extra-cost options.) New standard transmission, too!

Tubeless tires as standard equipment
On all models! Proved tubeless tires give you greater protection against a blowout . . . deflate more slowly when punctured.

. . . and Chevrolet's got that long, low "let's go" look
It's a show car from the word go! Longer looking—and lots lower. There's plenty of glamor inside, too—plus more room for hats, hips and shoulders!

The Bel Air 4-Door Sedan

Chevrolet and General Motors have started something—a whole new age of low-cost motoring—by taking a whole new look at the low-cost car. Here are new ideas, young ideas . . . and some of tomorrow's ideas, too! And they're all rolled up in the most glamorous package that ever wore anything like a Chevrolet price tag!

This is the car that began with a great idea—the idea that a low-priced car could be built that would have the style, the performance, the comfort and convenience features, and the fine quality "feel" of high-priced cars.

This is the car that only the world's leading car builders—Chevrolet and General Motors—could have built. The Motoramic Chevrolet!

Come in and see how the Motoramic Chevrolet for '55 is far more than a new model. It's more, even, than a completely new car. It's a whole new idea about cars!

Come in and meet the motoramic Chevrolet

WATERMILLER-KOENEN NUPTIAL RITES HELD

Marriage of Vergene Watermiller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Watermiller of Swaledale, and Byron Koenen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Koenen, Jr., of Belmond, took place early last month at the Meservey Reformed church. The double-ring ceremony was conducted by Rev. E. Kampman, the church pastor.

Mrs. Loren Kalkwarf of Belmond provided traditional nuptial music on the organ and accompanied her husband, who sang.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Mrs. Franklin Pitkin of Mason City, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Richard Goeman of Belmond served as bestman.

A reception for immediate relatives of the couple was held following the ceremony in the church parlors.

The newlyweds are now at home on the farm of the groom's father, near Thornton.

Mrs. Koenen is a graduate of Swaledale High school and Mr. Koenen attended Belmond High school.

Sunday dinner guests in the parental Garfield Raecker home were Mr. and Mrs. James Hungerford, Cheryl, Brenda and Debra of Osage and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Raecker and Greg Evan.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jurgenson returned to their home in Truman, Minn., Sunday after having visited in the home of their son and family, Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Jurgenson, Susan and Judy. Mrs. Jurgenson had been in Meservey to care for the children and the home during the absence of Mrs. Jurgenson, who was called to Kentucky by the illness of her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Zerbel of Mason City visited Sunday afternoon and were supper guests at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Carroll Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pals and children and Mr. and Mrs. William Morris were Sunday dinner guests at the Willis Sims home at Belmond.

Army News Center Reports on Pair Of Meservey Men

Items of interest regarding two Meservey servicemen have lately been received from the Army Home Town News Center. They concern Pfc. Leroy Jolly, son of Mrs. Ruth Prelipp, and Cpl. Alvin E. Boelman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boelman.

Private 1/c Jolly, reports the AHTNC, recently spent seven days in Japan on rest and recuperation leave from the 24th Infantry Division in Korea. His rest period was spent at Camp Hakata. Jolly entered the army in June, 1953, and arrived overseas last December.

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Iowans Are Friendly

Visitors to Iowa frequently comment about the friendliness of Iowa people.

Did you ever notice that when your car stalls, some friendly motorist is glad to give you a push. If a farmer is sick, his neighbors help with the chores, or harvest his crop for him.

If there's a fire or an accident or any kind of trouble, Iowans are quick to lend a helping hand. And the important thing about this friendly helpfulness is that it is offered without "any strings attached."

It just isn't our way to in that a man must agree with o ideas on government, economics, or way of living, in order to share in our sympathy or friendship.

That's what makes friendliness so easy, here in Iowa. When neighbors come to our house, some like a cup of tea, some coffee, some a temperate glass of beer. Some talk one brand of politics, some another.

But we all respect each one's right to his choice and preferences.

ALEXANDER NEWS

BY MRS. F. E. HAWKINS

New Coach Sees Boys Basketball Outlook "Dim"

Dean Jacobs, Alexander High school's new coach, sees the coming basketball season largely as a "building year" insofar as the boys' team is concerned. Prospects for a better girls' sextet than a year ago are quite bright, however, with seven letter-winners again being eligible.

Mr. Jacobs, an Iowa State Teachers college graduate, was released from service only this past summer after spending two years in uniform. He had a year of coaching experience, at Palmer, before he was inducted into the armed forces. He is a brother of Elwyn Jacobs, who was assistant coach at Belmond for two years, and is a Klemme High school alumnus.

Fourteen boys are reporting for practice under Coach Jacobs, but only one was a first-stringer last season an donly two have won letters. Denny Scott, who co-starred with Eldon Schulte on last year's "best ever" AHS quintet, should be the big gun of this season's aggregation. LeRoy Bobst, a reserve in 1953-54, is the only other experienced candidate.

Girls who won monograms a year ago and are again on the squad are: Sandra Johnson, Arlene Olson, Rebecca Janssen, Margaret Janssen, Donna Frey, Jeanine Schulte and Judy Larsen.

Both teams will compete mainly against other schools of the Iowa West Fork conference, which was formed just last year. The Alexander boys won the loop title last season, while the girls' crown went to Geneva.

Following is the complete season's schedule:

Nov. 3 — Conference Jamboree, Chapin.
Nov. 9 — Dows, there.
Nov. 12 — Sheffield, here.
Nov. 16 — Rowan, here.
Nov. 19 — Popejoy, there.

Nov. 30 — Geneva, there.
Dec. 3 — Hansell, here.
Dec. 7 — Alden, here.
Dec. 14 — Rowan, there.
